POSTAGE STAMPS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER V.—The Cent Issue.

In 1860 the currency of the colony was changed from that of pence to cents and an Act authorizing the change was passed on April 9th, 1860. The section of greatest interest reads as follows:—

"The dollar referred to in an Act made and passed in the fifteenth year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled an Act for establishing a tender in all payments to be made in the Province, and for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the currency therein, and in the Act, shall be equivalent to and divided into 100 cents, and of such value that four dollars or 400 cents shall be equal to one pound currency now in use, and every cent shall be divided into 10 mills; that twenty cents shall be equal to one shilling of the present currency; and so on in proportion for any greater or lesser amount."

The new currency went into general use on November 1st, 1860, and, of course, made new stamps necessary. Mr. Charles Connell, the then Postmaster-General, had anticipated the change by ordering the stamps the previous year. In his Report he refers to this matter as follows:—

"Consequently it became absolutely necessary to procure a new supply to meet the requirements of the service, which I have taken particular pains to ascertain the best and most economical mode of procuring. When in New York in September last I made personal enquiry, and have since held correspondence with parties in London in order to ascertain the cost of procuring plates and stamps, the result being that I have ordered from the American Bank Note Co. the necessary supply of the respective values of 1, 5, 10, and 12½ cents each, being those decided upon by the Government, in anticipation of adopting the decimal system of currency, thereby saving the expense of procuring other plates when the same shall come into operation."

The stamps Mr. Connell had taken such particular pains in ordering were the 1c brown violet, 5c brown, 10c red and 12½c blue. Curiously enough, he makes no mention of the 17c which was ordered at the same time, this value being required for use on letters sent to the United Kingdom via New York. The Postmaster-General was evidently given a free hand as regards the choice of designs for these stamps and when the consignment from the American Bank Note Co. was delivered to the Post-Office Department it was found that he had chosen his own portrait as a fitting adornment for the 5c denomination. Then arose a regular storm in a tea cup, the Executive Council ordering that this stamp should not be issued—a fact to which we shall refer more fully in a later chapter dealing with this unissued stamp. The 1c, 10c, 12½c and 17c values were ultimately placed in circulation on the 15th May, 1860, but the 5c in green was not ready until some months later.

These decimal stamps are engraved in taille douce and printed in sheets of 100 (ten rows of ten) by the American Bank Note Company, of New York. The manufacturers' imprint, in small type appears in each of the four margins. The paper used was white wove and the perforation is the usual 12 gauge favored by this concern. The 10c, 12½c and 17c show practically no variation in shade, but in the 1c and 5c both provide distinct variations. The first printing of the 1c is in a brown-violet shade quite distinct from the later shades of purple and red-violet. Some of the 5c in the first printing are in a dark shade variously called "olive-green", "sap-green", and "bronze-green", but whatever name is used, these stamps are easily distinguished from the blue-green and yellow-green shades which are so plentiful.

The American Bank Note Co. charged the New Brunswick Government £25 each for engraving the plates and the first supplies were charged for at the rate of £6 5s per 1000 sheets. The first consignment sent from New York comprised the following quantities:—

1c, brown violet	200,000
5c, green (shades)	500,000
10c, red	200,000
12½c, blue	400,000
17c, black	100,000

I HAVE THEM

On Dec. 5th, by official order, a pouch of mail was sent to the Post Office at Washington, D. C., in a Martin Mail Ship and dropped five hundred feet by means of an Jalm aerial mail dropping apparatus. One hundred and thirty-four letters and two cartons of eggs were in the pouch. The letters were canceled by a special dated descriptive cancellation in purple and back-stamped by the Washington post office. They were sent to President Wilson, prominent government officials and others. For a few I quote the following prices:

6 cent Airplane stamp (96 carried) $20.00
16 cent Airplane stamp (14 carried) 60.00
24 cent Airplane stamp (2 carried) no price by owner.
2 cent ordinary postage (8 carried) price on application

1 cent pair of 11x10 perf. (12 carried) has two special cancellations $75.00

Remember, only part of those carried are obtainable for collectors.
The 24, 16 and 2 cent with Special Delivery stamp were delivered by Special Delivery messengers and the others by regular mail carrier.

HARRY B. MASON

ROOM 300, 1413 G N. W.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The set is an attractive one, the designs being all different and quite distinctive. The 1c shows a locomotive, the 12½c a steamer, the 5c and 10c values have handsome portraits of Queen Victoria, while on the 17c King Edward VII as the young Prince of Wales is shown. Mr. Donald A. King says that three distinct varieties of paper may be found in connection with the stamps of this issue, which he describes as follows:—

"This issue is found on three distinct varieties of paper, though all values do not exist upon all three. They are:

A. The commonest variety on which all values exist, a medium weight, white paper.

B. A yellowish paper of the same quality and weight, on which I have seen only the 10c.

C. A very distinct, finely-ribbed, soft white paper, similar to that on which some of the values of the pence issues of Canada are printed, which is quite rare. This last must not be confounded with the ordinary white paper which in some specimens shows traces of ribbing, but is not the true ribbed paper. When once seen the latter cannot be mistaken, as there is a vast difference between it and the other variety. I have seen specimens of the 10c in which the ribbing showed as distinctly on the face as on the back of the stamp. The values I have seen on this paper are the 1, 10, 12½ and 17 cents. This variety of paper must have been employed for some of the earliest supplies, as only used specimens are found, the unused remainders that are so plentiful being all on the common white paper."

FRANKLIN STAMP COMPANY,

Percival Parrish. T. Charlton Henry. Henry C. Gibson.
200 S. 15th Street (Second Floor), PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The perforation, as we have already indicated, is the usual 12 gauge found in connection with most of the American Bank Note Company's products. Probably more than one machine was used, for on some stamps the gauge is not a true 12 but nearer 11½. At least one sheet of the 1c in a dull claret shade was issued with the vertical perforations missing. Gibbons' erroneously catalogues this variety as "imperf. between pair," but it is properly described as "imperf. vertically" as given in Scott. This variety was first mentioned in the Monthly Journal July, 1900.

In 1863 a reduction was made in the rate of postage for county letters—that is, letters mailed and delivered within the same county. The old rate had been 5c per half ounce but it was now reduced to 2c and this necessitated the issue of a stamp of this denomination. A supply was ordered from the American Bank Note Co. and, like the other values of the "cents" series, this 2c was printed from taille douce plates in sheets of 100. The color chosen was orange, which varies but slightly in shade. The exact date of issue is not known but as it was reported as having been received in England by the Stamp Collector's Magazine of January, 1864, we may assume it was issued not later than November, 1863. Scott's catalogue, for some inexplicable reason, dates it under "1861" as a companion stamp to the 5c Connell!

Most of the stamps of this issue are quite plentiful unused without gum and it was at one time considered they were reprints. However, it is now known that they are remainders left over when New Brunswick's special stamps were superseded by those of the federated Canadian provinces. How or when they were thrown on the market is an open question. Writing in the Postage Stamp, Mr. W. Ward says they were sold to English and Canadian dealers and that "the stamps, upon becoming superseded by the Dominion issues, were consigned to a Government building in Halifax. As they were treated of no value, they were thrown into a cellar, which, being damp, caused the whole to stick together—the sheets having to be soaked apart by the purchasers". Mr. Ward gives no authority for these statements or explains why the stamps should have been consigned to Halifax, Nova Scotia.

A more plausible and circumstantial story is that related by Mr. W. H. Bruce in the "Post Office", for October, 1892, viz:—

"Early last season the magnificent new custom house at St. John, N. B., took fire and was completely burned out, nearly every department in the immense pile being thoroughly scorched before

ANNOUNCEMENT

On Jan. 1, 1920, I will engage in the stamp business and hope to receive a share of your want lists. I make no startling offers but I know stamps and will give you what you ask for or nothing at all. I have a nice general line of stamps. I will also have a line of first class approvals which I will be glad to send to reliable persons.

I am getting out a most original price list—something different—which I will be pleased to mail to anyone asking for it. Write for one.

the flames were extinguished. In the north wing was located the offices of the provincial post office inspector, and in some private drawers in a large secretary in one of the rooms was packed away a large number of the old stamps, at the time that they were superseded by the Dominion issue. Their existence appears to have been forgotten, as inspectors had been several times changed since they were stored there. At all events in the general disturbance of things after the fire, they came to light and a large quantity of them came into the possession of a number of small boys in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Agency at St. John, including the Messrs. Coram Bros., the two Coombes boys, and others, and were bought from them at a very low figure by the collectors, who, until recently, controlled the sale. The heat had caused the old gum to soften, and the stamps when found were for the most part thoroughly stuck together, which necessitated soaking them, and incidentally removing the gum. There were 1, 2, 5, 10, 12½ and 17 cent stamps found;
 but very few of the 1 and 10, and a greater number of the 2 and 17. Most of the lot has now been secured by American dealers."

CHAPTER VI.—The Bisected Cents
Stamps.

When the stamps in the cents currency were first issued in May, 1860, there was no 5c value in the series owing to the fact that the Connell stamp was discredited in official quarters and not allowed to be placed in circulation.
 As some little time had to elapse before the plate for the new 5c could be made and stamps printed therefrom, the public were somewhat inconvenienced by the lack of this denomination and the consequent necessity of using five 1c.
 Some people surmounted the difficulty

EDITORIAL.

Stick—An old collecting friend is in again; and he now seems to have been brought to his senses. This veritable old-timer writes: "What impresses me most is the hold that philately has on many of our good citizens who dedicate their lives to stamps. I feel chastened at the thought of my periodical backslidings and I stay on the track from now on. Opportunely of my observation, do you remember an evening at the store of Messrs. Bradt and Wolsieffer in Chicago in 1891, when a 'conversation' was held in honor of distinguished guests, John K. Tiffany, St. Louis; H. E. Deats, Flemington, N. J.; Brewster Kenyon Cox, et al.? I think C. H. Mekeel was present or I met him later. You were there with other local lights and I think that Kenelm, (whom you succeeded in 1894) the Chicago correspondent of the WEEKLY, handled the affair in his best style." Yes, we recall the evening, even to some of the remarks made by the great and near-great, then and there present. Continuity, and eke, earnestness, are good in philately. Mr. H. Rider Haggard, in "When the Earth Shook," says: "A hobby is only really amusing when it becomes an obsession."

Rasp—Some time ago, Mr. W. R. King sent us a folder circulated by the Multipost Company on which four stamped envelopes and as many envelopes with adhesive stamps are illustrated in miniature. Then to pile Pelion on Ossa, the folder is headed: "Eleven objections to government stamped envelopes." While the Multipost people naturally hold that the use of their stamp affixer and recorder is most advantageous, we are constrained to admire the nerve of the company in its outspoken campaign against stamped envelopes. The government encourages the sale of stamped envelopes and has its reasons for so doing and we think that it must turn a basilisk eye on the propaganda of the Multipost Company.

Memorial—The news is received of the death at his summer home in Pasadena, California, of James R. Chapman, Chicago, who two years ago retired from a vice-presidency of the Continental and Commercial National Bank. Thirty years ago, Mr. Chapman was officer of the Chicago Philatelic Society and well we remember that in 1889, he was our star customer, we having then been a dealer, seventeen years of age. He bought high values of the 1857-60 set which we used to get in unused condition at about three times face from Gilbert M. Bastable of Virginia for his friends in the bank; he was then with the First National Bank. The encouragement of this thorough gentleman, even then well started on a career that lead onward and upward, stands out in memory and we pay him our respectful tribute.

Smile—Several weeks ago, Mr. L. R. Sours sent us a cartoon with a stamp flavor that is a worthy addition to our collection of philatelic embellishments. In the Minneapolis Tribune, under "Everyday Movies," the artist Rehse (is it?) hits off a scene that strikes home. The text reads: "Jimmy Must be a Collector. 'Who is your brightest pupil, Miss Gradeleight?' 'Without doubt it's Jimmy Brown. He studies continually.'" Jimmy at his little desk is conning his geography sedulously but under the friendly covers of the big book, he is gloating over a page of his stamp collection, right under the eye of the teacher. The expressions on the faces of the other pupils, the teacher, the visitor and Jimmy, himself, are in keeping with the spirit of the picture. The artist surely has a philatelic soul.

Long—For fifty years the oldest letter-carrier in Chicago has traveled his route with faithfulness and punctuality. His eyes beheld when he first entered the service, the rectangular shapes of the 1869 issue; then, he escorted the stately set of the seventies down the corridors of the hall of time; and later marched with the legion of stamps that came trooping along. Just a week or so ago, Albert Field, whose fifty years of service as a mail-carrier in Chicago gave him distinction, died; and he left behind him, his stamp collection. His collection while not large was interesting, but not so much so, we think, as his tales of the stamps that he saw come and go on the very letters that he carried. If the writer of "Ten Years Among the Mail-Bags" claims merit for his performance, Mr. Field's reminiscences of fifty years would have fixed the mind favorably.

Kind—Our recent raise in subscription rates inspired a number of readers to write in a way to warm the cockles of our cardiac apparatus. We find that as a rule our correspondents are so cordial in their expressions of approval that we begin to think that our course, born of necessity, was a master-stroke of policy. We are convinced from the tone of the letters that our friends would have been desolated with woe if the rate had not been boosted. From Canal Zone, Mr. J. P. Coveleski, writes to say that recently he sent two dollars for four years' subscription. He adds: "Make it two years. I want to help you along." Mr. W. G. Jerrems, Jr., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "What are you kicking up such a fuss over casting a die for? I haven't collected stamps for some years but it is worth a dollar to me,—and here it is most cheerfully."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Occasionally, we receive a philatelic work for review that is so splendid an accomplishment both from the standards of philatelic research and production typographically that we are greatly impressed; and our pride in philately deepens to know that it can inspire the sumptuous treatment that is accorded it. We now have the important work, "The Stamps of Spain, 1850 to 1854," by Hugo Griebert to consider and to do justice to the great addition to our literature is almost impossible. At the outset, it must be said that only the issues 1850 to 1854 are described, "with a special study of the stamps of the first issue 1850, including a full description of varieties, transfer errors, obliterations, etc." The illustrations consist of fourteen photographic plates of marvelous fidelity; and they show reconstructed groups of different of the denominations and issues, retouched and flaw varieties, transfer errors, obliterations, essays, proofs, etc. The frontispiece is a bust of Queen Isabella II, 1830-1904.

Mr. Griebert is held in high esteem for his studies of the issues of different countries and through his paper, readers have profited by his findings as to some of the earlier stamps. However, this monumental work on early Spain no doubt excels his book on Uruguay; and it seems to be replete with material that has not been presented heretofore. We all know that the first issues of Spain includes stamps that have been rarities from time immemorial and, too, it is remembered that some of the cleverest counterfeits are to be found among the stamps. We quote Mr. Griebert: "Each stamp of the 1850 series required a full description of the minutest details to assist collectors in 'plating,' and I believe that a successful forgery of any value of this issue will thus be prevented forever." Frankly, we do not feel capable of attempting a critical analysis of the material in Mr. Griebert's book, but we have every confidence in the accuracy of his claims and his presentation of his data. It is apparent that the author's interest in his studies is of keenest kind and his endowments for research work coupled with his assiduity in gathering quantities of the stamps for study make the Stamps of Spain truly a great work. All who proclaim the dignity of philately will welcome the book of one hundred and twenty-eight broad pages, bound in heavy paper. The printing is done on paper of the best quality and literally and figuratively, the book is made to endure. We congratulate Mr. Griebert upon his achievement and we feel that his work will immortalize him in a philatelic sense.

BAUER & BEUDEL.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This firm appears in the New York directories for 1868-70, first at 473 West 41st St. and later at 533 West 41st St. The partners probably were John C. Bauer and Geo. J. Beudel. Neither Bauer nor Beudel appears later but Bauer is listed in 1866-7, occupation matches, at 7 Platt St., and at 339 West 43rd St., which was the address of the Howard match factory, and in 1867-8, occupation match sticks, at 270 West 45th St. Geo. J. Beudel is listed in 1865 to 1867 as a cabinet maker residing at 120 West 27th St., and the following year as a builder at 72 Trinity Place. The Boston Book states of this stamp:—

Die approved, Aug. 21, 1868.
First issued, October, 1868.
Last issued, June, 1872.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
5,452,710 issued on old paper.
1,009,100 issued on silk paper.

Bauer & Beudel were bought out in January, 1871, by the New York Match Co., who, notwithstanding that they had the former die altered and a new plate made from it, continued to use stamps from the old plate until June, 1872.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size. In the center is a circular disk bearing a United States shield; above this the numeral "1", and surrounding the disk are thirteen stars. There are curved labels above and below; the upper inscribed U. S. Inter. Revenue and the lower Bauer & Beudel. In each of the four corners is a smaller label. Those above read One Cent—One Cent and those at the bottom read New York—Matches. The corners are squared out with small triangular ornaments. Color blue.

The die was one of the last match stamp dies engraved by Butler & Carpenter before the death of John M. Butler and all the stamps were printed in Philadelphia. The old paper variety is quite scarce and the silk paper is very difficult to find. The stamp may exist on experimental silk paper and also in the thick paper printing of 1870. The color is the usual dull blue, common to many of the Philadelphia printings on old paper, the silk paper being as a rule slightly darker. The stamp also exists in the true ultramarine of 1869 and is not specially rare in that tint. Some of the Bauer & Beudel stamps on old paper and all of them on silk paper were used by the New York Match Co.

NEW YORK MATCH CO.

1c Blue.

This stamp differs from that of Bauer & Beudel only in the change of firm name. Both stamps were used concurrently by the New York Match Co. from April, 1871, to June, 1872. The Boston Book states:—
Die approved, Feb. 24, 1871.
First issued, April, 1871.

Last issued, August, 1875.
1,026,270 issued on old paper.
22,780,410 issued on silk paper.

The plates were made by Jos. R. Carpenter and all the stamps were printed in Philadelphia by him. The old paper variety is about as difficult to find as the Bauer & Beudel stamp on silk paper. The silk paper is very common and although the range of color is rather restricted, there are quite a few minor shades. Neither the thick paper of 1870 nor the experimental silk variety have been noted. The total number issued would indicate there having been two or three plates.

THE SEASON'S GREETINGS.

This is a sort of Christmas letter to wish you the best wishes for the season and to thank you for the pleasure your paper has given me in the past year. It is one of three I have, but entirely out of the class of the other two. As a collector of United States only, I would prefer, of course, nothing but articles on these stamps, but it seems to me you cover them all very well. Thru your paper I have been brought into very pleasant relations with a number of people and added many stamps to my collection.

My collection has reached the point that my pocket book will not allow me to add to it often, but I nevertheless enjoy reading anything new about them.
—FRANK S. FINDLAY.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—W. T. Wilson's latest list is brimful of interest. It will be sent on request to any address. The copy before us gives the particulars of two rare Bushire covers and Mr. Wilson kindly sends us a photograph of a cover showing two pairs of the 5ch first issue.

Mr. Collector

The Advertisement which I have been running in the WEEKLY for the last three weeks has not brought to light anything in my line worth having. Good stamps are getting scarcer every day and no one realizes this better than the dealer. If you have any blank spaces in your U. S. Collection take my tip and fill them at once before prices advance.

Send me your want list for your wants in these and it will have my personal attention.

Of course, references are required if you have not had approvals from me before.

UNITED STATES.—In my notes of last week I mentioned the fact that I had seen a block of the 2c compound 11x10 unwatermarked from the "S 20" plate and that this differed from the common variety which came from the "S 30" plates. I have had an opportunity of examining these most carefully and am pleased to state that the first variety is Die I, whereas the second is from Die II.

I have also located the 2c endwise coil from the rotary press Die I upon unwatermarked paper, perf. 10. The watermarked variety has been noted but this is the first time I have seen the unwatermarked variety from this die. Die II, of course, is common. Compound Perforated 11x10, Unwatermarked. 2c carmine, Die I. Rotary Press, Endwise Coil, Unwatermarked. 2c carmine, Die I.

We have also been informed that the 1c perf. 12 1/2 surface print from the Rossback machine has been located imperforate vertically, perf. 12 1/2 horizontally. This variety came from plate number 9985 and was supposedly found in the Washington Post Office.

Through the kindness of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing we are able to continue our recent plate number list. These numbers include all issued through December 13, 1919.

flected in the additional number of booklet and coil plates for these values.

Mr. J. M. Bartels kindly favors us with the 1c green circular die envelope from Die D. Although this stamp has been in use for some time, it is only recently that Dies C and D have been found. This new variety may be readily distinguished by the wide distance between the "N" and "T" of "CENTS" and the distance of the "C" from the left circle.

Mr. Bartels furnishes us with some very interesting notes relative to these stamps which we quote:—

"One Cent, Die A:—Exists both with the 1915 and 1919 wmk.

One Cent, Die B:—Exists so far only with the 1915 wmk.

One Cent, Die C:—Exists at present with the 1915 wmk., size 5 on amber paper, and size 8 on both white and amber. Found only a few weeks ago.

One Cent, Die D:—So far known only with the 1919 watermark, size 5 on white paper."

We chronicled the C on amber some weeks back, so have two additional varieties to add to our list.

1919 Circular Die.

1c green, Die D on white.

Mr. Harman Wendell informs us that the department is considering the advisability of precancelling coil stamps, stating that the idea originated in Detroit. We beg to take issue with him on this last point, for "Federalburg, Md." has been precancelling coil stamps for several years to our knowledge. The Detroit post office without doubt started the ball to rolling insofar as doing this on a large scale is concerned, but Federalburg will always hold the honor of precancelling the first coil stamp as well as the first envelope.

Mr. William J. Prinzing has shown us one of the 3c circular die envelopes surcharged across its face for official use. We have previously mentioned the 2c. This is not a forerunner of the wholesale surcharging of all of the 3c envelopes left over but is one with an imprint in the upper left corner which had been discarded by the printers or else turned back for some reason by the purchasers.

The same gentleman also sends us two additional official envelopes which had been prepared for the Food Administration and later overprinted for use by the Bureau of Census. Economy is a great thing these days.

BARBADOS.—In March, 1920, a commemorative set ranging from 1/4d to 3sh will be issued. It will be in use for a year and then withdrawn. It is reported that the designs will be very handsome.

We are indebted to Mrs. Isabel Mahon for this information.

BATOUUM.—We learn from Scandinavian sources that, during the month of June last, the following provisionals were issued by the Provisional Government of this Transcaucasian port, being overprinted BATYM. O. B. and value, 10 rubles, in two lines of Russian characters on the Russian Imperial stamps of 1909-18. The numbers surcharged are given in parenthesis:—

10r on 1k yellow, imperf. (2,100). 10r on 3k rose, imperf. (4,175). 10r on 5k lilac, perf. (202). 10r on 10k on 7k blue, perf. (299).

The first is an extraordinary example of the dangerous expedient of raising the face value of a stamp by surcharging, the original face value being increased a thousand times by a simple overprint.

With regard to the stamps in the definite "tree" type, chronicled in Stamp Collecting July 19th, it has since been proved that they are quite authentic, having been issued under the auspices of the British military authorities. They were lithographed locally, imperf., and a sixth value, 5 roubles, brown, has been added to the set. The total number printed is said to comprise half-a-million stamps.—Stamp Collecting.

BELGIUM.—We have been shown by Adj. Henry Hooreman specimens of the two new parcel post stamps, 1.20 frank and 1.40 frank. They are in slate green and brown, respectively, and were issued in Antwerp Nov. 24 but were withdrawn "after two days by ministerial wire".

JUGO-SLAVIA.—Mr. H. F. Obermanns advises us that he has just observed what appears to be an error in the "S. H. S." overprinted stamps of the Hungarian Parliaments type of Jugo-Slavia. On the 1 Korona stamp the overprint reads "Kruna," which seems to be correct, as "Kruna" is the singular. The 2 and 3 Korona stamps are overprinted 2 and 3 Krune, which is the plural. On the 5 and 10 Kronen stamps, however, the overprint reads again "Kruna," which is evidently wrong.

NETHERLANDS.—The Netherlands are in the preliminary throes of a new stamp issue and the papers from there are full of suggestions for new designs, coupled with merciless criticism of the present designs—which, to be sure, are no great shakes for beauty. Het Philatelistisch Maandblad in No. 90 reproduces an interesting communication from a contributor, Captain Jhr. J. A. van Hoogenhouck-Tulleken at Breda, who is also a connoisseur in matters of art.—Albermarle Stamp Collector.

SWEDEN.—Our Norwegian contemporary is the first one to illustrate the new designs just selected for the forthcoming Swedish stamp. There are three of them. The first one shows a heraldic lion holding a globe on which are the three crowns of Sweden; as to the lion, he is certainly a fearsome beast, bearing but little resemblance to the variety ordinarily found in zoological gardens, but he is at least reasonable in contenting himself with only one tail, which is more than we could say for some heraldic lions known to us. This design is by an artist named Elinar Forseth. The second design is the work of an artist named Axel Toerneman; it bears a fine full face portrait of King Gustaf, and besides this only a large figure of value—no frame or other superfluous ornamentation. The third one shows crown and posthorn and has more inscriptions than the other two together. All the designs entered in competition were on view at the Postal Museum at Stockholm; when we gaze on the selected designs we do not really have the nerve to ask what the rejected ones might be like. The occasion for the new designs is the decision of the Swedish Post Office Department to undertake the manufacture of its stamps on its own hook, beginning in 1920. We hope that the Department will keep its work on the high level of the present issue, which shows the highest kind of workmanship. —Albermarle Stamp Collector.

SWITZERLAND.—We have received from A. Koechlin a set of the new Juventute stamps announced in our issue of Dec. 20. There are three values, 7½, 10 and 15c, and they are beautiful stamps. The three stamps show the arms of three different cantons and they are sold at a premium of 5c on each stamp, instead of 2½c for each 5c as previously indicated.

A PHILATELIST TO THE RESCUE.

By F. C.

In civil life Tozer is a veterinary surgeon, with an impressionist cast of countenance. In later 1917 he was tapped on the shoulder and told to "come along," where he narrowly escaped the bantams. By dint of a lavish display of multi-coloured parchments, Tozer succeeded in getting attached to the immobile branch of the R. A. V. C., with the rank of captain. One hundred miles south of the trenches our friend worked for ten long months. Then, without his army boots, he stood five feet six inches, but now he might be anything over six feet, for the passing of war has brought to him an M.B.E. (military division). The award was recently announced—"for distinguished service and resource at a critical period."

The remarkable part of it all was that Tozer had not the faintest idea of what he had done. But his fellow members of the Altruist Philatelic Club were insistent, so that he had to mutter something about "tight corner, fuss about nothing," and so on. Certainly the temptation was great.

Men pointed the little vet. out at the club room as (a) one who had done his bit; (b) 'fraid of nothing over the top; (c) an unmitigated nuisance. You took your choice.

As things settled down old members of the A. P. C. returned from service, and among them was Lieut.-Colonel Packer, C. B., who perused the list of members with great interest. Presently he arrived at our hero's name and asked, "Who's this man?" He was soon told all that was known about Tozer, M.B.E.

"I think I know the man—short and stout—supposed to know all about horses," snapped the Colonel. "M.B.E.—good lord! That should be mine, if anybody's."

"You remember, perhaps, hearing about a great deal of mortality among horses a year ago. What with the Hun offensive and a general shortage, we were in great need of disinfectants, and sulphur was required to meet a particular crisis. I'm a cavalry man, you know, and all my horses were quartered well away from any fighting. There seemed no sulphur to be got within a reasonable time, so I hunted up Captain Tozer, or tried to; but he was not with the gee-gees, where he should have been.

"Thereupon I dashed over to his hut, but found him not. His room was littered with all sorts of odds and ends, and I glanced at his table. I had kept in touch with philatelic matters all through the war, and a sheet of stamps lying on a chair attracted my notice. I examined them. Yes—no—it couldn't be. Here was a prize indeed, and in a trice I had snatched up the sheet and darted off: Twenty-four hours later I was away to Flanders, but had saved the lives of a hundred horses. How?

"Well, the stamps were the lately issued 13c U.S.A., those in the sulphur-green shade, and by hanging the sheet from the roof of the stables the latter were so thoroughly fumigated, as it were, that the situation was saved. And that is how Captain Tozer won his M.B.E."—Stamp Collecting.

A POSTAL ANNIVERSARY.

By JOSEPH WARD.

Philatelists the world over should be in a high mettlesome to-day and very likely they are, for these amiable hobbyists are too keenly aware of a date of prime significance, in the fascinating lore of stamp collecting to be oblivious of January the tenth. Not only philatelists but others whose tastes are less highly specialized have full reason to recognize the anniversary, for this date marks the beginning or opening move by which communicating by letter is derived.

In a world such as ours—a world whose admiration for the mysterious is ever prompt and profound—many inventions and persons have, from time to time, been rather imperfectly honored. In these days when a gent removes the cork from the bottle of his favorite, he seldom if ever gives the cork screw a thought, and yet the chap who thought up such an idea must have been a clever originator.

Sometime ago we heard a suggestion made in Paris—that Mecca of monuments—that the inventor of the bottle opener be memorialized in bronze. No such suggestion was ever made—to our knowledge—that the father of the postage stamp, and founder of the modern postal system as well, should receive such honors. He was Sir Rowland Hill, and eighty years ago to-day his simple yet none the less original idea went into effect in the island of Great Britain.

Well known to philatelists, but often truly surprising to others without the brotherhood, is the fact that postage stamps date only from 1840. From the days of Babylon to the third year of the reign of Victoria, the delivery of correspondence was crippled by complex and unwieldy machinery. Until the middle of the seventeenth century, a trusty friend, a ship captain, or a Government legate, irregularly performed mail carrying functions. The development of Continental Europe brought forth a much needed semblance of standardization and also a most lucrative monopoly. The German counts of Thurn and Taxis were officially heralded as the hereditary postmasters of the Holy Roman Empire and Spain. It was a goodly office and exceedingly profitable to the management, but decidedly less so to the patrons of the service.

The rates were very high and the charges were always collected on delivery, so that to receive a letter was rather a hardship. One reason for this was that the governments permitted the different persons of importance, and otherwise, connected with it, to send their personal mail as well as official FREE. The employees of the mail service did not give their services FREE, so somebody had to pay for it, and, as it happens to-day, the middle class people had to make up the difference. It often happened that in paying the charges on one letter, a man of the seventeenth century, and even in more modern times, paid enough to cover three.

Today our government allows the Departments to send out mail free, OFFICIAL BUSINESS, as they call it, but this is government business, and not of a personal nature. But not so in the days when Sir Rowland Hill made a study of statistical report and published his little volume entitled POST OFFICE REFORM. In this he advocated a flat rate of postage for all and any letters posted in Great Britain, and addressed to any other place in the United Kingdom. Because Sir Rowland Hill held no office in the government, the Post Office Department resented his interference, but Hill's ideas, together with his perfectly reasonable booklet, was too much for the then Post Office Department to fight against.

In the booklet the author had successfully demonstrated the difference in carrying costs of two letters, one sent from Threadneedle Street, London, to Saint Martin's Lane, and the other from the Capitol to Edinburgh. It was meant to be specific and it was, precisely to the ninth part of a farthing. He at the same time pointed out the tie-ups in the Post Office Department were responsible for the high costs of mail service, as well as the delay. One of them was the time wasted in rating a letter by the number of sheets that the envelope contained, while another of them was charging by the distance schedule, to say nothing of collecting the charges

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We have received from the Fennell Stamp Co. an 8-page pricelist of stamp packets, albums and accessories. It will be sent to anyone on request. Address 520 Fullerton Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

—Will Paul M. Mulford please send his address to this office, when his order for supplies will receive immediate attention?

—The Chicago Tribune, noting the arrival in that city of Titta Ruffo, the noted baritone, speaks of a large stamp album that a staff reporter found in the hotel suite. Signor Ruffo explained that he has in all eight volumes, comprising a collection of some 20,000 stamps.

—We are pained to record the death of Dr. J. C. Alderson of Wausau, Wis., who passed away last September after a long illness. He had collected for many years and without doubt all our leading dealers had pleasant relations with him. He was painstaking in all his philatelic work and his collection was arranged in fine shape. He kept a record of when and where each stamp was purchased and the price paid. His stamps were a great consolation in his illness. He was a longtime subscriber to the WEEKLY and a member of the leading stamp societies.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Leon Van Veghten, J. M. McNeil, M. T. Mauck, Ralph Grone-meier, Richard Friedlander, Fennell Stamp Co., Richard Pattee, L. A. Hall, Chas. E. Carman, Royce Robertson, Kenneth Tallmadge, H. R. Arnold, A. W. Whitten and Wm. Hoyt Yale.

—We are very grateful to W. T. Wilson of Birmingham, England, for a copy of the London Graphic for Nov. 24. It is called the Jubilee Xmas Number and is a marvelously beautiful production.

—“While I appreciate the fact that my subscription has been paid up to figures 1564 on the wrapper, yet I do not feel happy in my mind to get my information at less than a cent per, when all the rest of my fellow fiends have to pay nearly two cents. Therefore, and in consequence of, I hereby hand you half a bean to satisfy my tender conscience, and help you to have a HAPPY NEW YEAR.”—FRANKLIN S. SMITH.

POSTAGE STAMP EXHIBITION.

The Michigan Stamp Club, with a membership of over 50 enthusiastic stamp collectors, on the evening of Saturday, December 20, held an exhibition of postage stamps of France and her colonies, also an interesting lot of foreign and American aeroplane stamps and United States plate numbers. The club meets on the first and third Saturdays of each month at Fraternity Hall, 140 First Street, Detroit. Collectors and others interested in these matters are invited to be present.

During the winter season exhibits are held once a month, each of the stamps of a different country. In the near future the war stamps of the world will be shown, thousands of these stamps having been issued. Herman W. Boers, advertising representative of Black's, 146 Woodward avenue, is publicity representative of the Michigan Stamp Club.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER VII.—The Connell Stamp.

When, on a day in December, 1859, the Hon. J. H. T. Manners-Sutton, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New Brunswick and his Executive Council in committee authorized the then Postmaster-General the Hon. Charles Connell, to procure a new set of postage stamps in accord with the new decimal currency, they little reckoned what trouble they were raising for themselves and Mr. Connell.

Mr. Connell rightly or wrongly believed that this Minute in Council gave him full power and discretion as to the designs, colors, etc., of the new stamps and when on a visit to New York he ordered supplies from the American Bank Note Company. The designs chosen were satisfactory in every way except as regards the 5c. For this Mr. Connell had chosen a portrait of himself, and when the first consignment of stamps reached Fredericton and the design of the 5c was noticed there was a great do in official circles.

The Executive Council claimed the right of approving the stamps before they were issued and ordered that the 5c stamp should not be put in circulation with the other denominations and that a new 5c stamp with portrait of the Queen should be ordered at once. These instructions were forwarded to the Postmaster-General in due course, but he still insisted on his right to issue the 5c stamps already on hand as shown in the following letter dated May 15th and addressed to the Provincial Secretary:

"Sir:—I am in receipt of your favor informing me that you have been desired by His Excellency the Lt.-Governor to request that I would distribute the one, ten and twelve and a half cent postage stamps procured by me and to take steps to procure a five cent stamp for future distribution. You will inform His Excellency that I was authorized by Minute of Council in December last to procure a one, five, ten and twelve and a half cent postage stamp, and that all these denominations are now in the office of this department ready for distribution.

I have, etc.

(Signed) CHARLES CONNELL."

This letter was laid before the Lieutenant-Governor and Council and a reply sent to Connell, who, taking umbrage at what he considered an usurpation of his authority, replied as follows:—

"My administration of the Post-office Department is before the public, and it is for them to say whether it is satisfactory or not.

I think I may state with certainty that the revenues of the Department will be reduced by the recent action of the Government, as I made arrangements for the delivery and sale of Postage Stamps at every Post-office and Way-office throughout the Province, on the 1st of May. I do not intend that the legitimate authority belonging to the Chief of that Department shall be limited or circumscribed while I have the honour of being at its head.

After a very careful and deliberate review of the whole matter, under all the circumstances, I believe that my continuance in office would not be beneficial to the Department.

Holding the opinions that I have submitted to Your Excellency, I feel that I cannot, consistently with the duty I owe to my constituents and the public, continue longer to hold an office and position as one of your Excellency's advisers in opposition to my views on public duty. I therefore respectfully beg to submit to your Excellency my resignation of the office of Postmaster-General, and as one of your Excellency's advisers, and further request your Excellency's permission to publish, and give my reasons for so doing, and the correspondence connected therewith."

Mr. Connell's resignation was accepted and he was given permission to publish any explanation he wished. In his explanation he claimed that he did not resign because of the veto of the five cent stamp, but because he differed so strongly from his colleagues on other Governmental legislation. But there can be little doubt that the real reason of Connell's resignation was the fact that his stamp was discredited.

Naturally, the whole affair caused considerable excitement in New Brunswick and Connell was bitterly assailed or unmercifully chaffed in the Canadian press. In this connection the following poem from the New Brunswick Stamp Argus of the period is amusing:—

YE CONNELLE.

A Ballad In Ye Old Style.

Ye Connelle is a famous stampe,
Or oughte to be I'm sure,
Since it's gained a notoriety
That's likeli to endure
Longer than manye kindes of fame;—
Such baubles oft are but a name.

For this ye brave designer payed
Six hundred pound a yeare,
Or rather lost his salarie,
Which meanes ye same I feare;
Six hundred pound to see his fayce
Posting around from place to place.

'Twas gallantrie that prompted him,
As anyone might see:
Such business was too servile for Her gracious Majestie:
A man may rougher usage bear,
Therefore he placed his visage there.

Some little minds pretend to see
His vanitie quite playne;
Yet who e'er hearde of such a sin
Lodged in a manlie brain,
Tho' true upon the stampe you see Ye looke of kind complaisance.

Collector, you should bend before
That image on your booke,
Just as ye miser does his gold.
In hidden box or nooke,
Remember that ye assayce cost!
Ye salarie—oh "lost! lost! lost!!!"

It has been asserted that this 5c stamp with portrait of Connell was used for two or three days, but it is quite evident from the lengthy official correspondence dealing with the affair, which was published in the Monthly Journal in 1895, that such could not possibly have been the case. It is certain that none of the stamps were distributed to any of the post-offices, the whole consignment being held at Fredericton until the controversy ended in Connell's resignation.

nation. At best, therefore, this stamp can only be considered a variety prepared for use but not issued. The unfortunate affair evidently did not terminate Mr. Connell's political career, for we read in the Stamp Collector's Maga- zine for Nov., 1867, that "The Hon. Chas. Connell was lately elected without opposition to represent the county of Carleton in the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada, at Ottawa."

IPSWICH, ENGLAND

Established 50 Years.

The plate for the Connell stamp, like the others prepared by the American Bank Note Company at the same time, cost £25 and the 500,000 stamps printed from same were invoiced to the New Brunswick Government at £31:15:0. As half a million of the offending labels were printed and no official information was published as to their disposal, it has always been somewhat of a mystery why the variety should be so rare. An intimate acquaintance of Mr. Connell's says that Connell himself bought the stamps and ultimately burned them and as a final contribution to the history of this interesting label we extract the following from the Monthly Journal for April, 1899:—

"A number of years ago I was in Woodstock, where Mr. Connell lived, and knew him well. On asking him about the celebrated 'Connell' stamp, he told me that what he felt most keenly about the affair was the charge of vanity urged against him. His explanation was, as well as I can remember, that it was necessary, as New Brunswick had followed Canada in adopting the decimal system, to change its designations of the New Brunswick postage stamps. As Postmaster-General, he had to carry out the change. He accordingly went to the United States to make the necessary arrangements. There were several denominations of stamps, and the design for each had been settled excepting that for the 5 cents stamps. Being obliged to return unexpectedly to New Brunswick before that design had been agreed upon, he urged the designer to give him something definite about it. The artist said if the matter was left to him he would let the Postmaster-General have something that he thought would please the people. Mr. Connell, 'in a moment of weakness,' agreed to the proposal, and left for home. When the first consignment of stamps arrived he was more surprised than anyone else to find that the stamp bore his own likeness. He had not time to change the design so let it go. The day for the first issue came, and with it a storm of popular wrath, which the Premier of the day allayed by the only course open to him, viz., by requesting and obtaining Mr. Connell's resignation.

While Mr. Connell was giving me this version of the trouble we were walking in front of his house. He said, 'I have the stamps here, for I felt that it was only right that I should pay for them out of my own pocket.' Taking me into a room, he showed me a great pile of the stamps, and said, 'I am going to burn them.' Thinking that a souvenir would be a good thing to have, I asked him if he would let me have a few. He at once acceded to my request, and I put some of them in my pocket book. Soon after I learned that he had destroyed his little 'Klondike'."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have received from D. Field, 4 Royal Arcade, London, England, a copy of "Postage Stamps of the Great War and After" by Douglas B. Armstrong. This book covers all stamps issued from 1914 to 1919 and is a descriptive catalog and guide for collectors profusely illustrated. Prices are quoted at which the stamps may be obtained from the publisher. Our admiration for this book is strong and the author is entitled to a great deal of credit for his work in editing and compiling. A valuable feature of the book is a large amount of data accompanying the listing of stamps and we take pleasure in commending Mr. Armstrong's skill in catalog writing. The book runs to 104 pages and is sold for 50c. We have no copies for sale but shall try and secure a supply from Mr. Field. If interested remit 60c to this office to cover custom's charges and postage.

FIJI CANCELLATIONS.

In regard to our recent paragraph anent the alleged overprint "RABI" on current Fiji stamps, a correspondent states that he has the 2d value with this imprint horizontally, and that he has seen others in used condition. His specimen is also cancelled "Levuka, Nov. 19, 1917," in the usual manner. The correspondent says:—"I have also a 1d King Edward universal, with a peculiar surcharge, evidently done with a crude metal hand stamp, and the letters appear to be 'ALL A.G.R.' The stamp has not been postally cancelled, but is without gum, and has a portion of the envelope or package on which it has been used still adhering to it."

In regard to the above, the Editor of the Australian Philatelist adds the interesting information that Rabi is in the north-eastern portion of Vanua Levu, and is, he believes, the headquarters of one of Lever Bros.' plantations. The other cancellation is, he says, evidently meant for "Nailaga." A number of places in the Fiji Islands have been supplied with metal stamps bearing the local name only. They may be likened to receiving offices such as exist in New South Wales, and in other States, also. Thus far, Mr. van Weenen has come across the following, cancelled in the same way as "Rabi"—*Bau, Baulilai, Katavaga, *Loma Loma, Labaka, *Moala, *Nadi, *Nailaga, Navola, Rabi, *Raki Raki, Savu Savu, Somo Somo, Tuba, *Tavuki, *Vuna, *Wainbokas. In addition, he has been shown *Navola, 1.3.08, written across it: *P.O. Navoli, and *Wairobu, also written in imitation type of the others. Those with * have also the ordinary Suva or Levuka cancellation. Mr. van Weenen, who has about 120 Fijian cancellations, adds that he will be pleased to afford any further information on them, and readers who are in need of such assistance may write to him, care of ourselves, when we would readdress their communications.—Stamp Collecting.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XIV.

Fourth Colon Issue, February, 1904.

Of all the provisional issues of Panama, this one has come in for the most general abuse, and I do not propose to undertake the hopeless task of its rehabilitation; but will present first a few extracts from published authorities, and then such supplementary evidence as seems to me of importance, leaving it to the judgment of the reader to include them in his collection or reject them as speculative.

Mr. Luff states the case thus in his handbook:—

"It has been claimed by some that the issue with the italic surcharge was speculative and unnecessary; however, we must allow that the labor attendant on the production of a handstamped issue certainly presents a good excuse for changing to one with a printed surcharge. Be this as it may, there is no such excuse to offer for the issue which follows. On the contrary, it is a deliberate return to the old style with all its defects and evil possibilities. It is a debated question among philatelists whether this issue was intended to be an imitation of the first handstamped issue of Colon—the intention being defeated by the bungling of the man who made the rubber handstamp—or if it was designed to produce a new lot of varieties to be sold to guileless stamp collectors. But it is quite certain that the stamps * * * * * are a speculation on the part of an high official, made for his individual profit, and sold only by himself or his agents. A few were passed through the post office in order to give them standing but they were not on sale at the stamp window and were only to be obtained from certain people and at an advance over face value. As there may be some who like this sort of thing, and because of the few used copies which exist, I list the 'bunch' but I do not recommend them to philatelists."

Bartels' Check List expresses about the same opinion:—

This issue was wholly unnecessary and is considered a speculation on the part of the Colon postmaster. They were available for postage and many of them passed through the mails. Various other fancy combinations exist, but it would serve no useful purpose to list them all. Registration and Receipt stamps also exist with this surcharge."

The Standard Catalogue, 1917 edition, puts the case concisely as follows:—

Surcharged REPUBLICA DE PANAMA

"Stamps with the above surcharge were a private speculation and were never on sale at the post office."

Now, what have we to offer on the other side? Dr. J. C. Perry, on account of his many years' residence in the Canal Zone and his exceptional opportunities for research, is certainly entitled to rank as an authority. His opinion, as expressed to me verbally, was substantially that this issue had nearly the same standing as the others. That is, the stamps were used for legitimate requirements, but at the same time it was well recognized that the demand would be mostly from collectors.

This opinion is confirmed by the fact that the surcharging was in line with the old practice of using up remainders, and probably the type of the Third Colon Issue was at once distributed and no longer available.

Unless I am greatly mistaken, the disrepute into which this issue at once fell was due mainly to two causes: first, the number of varieties had become confusing, and both the dealers and collectors were getting weary. Second, besides the legitimate use of the rubber stamp on the old Panama (Colombian) issue, it was used without the slightest pretence of reason on the stamps already overprinted with the type-set Third and Fourth Panama surcharges. This raised a storm of protest, which was clearly justified, and reacted on their more legitimate associates.

I am inclined to think that the stamps bearing the single surcharge may fairly be considered legitimate, while those surcharged on the Third and Fourth Panama issues have no legitimate standing and are on substantially the same basis as any private issues that were allowed to pass through the mails only by official corruption or incompetence.

I have gone into this subject at some length, but the reader will at least be in a position to form a fairly intelligent opinion as to the validity of these issues. In the following list, I will omit all of the varieties due to misplacement of surcharge.

172. 1c green, surcharged magenta.
173. 2c rose, surcharged magenta.
174. 5c blue, surcharged magenta.
175. 10c yellow, surcharged magenta.
176. 20c violet, surcharged magenta.
177. 50c brown, surcharged magenta (wove).
178. 50c brown, surcharged magenta (pelure).
179. 1p lake, surcharged magenta.
180. 5c blue (?) surcharged green.

I have only seen the green surcharge on a pair in Dr. Perry's collection, used on part of cover, but with the Fourth Panama surcharge, and therefore speculative. I list it as possibly existing without this.

The following list embraces so far as I know the purely speculative issues on stamps already surcharged PANAMA and therefore needing no further validation:—

1c grn., surch. carm. (3d Panama) & magenta.
1c grn., surch. car. (4th Panama) & magenta.
2c rose, surch. car. (4th Panama) & magenta.
5c blue, surch. car. (4th Panama) & magenta.
10c yell., surch. car. (4th Panama) & magenta.
20c vio., surch. carm. (3d Panama) & magenta.
5c blue, surch. car. (4th Panama) & magenta.

I do not assign specific numbers to these issues, but suggest leaving space for them in arranging collections. A single specimen, however, is desirable as a curiosity but nothing more.

It may be well to observe that what is referred to as the first printing may possibly represent several printings from the same setting, the common characteristic being the bar, usually narrow, 4 mm. above PANAMA. The color of the surcharge is as a general rule deep to very dark carmine, but is also found in bright carmine-rose. That this is not the common variability due to heavy or light inking is proved by the existence of a half sheet of the 2 centavos with normal surcharge in bright carmine-rose and inverted surcharge in deep carmine. I have a copy of this stamp and copies of the 10 centavos with the carmine-rose surcharge. The higher values of this printing are found with a bar over 2 mm. wide, although not quite as wide as the later 2½ mm. bar. At present I am unable to give a detailed list as to what value exists showing these varieties. I also note as a previously unlisted variety of the first printing:—

5c blue, carmine surcharge, period 1½ mm. below the P of PANAMA at the left. This may possibly exist on all values but would be usually overlooked, as in a well registered surcharge the period falls in the dark blue ground before CENTAVOS. It need only be looked for in copies where PANAMA is shifted horizontally so as to touch the perforations on the left.

While the use of the words "First printing" for the earlier impressions of the Fourth Panama Issue is objectionable and misleading, but the nomenclature of the later printings is based on this, and to change at this late date would render references to these stamps in previous publications almost or quite unintelligible.

A GRATIFYING RESPONSE.

We beg to acknowledge a hearty compliance this month with our rule in regard to prompt payment of bills. The first five days of the month showed a clean-up on the previous month's bills such as we have never witnessed before. These payments were in strict compliance with the terms under which our contracts are made and we appreciate the splendid co-operation that has been extended.

The WEEKLY pays its bills promptly and we expect the patrons of our advertising columns to do the same. The time was when we permitted accounts to drag along until several months had accumulated, but under our new system it is impossible for an advertiser to secure extended credit.

Our contention is that advg. bills should be paid just as promptly as rent, telephone and lighting bills, and it is a good deal easier to pay one month than two. Those who read between the lines of this frank statement will readily understand that we have a system of rating, which serves us in good stead when information is asked for, as it frequently is.

By all means comply with our rule and pay your bills for advertising when received.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Sweden—A correspondent in Halsingborg, Sweden, writes that the 7, 12 and 27 ore of the current issue are to be called in or retired, at any rate. He shows us a used copy of the surcharged 27 and 65 ore, on which the "27" is shifted so as to strike the center of the stamp, with the result that "7" only is to be seen at the left edge of the stamp and "2" at the right side; and he says that this variety of "error" is sold at a price well above fifty kroner.

Japan—A letter from a collector traveling in Japan gives an interesting insight into conditions there. He makes the customary observation that the early issues of Japan command a higher price there than in this country; and he tells how difficult it was for him to get a copy of the 5 sen green, 1876, for a friend. He finally obtained a specimen "in a mountain village in the interior." In the large cities, he invariably hears of large collections owned by different persons in influential positions but as the viewing of these collections is a matter of some preliminary ceremony, the visiting collector who is on the wing is unlikely to have the opportunity to pore over them. He adds that the recent "peace" set is obsolete.

Puzzle—One of our pet recollections is that of a caller that dropped in of an afternoon and talked enthusiastically about starting a philatelic detective school, whose graduates would be given a star of amplitude certifying that they were authorized to detect counterfeit stamps. He proved to be a hard customer to handle, so keyed up was he with his promotional idea. However, he did listen to reason but the man who just called up would not. Here is the question that burst on our ear as we took down the receiver: "Have any of the stamps that we receive on letters from all parts of the world a value worth mentioning?" He was a functionary in some importing house. "What is the nature of your mail,—general or letters, principally?" we asked, sparing for time. "What difference does that make? Have any of the stamps," etc. "That depends," we begin to argue, when we receive the parting shot, "There's some kind of game about all this talk about valuable stamps; and nobody knows anything about them when it comes to a pinch."

Revenge—We shall try to discover some way to carry conviction to the skeptic soul of the unbeliever that we mentioned in the foregoing paragraph. There are several avenues of approach open. We may "sic" a number of enterprising young dealers in stamps on him and his concern and they would make things interesting with their breezy demand to be allowed to "negotiate" for the foreign covers. A sweeter revenge would be had by distributing a lot of the firm's covers bearing foreign stamps as the fruits of perseverance rather than objects of purchase. They and their pals would make life miserable for the concern by their importunities, in season and out, for stamps. They are the original "gimme" boys. Years ago, a friend gave us a lot of Japan covers that his firm received and which we gave as occasion offered to the boys. It was not long before the services of an extra man were required to turn the boys who descended in droves on the establishment, in their quest for "foreign stamps."

Shown—The fluctuations of the barometer of a nation are apt to be registered by its postage stamps. Change is recorded by the different issues. When the winds of adversity buffet the state so as to threaten its foundations, we know that the stamps probably will bear mute testimony to the crisis; and when peace and progress are its portion, there is likely to be some reflection of the happy condition in the stamps of the nation. The extraordinary world events of the past few years have their memorials and consequences in a vast number of new stamps of the war and of the establishment. The new issues of ante-bellum days seem to be more remote already than they really are, but even before the war there were indications of a point of cleavage between the old and the new stamps. However, then the question was where to draw the line. Some collectors made the separation at the new century but the division was not made very sharply, speaking generally, as might have been expected. Interesting historical events of the early period of the twentieth century provided attractive stamps that it was hard for the collector to ignore. Now the line of demarcation becomes evident and the stamps of the new and the old regime naturally fall away from each other. The issues of the days before the war seek one camp and those of the war and later stamps, another; but the two divisions are at peace. Rather, each side has its partisans who respect the rights of the party across the line.

Spell—At present the old issues are developing unusual strength, as the trend of prices of the certain stamps prove; and in this connection, we quote from the advertisement of a London firm: "In the hurly-burly of War Stamps, new issues for new States, and other so-called attractions that are so easily brought to the Stamp Collector's notice, it will be well to pause and to consider the spirit and the tradition upon which Philately has attained its present strength. It is human nature to collect. The object may be desirable for its artistic beauty, for its historical associations, or for its rarity, but whatever the class of object may be, there will be a period of production which will be termed 'classic' by collectors, and upon which the whole foundations of their hobby will be built." The "early stamps were issued for the one definite purpose of prepaying postage." More is said and fairly and well and a faint tinge of color comes to the cheek of the old-time stamp who hears it.

Also—The follower of the new issues has his song of praise for his favorites as those who read the stamp journals know; and as the years proceed he will have the mellowing influence of time in support of his stand. The old stamps and their traditions appeal most strongly to those who collected stamps in years long past and in a sense, lived with them. The newer collector brings his enthusiasm to the stamps of his day and when in time, these issues become old, he finds his affection still anchored on them. The claim that the first stamps were of absolute philatelic purity because they were made in response to postal needs only is a weighty one, but it is not to be gainsaid that many of the issues of to-day are not created for service. In the unfolding

FULTON STAMP CO., 729 6TH AVENUE, COR. 42 ST., NEW YORK CITY.

B. & H. D. HOWARD.
By CHRISTOPHER WEST.
Red—1c—Blue.

From 1852 to 1856 Benona Howard appears in the New York directories at various addresses on West 43rd St. In 1860-1 Benoni & Henry D. Howard are listed at 125 Maiden Lane, at 339 West 43rd St. and at 332 West 42nd St., the latter two probably being different addresses of the same building. From 1862 to 1865 the same double address of the firm is given. From 1865 to 1867 the firm of B. Howard & Co. and also Henry D. Howard are listed at the West 43rd St. address and at 7 Platt St. Henry D. Howard appears to have retired from the firm about 1867 and the directories for 1867 to 1870 give the firm as B. Howard & Son, (Francis B. Howard), 527 West 43rd St. and 169 Front St. except that in 1869-70 the down town office was at No. 1 Park Place. Benoni, Francis, and Henry D. Howard are all missing in 1870-71 and later. The reason was tragic in the extreme, and all because of the stamp.

Of the red stamp the Boston Book states:—
Die approved, Sept. 28, 1864.
First issued, October, 1864.
Last issued, November, 1864.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).
2,096,630 issued on old paper.

This was the first color printed and as it was not liked, Butler & Carpenter suggested printing in blue, which was done after October 11, 1864.

Of the blue stamp is stated:—
First issued, November, 1864.
Last issued Oct. 30, 1869.
37,511,940 issued on old paper.

This was one of the first match stamps engraved by Butler & Carpenter and few of their later efforts equalled it. Truly, it is a beautiful production. The first color used, which is a dull lake, sometimes brownish, does not bring out the excellence of the engraving well, but many of the blue stamps are strikingly handsome.

The design is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size bearing in the center an eagle with outspread wings perched upon a rock. Above the disk is a curved label inscribed "Telegraph Matches" and "New York" with a star enclosed in the curve of the label at each side. In each of the lower corners is another curved label; the left one inscribed "B. & H. D. Howard," and that on the right, "U. S. Inter. Rev." Each of these lower labels partly encloses a numeral "1." Crossing the left numeral is "One" and across the right numeral is "Cent." In the bend of the curved label at the top is a small shield and between the two labels at the bottom is an arrow shaped ornament. Scrolls and other ornaments complete the design.

The red stamps may have all come from one printing of 10,000 sheets, allowing for a few spoiled impressions—3,370 stamps. They are not on the usual thin, brittle paper, but are on a slightly thicker and softer paper that is quite porous and shows the weave plainly when held to the light. They are quite scarce and most copies are slightly defective if not seriously damaged. Often this is due to the crease made in bending the stamp over the edge of the match box and, in a legal sense, is a cancellation. Four or five copies that were "perfection" have been noted, but these, of course, are accidents.

The blue stamp comes in many shades and the paper varies considerably. The very thin, hard paper is not common, and the thicker, soft paper is quite scarce. Most copies are on a medium thick paper. The stamp is not nearly so common as the quantity issued or the catalog quotation would indicate. Fine copies are only a small percentage of the available supply. The stamp is quite rare in the true ultramarine printing of 1869, only some half a dozen copies having been noted. The tint is dull, with only a trace of violet, somewhat like that found on the 10c Foreign Exchange. The ultramarine stamps were from a late printing if not from the last one.

The blue Howard is the only M & M stamp known to have been counterfeited. The counterfeit is extremely rare, only one or two copies being known. Benoni Howard was a party to the crime and upon its discovery had to pay a severe penalty through imprisonment and the loss of the large business he had built up. He had the counterfeit stamps made and tried to use them on boxes of his own matches to defraud the government, but was caught and ruin followed. A history of the case, published in the American Journal of Philately for Feb. 20, 1875, is given in the Boston Book.

A letter from Mr. Carpenter to the Howard firm dated April 15, 1869, indicates that Howard contemplated using the blue stamp en bloc as a 3c and 5c value. The letter states, "In accordance with your directions we have prepared about 1,000 sheets of your stamps, perforated in such a way as to break in pieces of three and five stamps each. Please notify us in due time whenever you wish them as part of future orders." None of these multiple stamps are known to exist and there is nothing to show any of them were ever sent to Howard. Neither the red nor the blue stamp is known to have been used in multiple and neither pairs nor strips have been noted.

On August 2, 1869, Mr. Carpenter was notified the Howard plate had been sold to the New York Match Co., and all stamps issued from July to October 30, 1869, were delivered to the latter concern.

ZUMSTEIN & CO.

50 Market Street, BERNE, SWITZERLAND

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. Arthur E. Owen and your editor spent a whole evening quite recently going over the current 2c stamp, that is the 2c issue of 1912 on both watermarked and unwatermarked paper, including flat plate regulars, compounds and coils. While we had at our disposal a fair amount of material to work with we find it will be necessary to consult some of the proof sheets at the Bureau before we can come out definitely and state facts.

We, however, have come to the conclusion that there are at least three types of this stamp and quite possibly four. When the 2c compound from the "S 20" plate was recently found it was thought to be type I, for it has about 90% of the earmarks of this type. A closer examination, however, showed some of the peculiarities of type II, but it certainly is not "II". We also found that certain of the rotary prints show the solid frame line around the design to be made up of horizontal parallel lines spaced so closely together that they present the appearance of one line, while others have this frame made up by cross hatch lines. Whether these peculiar frames exist only in certain types we cannot say.

Our impression at this time as to the several types is that the first type is the flat plate variety which was also used on the early coils, the "S 20" rotary plates are another type, while the "S 30" plates are of a third type, which has heretofore been known as type II. Quite likely the "S 40" plates are of a fourth type, but not having a stamp that we knew definitely to come from this plate, it will be necessary, as said above, to check our observations at the Bureau. We will then present our readers with the results of our study.

This data will be for the extreme specialist, for even with these new discoveries the several varieties may be made to fall into two classes, with the intermediate types of secondary importance.

The 2c issue of 1898, Scott's "No. 279 ab" in the rose carmine shade, has always been a very scarce and much sought after variety. Today half of the collectors as well as dealers fail to recognize the shade and consequently many of the so-called "rose carmines" are not. This stamp has a bluish tinge and when seen in the daylight cannot be mistaken.

I mention this stamp at this time because I have recently come in touch with the original finder, Mr. Joseph A. Hyde. Mr. Hyde tells me that twenty sheets in all were saved and that they were found in Philipsburg, Montana. More were in the post office at the time but they were so poorly centered that Mr. Hyde did not buy them.

We understand that all of these sheets, with the exception of one, have since been broken up. The one sheet or rather pane, still intact is from the S. W. corner of sheet No. 756. Blocks of this stamp are rare and command catalogue or more.

Mr. R. W. Boisselier has shown us the two bottom rows with margins from the SW pane of plate No. 9115 of the 5c perf. 11, unwatermarked, in which the plate number failed to print. A similar peculiarity occurred from plate No. 9115. Your editor has found in the Philadelphia post office the 10c in a similar condition. These are caused by the number not being inked and are not due to the lack of a number in this position on the plate.

We wish to thank Messrs. H. W. Porter and E. H. Draper as well as the B & E Stamp Company for items of interest.

AZORES.—The new 4c green of Portugal has now been overprinted for this possession, the word ACORES appearing in black serif capitals—Stamp Collecting.

BELGIUM.—We have received from Adj. Henry Hooreman a specimen of the 25c blue Liege stamp, illustrating the Perron of Liege. This is a monument symbolizing the past glory and history of this celebrated ancient city. The stamp was originally issued some two or three months ago, but the supply was soon sold out. The original issue came in sheets of 25 and were in a darker shade of blue than the newer stamp, which is printed in sheets of 100. Both are on unwatermarked paper and the perforation is the same.

Our correspondent states that the sale of the 1.20 and 1.40 parcel post stamps, recently chronicled, continues in Brussels. It is not known whether fresh supplies will be printed.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—We are advised by Mr. J. Slansky that the pictorial set issued in October was in circulation only a very short time. He also advises that the inscription on the three higher values "Sirotam Nasich Legionaru," means "For Orphans of our Legionaires".

FIUME.—Messrs. Bright & Son announce the following Charity set over printed in three lines in black, "Valor Globele c 10", etc.; 5c on 5c, 10c on 10c, 15c on 15c, 20c on 20c, 45c on 45c, 60c on 60c, 80c on 80c, 1Kr on 1Kr, 2Kr on 2Kr, 3Kr on 3Kr, 5Kr on 5Kr and 10Kr on 10Kr.

FRANCE (Offices in Syria).—We have received interesting information from Felix Cohen concerning postal developments here. On account of the occupation by French troops of the Syrian district, which was taken by the British new stamps were issued at Beyrout and other places in Syria which use the ordinary Palestine E.E.F. stamp. The ordinary stamps of France have been overprinted T.E.O. with value in two lines. The values thus overprinted with number are as follows:—

1 milliemme on 1 centime	90
2 milliemmes on 2 centimes	40
3 milliemmes on 3 centimes	90
4 milliemmes on 4 centimes	240
5 milliemmes on 5 centimes	900
1 piastre on 10 centimes	900
2 piastres on 25 centimes	90
5 piastres on 40 centimes	90
10 piastres on 50 centimes	94

These stamps were issued after the arrival of the French General, Gouraud the French Military P. O. A couple of days afterward these stamps were so out, and as a new consignment for the district arrived from France, they are the actual stamps now in use. The new issue consists of French Levant stamps surcharged T.E.O. with new values milliemmes and piastres. The values the new set are as follows:—

1m on 1c, 2m on 2c, 3m on 3c, 4m 15c, 5m on 5c, 1p on 25c, 2p on 50c, on 1fr, 8p on 2fr and 20p on 5fr.

It is somewhat curious to see the surcharge of 4m on a 15c stamp, 1

the 4c chocolate is no longer printed in France for use of the Offices in the Levant. T.E.O. (Territoires Ennemis Occupes) means "Occupied Enemy Territory". Mr. Cohen is at a loss to know whether or not the Egyptian currency of milliemmes and piastres will be maintained in Syria now that it is occupied by French troops.

KEDAH.—We are indebted to Mr. O. L. Teck for sending to us the new color of the 1c value. The color is light brown. Mr. Teck also adds that the 21c purple has been placed on sale at the post offices.

LETTLAND.—The Albermarle Stamp Collector prints the following information taken from the Het Philatelistisch Maandblad:—

"After the regular government under Prime-Minister K. Ulmanis has again taken charge it has resolved to use up the old provisional and primitive stamps and then to prepare a definitive new set in a government printing office, no longer by the firm of Gottlieb, D. Meyer at Libau, as heretofore. This will be a set with views of cities, with the steamship Saratoff, etc. The best known Lett artists like Janis Kuga, W. Purwitt, etc., will be entrusted with the design."

MADAGASCAR.—An interesting novelty arrives from this French Colony in the shape of a Parcels Post stamp obtained by overprinting the 1 franc fiscal with the words COLIS-POSTAUX. The label already has the surcharge CONNAISSEMENTS Fc. 0.10.—Stamp Collecting.

MALTA.—We are advised by the Colonial Postmaster at the General Post Office of this colony that the 3d War Tax stamp bearing the head of H. M. King George will in all probability never be issued.

NORWAY.—Messrs. Bright & Son chronicle the appearance of the 35 ore in grey-brown instead of green.

SIAM.—Mr. K. B. Sieng has shown us a recently issued provisional of this country. The 6s stamp has been surcharged at the top with the character and figure "5" in green. Mr. Sieng also advises us that the rumor of a Peace issue of stamps is without foundation and no permission has been given for such a series.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. O. L. Teck advises us that the 4c stamp is of two varieties and sends us copies to illustrate. One is on a thinner paper and the color is of a lighter red, while the second issue is on a whiter and thicker paper and of a trifle darker shade.

TRAVANCORE.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise us that in a mixed wholesale parcel of Travancore stamps, 3/4 on 1/2ch, they have discovered a vertical pair, with one stamp without overprint, se tenant.

UNRECOGNISED RETOUCHES.

By THOMAS W. HALL.

Retouches, usually in the form of strengthening of lines which have gradually become worn and indistinct, have long been familiar to collectors. Such retouches have been recognised always in the case of stamps printed in taille douce, it being a comparatively simple matter for the engraver to deepen existing lines. In the case of surface-printed stamps, however, a far greater difficulty presents itself. A white patch is noticed on a stamp; this is due to a damage to a cliché, as in the case of formes made up of movable clichés the remedy is simple, namely to discard the damaged cliché and substitute another, but when stamps are printed from a plate the remedy is either to discard the plate or to pour a little molten metal on to the damaged part and file it down and touch it up until it prints as well, or almost as well, as the original cliché. Such an event has already been recognised in the case of the 1/2 real plata of Cuba, where the top left-hand corner stamp of the sheet was severely damaged, probably by a fall, and the top left corner of the stamp showed white in the printing. Some metal was run on to the cliché and was filed down so as to show a more or less correct outline to the stamp, but no attempt was made to reproduce anything resembling the rest of the corner design, so that a white corner (inside the new coloured corner lines is white). Later, as these were movable clichés a new one was substituted.

This is a very well marked case, but there are many others which are not so easy to identify and which are much more puzzling. To take a case in point—one stamp on a sheet shows a well marked flaw in a certain definite position; later, a second and larger flaw appears. Dated copies of the stamps bearing the first flaw are examined and it is found that they cover a certain number of years, but those with the second flaw are not the latest ones but somewhere in the middle. Obviously, then, what must have taken place is as follows: The first flaw being perhaps insignificant is not considered worth the trouble of altering, but the second is worse and requires repair. The repair is effected and the later stamps are found in apparently the same condition as those before the second flaw appeared. There is a case known where four flaws appeared at different times, and three of these were repaired and the original one left unremedied.

Although in many cases these "retouches" are undetectable, yet they may be proved to exist by the simple expedient of studying shades (since dated copies are not always quite reliable). These, of those known to be printed in early shades, show one or more flaws, and later shades do not show these flaws on the same clichés; then it must be a case of "retouch."

Good instances of such "mendings" may be found on the 20c and 25c of the 1872 issue of Holland. These flaws occurred on stamps somewhere in the first vertical row (they are always perforated 11 1/2 x 12); yet, although other machines were used later, these two particular flaws are not found in later printings, and as other flaws run right through for eighteen years it is clear that the same plates were used. It is true that it might be argued that there were several plates in use and that the damaged one was discarded, and this might be so, although the flaws in question are not sufficiently noticeable to make such a course necessary; and, secondly, there are cases in the 5c value where the same cliché does run right through for eighteen years, and yet at one period additional flaws appeared and were touched out, leaving the original one by which the particular cliché is recognisable.

Doubtless with close study a vast number of such cases might be found in many surface-printed stamps. Another instance which is well known is that of one of the clichés of the 2 put-tans of Cochiti, where a complete cleaning up of the one particular cliché is known to have taken place, and all sorts of blemishes were removed, leaving, however, such small original flaws that it can be recognised in its cleaned-up state.—London Philatelist.

QUEER-IES AND ANSWERS.

Conducted by UNCLE HAL.

FIDGITY—Handle your stamps with care; use stamp tongs if possible; take your time, the stamps will not fade if left to the light a few minutes longer. In using a stock book or approval card, moderation is the watch word, then if the folded strips interfere, remove them entirely and I will guarantee they will not "dog-ear" your stamps.

INQUISITIVE—The South American lion pictured on the stamps of Paraguay got tired doing the dancing bear act, so, after the twentieth century was well under way, he was allowed to come down onto all fours. The zoo where he takes his meals is portrayed on stamp No. 106, type A37, Paraguay.

SAILOR BOY—The crocodile ornamenting the 12c blue and black, type A43 North Borneo, is tied by the tail to the scrollwork of the design so that he will not get away and splash into the water, thus spoiling the appearance of the stamp.

IGNATZ—There is but one variety of the stamps of Poland, 1860 issue. This variety is graduated by shades. If you can figure out how long your specimen has been exposed to the sun you may be able to tell the exact shade.

RETURNED MARINER—No, those are not lobster claws pictured on the stamps of Papua, they are sails, designed in this fashion to frighten crocodiles and other vermin from swarming over the natives aboard the boat.

MINNIE L., Fort Wayne, Ind.—The violet surcharge on the regular issue of Peru for Moquegua, 1885, was designed from a flock of mosquitoes swarming over one of the mountain lakes of that interesting country. Surcharging is "Habilitado por la Nacion"; or, at least, habitual for some nations.

F. D. M., W. Roxbury, Mass.—This paper is proving itself to be as nearly correctly named as any stamp paper published. As much as I admire "Pat Moran's Castoffs" I shall retain the present title. "The Missouri Mule" is another publication rightly named, but its teachings are not in my line.

REMINENTS & MISSFIT, N. Y. City—Yes, I wrote the verified advertisements appearing in an early issue of "The Philatelic Trader" and have given your selection, lists, etc., very careful attention. It is not as easy to write

VICTORY ISSUES.

(American Philatelic Service.)

Eleven Governments in all parts of the world have issued postage stamps commemorative of the world war or of Peace, and other franking adhesives of this character are in prospect. The United States, Argentine Republic, Belgium, Jamaica, Japan, New Foundland, New Zealand, Siam, Switzerland, Turkey and Uruguay all have placed in circulation either Victory or Peace labels, and the Bahama Islands, Barbados, Canada, France and possibly St. Lucia each has a series in contemplation.

America's contribution was the three-cent violet Victory stamp with its design including the flags of the United States and Powers associated in the war against Germany—a stamp the appearance of which was widely criticized and condemned by philatelists both in this country and abroad. It is reported unofficially that as soon as Congress ratifies the Paris treaty there will be "a Peace series, with designs which relate to battles in which Yankee troops participated on French soil.

The newest arrivals into the World War commemoratives are the Peace and Victory set of six denominations emanating from New Zealand. These were printed in London and, curiously, were placed on sale there to collectors before stocks reached New Zealand for distribution to the public.

Philatelists find New Zealand's offerings particularly interesting because of the manner in which the New Zealand Government honored the war service of the Maori tribesmen. When the Maori soldiers fought in France with the New Zealand Expeditionary Force they used, as an emblem supposed to "ward off evil," a mask-like design known as the Teko-Teko Face. On the highest value, one shilling, of New Zealand's Peace and Victory series, there are shown two of these Teko-Teko Faces—one at either side of a portrait of King George. And on the one and one-half pence khaki-colored stamp is shown a picture of a Maori tribesman.

The dates 1914 and 1919 and such inscriptions as "Victory" and "Peace and Progress" are shown on the various stamps of the New Zealand series, and on three are depicted the British Lion, the animal on the three-pence being seated before a background of the rays of the rising sun of Peace.

Even more fascinating to collectors, however, is the Peace series which France is planning to issue. If the ideas being discussed are carried out, one of the designs will show the landing of American doughboys at the port of St. Nazaire. Another view will be the coming of British troops to Calais. Also will be pictured the battles of the Marne and the Somme; the engagements at Yser and Artois; the reconquest by France of Alsace-Lorraine from Germany's domination; the French campaign in the Balkans and the signing of the Peace Treaty in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles. France's decision, if one is reached, to issue this Peace series will be the successful outcome of an appeal made by stamp collecting societies in France to the French Chamber of Deputies.

Japan's Peace series is regarded by many philatelists as comprising the most beautiful stamps ever issued. One shows a Dove of Peace, with wings outspread, alighting on what apparently is a branch of holly. There are four values: one and one-half and three sen for domestic use in Japan, and four and ten sen for placing on letters mailed from Japan to foreign countries.

Uruguay's Peace set comprises two, four, five, eight, twenty and twenty-three centesimo values; and it is reported several other denominations have since been added. The design on each is the Statue of Liberty—France's gift to America and which stands in New York Harbor.

Argentina's set is of three denominations—two, five and twelve centavos—and the design shown is "The Christ of the Andes."

The portrait of King Albert, with the ruler wearing a steel helmet, is the design on Belgium's series—issued to commemorate the restoration of the country from under the yoke of the Hun.

New Foundland's series made its appearance not long after the Armistice was signed. The central design is the Caribou, the emblem of New Foundland's land and naval forces, and the inscription, "Trail of the Caribou," appears on each label. The names of battles in which New Foundland's soldiers fought appear on some of these adhesives—such as Suvla Bay, Guedecourt, Beaumont, Hamel, Monchy and Steenbeck. On others is the word "Ubique," meaning that New Foundland's sailors fought in whatever part of the seas the British naval commanders directed.

Siam's small series, with the word "Victory" in both English and Siamese letters overprinted on current stamps, appeared about the time the Armistice was signed. Turkey's pictorial peace set appeared comparatively recently. Designs for the coming issues of the Bahamas, Barbados, Canada and St. Lucia have not yet been announced.

Chinamen were allowed to have a look into Peking, the capitol of China, until recent years, hence the name. You are also wrong in your surmise that Tientsin is Italian for "one-tenth of a cent." Tientsin or Tiensin is the name of the first stop on the Hangchow-Peking canal going south from Peking. Doc Dinklewski informs me he spent some time there looking for waterbugs and roaches for his collection. If you will study up on your ge-o-graphy you will find that Tiensin is the seaport of Peking, at the head of the Yellow Sea. —Philatelic Disturber.

THE JAMAICA 1916, 1/2d WAR.

By DEREK INGRAM.

It is sometimes the unfortunate lot of things to first see the light on All Fools' Day. This happened to the pioneer War stamps of Jamaica, the earliest of which appeared on the 1st of April, 1916. They were rendered necessary by a compulsory tax on all letters and postcards posted in the Colony.

Confining our attention, for the present, to the 1/2d value, we find that the overprint—WAR STAMP—was done in sheets of 240, made up of four panes of sixty stamps. The type used was what is technically known as 8-pt. 14a Roman small cap. monotype. Several varieties occurred, the best-known being that with no stop after "Stamp"; this is found both on the yellow-green stamp of the original printing (1906-11) and on the later blue-green (1916). The apparent differences in the type, causing the overprint to appear sharp and clean on some sheets and "dirty" on others, is mentioned in a letter from the Government of Jamaica.

ent appearance. Serious sheets is no doubt of type from constant use." With regard to the "no stop" errors, the Superintendent says: "The first impressions of these stamps were quite in order, and free from defects or errors, so far as I am aware, but shortly afterwards it was noticed that the points were missing, and spaces and defective letters appeared. These defects were corrected, and it was afterwards decided to alter the setting, and the two-line overprint was introduced."

The spaced "w ar" variety occurred on the fifty-fifth stamp of the third pane, the gap being equal to the width of one of the letters. The following is a summary of the known type varieties of the overprint in one line on the 1/2d value:—

- 1.—Smaller "s."
- 2.—Slanting "s."
- 3.—Smaller "w."
- 4.—"WARISTAMP" (35th and 43rd on 3rd pane).
- 5.—No stop after "STAMP" (44th on 3rd pane).
- 6.—"w ar" spaced (55th on 3rd pane).
- 7.—Double stop or semi-colon (7th on 4th pane).
- 8.—"STAMP" (18th on 4th pane).
- 9.—Dropped "t."
- 10.—Small "p."
- 11.—"IWAR STAMP."
- 12.—Defective "m."
- 13.—Double overprint.

The "no stop" variety has been found on the 12th and 17th stamps of the second pane, but most sheets have this variety corrected in the positions mentioned. The same remark applies to the 7th and 10th stamps of the 4th pane, which are without stop in some cases but normal in others.

THE INVERTED OVERPRINT.

Not for the first time in philatelic history, a rare error has been discovered after a lapse of years. A few months ago a resident of Jamaica submitted to our startled eyes a whole pane of the 1/2d yellow-green stamp with the one-line overprint inverted. Such a variety in the original war stamps of Jamaica was, of course, new to us, and readers will sympathize with us when we confess that we were immediately sceptical. The fortunate possessor of this treasure, however, was armed against our justifiable doubts, for, having already been met with suspicion and distrust, he had written to the Postmaster-General, Kingston, Jamaica, asking for an assurance that a certain number of the stamps in question did get into circulation with the overprint inverted.

The following is the P.M.G.'s reply:— "General Post Office, Jamaica, April 25, 1919.

"SIR,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 24th inst., and, in reply, to say that this Department keeps no record of the errors in overprinted war stamps, but from the variety of errors which have come under its notice, particularly in the 1/2d denomination overprint of 1916, I have reason to doubt that the overprint in the 1/2d stamp which is genuine.—I am, &c. ELLIS WOLFE, Postmaster of Jamaica."

The total "find" of this variety consisted of one entire sheet, which has been divided into four panes of sixty stamps each. This sheet was bought over the post-office counter in the ordinary course of business. Evidently it was produced from the earliest stages of the overprinting, for the words WAR STAMP are impressed clearly and in well defined type.

It so happens that recently a representative of the Jamaican Government Printing Office was in this country, and, being advised of this, we got into touch with him. That official substantiated what had already been said by the Postmaster, and affirmed definitely that the inverted overprint was identical in every respect with the type used for the earliest of the War stamps, and that it was a genuine error, which, he added, also occurred on the 3d stamp. (How many of our readers are aware of that?) We were assured that an officer from the Post Office Department stood by the press the whole time the stamps were being overprinted, "and the greatest care was exercised in that respect." This 1/2d one line inverted will undoubtedly rank as one of the best of the War issues.—Stamp Collecting.

GOSSIP OF THE MONTH.

By CORNELIUS WRINKLE.

Varied Interests in Stamps.—Everybody does not collect stamps, but that is no reason why everybody should not collect. Stamp collecting is a hobby for everybody. It appeals to Princes of the Blood, to Sovereigns of the Bradbury (or should it be Fisher?), to the New Poor, and the poor Rich. It is the most catholic of all hobbies. It has its special appeal to everyone. If your interest is not tickled by the crudities of Greek border Mauritius, you can perhaps admire the anatomy of the Laibach giant. Or perhaps you would wish to "shake hands with murder" and specialise in Bolshevik issues. Even a conscientious objector (whatever that may be) can't conscientiously object to collecting stamps, although it does help governments to collect us and revenues.

The artist finds pleasure in the contemplation of colour and exquisite engraving in miniature, the romanticist finds his fascination in the stories stamps have to tell him, the educationalist finds his interest in the things he can learn from stamps, the sportsman finds it good sport to hunt for rare stamps at sporting prices, and to take sporting chances with new issues; the statesman (a very limited class this) puts great faith in these "scraps of paper," and the politician finds their adhesive qualities useful in retaining his seat.

Novel Notions.—Some of the most attractive facets of philatelic interest have been demonstrated in a rather novel way at the Christmas Stamp Exhibition at the Philatelic Institute and Galleries, 110 Strand. We do not think anyone has hitherto collected a postage stamp zoo with the philatelic animals sporting themselves on "Mappin terraces," and while a philatelic navy has often been thought of, probably no one has previously adopted the notion of setting out the philatelic ships upon a philatelic ocean. Of course it is not advanced philately, but it is calculated to advance philately in public esteem and interest.

Worthington British.—The large type "Worthington" on one of Messrs. Frank Godden's page advertisements at once arrests attention. There may be some anti-Pussyfoots who will look below for the words "in bottle," but we can acquit Messrs. Godden of "frothy" advertisements, and they are certainly not "dry." It is a remarkable thing, when you come to think of it, that, with the American exchange heavily against us, so large a share of the famous Worthington philatelic gems should actually be brought back to their natural and spiritual home in Britain. I crossed the Strand when I got the news and had a peep at the collection, which I last saw on the other side of the pond a year or so before the war.

Among the countless fine things in British, I was rather surprised to come across a very familiar specimen, which had passed through my hands a good few years ago. It is a copy of stamp No. 13 on plate 77 of the 1d red, which by an error of omission has the letter B in the left corner only, the letter A, which should have been in the right-hand corner having been omitted. The Worthington copy is the very stamp illustrated on page 47 of the Melville Stamp Book No. 1, "Great Britain: Line-Engraved Stamps." It would be interesting to learn of its travels from 1905, when it was found, until its lodgment in the Worthington collection.

Fossils Philatelic.—At the 418th meeting of the Manchester Philatelic Society, held on November 7, a lantern lecture on "The flaws on the 20-lepta stamps of Greece, type I," was given by Dr. Theodore Groom, an invitation to attend the lecture being given to the members of the Manchester Junior Philatelic Society. The first series of slides illustrated what Dr. Groom termed the "structural or permanent features of the flaws in the figures of value on the stamp, the frame-lines, the edges of the design, the stops, and the alignment; then dealing with the peculiarities found on the head of Hermes, the shading of the cheek, neck, eyelid, nostril, mouth and chin. These varieties recurring regularly, the stamps in the panes could be plated by them, and as there were upwards of 150 different flaws to be found on the printings of this one stamp, the task of plating was not a difficult one. He showed charts or analyses tabulating these varieties formed much on the principle of geological charts, and characterised them as "the fossils of the philatelic world."

The cause of these were fully gone into, and the oft-used term "badly cleaned plate" was explained. If, after the process of printing, all the ink is not carefully wiped off the plate, it dries very hard in the lines of the engraving, and it is almost impossible to remove it without damaging the plate, and in future printings there is a lack of definition in parts and a variety of unnecessary marks, which appearing on the nose, mouth or eye of the effigy often quite alter the expression of the face.

New Zealand Victory Lion.—The Victory stamps of New Zealand are one of the most attractive British issues of the year, and every credit is due to the designers and producers of these highly symbolical stamp designs. It is perhaps invidious to choose favourites in a set where all the designs are good, but I cannot help giving the palm to the very handsome 3d stamp with its Trafalgar Square lion, with the effective sun effect as a background. It is a welcome re-instatement of the King of Beasts on stamp designs, after the poor starveling that appeared on the first penny stamp of the Georgian era in our own country. The designer of the New Zealand 3d stamp has hit upon the very essence of what is required in a stamp design. The space on a stamp is so limited that all efforts at ornamentation and elaboration are disastrous; what is required is a bold poster effect, and that is what makes stamps like the Penny Black, the King Bomba stamps of Sicily, the nude giant stamps of Sheet Dimensions.—By the way the sheets of these Victory stamps are curious dimensions, and they are likely to be bothersome to the postal official on that account. Some of the sheets contain 140 and others 160 stamps, and these are arranged 7x20 and 8x20 respectively. I understand this arrangement was considered necessary to enable the printers to work to the "star" watermarked paper; but I fear it would have been better to work 120's even if part of the sheets paper had had to be sacrificed. It is simple enough for the hard-pressed postal official to count out 1s, 10s, 20s worth and so on with the usual 6 or 12 arrangement, but I fear they will make many mistakes in counting in sevens and eights.—Postage Stamp.

By J. A. RITCHIE, 2305 Andrews Av., N. Y. City.

(With this issue we begin a monumental work by Mr. Ritchie, which must prove of far-reaching importance. It includes the study of United States cancellations, which will cover every detail. In this opening article Mr. Ritchie deals with the plan of the research and our subscribers are urgently requested to become fully acquainted with the same. We forecasted a few weeks ago the appearance of this serial and indicated that some earnest philatelists were back of it, Mr. Ritchie taking upon himself the responsibility of caring for the immense amount of detail connected with putting the thing through. So far as the WEEKLY is concerned, we are prepared to go the limit in the matter of publicity. Our 12 pages will permit of this co-operation and we have offered to freely illustrate the work as it proceeds. It is eminently fitting that this publication, devoted to American philately, should be the vehicle through which this great work should be consummated. It may take months, and our hope is that the movers in the enterprise may have the co-operation that is so urgently asked for.—W. O. W.)

This series of articles is an experiment, pure and simple, but it is in response to an insistent and more or less universal demand for an authoritative work on United States postmarks and cancellations.

This demand is due to the widespread interest in the subject that has grown and expanded with amazing rapidity. Sentiment has finally crystallized to the point where the study of Postmarks and Cancellations is now recognized as an important and elemental branch of philately. It is not only that, but more—it is a specialization that is practically universal among collectors, because it is the study of the stamps of our own country.

The subject is one of tremendous scope and infinite detail. Accuracy and proper classification are essential. It is a work that obviously can never be completed and one that will require constant addition and revision. Practically nothing has been done towards its systematic study. Hence, a practical, simplified and elastic plan must be formulated as a working basis upon which to build.

No work of this character can or should be attempted in anything like its completed or authoritative form unless it is preceded by a searching and thorough collection, compilation and classification of all available material from collectors and from every other possible source.

That means co-operation.

Not the promissory kind with continual renewing and final default.

But co-operation—actual and tangible. Co-operation given cheerfully and willingly without stint.

Co-operation four-square and whole-hearted. The brand that warms the cockles of one's heart.

Co-operation, in short, that will do credit to Philately in the broadest meaning of that word.

The compilation and classification of both the preliminary and the final work is distinctly a one man job.

The collection and submission of the actual material (as against home-made tracings and surmises) is the job of every collector who has the good of Philately at heart.

In other words, the important part is your job.

The hard work is mine!

These first series of articles then, it should be clearly understood, are preliminary to the main work only, and, if all goes well, will be followed by the authoritative and as-nearly-complete-as-possible series. This latter series of articles the publishers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY will bring out in pamphlet form and eventually they may be published by the author in book edition.

The continuation of this preliminary series (at least so far as the present writer is concerned) will be dependent entirely upon the degree of co-operation accorded by collectors generally. Of the support of the publishers of the WEEKLY and several well known philatelists he can already attest in far too inadequate terms. Your co-operation, however, is what will count!

H. F. COLMAN

2ND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The whole attempt is a simon pure labor of love.

But love must be nourished—especially the Philatelic kind.

So bring on the feast!

Stamps—covers—postmarks—cancellations—data—identifications!

The function of this first article is obviously to outline the proposed plan upon which these series will be based.

This plan, needless to say, is the result of much thought and study and represents a combination of ideas of many prominent philatelists and dealers whom the writer has freely consulted. His acknowledgment is due to them for their help and suggestions.

Definition of Terms.

A cancellation is a postmark, but postmarks are not all cancellations.

Too many of us have formed the habit of applying the word "cancellation" to every postmark. It is well that the distinction should be clearly recognized and differentiated from the start to avoid confusion. Hence:—

There is no such thing as an obliteration mark so far as this work is concerned.

A Kicking Mule is a cancellation.

The stamp "Paid", for example, either alone or in combination with a numeral is a postmark. It may be impressed upon the stamp itself, but the original and official intent must govern. Therefore, such use does not affect its designation.

A cancellation and postmark may be combined.

Private markings on mail matter such as hotel or business advertisements or cards will have no place in this work.

The word cancellation will be used only to designate postmarks officially intended to void or cancel the adhesive or other postmark.

The word postmark will be used to designate all postmarks not cancellations.

Combinations of both will be termed Combinations.

In the above connection, up until a short time ago, it was the writer's belief that cancellations did not come into existence until the advent of our adhesive postage stamps, and that unless there was a stamp to cancel, Q.E.D., there could be no cancellation.

It remained for Mr. Lyman J. Seely to explode this theory, as a cover from his collection, later to be illustrated, proves. This particular cover, from the now famous Kennedy correspondence, was mailed from Belleville, Canada, on April 5, 1850, addressed to New York. It bore no adhesive stamp but impressed upon it were the Belleville town postmark with day, month, and year and the postmark "Paid," both in red. In addition, the word "Paid" had been written upon the face of the cover by the writer. This designated that postage had been prepaid at least to the boundary. The cover crossed the line at Cape Vincent, New York. The Cape Vincent Postmaster impressed his town postmark dated April 9 and the numeral "10," both in blue, upon the cover, and then with a cancellation hand stamp in the shape of a rectangle about one inch long by one-quarter wide, containing eight small parallel bars, cancelled both the printed and written word "Paid". Thus was the New York City Postmaster officially notified to collect ten cents postage (the rate from Cape Vincent to New York), upon delivery.

The Plan.

In the preliminary as well as the final series of articles, Postmarks, Cancellations and Combinations will form three grand divisions in that order.

These grand divisions will be subdivided arbitrarily into groups and these groups, where necessary or convenient, will in turn be divided into sub-groups.

It is believed that this feature will provide ample elasticity so essential to a work of this sort where additions and corrections will be constantly necessary.

Simplicity and conciseness have been constantly borne in mind throughout the plan.

Each grand division will be known by name as above.

Each group will be designated primarily by a Roman numeral and secondarily by name or names.

Each sub-group will be identified primarily by the Roman numeral of the group to which it belongs with a letter in script suffixed thereto and secondarily, by name. Thus: Group I-i—Insects).

Each separate and distinct Postmark, Cancellation or Combination will be designated by an Arabic numeral suffixed to the Group and Sub-group, if any. (Thus:—The Elephant Cancellation will be designated permanently as I-a1—cf. the accompanying illustrations of Group I.).

The cataloging will follow a simplified and uniform system as follows:—

First:—Classification, to wit, the index number of a specific Postmark, Cancellation or Combination.

Second:—Subject: Name of Postmark, Cancellation or Combination.

Third:—Color:—If the same specific postmark exists in more than one color, a separate line will be given up for each color other than black. Unless some other specific color is mentioned, black is the color understood.

Fourth:—Post Office of Origin:—Town and State or Territory, or in other words, the name of the Postoffice from which the mail matter originated. In the case of forwarded letters, unless the identification can positively be determined differentiating without question the postoffice of origin from the forwarding postoffice, such identification will be eliminated.

Fifth:—Scott's Standard Catalog Number:—Every different United States stamp, and stamped envelope, upon which a specific Postmark, Cancellation or Combination in a specific color appears will be listed according to the classification in the Standard Catalog—that is to say, by Scott's Number.

(Note.—By referring to the listing of the Kicking Mule cancellation in the accompanying section of the catalog, the collector can readily fix in mind the system of listing just described).

In this present preliminary series of articles no attempt whatever will be made to illustrate or describe groups or sub-groups in their logical order. The selection of a specific group or sub-group for illustration and description in subsequent articles of this preliminary series will be made arbitrarily and haphazardly to suit the space available and in order to sustain the maximum interest and co-operation amongst collectors.

In the final series a serious attempt will be made to list each group and sub-group in its proper chronological order so far as is possible.

Character of Illustrations.

Each group or sub-group illustrated will hereafter contain only illustrations of those distinct and clear-cut Postmarks, Cancellations or Combinations in the writer's own collection plus those chronicled by him while on the stamp market. No postmarks or cancellations in the collection of private collectors will be utilized in the first or original illustration of their particular group.

Each postmark and cancellation will be as faithfully and accurately traced as possible from a clear-cut original to exact size.

In this connection it must be remembered that most postmarks were made by the postmaster or his clerk in the rush of preparing the outgoing mail for delivery. The hand stamp was hurriedly stamped on the inking pad and the design itself more hurriedly impressed upon the mail matter. Hence, most postmarks and cancellations are more or less smudged or incomplete. This point is of extreme importance and should constantly be borne in mind by the collector.

For this reason, while every care has been used, slight but important variations or omissions may occur unintentionally in the designs originally illustrated and the criticisms and corrections of all collectors in this regard are urgently solicited.

Each postmark and cancellation illustrated will have appended thereto its classification or index number in the lower left hand corner of the engraving.

Each original illustration of a group or sub-group will be followed by a preliminary section of the catalog listing all subjects illustrated as completely as possible from the data that the writer possesses.

Submission of Material.

The cheerful and prompt submission of actual stamps, covers and other data needed is by far and away the most important part of this entire work. In fact, it is the one vital element to its success and without it, the plan fails and you as well as Philately are the loser.

In order that it may appear or be chronicled in its proper form, collectors must mail their material so it will reach the writer not later than fifteen (15) days from the date appearing on that issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in which the original group in question was illustrated.

Tracings or free hand drawings, or written descriptions, no matter how accurately made, cannot be accepted under any circumstances.

The actual stamps and covers bearing the postmark or cancellation are not only essential but absolutely necessary to the success of this plan.

Infinite care and safeguards will be exercised in the use of all material loaned and such material must not only be sent by registered mail but it will be returned likewise. The writer assumes full responsibility for the safe return of all material after he has receipted for same, and refers to the Editor in case further reference is desired.

Only by the submission of the actual cover or stamp can the accuracy and authenticity of such an important work be guaranteed by the writer. He would be unwilling to assume the responsibility were it otherwise. Further, he feels confident that once viewed impartially in this light collectors unreservedly will appreciate that this is the only broad-minded viewpoint—a viewpoint whose adequate excuse is the general good of Philately.

Three separate and distinct kinds of material are needed from collectors.

First.—Actual covers or stamps showing new and non-duplicate postmarks or cancellations not appearing in the original illustration of the specific group in question.

(Note 1.—It is important if the collector has more than one stamp or cover illustrating a certain postmark that he send all such copies forward. Often these duplicates are not only a great help to the artist but absolutely essential if he is accurately to trace the complete design. Especially is this the case where only part of a postmark shows (no matter how clear) on a given stamp or cover.)

(Note 2.—The single exception to the above is in cases where either the original illustration is incomplete or the collector believes it has been traced from an inaccurate design. In such cases only his co-operation is urgently solicited in submitting duplicate postmarks.)

Second.—Actual covers or stamps either partially or wholly identifying the Post Office of Origin in which a certain postmark was used.

(Note.—Often only a single letter or two showing in part of a town postmark on a stamp or cover will supply the missing link so essential to complete identification.)

Third.—Any and all correlative data or historical matter, such as copies of General Post Office orders sent to the local postmaster relative in any way to Postmarks and Cancellations, their use, &c.; copies or the originals of local post office records; local newspaper clippings; impressions from old hand cancelling stamps used in the local post office; verbal reports bearing on the subject obtained direct from former local postmasters, these reports, preferably, to be written out and signed by such postmaster wherever possible.

Too much emphasis cannot be stressed upon the importance of this correlative data. To demonstrate its importance the writer recently acquired an original advertisement in circular form sent to all postmasters by a private individual engaged in the manufacture of postmarks and cancellation sets. This circular has helped greatly. Its value, historically and philatelically, cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

Collectors should submit only those actual stamps and covers showing a clear-cut, definite design. It is obvious that in the interest of accuracy no guess work should have a place in such a work as this. We have all been too apt, including the writer, because of our great interest in postmarks, to convince ourselves that a certain design exists, whereas in reality it is nothing but a smudge or irregular cork cancellation. This point is most important. Remember the realistic designs your imagination and mine have traced out on a frosted window pane. The same simile applies with a vengeance to the identification of postmarks and cancellations. The safest course is the wisest, and if this is followed, in spite of possible temporary disappointments, accuracy is best served. In case of a merited dispute, the design will be submitted to three disinterested authorities, should the owner so desire.

Only those postmarks or cancellations of the specific group under consideration should be submitted. Collectors are earnestly requested not to send in postmarks and cancellations promiscuously, but to wait patiently until the specific group appears in print to which their particular postmarks apply.

Then is the time to Co-operate!

Co-operators' Proof Sheets.

From the collector's standpoint, one if not the most important phase of the plan is the Co-operators' Proof Sheets. Owing to limited space, it will be impossible for the publishers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY to republish the original illustration of a specific group of postmarks either with or without the many additional and brand new postmarks of that group sent in by collectors to complete such groups. Nor will the identification of unknown postmarks or the towns from which they came be republished in the WEEKLY.

These, however, will be illustrated and republished together with the original illustrations in the form of galley proofs. These galley proofs will be known as Co-operators' Proof Sheets and are absolutely essential to the collector in order that he may have a complete and accurate set of illustrations, identifications and correlative data.

Arrangements for the printing, engraving and distribution of these Co-operators' Proof Sheets have been made at no little expense. This expense, plus that of salaries of artist, stenographer, registered and regular postage, which will eventually mount well into four figures, will be financed by a voluntary, unrestricted fund, donated by a small group of prominent collectors and dealers who, in the giving, have accentuated again what Co-operation and Philately mean.

How to Obtain Co-operators' Proof Sheets.

I. Merely send your name and address (legibly printed), to J. A. Ritchie, 2305 Andrews Ave., New York City.

Every collector so doing will receive by mail, free of charge, Co-operators' Proof Sheets of Group I, illustrated herewith. These Proof Sheets will contain many new and startling animal, eagle, etc., cancellations not herein shown, received from collectors thruout the country since this article went to press.

Further, several cancellations in this Group have since been identified and the towns from which they came ascertained. This important new and additional data will also appear in the Co-operators' Proof Sheets to be sent you.

Co-operators' Proof Sheets of Group I will be well worth while!

They will demonstrate how essential and important it is that you receive those for Group II and for all subsequent groups regularly thereafter.

You cannot afford to be without them.

II. Co-operators' Proof Sheets for Group II and subsequent groups will be sent only to those collectors who actually send in material in one of the three classes outlined—to wit:—

a. New and non-duplicate postmarks or cancellations not originally illustrated.

b. Stamps or covers partially or wholly identifying the Post Office of origin.

c. Correlative data as described above.

III. If, however, a collector actually does not have new material falling within the first few groups illustrated, he should hold material he does possess until the particular group to which it belongs appears and then—send it in! As soon as he does this he will have sent him not only the Co-operators' Proof Sheets of that group but also a complete file of proof sheets of all the preceding groups.

IV. The continued receipt of subsequent proof sheets depends entirely upon the subsequent degree of co-operation received from any one collector. However, a liberal discretion will be used in this regard.

Co-operators' Proof Sheets Can Only Be Had For One Price and That Price is Co-operation. Money Cannot Buy Them.

In return for this, Co-operators' Proof Sheets will be mailed you promptly thirty days from the date of the WEEKLY, in which illustrations of the original group in question appeared.

It is important to note in this connection that thin paper is used for the Co-operators' Proof Sheets in order that comparisons as to size, &c., with one's own postmarks can readily be made. Experience has taught that accuracy can only be assured in such comparisons by matching the illustration upon the original and holding both up to a strong light.

Finally, collectors desiring subsequent Co-operators' Proof Sheets of Group II, III and so on, are urged to make their requests in the following form:—

Notes.
I-a2—The writer believes that there are two authentic types of the Kicking Mule Cancellation outside of the fraudulent copies known to exist and that these two different types come from separate towns. If any collector has definite data or stamps to prove this theory, he is urged to submit same and due credit will be given.
In order to inaugurate this series of articles with one of the most interesting as well as rarest types of cancellations, the writer has enlisted the aid of the following, to whom acknowledgment is hereby made:—Messrs. Wm. B. Sprague,

EDITORIAL.

Feature—The WEEKLY is about to begin one of the most valuable studies that has ever been presented in the philatelic press; and we may be pardoned if we take advantage of the occasion to refer to this monograph in enthusiastic terms. Through the kindness of Mr. J. A. Ritchie, New York City, whose keen interest in the cancellations of the stamps of the United States has lead him to study the fascinating subject intently and with unusual fidelity, will this paper print a series of articles that will be worthy in all respects of the attention of our readers from the novice to the student. In these times when the appeal of U. S. stamps is a dominant one, it is appropriate that a systematic and exhaustive treatise on the stamp cancellations of our country be compassed; and ably and adequately, Mr. Ritchie has proceeded to his task. It may happen that some of our readers may be in a position to assist in the making of this history and we ask earnestly that those who have anything in cancellations that is odd, uncommon or what not, send the stamps to Mr. Ritchie for inspection. Mr. J. A. Ritchie may be addressed in care of White, Weld & Co., 14 Wall Street, New York City; and it is needless to add that he will take good care of items that may be entrusted to him. Mr. Ritchie says: "I feel that there is a real prejudice against collectors in letting specimens out of their collection but that the loan of them is absolutely necessary to the success of our plan." It will be a sentimental asset to know that one has had even a small part in the creation of so important a work, which while purely philatelic yet is to be hailed as a contribution to Americana. In these days of community or co-operative endeavor this call should be heeded; and such is our faith in the good-will of our readers, we believe that it will be.

Idea—We are told that not long ago, the Rotary Club, Chicago, had a "hobby night" which proved to be one of the most interesting entertainments imaginable; and that a certain gentleman exhibited his really fine collection of stamps which made a deep and favorable impression on the Rotarians. Indeed, the stamps and the philatelic interpretations made by our friend were the feature of the evening and we have no doubt that his example caused the few budding collectors that are apt to be found in any considerable number of intelligent persons to burst into bloom. The idea of a "hobby night" is a good one for clubs of almost any character.

Safety—The arrivals from Neurop are being accepted wholeheartedly and collectors have not shown a disposition to inquire rigorously into the antecedents of the visitors. However, as batch follows batch, the tolerant collector may be said to be rubbing his eyes a bit with the intention of giving closer scrutiny to the claimants for favor. Interest is not abating in Neurop issues but it is brought home to collectors that there are enough legitimate varieties, present and prospective, to engage their attention, without having to provide a haven for masqueraders. Here, the powerful influence of the dealer has room for play and the buyer may know that he may place reliance as a rule, upon the judgment of the dealer, who will guard him against flagrant intrusion. Meanwhile it is known that some of the most interesting stamps ever issued are the portion of the collector through the European developments. It is something to be a contemporary of the march of events as pictured by the manifold issues, and we believe that these stamps when viewed through the haze of years to come will have a strong appeal.

Odd—The following instance is referred to us, with, we infer, leave to print. The point involved is one that deserves some notice: "I have an envelope with a thirty cent stamp on it and the postmark on the envelope very clearly is August 20, 1861; and the question in my mind is whether the stamp is the August or the September issue. It is hard to get away from the date and difficult to understand how a stamp of the September issue could have been put out in August, allowing for the time of printing, from there to the hands of the distributing agents at Washington and from there to the postmaster at New London. I have submitted this cover to two authorities who both call it the September issue but they cannot understand how the stamp could have been used in August. This cover was mailed to Honolulu and may have been exposed to the rays of the tropical sun. Can you offer any explanation?" Of course it is fair to assume that an August postmark implies use in August but in itself it perhaps would not be accepted as absolute proof. It is not easy to explain the discrepancy in date, but granting that the brilliant and distinctive red orange of the August issue had become faded, the expert could distinguish between the thin, breakable paper of the August stamps and the more durable paper of the September issue. We have a Confederate cover, five cent green, that is postmarked in January, 1861, but this turning backward of time in its flight is a "hang-over" that may be accounted for. Mr. Luff mentions the existence of a copy of the three cent August with an August 18th cancellation, "four days after the date of issue assigned to the stamps of the first type." Used specimens of the August issue excepting the ten and twenty-four cent, are very scarce and it is fair to say that any thirty cent of the 1861 type with a postmark so early as August 20th is almost irreconcilable to general belief. It is rough to find a thirty cent, 1861, with an August postmark only to be told that things are not what they seem, but it is easier to change the character of a postmark than of a stamp.

Hail—Yes, we have seen Ellis Parker Butler's story "of how he feels at the half century mark," in the December issue of the American Magazine, that inspiring monthly that disseminates the doctrine of usefulness in so happy and hopeful a manner. We have not spoken of it before because of the press of other material but the study was good enough to keep. We do not need to say that Ellis Parker Butler is a shining star in the literary firmament and that as a humorist he has no peer today, in the opinion of some critics. We are proud to know that he is an avowed philatelist who proclaims his faith publicly when fitting occasion offers. Since the death of Harold Frederic, whose philatelic affiliations were strong, we have had no real literary celebrity to point at proudly until the coming of Ellis Parker Butler. We remember Mr. Butler's exchange notices in the boys' papers of the times and no doubt some of our readers have corresponded with him at his Muscatine, Iowa, address. The article under notice is a song of rejoicing upon having attained the age of fifty; it is filled with whimsical philosophy that is comforting to those who have completed their fifth decade. This is the way in which he strikes a chord that must find a response in the breasts of many of us, even though we may be under or over that golden age: "Another thing I need a lot of time for now is my postage stamp collection. For forty years I have sort of fooled with it, getting acquainted with the general methods and outlines of the sport, and deciding just what to specialize in. I have now a pretty fair working knowledge, and know what I want to do in that line. I need a lot of time for that; I don't expect to do any very great things at it until I really get some leisure—say, when I am eighty or ninety years old, but in the meanwhile I want to pick up a few rarities now and then. To do that I'll have to make a little more money that I have been making because I have reached a point where the stamps I need run into money rapidly." We like the term, "sport," as descriptive of stamp collecting.

Echo—While we are at it, we may as well acknowledge the citation of Mr. Geo. E. Foster to an article in the Atlantic Monthly for October, page 499: "These chests I later—in fact, during the two summers of my employment—ransacked for postage stamps, and made some rich discoveries; in par-

Announcement

Owing to pressure of my other business interests, I have decided to turn my stamp business over to someone who can give my friends the service they so patiently, yet, I fear, fruitlessly expected to see me render. I shall miss the many letters—even those complaining of my handwriting—but I trust my successor—Mr. Simpson Yeomans—will enjoy as I have enjoyed the work. I have disposed of everything except my War Leaves, which I shall continue to trade in, and will devote my spare moments to the building up of my Specialized Collection of the First Booklet Issue. I neglected my own album, unfortunately, while urging my friends to fill theirs so that I am in the market to buy for my collection the following (2c 1898 only):

Entire Books
 Plate Numbers
 Guide Lines Shades, Covers
 Specimen
 Philippines, etc.

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

PART I. Government Issues.

Introduction.
I can well recall, during the early part of 1908, at which time I was living in Washington, making special trips to the Post Office Department, located between 11th and 12th Streets on Pennsylvania Avenue, to see in operation the new automatic stamp vending machines of different designs then being tried out by the department. These were installed in the front corridor of the post office and being among the first of their kind to be used in this country attracted a great deal of attention.

Hon. George von L. Meyer was Postmaster General and it will be recalled that he had previously represented this country in several of the larger European capitals, in a diplomatic capacity. While abroad he had without a doubt seen similar machines in operation and it was through his recommendations that these vending machines were first given official attention. At the time in his report he states that:—

"The Post Office Department is undertaking to demonstrate, by careful experiments, the desirability of adopting automatic stamp vending machines to receive our one-cent and five-cent pieces for the sale of stamps and post cards. This method of selling stamps is in use in other countries, and the proposition to consider the adoption in the United States has excited no little interest."

"The use of slot machines has become so universal and popular in other fields that there seems every reason why they should be adopted to the sale of stamps, stamped envelopes and post cards, provided machines can be built which combine the necessary features of moderate expense and absolute accuracy in operation. Any measure that promotes the convenience of the public should be utilized whenever possible to do so without undue cost."

"Their use in post office lobbies will afford an all night service to the public, with no expense for clerk hire, and their use in post office stations, hotels, railway stations, news stands, department stores and drug stores will add immeasurably to the public convenience. An appropriation of $25,000 has been asked from Congress for experimental work along this line."

Manufacturers of these automatic machines, in experimenting with them found that the perforated stamp as sold at the post office could not be used to advantage and as early as October, 1906, had received permission to purchase the unperforated sheets. Some manufacturers applied a special perforation, or rather means of separation to the entire sheet and then cut them into strips which were coiled, while others cut them into strips first, then perforated them and coiled them. Hence we have the private coil stamps, the forerunners of those coiled by the government at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington. These several manufacturers well realized that in order to have their machines adopted generally and used throughout the country it would be advisable to have the post office furnish the stamps for use in their machines rather than have each user secure his coils direct from the machine maker. That is, if a dry goods merchant in New Orleans desired to purchase a Detroit made machine it would be a very great advantage to him if he could obtain his coils of stamps direct from the post office at New Orleans as he needed them rather than have to write to Detroit or elsewhere and then perhaps buy a supply well in excess of his immediate requirements.

Because of the interest shown by the Postmaster General in this automatic feed proposition, the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing without doubt granted every reasonable request of the manufacturers and as a result shortly after the demonstration in Washington of the vending machines, the Bureau turned out their first experimental coils. These did not have the special separations of the private companies, as the machine companies had wanted but were perforated and coiled roughly by means at hand in the Bureau. These government coils first appeared in February of 1908 but so little notice was taken of them at the time that not a single philatelic paper made a note of the event nor can I find where any of the papers chronicled any of the early government varieties. We find numerous mentions made of the private coils but the first printed mention of the official coils that I can find was made months after they were first issued and then the notes were in the form of advertisements offering certain values for sale. Even then an able Washington correspondent of one of our important philatelic papers questioned their official standing and only after a second investigation was the philatelic public definitely advised of the fact that the government had actually issued stamps in coil form. In other words, a turning point of as much interest and bearing on the stamp issues of our country as any that had gone before passed unnoticed. After we were informed of the existence of these issues they were given little attention philatelically for as one stamp journal puts it they could be easily made, for any stamp perforated all around "can be cut or trimmed off" to produce the coil variety.

Because of the lack of philatelic interest taken in these coils during the first several years of their use many of them are now almost unobtainable in strips and several of them are rarities even in pairs. During the last few years, however, coils have fast been coming into their own and rightly so for they represent a radical turning point in the issues of the United States and the time will come when we will look back at these early varieties as real "classics." The former lack of interest was without doubt due to the fact that so little had been known and written about them and it had been assumed that many of the varieties really could be made by trimming the perforated stamp or perforating the unperforated variety. There is something to be said in regards to these fakes and while in cases of single stamps it is often absolutely impossible to give an opinion, I find, however, that by using certain precautions the pitfalls in making a collection of genuine coil stamps is not as great as one might offhand suppose. From personal experiences and observations I have found it much more difficult to locate certain of the earlier coil stamps than I have had in telling the sheep from the goats after they had finally come to hand.

Today, just about twelve years after the first government coil appeared, everyone is familiar with the coil stamp and the greater part of the business mail of the country has its postage paid by these varieties. Mr. Joseph E. Ralph, former Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in an address before the Washington Philatelic Society, which I was fortunate in hearing delivered, said that the time would come when all stamps would be issued in coil form only and I do not believe that he was far wrong.

I might here mention that shortly after the advent of the automatic stamp vending machine, types of automatic stamp affixing machines were placed upon the market that would moisten, detach and affix these coil stamps to the envelope. It is these latter machines which are today responsible for the large number of coil stamps being used.

Many Thanks

to all those who wrote me about the correspondence recently published. The idea seems to have gotten abroad that I wrote both ends of it myself, but altho I may be capable of such a stunt, that time I was not guilty of it. A dealer friend of mine reports a similar experience with the same party but failed to equal my 80c score. He tackled a long want list and only 69c worth of the stamps were accepted. A few more sales like that would take the shoes and stockings right out of his children's mouths.

Only one collector roasted me for trying to conduct my business at a reasonable profit but as he did not value his own opinions highly enough to sign his name to them I don't think much of them—or him either.

If you haven't had a shot at the '47's and other fine U. S. on and off covers I am submitting to my customers, why don't you wake up before they're all gone?

Many items I could not replace for twice my own prices.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

An advanced collector of the postage stamps of the United States has recently decided to collect the revenue stamps as well. He desires a substantial nucleus to start with and as a result I am in the market for something nice in the way of a revenue collection. Stamps must be in the finest condition and fine single copies of each variety is desired rather than pairs and blocks. Write and tell me what you have and what you will take for them and we can probably do business. I positively will not make an offer for I expect to sell it on a basis of cost to me and I will certainly not ask my client to make me an offer.

Have just bought several hundred very fine 3c, 1851, on cover and offer the duplicates at from 10c to $1 each. Are you interested? Will submit on approval to those known to me, who are likely to buy at least $5 worth. Don't figure on finding sleepers that have been overlooked.

January 10, 1920,

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Several weeks ago we called the attention of our readers to the fact that the Bureau had informed us that they had been instructed by the Post Office Dept. to perforate and issue in sheet form certain imperforate sheets of the 3c booklet stamps. We now understand that the cost of changing the perforating machine in order to perforate these few sheets is so costly that they will probably be scrapped. We would suggest that they place the imperforate sheets on sale and we will warrant that they will not last very long.

In our issue of December 27th we mentioned that a sheet of the 1c surface print, perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper had been found, which was a distinct double print, that is, had been run through the press twice. We are now able to state that this sheet was printed from plates Nos. 9674 and 9676 and that the pane found was from the southeast corner of the sheet. This variety differs from those double prints which are caused by an imperfection in the mechanical operation of the press.

Mr. B. K. Miller informs us that he has located a block of four of the 3c surface print, type IV, perforated 11 upon unwatermarked paper from plate No. 9088, which he feels quite sure has a direct impression on the back of the same stamp, this not being an offset which would give the impression of a direct impression. I am of the belief that this block came from the original find made sometime back in the middle West, and at that time there was a difference of opinion. I personally saw several blocks, and while they had every indication of being direct impressions, there were white streaks running through the stamps that would indicate an offset from a wrinkled sheet. Only a portion of the sheet was printed on the back, about two vertical rows, if I remember correctly.

Here, of late, many of our readers have been sending for inspection, (one collector believing he had a real rarity), copies of the current stamps with reversed offsets on the back. As I explained to each these offset impressions come from the under sheet being tightly pressed against the upper sheet before they are dry. The variety is quite common and here of late large numbers of the 2c and 4c in this condition have been running through the Philadelphia Post Office.

The Philadelphia Post Office until recently had on hand quite a few of the 24c aeroplane stamps. When, however, they started to distribute the government food supplies they precancelled

the entire lot of them in order to get them out of the way. While it was against the regulations to precancel aeroplane stamps, the Philadelphia office is not the first offender. Offhand we recall aeroplane stamps being precancelled in Cory, Pa., Flint, Mich., Federalburg, Md., and I believe in one or two Texas and Kansas cities.

We wish to thank Messrs. Harman Wendell, J. H. Houston, H. W. Porter and G. G. Hiatt for notes of interest.

ARMENIA.—Felix Cohen informs us that a set of stamps will shortly be issued for this new state. Four values, handsome in design, have recently been printed in England. The values are in kopecks (Russian money). Mr. Cohen writes:—"I only know that one of the stamps will have a panorama of Mount Ararat. I could not get any more information as my philatelic acquaintance, an Armenian, was so enthusiastic about the new set that he cried out the news to me in the street, gesticulating and shouting repeatedly, 'Mount Ararat! Mount Ararat!' to the astonishment of the passersby. I have not seen him again, but I do not believe his mind is wandering on his Mount Ararat design." We shall soon have further information.

AZERBAIJAN.—This is a district in the extreme north of Persia, the chief town being Tabriz. A Republic has been proclaimed, and a set of postage stamps have been issued of striking pictorial designs. The stamps are printed in three and even four colours, and the denominations are 10, 40, 60 kopecks, 1, 2, 5, 10, 25 and 50 roubles.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

BELGIUM.—We have been shown by Adj. Henry Hooreman specimens of the new parcel post stamps concerning which reference has been made in these columns. Two values:—1.60 slate and 70c green. Adj. Hooreman writes that other values of the set have appeared but have not as yet been placed on sale in Brussels.

BULGARIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a 1c stamp of a type that we have not seen before although it bears the dates 1915-1916. The color is grey and has the Bulgarian characters at the top with a view of town and a building with a high tower in the distance. The numeral of value is in each lower corner with the name of the currency between.

CEYLON.—Mr. Hugo Griebert has shown us the following values of this country of somewhat different colors, most of them being much brighter shades than heretofore. 2, 3, 5 and 30c.

CILICIA.—This territory in Asia Minor under French occupation will issue soon French Alexandria stamps with the probable overprint "T.E.O. Cilicia". The stamps will without doubt be provisionals, and Felix Cohen, who gives us this information, says that it is a good guess that the French postal authorities will issue a permanent set of stamps for the countries under their authority in Asia Minor. Mr. Cohen believes that the whole set of French Alexandria stamps will be surcharged.

FIUME.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the "Pro Fondazione-Studio" type stamps with the surcharge VALORE GLOBALE and also added value of the same amount as the value of the stamp. The values thus surcharged are 5, 10, 15 and 20c with the additional amount in cents in three lines in black. The 45, 60, 80 cent and 1cor are surcharged in two lines and all printing is in black. The same correspondent advises that they have also received the 2, 3, 5 and 10cor surcharged in the same manner.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—The 6c and 8c of the caribou set are now out of stock, the issue becoming obsolete. We are indebted to F. F. Wills for this information and he indicates that the other higher values will likely get scarce, as only 50,000 of each were issued. Mr.
Wills suggests that those collectors who have not got a complete set of caribou
"had better get a wiggle on before it is too late".

The Postmaster General informs Whitfield King & Co. that there is no present intention of a new issue of stamps to commemorate the visit of the Prince of Wales, as has been stated in some Journals.

PHILIPPINES.—Mr. Benj. Cadbury advises us that he is in receipt of the current 8 centavos stamps watermarked PIPS but perforated 10. His correspondent in Manila under date of November 24 advises him that it is just issued.

POLAND.—We have received from Willy Borger a set of new postage due stamps for use in Silesia. The stamps are square in shape, printed in blue, with the inscription "Poczta Polska" at top and "Doplaty" at the bottom. In the center are large numerals of value encircled by a fanciful scroll design.
Mr. Borger informs us that this set is also used for Galicia, while Poland proper has the set in red brown. The currency is Fenigi and Marks, and the values range from 2f to 5m, nine values in all.

RAROTONGA.—Mr. C. L. Douglass shows us a copy of the 6d stamp of this island with the "ONO" with a broken "O" or an inverted "C".

RHODESIA.—From Mr. A. Morgan, of Buluwayo, we have a mint block of the current 1d stamp in an entirely new shade—brick-red. Our correspondent says he believes that only a small consignment was sent out from England, and adds that the original colour is again on sale.

This looks very much as if the printers have been experimenting in pigments, especially seeing that the consignment is said to have been a small one.

The paper (without watermark) and perforation are the same.—Stamp Collecting.

ROUMANIA.—Corpl. A. Bruce Auckland, with the British Military Mission, writing November 15th, sends us a specimen of the second provisional issue for Transylvania, "issued a few days ago," and one of the first issue (2 bani) for comparison. The "Royal Monogram in circle" is the same, but the value is printed in cursive type in the second issue. We are told that there are more than seventy varieties, as several different issues of Hungary were surcharged, viz.—"Magyar kir. posta," "Magyar posta," and "Magyar kir. pos-ta" overprinted "Kostarsasag."—Stamp Collecting.

(Levant P. O.).—Corpl. Auckland kindly sends us a specimen of the "Timbru de Ajutor" now on sale at the Roumanian Post Office, Constantinople. Each letter in the interior of Roumania, or to or from the Post Office at Constantinople, must bear an "Assistance stamp" value 5 bani, otherwise a "Timbru de Ajutor Taxa de Plata" stamp—i.e. "Assistance stamp unpaid"—for 10 bani is affixed and 10 bani charged the recipient.—Stamp Collecting.

SWITZERLAND.—The Economist Stamp
Co. shows us the new set of three Pro Juventute stamps just out:—7½, 10 and 15c.

WEST RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a set of 8 values of imperforate stamps that they advise us were in use 6 days only. The stamps are of the following values and colors:

5k brown.
10k blue.
15k red orange.
20k purple.
30k bistre.
50k light blue.
60k yellow green.
75k dark green.

The stamps have the Russian characters at the top in two lines and the usual emblem of the stamps of this country in the center. At the bottom in the middle, are the numerals of value with the name of currency at each side.

COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON.

We have received for review from F.
Hugh Vallancey a very neat philatelic wallet, convenient in size and fitted to meet the needs of any stamp man. It is made of leather with two kinds of pockets for stamps and is supplied with a lead pencil. A neatly printed booklet of information is enclosed, into which a vast amount of material is condensed.
Several pages are devoted to "Stamps
I am Wanting," and Douglas B. Armstrong, who compiled the information, is entitled to much credit. The book is officially called The Stamp Collector's Pocket Book but it is all of that and even more. Price 60c, obtainable at 89
Farringdon St., London, Eng.

From the C. S. Watson Co. is received a large size pocket stockbook capable of holding a great many stamps.
It bears the imprint "Compliments of the Season, C. S. Watson Co. Inc., East Dedham, Mass." Those who were fortunate enough to receive a specimen copy will appreciate the courtesy of the firm.

A similar pocket stockbook has been received from the Elk Stamp Exchange, Renovo, Pa. It's more modest in form and shape but will prove very acceptable to the recipient. It has a perforation scale.

It is possible that Clifford W. Kissinger in his palmy days may have issued a 100-page philatelic paper. Be that as it may, it is safe to say that the number of Stamp Collecting just at hand with its 100 pages surpasses anything of the kind ever attempted.
We cannot do justice to the fine array of literary matter but coming numbers of the WEEKLY will evidence our appreciation in the reprinting of several meritorious productions.

Early United States Early Canada FOR SALE

Specialization in the Scandinavian countries is taking up all my time. For this reason I am willing to dispose of a lot of really superb early U. S. Stamps as well as a fine collection of Canada including such items as a strip of three No. 1 on cover—fine 6 pence imperforates—and dozens of superb copies of the big heads. Also have quite a general assortment of desirable pieces of other countries.

These items must bring prevailing market prices as the sale is one of choice and not of necessity. I have never collected a stamp that was not in fine condition in every respect. If you are willing to pay prices irrespective of catalogue advise what you are interested in.

DECISION AFFIRMED WITH COSTS.

Appellate Division Sustains Findings of Court on Worthington Stamps.

(Rochester (N. Y.) Herald.)

The decision handed down by the Appellate Division here will probably put an end to a long legal contention over the question of possession and payments which evolved from the transfer some time ago of the George H. Worthington postage stamp collection, valued at $337,500, which is said to be one of the most valuable and rare collections in the world.

The collection was finally transferred to Alice F. Halladay of Buffalo, but questions arose as to final settlements and the payment of attorneys' fees. A judgment was handed down by Justice Herbert P. Bissell of Erie County Supreme Court declaring that the plaintiff, Alice F. Halladay, should have first lien. Following this judgment the defendant in the action, Harrison B. McGraw, for the creditors, George H. Worthington and Warren H. Colson, appealed to the Appellate Division. The decision handed down yesterday affirms the judgment of Supreme Court, with costs.

The action brought by Alice Halladay was begun in 1917, and in her complaint the plaintiff claimed that McGraw entered into a written contract with her that the stamps should be sold by the plaintiff. She asserted she sold part of the collection at a public auction through Warren H. Colson, and that altogether Colson's sales amounted to $31,868.41. This amount was left unpaid. The plaintiff also claimed that Colson demanded $7,997 for commissions. In addition to this the plaintiff declared that $55,000 worth of stamps was held by Colson. The plaintiff asked to have possession of that portion of the collection named in the judgment. The plaintiff further claimed that the defendant should look to Colson for $23,873 from the proceeds of sales.

The defendant, in his answer, asked to have the whole of the deposited fund of $101,310 paid to him. He declared that Worthington made an assignment for the benefit of the creditors, and that the collection was then delivered to the plaintiff.

Previous testimony taken in the case shows that Worthington held the collection for many years before ever thinking of disposing of it. At the time of the action he lived in Cleveland. The collection consisted of stamps from all parts of the world and contained in six large volumes. Colson testified he received the collection for sale on May, 1914, and said he told Worthington that it would probably take five years to dispose of the entire collection. Colson testified he went to Europe with the purpose of selling some of the stamps and that he took with him stamps valued at about $100,000. He said the war with Germany broke out at about this time and that it greatly hindered his business.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

Austria.—Attention should be directed to the unsatisfactory listing of the 1916 issue in the "Standard Catalogue". The crown values are in the main not listed at all. There are three varieties of each of the high values, as follows:

1916 Type A40. Copper-plate engraving.
2kr dark blue.
3kr pure red.
4kr dark green.
10kr deep grey-violet.

1917 Same type, but tints different.

2kr pure green-blue.
3kr deep rose-madder.
4kr clear, pure green.
10kr pure blue-violet.

1918 Same type, same colors, but printed on silk paper, so-called "faser papier" or "papier mele-de-soie." In this issue the plates have apparently been retouched to some extent, as there are minute differences in background and shape of figures of value.

2kr pure green-blue, silk paper.
3kr deep rose-madder, silk paper.
4kr clear, pure green, silk paper.
10kr pure blue-violet, silk paper.

Some objection may be made to the naming of some of the colors, but the stamps have been compared to a spectrum scale, which should dispose of any argument. In case of colors which are not pure spectrum colors, comparison has been made with a color chart.

In connection with the above, it should be noted that the Austrian Aerial Post stamps of 1918 were printed in still another series of colors of the above (first three values). The 2Kr was printed in tint 1 of pure blue-violet, so-called mauve; the 3Kr in shade 1 of orange-yellow; the 4Kr in cool grey. These stamps were not issued without surcharge, but from certain information at hand, it seems certain that there is a considerable quantity of the stamps existing without overprint, and these may appear on the market at any time.

Germany.—Two aerial post stamps have been issued, large oblongs. The first is rather crude, being a representation of a flying mail-horn, surrounded by the inscriptions: 10pf at each end, "Deutsche" above, "Flugpost" below. All words and design colorless, on orange ground. The 40pf value is more pleasing. It pictures a bi-plane emerging from a cloud, "40 Pfennig" in each upper corner, and "Deutsche Flugpost" at bottom. The stamps are perf. 14.

Japan.—Two aerial post stamps have appeared in Japan, also. The 1 1/2 sen pale blue and the 3 sen rose have been overprinted with an aeroplane, the first in red, the second, blue. These stamps are to be used in the aerial service between Tokio and Osaka, about 350 miles. The surcharge is decidedly Nipponesque in character, rather crude, in fact.

Mozambique Company.—Has issued a series of postage-dues, rather large stamps showing as a central design the arms of the company, as on the New Zealand.—A splendid victory set has been issued: there are six values, and this set will be very popular with war-stamp collectors. The 1/2d green is oblong, as are the 1 1/2d, 3d and 1sh. The 1d and 6d are upright. The design is different for each, and except the 6d, all bear the words "Victory Stamp" or "Victory." The 6d is inscribed "Peace and Prosperity." The 1/2d, 3d and 6d bear the dates "1914-1919."

The 1/2d figures a charming Victory extending a laurel wreath as she sits supported by a lion. The 1d figures a standing Victory and lion passant, the frame on each side showing palm branches. The 1 1/2d shows a Maori chief at right, the left of the design being occupied with decorations of tree fern (Cyathea) and Maori idols. The 3d pictures a reclining lion, the frame showing decorations of oak leaves and laurel. The 6d depicts a winged Nike; the 1sh exhibits a portrait of the King, tree, ferns and reclining lions at sides. All values have the name of the Dominion and the usual "Postage and Revenue" inscription. This issue should certainly prove a great incentive to collectors to "fill up" their New Zealand spaces!

1d red.
1 1/2d brown.
3d brown-violet.
6d violet.
1sh vermilion.

Poland.—Has issued two series of postage dues, one in red (fennia), for use in those portions of Poland adjacent to Germany; the other in blue for use in Galicia. The stamps are square, numeral in centre, "Poczta Polska" at top, "Dopłata" at bottom. Values in each series, 2, 4, 5, 10, 20, 30, 50, 100, 500.

Turkey, Greek occupation.—When the Greeks occupied Rodosto, in April they issued a number of "occupation" stamps for collectors to think about. There are four series of eight value each, 1, 3, 5, 10, 25, and 50lep, 1 and 2Dr. Each series is produced by surcharging the appropriate value, with a large cross and ELLENIKE DIOIKE SIS, indicating "Greek Administration," on a different Turkish pictorial. The Turkish stamps used are the following: 2 para violet, artillery; 5 para orange mosque; 5 para on 1 pia red, trench scene; 2 para on 5 para on 1 pia red same design. The last two stamps having been surcharged already, the latter twice, it will be readily appreciated that the result of the Greek ministration is a strange mess. Those interested will be permitted to contribute about $15 per set for "charity."

HUSSMAN AGAIN LEADS WITH 65.

A very large number of new subscriptions were received during the month of December and we thank our friends for the co-operation extended. The finest support came from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., which sent in during the month no fewer than 65 subscriptions. With a total of 183 for three months there is good reason for believing that this firm will smash all records in subscription getting. We have grouped six firms as deserving of special mention for results secured and feel in duty bound to publicly recognize the work of the Fennell Stamp Co. in sending in 22 and F. E. OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have received a copy of British War Stamps. It is entitled "A Retrospect" and is written by Douglas B. Armstrong. The book, as the name indicates, covers the colonial possessions whose stamps have figured in philatelic interest. Anything that Mr. Armstrong writes is well worth perusal and this booklet is up to his standard. It is issued by R. W. Gosse of the London Stamp Club, a dealer whose advertisements are scattered freely through the book. Though inscribed, "For private circulation," the price of the book is given at 14c and may be obtained from F. H. Vallancey, 89 Farringdon St., London, England.

The Forest Poetic is the name of a handsome brochure just received from Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry Association. As the name implies, the book consists of a grouping of poems dealing with the woods. It is published for complimentary circulation.

We have received from Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, England, a priced catalog of war and armistice stamps and stamps issued in consequence of the war. It is the eighth edition and is dated December, 1919. We have given previous editions of this work warm commendation and the book before us is superior to any of its predecessors. Price 25c post free. This book is not on sale at the office of the WEEKLY.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. is sending out their pricelist for 1920 and it is interesting to note that this year is the 60th anniversary of the firm's being established in business. The pricelist covers the range of philatelic accessories furnished by the firm and is a handsome production. It will no doubt be sent upon application.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mr. Delf Noronha, who has been for some time associated with the Marks Stamp Co., has severed his connection with that firm and will engage in the stamp business from Toronto. He has signed a contract for space in the WEEKLY and will be heard from regularly through our columns.

—W. L. Aldrich & Co. of Boston sends us a letter received from one of our subscribers in Milltown, Wash. It was an order for stamps from the issue of MEKEEL'S dated Feb. 15 of last year. The writer stated that he had just received his copy of that issue from the postoffice. This is a notable non-delivery case.

—In our issue of Dec. 27 we had the Elk Stamp Exchange located at Kennebunk, Pa. It should have been Renovo, Pa. We trust that the advertisement published elsewhere in this issue and with the address correctly stated may be well read, so that the address will become familiar.

—Cards are out announcing the marriage of the well known New York collector, Max Casper to Miss Thekla Harrison of Beaumont, Texas. Congratulations and well wishes will go to Mr. and Mrs. Casper from a host of philatelic friends.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Fredk. S. Wist, John Gnaedinger, Erwin Griswold, David S. Hutchinson, Aaron H. Sohman.

—A stamp and coin exhibit was given by the Philatelic and Numismatic Sections of The Maryland Academy of Sciences, 105 W. Franklin Street, Baltimore, Md., from 7 to 10 p. m. Thursday, January 15. Old and new issues of both stamps and coins were shown including war and peace stamps and coins. In connection with the exhibit there were shown philatelic publications, including weekly and monthly papers, catalogues, albums, etc. Invitations were sent all the members of the Academy and to the public.

BOOKS IN THE MAKING.

It has been the aim of the WEEKLY to present week by week a varied table of contents. It is no doubt true that some of our serials do not appeal to a large circle of our subscribers, and that they are of interest only to the specialist. This must be true of any stamp publication. It is an opportune time for us to call attention to books in the making, with some comment on their progress.

Dictionary by Poole. Letters A to G have appeared in pamphlet form and the balance of the alphabet has been printed in the WEEKLY. We must now whip into shape a vast mass of Addenda running from H to Z and including all the Neuropse inscriptions, etc., that have come into use during the past four years. This is no easy task and our subscribers must be patient.

China by C. A. Howes. This serial should soon be completed. Mr. Howes is a painstaking writer and the book when finished will be the last word on the subject.

Match and Medicine by West. This book will be published in two sections, one devoted to general information and match stamps, and the other to medicine stamps alone. The book will be with us in serial form for many months and we are positive that the small fillers appearing from time to time will create a new interest in these fine old stamps.

Panama by F. E. Heydon. We are up against the real thing in attempting a history of the stamps of Panama, but Mr. Heydon is the man for the task. It is a country unduly rich in varieties and no doubt some of our readers have felt that the listing of these varieties consumed too much space. The book is nearing completion and will be a standard work on this subject. Mr. Heydon has given himself without stint to this work.

First U. S. Stamp by Elliott Perry. This serial, devoted to the New York carrier stamp, will soon appear in book form. It is now in metal awaiting the finishing touches.

U. S. 5c Red Error by Cabeen. The same remarks apply to this serial and the book is slated for an early appearance.

Cayman Islands by Fred J. Melville. Mr. Melville has promised that this manuscript will be placed in our hands within a few weeks. The interest in the stamps of these islands bespeaks a warm reception for it.

U. S. Coil Stamps by Philip Ward, Jr. It is with great pleasure that we announce a serial on government and company coils. This is a subject in which U. S. collectors should be interested and the story by Mr. Ward will be comprehensive and doubtless increase the hold that these stamps have upon the affections of philatelists. We shall illustrate the article where illustrations will be useful.

U. S. Cancellations by J. A. Ritchie. This will be a stupendous work and we hope to enlist the co-operation of every subscriber. It will take considerable room to properly present this serial, but with 12 pages we shall find it possible without curtailing our other departments. As the representative United States stamp paper we feel privileged to present what will be a great literary achievement.

U. S. 3c Violet by Louis G. Barrett. This serial will be brought up to date and ultimately issued in booklet form. We are holding the metal for such additions as Mr. Barrett may wish to make.

U. S. Aeroplane 1918 by Philip H. Ward, Jr. The history of these three stamps is being told in the WEEKLY by Mr. Ward and will ultimately be printed in book form.

U. S. 1857-60 Issue by Elliott Perry. Mr. Perry has covered nearly the entire issue already and the work will be completed shortly. This book will add to the literary achievements of Mr. Perry, who has been a painstaking student and has spared no effort to make his researches complete.

Prince Edward Island by Poole. This book has been paged up and is on the press. It will make its appearance in a few days.

New Brunswick by Poole. This serial, to be concluded next week, will immediately follow and be in the hands of our readers within a few weeks.

In looking through the above list of books "in the making" are you not satisfied that we are contributing liberally to philatelic literature?

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

ASTOUNDING APPRECIATIONS.

At an auction the other afternoon I was watching a few lots of early New Zealand stamps being sold, and several of the fine old Type I stamps were fetching three and four times catalogue. One of the early types cat. £7 (it was the 1d or the 1s), actually fetched £30 odd—a figure which is well over four times catalogue!

It becomes more apparent every day that good stamps are the investment.

There is no knowing nowadays what price a really good thing will fetch.

Common and medium stamps are always to be had at all sorts of competitive prices, but the rare stamp always commands a ready market at almost any figure within reason. It is the same with all classes of stamps, be they the rarer varieties of the old imperfs., twentieth century, or war stamps. The demand is far greater than the supply, and always will be.

The new War Stamp Catalogue published by Mr. D. Field is a healthy looking compilation running to over a hundred pages of small type, double column. I will leave the work of review to the Editor, and content myself with a few notes on some of the prices. The Bermuda War Tax is priced 1s—why? The fact that another catalogue prices it the same is no reason for the mistake to be copied. The 6ch Shah Bushire sounds very dear at £12 10s—I presume this is a printer's error for the 5 ch? The latter stamp is worth this figure. Cameroon shilling values are quoted at 65s each and £10 each with inverted "s." These quotations are well above Gibbons, but, of course, the latter firm are notoriously cheap on these stamps if they can supply at their given prices.

As an investment, the following "G.E. A.s" are sound:—All the rupee values at the asked figures, 2s per rupee and under.

I was hoping to see many stamps priced that the collector would know the value of. As an example, no Baghdads are priced, but a delightfully vague footnote informs us that "we have usually a good assortment at about £4 each." With about three exceptions, Mr. Field must be very reasonable on these stamps.

Under Nauru a big surprise is sprung upon the majority of collectors, who do not appreciate the rarity of the Waterlow prints. A comparison of Gibbons and Field is not uninteresting:—

NAURU. WATERLOW PRINTING.
Gibbons.	Field.
2s 6d	7s 6d
5s	15s
10s	25s
	£10
	£50

We have got used to some dealers advertising that they pay "double cat." for some war stamps. Now you know three of the stamps!

The New Britain and Marshall Is. lists are good and prices seem to thoroughly indicate the correct market valuations. I would like to see the 2½d on 20pf narrow New Britain priced. It is a very rare stamp and absurdly cheap at Gibbons' quotation of 60s.

The Kermanshah provisionals (Persia) are quoted at £8 the pair.

The prices of Polish on Austria (Przemysl issue) are somewhat mysterious, as these instances will show:—

3 heller (2,300), 3s 6d
"25" on 80 heller (100,000), 10s
80 heller (174,140), 5s

The numbers issued of a stamp do not necessarily alone determine the price of a stamp in relation to another, but in case they do. Surely in their order above, the prices should have been 5s and 3s 6d?

In Togoland many interesting prices are given. In the wide setting I note:

1 mark	£30
2 marks	£70
(a) Inverted	£125
(b) Double	£100

The Gold Coast list is a lengthy one, but extremely complicated, and if the method of putting all errors and varieties under each value is adhered to, the normal variety should be in larger type than the varieties. The list of Ukraine looks very nice, but is not much help to the collector.

Taken all through, the catalogue is an excellent first edition, and I am very pleased to see a British dealer setting up competition to some of the allied and neutral dealer-publishers. — Stamp lecting.

This beautiful stamp well deserves its great and growing popularity. Vieing with the 30c and the 90c in artistic charm, the 10c has always been far more plentiful than either of those two high values, and, being within the reach of nearly every collector who has gone beyond the tyro stage, year after year it adorns the albums and delights the hearts of a countless host of stamp lovers. Boast of the school-boy; joy of the student; hope and despair of the specialist; Neither writer nor readers will live to see the day when this bit of paper labelled "Ten Cents" in green ink will cease to retain the warm place it holds in our affections.

The 10c of the 1855-60 series is peculiarly an American stamp, for the occasionally used on mail going abroad—but then nearly always in combination with other values—its primary reason for existence was to facilitate the prepayment of correspondence between the older United States—the Atlantic and Mississippi Valley states—and the new territories of the Pacific coast—particularly California. We might even call it the "stamp of the Argonauts" since so many letters to and from the gold hunters of '49 and those whom they had left back east when they went out to seek the new El Dorado bore it. Not the first rush of gold seekers, the 10c had not arrived in their day, but those who went in '55 or stayed until that year, or later, used it or received mail carried by it. Quite frequently the 10c bears the San Francisco postmark, but it was used in many other towns and settlements, and covers bearing such romance inspiring postmarks as "Oroville"—(freely translated "Goldtown"), and other mining camps are to be found. The sentimental and historical interest surrounding this 10c stamp even surpasses the rare excellence of the design and the engraving.

The design is both like and unlike that of the 10c black of 1847-51, which became obsolete four years before the 10c green appeared. On both stamps the prominent feature is a central oval containing a three-quarter portrait of Washington. On both stamps, also, the denomination is given in Roman numerals and in words, but the official legend on the black 10c reads "U. S. Post Office," while on the green 10c it reads "U. S. Postage"—each of the two stamps thus conforming to the series to which they belong. On the 1847 issue the Washington portrait faces to the right, but on the 1855 ten cent we find it facing left.

If there is any criticism to be made of the 10c green it is that "U. S. Postage" is too small, as indeed this legend is on other values of the series which were engraved after the 10c, particularly the 5c, 24c and 30c. Like the 1c, 30c and 90c, the design of the 10c is quite devoid of lathework and in place of the latter we find extensive but not too elaborate use of acanthus ornamentation arranged and executed most artistically. Thirteen colorless stars, one representing each of the original United States, are arched over the portrait oval and above them, in a similar curve, appears "U. S. Postage" in colored capitals between two large colorless numerals. In each upper corner of the stamp is an X placed in an oval formed of the twining acanthus. At the base of the stamp is a curved label bearing in large and nearly colorless letters "Ten Cents". Each end of this label is lost in a large acanthus scroll shaped somewhat like a shell; these shell like ornaments forming the lower corners of the design. On its outer edge, in a corner formed by the ball shaped end of the ornament next above, each shell originally had three tiny graduated pearls, the smallest pearl being lowest down. On the original design there was a fine curved line of color over "U. S. Postage" and a heavier wavy line of color below "Ten Cents". For reasons which will be stated later, either or both of these two outer lines may be present, broken or missing on the stamps.

There were three plates. Nos. 1 and 2 were used for the regularly issued stamps. The third plate is believed to have been the one made and used for the reprints of 1875 and bore no number. Luff's book lists a plate No. 3 of the 1857-60 series, but no trace of such a plate can be found. Either it did not exist at all, or was never used, or the reference was given in mistake for the reprint plate. The 10c remainders of the 1857-60 series, which undoubtedly were mostly from the later printings, are found with the plate number 2 and this would hardly be the case if a third plate had been used before August, 1861.

The first plate was used for all the imperforate 10c stamps and also for the perforated 10c for some time, perhaps two years, after perforation began. The writer's notes would indicate that the second plate was not made, or did not go into use, until 1859. Nearly all 10c from the second plate with dated cancellations were used in 1860 and 1861, only a few dated before 1860 being found, and the writer has seen none used earlier than the latter part of 1859. Judging from the relative scarcity of stamps from the first and the second plates, it is reasonable to suppose the first plate may have been retired before 1859 and that the second plate was used much earlier than can be proven by the writer at this time. It does not appear that the two plates were used concurrently, for the shades of the stamps from each plate seem always to differ, altho not to so great an extent as do the 5c stamps from the two plates of that value.

Features of interest on this plate and the way it was made suggest the first 1c plate of the 1851 series, which preceded the 10c by four years, and also suggest the 30c plate, which was made five years later than the 10c. On the 30c plate and on the first 10c plate we find a few of the stamp designs were slightly recut to bring out certain details of their designs which, for reasons that will appear later, were imperfect or missing on the plates. On the 30c plate only a few designs were recut and these are grouped in one portion of the plate. Our present knowledge of the 10c plate indicates only a few recut stamps and a similar grouping of them on the plate.

The second attempt to transfer the 1c design to the first 1c plate resulted in producing only eight 1c designs in the top row of the right pane of that plate, (stamp sheet). Of these eight, only one, (No. 7), is a perfect type I, ("full scrolls"), the others being more or less incomplete at the bottom. The second attempt at rocking in the 1c plate was made after the three or four 1c designs transferred at the first try were erased and the plate turned half way round.

The first attempt to transfer the 10c design to the first 10c plate resulted in producing ten designs in the bottom row of the left pane, (stamp sheet). None of them are absolutely complete but they are more complete than any other designs rocked onto this plate and, unlike the eight 1c stamps mentioned, they are all just alike. Because the shell-like acanthus ornaments in the lower corners are more nearly complete on the stamps comprising the bottom row of the left pane than on any other stamps on the plate, these stamps have been called "full shells." The term "full shells" is a misnomer, because neither of the shells is full, that is, complete, but even a misnomer can be useful and no doubt this one will serve until a better is thought of.

"FULL SHELLS"
(Scott, Type I; Stevenson, Type I)

On the full shell stamps the right shell appears quite complete and is nearly complete, but the left shell appears broken and some of the outer curves at the lower side are missing. The wavy line under "Ten Cents" is slightly damaged in the center. At the top of the stamp the design is noticeably incomplete; the outer line over "U. S. Postage" is broken or missing and the fine line of color bounding the top of the X ovals is broken over each oval. Between each pair of these ten stamps is a pair of position dots located in the bottom sheet margin a little below the lower line of the stamps. Their relative position toward each other and toward the stamps varies slightly, but enough so that anyone having enough pairs or strips of the stamps can reconstruct this row. The writer's attempt to reconstruct the row with material from the Stevenson collection and elsewhere failed, but that doesn't prove it cannot be done! As there are 200 stamps on the plate and only ten of them are "full shells," there are just 19 chances out of 20 that any 10c from plate No. 1 will not be a full shells stamp.

From the fact that all ten of the full shells stamps are exactly alike it is deduced that the transfer roll, from which they were rocked, also showed the damage noted, but the writer cannot say for certain whether the remainder of the plate was rocked in from the same roller (after being altered) or from another roller. The opinion is held, however, that the next move was to turn the plate half way round and rock in the other 190 designs from a roller having on it two reliefs, one of which may have been the transfer (B) used for the full shell stamps. The chart given is not exactly correct but is useful as a working plan to assist in placing the reliefs.

Left Pane	Row	Right Pane
Relief A	1	Relief A
" B	2	" B
" A	3	" A
" B	4	" B
" A	5	" A
" B	6	" B
" A	7	" A
" B	8	" B
Full Shells	10	" B

The two reliefs occur normally in alternate horizontal rows, as shown, so that horizontal pairs or strips usually consist of the same relief, while vertical pairs usually show the two different reliefs. There are, however, some misplaced transfers; that is, A reliefs in B rows or B reliefs in A rows, but their number and location cannot now be stated. From the apparent scarcity of these misplaced transfers the writer believes there are only a few of them. Single copies of the B relief in the A row can sometimes be identified as such if they are not from the first vertical row, but there is no way to identify single copies of the A relief from the B row unless they show a large part of an adjoining stamp. The reason for this is that on all the vertical rows except the first, the A reliefs always have a guide dot at the upper left corner and guide dots do not normally occur on any of the B reliefs.

The B relief is so much less complete at the top than the A relief and so much more complete at the bottom that the two are not difficult to tell apart. On relief A the top design is complete. The outer line is sometimes faint or slightly broken, but is always present and usually is complete and fairly strong. Both shells are cut away considerably at the bottom and the outer line of the left shell ends about opposite the middle of the T of Ten, leaving an ugly notch. The middle of the wavy line below "Ten Cents" is cut away. On relief B the top design is incomplete as on the full shells stamps. At the bottom both shells are somewhat cut away and the outer line of the left shell ends about on a level with the bottom of the N of Ten. The wavy line below "Ten Cents" is cut away much as on the A relief. From careful consideration of the available data the writer believes the plate was transferred from a roller having two reliefs and that the B relief was altered on the roller after the ten full shells stamps had been rocked in from that relief.

At this time it would be well to correct an erroneous statement made by a former writer which might mislead any collector who chanced to read it. Any of us are likely to err at some time and so it

POSTAGE STAMPS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Reprints of the Pence Stamps.

The plates from which the pence stamps of New Brunswick were printed were retained by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon and Co. in London until late in 1899, when they were delivered to the Dominion Government. About a year later, in November, 1890, the Philatelic Record published the following:—

"It is with the utmost regret that we have to inform our readers that some of the early stamps of both these provinces (New Brunswick and Nova Scotia) have been reprinted. Copies of the reprints were obtained in New York by a member of the London Philatelic Society. They were exhibited at a recent meeting of the Society, and have been handed to us for description. All we have seen are on thin white wove paper tinged in some cases with the color of the impression but differing, fortunately, altogether from the originals. Of the New Brunswick the 3d is in bright vermilion, not unlike the color of the original; but the 6d is in bluish black, and the 1s in violet-black, so that they are not dangerous. . . . These are some of the very few examples known of British Colonial stamps being reprinted for sale and we think that a strong representation should be made to the authorities of the Colonies in question either to stop the reprinting altogether, or to have some distinctive mark cut upon the plates, so that the impressions may not be mistaken for originals."

Evidently these "strong representations" were made, for in the Monthly Journal for the following January is an extract from an official letter from the Post Office Department, Canada, stating that "no reprints of the obsolete issues of these provinces have been made by authority of this department, and that the Postmaster-General is not aware of their having been made at all." In commenting on this official statement, Major Evans observed, "What purported to be such reprints were exhibited at a recent meeting of the London Philatelic Society. They were handled by the members present, among whom was the writer of these words, and all agreed in believing them to be reprints. Moreover, they had been sent from New York, and the original plates are now on that side of the Atlantic. It now appears that if they are impressions from those plates, they have been printed surreptitiously."

There the matter rested for many years, for no further information was forthcoming. The reprints undoubtedly existed and while they were generally recognised as being exceedingly rare, nothing could be learned as to when or where they were printed or how many had been struck off. In 1908 Mr. J.

M. Bartels was fortunate in making a find of these reprints and many solving the mystery which had so long obscured them. We cannot do better than give his story as published in the Canadian Gazette for September, 1910, viz.—

"At the time the writer was living in a bachelor's hotel in Boston. Being engaged in some stamp work one evening several of the younger men happened to notice it and had something to say about stamps. One young Canadian, named Blair, after speaking of his collection stated that somewhere at home he had a lot of New Brunswick reprints, which, of course, had little or no value. At first it was apparent he referred to some rather common remainders of the cent values, but he was able to give a good description of the lot, stating that there were a number of sheets and he could undoubtedly obtain them. It was very difficult to convince him that they were of any value, and when a round sum was offered for the lot unseen, provided they were as described, he was very much surprised and immediately wrote to his brother to forward the stamps. As he happened to know the address of another stamp dealing concern, he communicated with them in the meantime, stating that he had some New Brunswick reprints, and asking what they were worth. This firm also believed that he referred to the common remainders of the later issue, and replied that they were pretty well stocked with the same, but might buy more if the the price was very low. A few days later the consignment arrived, and it was not many hours before we concluded the deal. The story of the find soon became known and immediately others were deeply interested. Several offers were made to acquire the entire lot from the purchaser at more than double the original price but all of these were declined. The letter, transmitting the reprints to the late A. G. Blair, at that time Minister of Railways and Canals at Ottawa, the father of our young friend, is published for the first time, and shows the exact quantity of sheets and specimens printed. It reads:—

OTTAWA, 21st June, 1897.

Dear Mr. Blair:—Some years ago when Mr. Haggard was Postmaster-General, he authorized a limited reprint of obsolete New Brunswick postage stamps. Of course, these reprints were perfectly worthless, both for postage and commercial purposes. Very few of them were given out to stamp collectors and the bulk of them have, up to the present, remained in our vaults. Similar reprints of Nova Scotia obsolete stamps were, some time ago, sent to Mr. —, and I think that the best thing that can be done with the New Brunswick reprints is to transfer them to you, which I now beg to do. From the above it will be seen that the lot consisted originally of five sheets of each value containing one hundred and sixty specimens each, or in all, eight hundred copies of each value.

It is quite evident from the above list that up to that time only following quantities had ever been distributed: 3d, 32; 6d, 30; and 1s, 84

These reprints were apparently made in 1890 and shortly afterwards the New Brunswick plates were destroyed at Ottawa together with the plates of many other obsolete British North American stamps.

CHAPTER IX.—Bogus and Counterfeit Stamps.

A history of the stamps of New Brunswick would hardly be complete without some mention of that bogus surcharge "1½d" on half of 3d, in regard to the existence of which so much circumstantial evidence was produced thirty years ago. In Monroe's catalogue for 1886 it was listed as a doubtful variety, while in September of that same year the Philatelic Record quoted from a St. John, N. B., paper as follows:—

"Having never before met with a similar stamp, and being unable to find any record on the subject, we had resorted to the P. O. D., and after persistent enquiries (for Post Office officials hard subjects to get over), we have succeeded in tracing it to its source, and have much pleasure in informing our readers that it is genuine in every sense of the word. It was improvised to serve on local or drop letters some time in 1860, and was prepared by the clerks of the postal department then located in Frederickton. The surcharging was done by hand, twice repeated upon the threepenny stamp, and were sold in this way—i. e. in pairs—the purchaser dividing them as required. We are informed, however, that very soon after their introduction the pence issues gave way to cents, thus rendering their further use unnecessary.

The Philatelic Record went to some trouble to finally fix the status of this troublesome variety which persisted in cropping up from time to time and was able to prove that the drop letter rate in Frederickton and St. John—the only towns in which letter carriers were employed—was 1d and not 1 1/2d and this 1d was paid in cash. There seems little doubt that this bogus variety was made by some enterprising postal clerk.

Counterfeits of all the stamps of New Brunswick are known but all we have seen have been such crude affairs, produced by lithography, that they would hardly deceive the veriest tyro. An early fake of the Connell stamp was described in the Stamp Collector's Magazine for February, 1864, but as this seems to have been merely an enlarged photographic reproduction, it could hardly be considered dangerous. A more disquieting forgery of this same stamp was described in the Monthly Journal for September, 1900, viz:—

"The paper and perforation are almost identical with those of the original, but the color is too weak and pale, the original always being found in a rich dark shade.

The design of the stamp has been wonderfully well copied, the most apparent differences being in the shape of the figures '5,' especially that on the upper left-hand side."

CHAPTER X.—Cancellations.

The cancellations found on the stamps of New Brunswick—like those of all early stamps—are very interesting. In the case of the pence issue the cancellation most frequently met with is an oval shaped gridiron with a numeral or numerals inside. These numbers run from 1 to 35 and perhaps higher, and so far nineteen have been definitely associated with certain post-offices, viz:—

1. St. John.
6. Edmundston.
8. Chatham.
10. W.O. Whites Cove.
11. Dorchester.
12. Edwardstown.

28. St. George.

HERMAN SCHMIDT (Est. 1893), 60 Nassau St., New York City

The other numbers are probably those of very small offices and the chance of finding covers that would give the proper clues to these is getting more and more remote.

On the cents issue a town dated cancellation was the usual form of obliteration. Stamps of this series are, generally speaking, so much scarcer used than unused that smudge and bar cancellations should be viewed with the greatest suspicion. Many of the remainder stamps were "cancelled" with a bogus mark by the Coombs boys mentioned in connection with the faked bisected 10c.

THE END.

NEW YORK MATCH CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

1c Vermilion.

This stamp differs from that of B. & H. D. Howard only in the change of firm name and in the color. It was used concurrently with the long green 1c New York Match Co. stamp for two and a half years and also with the Bauer & Beudel and the 1c blue New York Match stamp by the New York Match Co. for over a year. The records seem to show that from April, 1871, to June, 1872, all four of these 1c stamps were being used by the New York Match Co.

The Boston Book states:—
Die approved, July 31, 1869.
First issued, October, 1869.
Last issued, June, 1872.
9,531,750 issued on old paper.
123,500 issued on silk paper.

The coloring of this gem compares favorably with anything turned out by Nicholas F. Seebeck for use in Central America or in stamp collections. It is just simply gorgeous! The combination of one of the most striking designs engraved by the Philadelphia firm with the most brilliant color found in all the M & M stamps is well nigh—yes, entirely irresistible. Mr. Carpenter may well have considered it to be his masterpiece.

The Boston Book lists three shades:—orange vermilion on the thin paper; vermilion red on the thin and thick paper; scarlet vermilion on thin, thick, experimental silk and the full or regular silk paper of the second issue. There are certainly at least three distinct hues but the present writer is not at all certain the classification given is quite correct. Most of the stamps are found on a paper of medium thickness, which is rather soft and sometimes contains a very few very short silk fibres. There is also a thinner paper which is usually porous, and a thicker paper. All the many different papers used during the three years, 1869 to 1872, seem to have been used on this stamp, and with the different colorings quite a study for the specialist is presented. That is, it would be a fine field for intensive study if sufficient material was available. Perhaps a very rich and very patient collector could accumulate a hundred copies in a hundred years—just about! The old paper variety has been priced

$1 for 25 years. The silk paper was priced $7.50 until 1910, when it was raised to $10, which is high for the "ex" silk and low for the full silk. A really fine copy of the commonest shade on old paper is easily worth more than a dollar and almost any copy on full silk is cheap at $10. Just how rare the full silk variety is nobody seems to know, but it is often missing in collections that contain stamps supposed to be much rarer. A pair on old paper has been noted.

A TRIP TO WASHINGTON.

It was the privilege of the writer last week to make a hurried visit to Washington. In connection with business of a personal nature I was able through the courtesy of W. P. Colman to make calls upon the dealers of the city. I desire to publicly thank him for the favor shown. Two new Washington advertisers will henceforth be represented in our columns, H. F. Dunkhorst, the veteran dealer, being one of them. I have known Mr. Dunkhorst for a score of years and take great pleasure in introducing him to our subscribers. It was impossible for me to take the time necessary to call upon the numerous personal friends of the WEEKLY, with whom I should like to be better acquainted.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

New—A good many questions come to us about the locations of different of the new stamp issuing countries of Europe; and we advise collectors to have recourse to the maps that are now beginning to come from the printers. On them the limits of the new nations will be found and it is not easy to describe in text, geographical situations. For instance, we can only say that Cilicia is just north of Syria and the Mediterranean Sea and northwest of Cyprus, but seen on the map the boundaries become fixed in mind. It might be added that it is in this general section of the world that stamp issuing possibilities are most pronounced as Italy, France and Great Britain claim adjacent territory; and there are the "Hedjaz claims" in Syria. The new almanacs of the great daily newspapers may be consulted to advantage by the one seeking information as to European governmental positions.

Feasts—Now comes the time when collectors foregather at the table in attendance at the annual banquets of their local societies; and let loose a flood of oratory on topics dear to their hearts. Catalogues will be lambasted, dealers will be touched up and societies will be shown how their scope of usefulness may be enlarged; and the evening will wind up with high fraternal feeling and a flare of determination to carry the banner of philately to the topmost pinnacle.

and that of some of the countries abroad: "I received recently, on approval, a stamp catalogued by Scott at $7.00, for which my correspondent asked fifteen dollars. This stamp is catalogued in Y. & T. at 75 francs or fifteen dollars but is worth even more," he wrote Banks and express companies will forward funds to France at the rate of about 9 1/4 cents a franc. The Y. & T. quotation mentioned would be equal to only $6.94 American money, or 6 cents under Scott. An American express clerk told me of a very interesting experience along the line of foreign exchange. A young German woman laid down $25 at his window, and asked him to send 100 marks to her parents in Germany. He made the order for 1000 marks and it cost, fee and all, only $22.90. Our government recently announced the value of the German mark as 2 cents." Such are the fluctuations of "exchange" that we do not attempt to give the actual figures of the day. Several cases have been referred to us where a lot of stamps were ordered at the franc and mark prices quoted but the dealers declined to fill the orders at the heavy rate of exchange against them. Evidently some of these misunderstandings cannot be settled by ordinary rule and require "individual attention."

Major—We have received a line or two from Major John M. Holt, M. D., who is stationed at the Base Hospital, Camp Logan, Texas, who, you will remember, published Everybody's Philatelist for a number of years. He asks if we will use our good offices in behalf of a stamp collecting shut-in. We shall send the letter that was received from the shut-in to several of our readers who have asked for such names; and we have no doubt but that Elmer Rominger, Box 644, Bloomfield, Iowa, the shut-in, will be made aware that all of us have not passed him by without a nod.

Fun—"Why," asks an innocent bystander, does not some enterprising stamp paper install a joke column? We shall ignore the obvious and cynical retort and say that we have recollections of having foisted a good many years ago, several stamp columns in the papers, on the docile readers. The subscribers must have laughed themselves to death, as there were very few of them on hand at the finish of the journals. The old Springfield Philatelist particularly is on our conscience. About the best stamp quip that we remember is Edgar Nelson's, based on the premise that "half a stamp is better than none when it is a New Brunswick split provisional on the cover."

Original—Recently, we saw a registered cover that was sent about 1880, with the inscription, rubber-stamped: "Register." This slip takes its place with the "Oklohoma" postmark and the "One Dollar" on the counterfeit one dollar green, British Columbia and Vancouver's Island.

* * *

Query—A reader asks if a sun-dial is shown on any stamp. We do not recall a picture of this device on any of the postage stamps but we are not sufficiently acquainted with foreign revenues to attest as to them.

Break—A subscriber informs us that he immersed in benzine a used stamp of the 1886 issue of British Guiana only to find that "it cracked in two" when he handled it after the bath. If the regulation fluid was used, the stamp probably was chemicalized in some way or other before it was bathed.

Revenues—The reader who promised information about the special revenue stamp that was prepared to be used on liquors to be taken out of bond during an interregnum of the wets now says that his failure to report was due to the fact that the stamp was a tax paid and not something unusual as he thought it would be.

* * *

Shattered—A revenue stamp collector in telling of his adventures in collecting the wines and cordials stamps from the old containers says that some of the cents values are scarce, the 72 cent, for instance, but on the contrary, the $1.44 or double value is not. A batch of used stamps of this genus makes a mockery of the important question of condition.

Cards—We find that the most enthusiastic collector of playing card stamps from 1894 to date is a gentleman who eschews card games and he laments that he has to buy so many packs of cards to complete his line of surcharge varieties of recent times. In this connection, we have been handed a Manila paper cover of a size to easily enclose a pack of cards that bears the inscription in two lines in red: "Internal Revenue Paid—7 cents per pack."

Carrier—We have been shown by Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes, a pictorial envelope of the civil war period that bears in postmark form, the legend, "Adams Express Co." For a short time after the prohibition of postal communication between the north and the south several of the express companies carried letters by express between the two sections. Soon, an embargo was placed on the traffic and this method of postal interchange ceased.

to all those who wrote me about the correspondence recently published. The idea seems to have gotten abroad that I wrote both ends of it myself, but altho I may be capable of such a stunt, that time I was not guilty of it. A dealer friend of mine reports a similar experience with the same party but failed to equal my 80c score. He tackled a long want list and only 69c worth of the stamps were accepted. A few more sales like that would take the shoes and stockings right out of his children's mouths.

Only one collector roasted me for trying to conduct my business at a reasonable profit but as he did not value his own opinions highly enough to sign his name to them I don't think much of them—or him either.

If you haven't had a shot at the '47's and other fine U. S. on and off covers I am submitting to my customers, why don't you wake up before they're all gone? Many items I could not replace for twice my own prices.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. William J. Prinzing has recently sent for our inspection a block of 20 of the 1c green perf. 11, unwatermarked, showing the double or smudged impression. We described a similar find some time ago. As these double print engraved stamps have just begun to appear in late years, we are under the impression that these are caused by some mechanical imperfection in the press whereby the paper is moved for a short distance after it reaches the plate, giving the double or smudged impression. These, as well as the others which we have described before, are decidedly not double impressions in that the paper has gone through the press a second time.

Messrs. P. M. Mann and Eugene Klein have shown us the current 2c documentary with a distinct double print. We described this variety several weeks back, at which time two panes were found. To date the 1c, 2c, 3c and 40c have been found in the double print, and as these stamps are produced by the offset method, all values are quite likely to be found.

In looking over a lot of duplicate revenues, quite recently, of the 2c Liberty Head 5th issue, rouletted, Scott's number 3967 C, I was surprised to find a copy with a very distinct double print. This variety may have been located heretofore, but I do not recall it being mentioned in any publication that has come to my notice.

A careful study of the Civil War revenues would bring to light numerous varieties in the way of shifts, double prints, thick and thin paper, etc., and while we have had some wonderful articles written upon the subject, there is much left for one who will take the trouble to collect material and study it. There has been another find of the black error envelopes, that is the 3c black Die A on amber, but unfortunately these all were used with the exception of less than one package before being discovered. The find was made in Baltimore, and as there are but ten envelopes available specialists will probably want this variety showing the Baltimore government imprint in the upper left corner. Coming from two sources leads one to believe that there was probably a day's run or more in the case of this error envelope.

AZORES.—The Stamp Lover calls attention to the fact that the following new values have appeared on the current stamps of Portugal, overprinted "ACORES" in black, on white wove paper, perforated 15x14 with no watermark.
3½ centavos, yellow green.
4 centavos, yellow green.

The stamps are surface printed and overprinted at Lisbon Mint.

BELGIUM.—Adj. Henry Hooreman has shown us specimens of the new 5, 20, 25, 35, 40c and 10fr in Helmet design. They were issued in Brussels on COOK ISLANDS.—We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for showing us a copy of the 2d violet brown stamp perforated 15x14 on chalky paper.

CZECHO-SLOVAK.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 5, 15, 20, 50, 60h and 1kr stamps of Austria surcharged POSTA CESHOSLOVENSKA 1919 diagonally in three lines and advise us that it is a Charity issue.

ESTHONIA.—The Stamp Lover chronicles the appearance of the following values of a Bolshevik issue for this country.

1919, 5 kopecs, yellow-orange.
35 " red.
40 " brown.
50 " blue.
1 rouble, black.
3 roubles, violet.
10 " crimson-lake.

FINLAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. has submitted for our inspection a copy of the current 25p stamp surcharged "50" in the center of stamp and also over the figures of value at both sides of the lower part of the stamp. The surcharge of the latter is in smaller figures and that of the center and all are printed in black.

GERMANY.—The Economist Stamp Co. have sent us for chronicle the 15pf stamp of the usual type of a gray lilac color.

The Stamp Lover prints the following information regarding the Aerial Post stamps of this country. Two different designs on white wove paper. No watermark. Perforated 14½x14. Surface-printed:—10pf orange, 40pf green.

GIBRALTAR.—Mr. H. C. Downing points out that we have not yet recorded the new "deep" shade of grey in which many of the Colonial 2d stamps are now appearing. He kindly submits, as examples, the 2d values of Gibraltar and Malta, the latest shade of which is certainly the most conspicuous yet seen in this denomination.—Stamp Collecting.

MEXICO.—We are informed that the 5 pesos, green and black, of the current series has recently been withdrawn from the post offices. The remaining stock, after having been surcharged with a figure "5" on the back of each stamp, is being used for prepayment of parcels of newspapers shipped in bulk, the stamp being attached to the Post Office receipt forms, which are retained by the postal authorities.—Stamp Collecting.

NETHERLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us copies of the 30c value with two different overprints. One is ZESTIG at the top with CENT at the bottom. The other, WEERTIG, at the top, and the same as the former one at the bottom. The former stamp is surcharged in black, while the latter is in red.

NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following values with the new corrected setting of the overprint:—1d red, 2d grey.

SALVADOR.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us that the 17c No. 437, has been surcharged in two lines

NEWS ITEMS.

It is reported from Paris that the current "E. E. F." series is to be brought into use by the post offices in Syria, with the addition of a special overprint.

The current Finnish postage stamps from 5 penni to 10 marks have been overprinted, "AUNUS" in the town of that name, in Olonets (N. W. Russia) by the Finnish military forces engaged in fighting the Bolsheviks.

During the eight days plebiscite in Schleswig ordained by the Paris Conference, a special series of postage stamps will be brought into use. The design will show the Arms of Central Jutland (two lines) and the inscriptions read "Plebiscite Vote. du peuple." Values, 10, 20 pig, and 1 mark.

Three London newspapers now publish a regular weekly article for stamp collectors, viz., The Times, Daily Telegraph, and The Daily Express. Surely a high tribute to the widespread popularity and human interest of the hobby.

Overprinted New Zealand postage stamps are no longer supplied for use in the Pacific Islands of AITUTAKI, NIUE, PENRHYN ISLANDS, SA-MOA and RARATONGA. The new general issue for New Zealand will be available equally in the Dependencies.
All overprinted local issues are therefore obsolete.

The King's collection of Heligoland was shown before the Royal Philatelic Society on October 16th.

A Stamp Exhibition and Philatelic Congress was held at Turin last month, under the patronage of Queen Elena of Italy, herself one of the most enthusiastic of Royal philatelists. There was a special class for war stamps.

Haut-Volta is the name of a new French West African colony where stamps will be issued at an early date.

The precise nature of the political interests held by Poland in the Near East is not altogether apparent. However, letters may, it seems, be forwarded through the agency of the Polish Consulates in Constantinople and elsewhere, and special stamps have been provided in the form of the contemporary Polish series from 3 fen to 5 marks, overprinted
"LEVANT" in Red roman capitals.

Turkey is shortly to have a new issue of postage stamps printed in London, as in the case of the 1914 pictorial series.
The designs have been prepared by Fuad Bey, who was responsible for those of the Hedjaz stamps.—*West End Phi-

A MAN WITH A STAMP.

By DRUMMOND SHARPE.

Strange are the ways of a man with a maid,
And stranger still with a horse, 'tis say'd;
But for ways that are curious and sticky
and damp, Commend me the ways of a man with a stamp.

Doubtless, the curious way of the man who sold me a carefully patched and painted "full-face queen" as a "perfect beauty," is responsible for the outbreak of that alleged rhyme; but perhaps the ways that are sticky or damp should be considered first, for as a rule they belong chiefly to our earliest experience.
In those days a stamp is a thing to initiate in cleanly habits by a thorough washing, which certainly will remove all foreign substance from its back, and then to be fastened securely in a book by a liberal application of gum or paste.
Often the stamps are stuck down firm and flat, and then pressed firmer and flatter with what was once a nice clean handkerchief; and afterwards the young collector feels himself entitled to a pleasant meditation, "Now, let me see anybody who can get those out. I dare him!" Of course, nobody can or does get them out, unless their owner may think they should be placed elsewhere, when generally the process of removal means ragged holes in the album page, and the soaking and sticking-down work is vigorously repeated. It is just within the bounds of possibility that the stamps remain in their first positions until the album passes into the possession of older hands, and then—if they are early issues—there is quite a sporting sort of hunt for "no watermarks," and old
"C.C.'s." Here the elements of luck or chance have ample scope, and the discovery of rarities may make the acquisition of some battered old album
the great event of a collector's year.

It occurs that I may have maligned the young philatelist by crediting the truly-washing treatment to his account, for the greatest offender in this way was one of a certain age, who announced his intention of "going in for stamps," and as a beginning bought a large parcel of good, unsoaked specimens, at a longish price.

"I must give these a bath," he said,
"and if you could look in this evening
you might give me a hand to sort them"; and as I gathered, this was his method, literally. He turned on both bath taps and tipped the whole parcel in, stirring them well under the streams of hot and cold, and then leaving all to soak at their own sweet will. In the evening I found him fishing for them with some success, long rows lay across the floor, and face downward upon the edges of the bath, but in what a state!
"They come off the paper very well now," he assured me, "all except a few corners here or there," and so they had:
Russians almost deprived of colour, lilac or mauve tinted Colonials turned purple-

red. Well, he never did much good with his collection, except in providing me with a shining example of what not to do.

By the way, anent the so-called "blue variety" of the English half-penny, green, 1900, stamp: Several copies recently have been offered to me "cheap at sixpence. They were good enough copies of their kind, certainly; still, I find that the cheapest and easiest method of obtaining this "variety" is to soak the ordinary green stamp in nice clean cold water, and take it out again directly it has attained the desired shade of blue.
It is quite interesting to watch the change of colour, and to think of how matters might have been far otherwise, and cost you a whole sixpence.

Now, I wonder if a few lines conveying information would go amiss. I am going to notice a few ways that may not be known generally, but at the same time are certainly legitimate methods of treating specimens appearing to need first-aid of sorts. Of course, it is not a legitimate thing to take out the ink-marks of stamps which have done duty on receipt forms, and even if I happen to know how, I am not going to say; but if you have stamps with greasy-looking postmarks, which have spread and spoiled their appearance, it is quite proper to clean up some of the mess, like this: A mixture of pure alcohol and Venice turpentine in equal quantities is applied to the stamp, which is then exposed to the sunlight. The mixture will absorb the oily stains, and a washing, first in alcohol and then in benzine, will remove all traces of the turpentine.

Again, if you have specimens that are disfigured by creases, particularly unused stamps, on which a crease will often turn into a crack if you do not cure it, the crease may be removed with the least injury to the gum by laying the stamp face downwards on blotting-paper and painting along the crease with a fine-pointed brush dipped in benzine. This moistens and swells the gum, when you can press the crease flat with some smooth object like an ivory paper knife. To remove a large crease, it may be necessary to iron the stamp, which, before the iron is applied, should be placed between a couple of glazed cards.

Stamps discoloured by immersion in water cannot be brought back to their original colour; but in many cases the discolouration is due to exposure. The action of the atmosphere on certain colours, such as vermilion and ultramarine, will sometimes turn them wholly or partly black through sulphurisation, and this can be remedied by the application of peroxide of hydrogen, very easily to be obtained from a chemist.
The early red penny stamps of Great Britain often show this chemical change, and when the loss of colour is only local, it can be remedied by painting with a soft brush, but in obstinate cases the stamp may be soaked in the peroxide, and removed as soon as the blackening has vanished.

When writing that heading, "A man with a stamp," I surely must have meant that it should include a woman;
and though in a natural and proper course the lady first should have received attention, still, possibly it is not too late. I must not forget the dear kind lady who sent me a blue Straits Settlements stamp, which would have been a perfect used specimen only for the fact that one side of it was clipped, apparently with scissors. Meeting her that same day, I tendered thanks, but somehow the gratitude part was overdone, and presently I listened wonder-ingly to her confession: Oh, if I had only known that cutting away such a little piece would matter. I had two of them, but I thought that two of the same sort would be of no use to you, so I just snipped one of them off." She thought, in fact, that two of the same sort would bore me. Yes, my base ingratitude brought me the second stamp safely, made just a little bit more than perfect by the piece belonging to its ill-treated pair.—*Australian Stamp Jour-

UNITED STATES 10c 1857-60—Continued from Page 35.

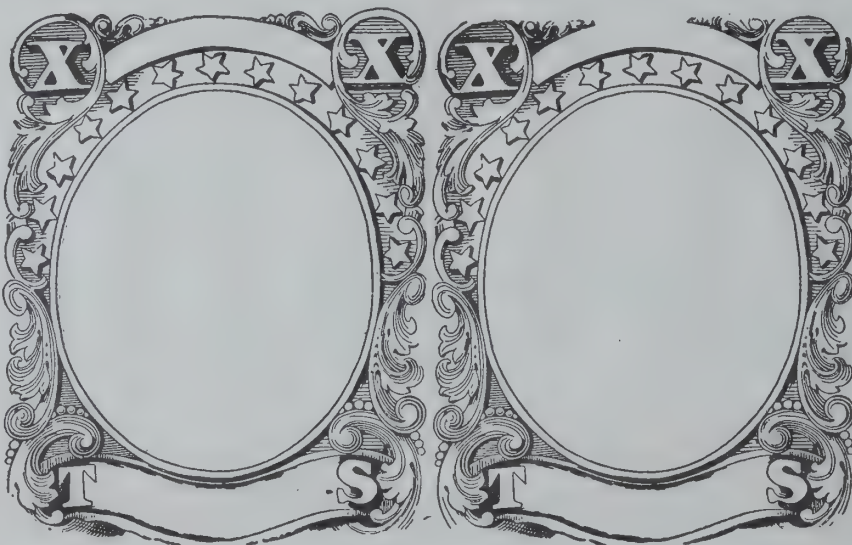

Plate No. 1—Relief A
 (Scott, Type I; Stevenson, Type II-A)

Plate No. 1—Relief B
 (Scott, Type I; Stevenson, Type II-B)

behooves all of us to take a charitable attitude toward each other's mistakes.
 The error was the natural result of an attempt by a writer who had not given the subject careful study to correct the work of one who had studied deeply.

Stevenson satisfied himself that the full shells stamps occur only in the bottom row of the left pane on the first plate and all the evidence available points to the truth of this theory. For instance, the full shells stamps never show sheet margins at the top; never show part of another stamp below; are always the bottom stamp and only the bottom stamp when found in a vertical pair or strip; and when they occur in a horizontal pair or strip every other stamp in the multiple also has the full shells. Also, they sometimes show the bottom sheet margin. The present writer's own reference collection contains an imperforate full shells with such large margins at left and bottom that it must be the lower left corner stamp of the sheet—No. 91 L. All the bottom row stamps on the plate, however, are not full shells, as some stamps showing the bottom sheet margin have the shells cut away. These are assigned to the lower row of the right pane. All this evidence points to the conclusion Stevenson reached—the full shells stamps comprise the bottom row of the left pane.

The other writer, to whom reference is made, denied the truth of Stevenson's conclusions and supported his own contentation by referring to a block of imperforate 10c stamps, all of which, according to his statement, had full shells.
 After some search the present writer succeeded in locating this block and borrowed it for examination. It is not at all what was claimed for it, and, in fact, is not a block of stamps. It is a block of proofs on a rather porous wove paper about the thickness of the paper used for the 10c stamps, and was printed from the reprint plate of 1875! On the reprint plate all the stamp designs have absolutely complete full shells and are different from the so-called "full shells" stamps of 1855-60 and from any other stamp designs on either of the two plates used for the regularly issued 10c stamps. For his own protection the reader should note that any 10c green of 1855-60 on which the side ornaments, (pearls, etc.), and shells are absolutely complete, may be a proof or a reprint but cannot be a genuine specimen of one of the ten scarce stamps from the bottom row of the left pane of plate

 No. 1.

PHILATELY AS A SCIENCE.

"The Scientific Aspect of Philately" was the title of a paper read before the Philatelic Section of the Maryland Academy of Science, Baltimore, Md., by the chairman of the section, C. Lat.
 Wilhelm, at the regular meeting held at the Academy Friday night, Dec. 26.

Mr. Wilhelm spoke as follows:

"I have been impelled to the preparation of this paper mainly by two reasons—one, that the high standing to which our pursuit has attained justifies it; the other, that I feel such a paper should be read here in the hall of the Maryland Academy of Sciences, the first academic institution in the world to recognize the scientific aspect of philately by sanctioning the formation of a philatelic section.

"I do not claim for philately that it is a science, I do claim for it that it is closely related to some of the sciences, especially history and geography, also with the arts, that it meets some of the definitions of a science.

"Science, in the general definition of the word, is first, knowledge gained and verified by exact observation and correct thinking, knowledge obtained individually by study of facts; secondly, department of knowledge in which the results of investigation have been worked out and systematized.

"How does philately meet these requirements?

"Philately fully meets the first definition. The vast information availab-about philately has been gained by exact observation and correct thinking.

Philately, it should be remembered,

must be differentiated from mere stamp collecting, yet it is to the first collector

that we owe the subsequent student.

the philatelists. Collecting led to the desire to obtain knowledge about stamp issues and this quest after knowledge laid the foundation for the present scientific aspect of stamp collecting, that is, philately, the earnest and exact investigation of all the phases of the printing, history and other features of postal and fiscal stamp issues. These researches have been checked, verified

by exact observation of other philatelists, and from them has come information hitherto unknown about the stamp issues of the world, thus addinto the historical stores of the nation.

The result of this immense research work is philatelic knowledge gained and verified by exact observation.

"This brings us to the second definition of science, and philately al-meets it. Philately has chartered the unknown stamp fields of the world laying out definite routes and plans

by which the collector of today may stud-

his stamps with understanding.

"Philately is, 'a department of knowledge of the postal and fiscal stamp issues of the world in which the results of investigation have been worked out and systematized.' It is the advanced collector, the philatelist, who from his delving into the stamp history of the world has developed a department of knowledge, philately, which presents in concrete form, extensive ar-illuminating information about postal and fiscal history of the nations. It is a department of knowledge in which the results of investigation have been

AIR MAIL FIFTY YEARS OLD IN 1920.

The fiftieth anniversary of aerial mail transport falls in September, 1920, for it was in 1870 that letters were carried out of beleaguered Paris by free balloons. In 1911 demonstrations of airplane mail service were made in India, England and the United States.

The first aircraft mail service in the United States was conducted at the aviation meeting at Nassau Boulevard, L. I., during the week of September 23-30, 1911. Earle L. Ovington, with a Queen monoplane, Indiana-engined, was appointed air mail carrier and covered a set route between regularly established post offices for a period of seven days. Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock arranged a municipal collection system on the Nassau Boulevard grounds and an inspector saw to the stamping in a tent. The trips were made between Nassau Boulevard and the Post Office at Mineola. 32,415 post cards and 3,993 letters and 1,062 circulars were carried.

Airplane Mail Service under the U. S. Post Office has been in operation daily except Sunday between New York and Washington for over eighteen months; and between New York and Chicago daily for over six months. Today the Air Mail Service of the Post Office Department of the United States has planes in the air daily, covering a total of 1,906 miles of territory and carrying an aggregate of 2,100 pounds of mail.

The Post Office Department inaugurated the present aerial Mail Transportation Service on May 15, 1918. The service was originally conducted by the war department in connection with its work of training aviators for the war. The service continued under military direction until August 10, 1918, when it was taken over by the Post Office Department and operated by an entirely civilian organization.

At the time of the establishment of the Aerial Mail Service only a few Curtiss JN4H army training planes with a capacity of 200 pounds or less were being used. The signing of the armis-

the and the cessation of hostilities caused to be made available to the Postoffice department quite a number of DH4 planes, which made it possible to increase the mail route to 400 pounds. However, as these planes were originally designed for war purposes, it was decided to modify them, and the aeronautical engineers in the postoffice service co-ordinated with manufacturing establishments and developed a strong and powerful plane which could still maintain all the excellent flying qualities of the DH4 machine. The changes constituted a greatly strengthened landing gear, fuselage re-inforcement, a transposition of cockpit and cargo compartments.

It was found, however, that in order to insure reliability in performance of scheduled trips and to provide for larger mail dispatches, it required larger and multi-motored ships. The department promptly set about to design and has constructed fourteen multi-motored aeroplanes upon plans evolved by its own engineers and embodying suggestions from manufacturers and other aeronautical sources. Six of these are of the Martin bomber type, four of Thomas-Morse construction and four under construction by the L. W. F. Engineering company.

On November 8, 1919, the first of the fourteen specially constructed planes, with a mail carrying capacity of 1,500 pounds, was delivered to the Postoffice department and flown on its trial trip with 1,000 pounds of letters from Cleveland to New York.

An interesting feature in connection with the airplane mail service is the fact that on May 15, 1919, the anniversary of the inauguration of the service, the two airplanes that took to the air on this anniversary, one leaving Washington and one leaving New York, were the same that carried the mail a year before and had been constantly in the service with the same motors. In addition to the six planes with which the service was inaugurated and which were in operation on June 30, 1919, there were forty-two planes in service on the two routes in operation on that date, namely, between Washington and New York, and Cleveland and Chicago—forty-eight in all. On December 1 there were ninety planes in service.

PICTORIAL SET OF MOZAMBIQUE.

By DEREK INGRAM.

A little brochure just received gives me an excuse to point out once again the vast possibilities of a postage stamp for educating and informing the world at large. The Directors of the Mozambique Company, recognizing this, issued in December last a veritable gallery of "scraps of paper," each depicting one or other of that territory's industries, and thus spreading abroad a visual reminder of the wonderful natural wealth and trade possibilities of Mozambique. In this new issue the Directors have availed themselves of the progress in methods of artistic and high-class modern engraving to obtain adequate security in the execution of the stamps. The crude typographed stamps current from 1894 to 1918 have given place to a complete series, of varied designs, and specially selected colour combinations, engraved in intaglio, which will, in the opinion of the Company's advisers, render the postage stamps as secure from imitation as the best bank-note productions.

These pictorial stamps are slightly smaller than those heretofore in currency; the designs have been chosen from the official collection of photographic subjects illustrating the flora, fauna, and scenery of the country, with especial reference to the agricultural and industrial resources which have contributed so much to the prosperity of the territories administered by the Company. The photographs engraved as vignettes, within artistic frames, are masterpieces of miniature engraving. They have been engraved in the ateliers of Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., London, in whose works the new stamps were printed.

On the first value of the series, the 1/4 centavo, we have the picture of native "palhotas," with a nigger introduced as a specimen of the type of manhood resident in those parts. Probably quite a number of my readers have spent a pleasant night under a tent, but I doubt whether they would sleep peacefully under the "palhotas," at any rate in its accustomed surroundings, for they would have to be prepared for mosquitoes, termites, tsetse flies, and numerous other pests of the air, besides an occasional visit from a chimpanzee, a gorilla and other monkeys; while a hyena, a leopard, an elephant, and even the king of the forest himself, might pay a call.

IVORY AND MAIZE.

On the next denomination of the Mozambique stamps—the 1/2 centavo—we have a picture of a native standing between two huge tusks of ivory, with other giant souvenirs of Jumbo in front of him. Ivory was formerly one of the principal exports of Portuguese East Africa, but it is now much scarcer, as the big game hunters have thinned out the herds of elephants—animals which might have been trained to the service of man, as they have been very largely in India.

The 1 centavo stamp has the picture of a field of maize, with the Portuguese word milho (maize). Here we see the giant grass in its true tropical beauty, for in Mozambique maize grows to a height of 11 feet—almost twice the height of an average-sized man. We see also the beautiful tasselled male flowers, the female flowers, which develop the "cobs," being found close to the central axils of the leaves below. In the lower corners of the stamp one of these cobs is shown; probably you have tried and appreciated the English variety of these, for they are a nice little delicacy when roasted.

RUBBER AND SUGAR.

The great demand for rubber makes the 1 1/2 centavo pictorial stamp of Mozambique of more than passing interest. A native is shown standing by a rubber tree and collecting from it the milky juice, which afterwards becomes rubber, in a tin cup. He has apparently just made the necessary incision in the bark, and all he has then to do is to fill the cup with the liquid. The latter soon coagulates, or curdles, on exposure to the air. Afterwards the crude rubber is boiled with water and then repeatedly passed between grooved rollers, where the dirt and sand are washed out. Subsequently the rubber is dried, ground, compounded, calendered and water-proofed, the complete process being too lengthy for description here.

Two more important industries of Mozambique are represented in this wonderfully interesting set of stamps—viz., tanning, shown on the 40 centavo, and cattle-farming, on the 50 centavo. The highest value of the series reproduces the Arms of the Mozambique Company, which device had previously been used for the majority of the postage stamps of their territory.—Stamp Collecting.

Who said sugar? That sweet tooth of ours is tempted by the 2 centavos Mozambique stamp, which has on it the word Acucar—Portuguese for "sugar"—and underneath it a view of a big factory. The design is so well drawn that we may in imagination transport ourselves to the refinery which yields a good deal of the ten million tons of sugar which the world produces annually. But perhaps we had better not linger over this stamp too long, for fear we grow too inquisitive about all that sugar!

FRUIT AND FABRICS.

The next picture in our stamp gallery is of the River Buzi, and the succeeding one—5 centavos—the town of Beira, the capital of the territories administered by the Mozambique Company. The 7 1/2 centavos stamp depicts an orange tree; this is an interesting stamp, from a historical point of view as well as in regard to what it teaches us of one of the Colony's products, for the Portuguese, to whom Mozambique belongs, were the first to introduce oranges into Europe, in the year 1547.

Orange trees reach a great age, often a hundred and fifty years or more, and a tree in full bearing often yields from ten to twelve thousand fruits in a year. The beautiful tree shown on the stamp before us is simply crowded with the juicy globes. Appropriately enough, this label is printed in orange.

Growing cotton is shown on the 8 centavos stamp, the cultivation of that being one of the greatest commercial successes of Mozambique. The 10 centavos stamp is inscribed Sisal, meaning "hemp," which erect plant is used alongside the figure of a man, there for the sake of comparison. The square stem and the tapering leaves are early shown.

15 centavos stamp has a picture of the Beira Railway, with a goods train running through the timber forest. The 20 centavos one portrays the "Tribunal," or Courts of Justice, at Beira. On the 30 centavos stamp we have a huge over-hanging cocoanut tree representing the Colony's important export of copra, which word we find below the view. Copra, which is the native and commercial name for the dried kernel of the coco, or cocoanut, is valuable for the oil which it contains.

H. F. COLMAN, 2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

EUROPA, NOVA.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

The stamps of the New Europe fall naturally into three groups, all occupation stamps of whatsoever nature being excluded from this category. These groups represent the fragments into which three great empires have burst, and the war is not alone responsible for the disruption which has evolved these fragments.

Germany, the most strongly centralized, as to government, of the former empires, has given rise to but few new states, and those are but quasi-independent, quasi-republics. Austro-Hungary has burst into five or six moieties, but the realm of the Tsars furnishes the best example of decentralization.

Bolshevism is largely responsible for the appearance of so many new things from Russia: a dozen provinces have set up governments of their own in an attempt to banish Bolshevism and Bolsheviks, and the fight for existence still goes on in several of them. In order to understand the extent of this movement, a list of the newly-created nations follows:

RUSSIA. — Batoum (Transcaucasia), Don Cossack Repub. (So. Russia), Esthonia, Finland, Georgia, Kuban Repub. (No. Caucasia), Latvija (Lettonia, Livonie, Lettland), Lietuvos (Lithuania, Litauen), Poland, So. Lithuania (White Russia), Ukrainia and West Ukrainia.

Several of these provinces, like Poland, Finland and Esthonia, would have established their independence under any conditions possible, but most of the others, it is safe to say, would not have fallen away except for the necessity of combatting the Bolsheviks.

Poland and West Ukrainia are made up partly of Russian, partly of Austrian fragments, and the former empire of the Hapsburgs has in addition produced the following:

AUSTRO-HUNGARY. — German Austria, Bohemia (Czecho-Slovakia), Hungary Republic, Jugo-Slavia (S. H. S.) and Fiume.

Germany has given us only the new republics of Bavaria and Wurtemberg. For a collector to expect to acquire all the issues of these "succession states," as they are called in Germany and Austria, is an utterly impossible undertaking. He should confine his efforts to one country, or one group. Some countries can be completed with ease, but others would require a lifetime of endeavor.

Undoubtedly the first of the new states to issue stamps was Jugo-Slavia, the Zagreb issue inscribed 29 Listopada (29 October) having been emitted November 29. There were 15,000 complete sets of these stamps, and they are scarce at $20 a set. Jugo-Slavia, or "S. H. S.," as it is beginning to be called in magazine and newspaper articles, consists of several provinces which constitute the "Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes," allied south Slavic races inhabiting Montenegro, Serbia, Croatia (Hrvatska), Dalmatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Slavonia and Carniola or Krain. The various provinces have issued stamps, all of which apparently are valid anywhere, as the writer has received letters bearing stamps of both the Carniolan (chain-breaker) and Bosnian issues, and again, Croatian (sailor type: S. H. S. on Hungary) and Bosnian emissions. But Serbia has produced a new set of stamps, so it is likely that the S. H. S. issues are not used within the boundaries of Serbia proper, nor Serbian issues outside those limits.

The Bosnian issues are overprinted in both Roman and Cyrillic type, the latter, invented by Cyril, the Slavic apostle, being the source of the Russian alphabet, which is a modification of the Cyrillic. The two inscriptions are exactly parallel, and read DRZAVA S. H. S.—Bosna i Hercegovina, meaning "State (or dominion) of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes — Bosnia and Herzegovina." The word Kraljevstvo, found on later issues, means "Kingdom," Kral being the Slavic word for king. This word may be seen on the 1915 issue of Serbia, picturing "Kral Petar" on the battlefield. The "C. X. C." overprints are the same as S. H. S.; Cyrillic letters instead of Roman.

Czecho-Slovakia, or more conveniently Bohemia, has been much more circumspect in producing new issues. The original type, picturing the Hradschin of Prague, comparable in some ways to the Kremlin of Moscow, is still in use. The design has been altered and redrawn several times, but remains essentially the same. Mucha, one of the greatest living poster artists, and the creator of "The Four Seasons," produced the design, but being surface-printed, they appear to little advantage. A set of newspaper stamps and two sets of postage dues comprise the regular government issues to October, 1918, when a most attractive set of commemorative stamps appeared. These mark the anniversary of the overthrow of the Austrian government, and the money received from their sale is devoted to the orphans of Czech soldiers in the armies of the Allies. The lower values picture a lion bursting his chains; the higher values, which look like photographs, depict a mother and child. The designs are by Bobrovsky, director of the Academy of Fine Arts, Prague.

A few dollars will buy all the varieties of Bohemian stamps, about 50 in number. But this does not embrace all the more-or-less doubtful issues, private speculations, and local issues made before the regular government emission. These local issues would undoubtedly make $100 look small, and would be of dubious value when acquired.

Hungary as a republic has not produced anything unusual, outside of an immense crop of surcharges, except the Bela Kun issue, showing the portraits of his crew of Bolsheviks. The stamps appear to have come from sixteenth-century book of "Who's Who in Artistic Homicide." The inscription "Magyar Tanacs Koztarsasag" means "Hungarian Soviet Republic." The stamps of the old reaper type with "Koztarsasag" surcharge have been made democratic thereby, "Koztarsasag", which is pronounced as if it had several more letters in it, being the Magyar word for Republic.

Due to lack of postage dues in many cities, many local surcharges have been made, the regular postage stamps being overprinted with "P" (for porto) or "T" (for taxe) the letter being enclosed in a circle, triangle, etc., or the word "Porto" has been overprinted, sometimes with figure of value. As there are about 30 of these provisional sets, there is sufficient opportunity for specialization.

German Austria has behaved remarkably well: only the current set of Austria overprinted "Deutschosterreich" and one issue of permanent stamps from 3 heller to 1 Krone.

Collectors will do well to avoid the so-called "revolutionary" and "Tyrol" issues, which appeared in Knittelfeld and Innsbruck respectively. In addition to being unofficial, these stamps have been extensively faked.

Lietuvos, or Lithuania, issued its first provisional stamps the 27th of December, 1918. These are type-set, all values are black, and decidedly scarce. Two other type-set issues were made before a "permanent" set appeared, and these type-and-rule sets are exceedingly interesting because all seven values were printed in one sheet, so that it is possible to get blocks of four which show stamps of four values, for instance, 10, 15, 40 and 50; 15, 20, 50 and 60; 20, 30, 60 and 60, there being two types of the 60 skatiku.

After the type-sets appeared, the regular issue showing the arms of Lithuania—St. George on his charger. This issue appeared on colored papers with silk fibres, on watermarked white paper and finally in entirely different shades. All the stamps of Lithuania are perforated, the type-sets 11½, the others various compounds, as 11½x12½, 14x14½, etc. Fifty-four varieties of stamps have been issued, which would very likely cost $50.

South Lithuania, or White Russia, has issued a few stamps, made by surcharging Russian stamps of the 1908-11 issue in Lithuanian and Russian. All have a face value of 50 skatiku, and the set of 8 costs about $75.

But of all the successors to the former Romanoff and Hapsburg Empires, Poland has produced the greatest variety of issues. Counting all the local issues made by overprinting Austrian stamps with town names, POCZTA

POLSKA, POLSKA, and the Polish Eagle, as well as NA SKARB NARODOWNY, there are several hundred Polish stamps. Brzeziny, Mlawka, Skier-niowice and Wloclawek, to mention only a few, produced stamps of this character. In addition, there are many local issues which were produced during the war; some did postal duty for a short time, and then were used only with German Occupation stamps. The Warsaw issues are of this type. Przedborz was permitted by the Austrians to operate its own postoffice, and issued 18 different stamps, most of which are quite scarce. Bialystok, Luboml and Sosnowice, to mention others, also had their own offices, and these stamps should probably be considered in the same light as Russian locals.

The general issues of the Polish government are legion themselves. Gen. Gouv. Warschau were overprinted POCZTA POLSKA and in doing so, a fine series of nearly 100 errors of type, spelling, etc., was made. But the first general issue was produced by surcharging four stamps which had been prepared for the Warsaw local post, but were suppressed by the Germans.

A permanent issue showing the white eagle of Poland for the low values, and a peasant plowing for the higher ones, appeared perf. and imperf. The values are in Marks and fenigow. A splendid commemorative issue is the present one showing portraits of Paderewski, Pilsudski and Trampcznski.

All the foregoing were issued in German Poland. The portion occupied by the Austrians treated the Austrian issues in similar manner when the Austrians were expelled, and we have many POCZTA POLSKA issues on Austrian Feldpost, Austria, Karlsfond, etc. The values are expressed in Kronen and halerzy, corresponding to Austrian coin. The Cracow Parliament issue appeared without gum, but glue was provided so that the stamps might be properly attached. Those dealers who have sold this set with full original gum will have some explaining to do!

In 1918 a fine series of stamps was prepared, but never issued. They are inscribed KROLESTWO POLSKIE, or Kingdom of Poland. These essays have been sold here for a few dollars a set. Another group of stamps of doubtful character are the Polish Legionistom POLSKIM at top are only private charity stamps. The others apparently have little official character.

From the foregoing it will be seen that there is no lack of opportunity, no scarcity of material, for the collector of new Europe. New issues are arriving with startling frequency, and it will be some time before affairs are so settled that the new governments have something more important as a revenue producer than postage stamps. At present there are about 4000 varieties of Neurope, excluding absolutely all occupation stamps, or war stamps issued by countries which existed before the war, so that the man who has his desires centred on the stamps of the New Europe, has a future behind him, if he never buys a single stamp issued after January 1, 1920!

(PRINTER'S NOTE.—The following portion of this article should be inserted immediately following paragraph four column two on page 47 of this issue.)

Fiume, now alleged to be annexed to Italy, is responsible for a large number of surcharges on Hungary, many of which are very rare, the 10kr having been issued to the extent of 669. Forgeries are numerous, and the Fiume postmark has also been faked in order to make "original covers."

The permanent issues, very poorly produced, show that philatelic atrocities may be committed. It would doubtless have been possible to worry along without 5-crown and 10-crown stamps, and it might also have been possible to get past without cancelling them to order. Not content with this, the "authorities" of Fiume perpetrated the "Pro Fondazione Studio" set, with an added value of five lire on each stamp, for the alleged purpose of sending students to Rome. The design of the lower values has for its central motif the Romulus-Remus-Wolf group, emblematic of stamp collectors who purchase the set. Recently, in order to vend these stamps at their nominal value, a surcharge has been applied, "Valore Globale . . ." indicating value according to face.

Another stamp of special character is the "Dr. Grossich Fund" stamp, sold at an added price of 2 lire. The portrait of the doctor appears, and the stamp reminds one strongly of the old "M. & M's."

Bavaria surcharged her stamps "Volkstaat" at first, indicating "Republic" or literally, "People's State." The next issue saw this changed to "Freistaat", literally, "Independent State." It's a well known fact that the Bavarians don't like the Prussian, and possibly the "Volkstaat" overprint was not considered quite suggestive enough. At any rate, the surcharging of stamps of the German Empire with "Freistaat Bayern" should be sufficiently suggestive of Bavarian ideas. Wurttemberg likewise has produced republican stamps by surcharging the two existing sets of officials "Volksstaat Württemberg."

But it is in the Russian fragments that the greatest variety and confusion exists. Ukraina alone has produced over a thousand varieties of surcharges. These consist of endless variations of the trident-like design which is the emblem of Ukrainian authority. This design is said to be a conventionalization of the dove of St. Vladimir, and in some of its forms bears considerable resemblance to a pigeon in flight. Following the trident surcharges came a regular issue inscribed "Ukrainska Narodna Respublika"—Ukrainian People's Republic. In addition, several of these were issued as money stamps with the inscription "Chodeta narivni z dzvinkoyu mone-toyu" on the reverse. This freely translated means "Has the circulating value of money."

West Ukraine, another "successor" to both Russia and Austria, has used the hetman design, also, but in colorless outline on a black shield, surcharged on Austrian stamps, the initials "Z. U. N. R." occupying the corners of the stamp. The letters stand for "Zapadnaya Ukrain-ska Narodna Respublika"—West Ukrainian People's Republic. This surcharge is said to have been made in Vienna. The set is worth about $10 for all 19 varieties.

Batoum, an important oil port of Transcaucasia, has issued a set of stamps, no doubt urgently necessary on account of the extreme isolation and commercial importance of the city. These stamps are imperforate, picture an aloe tree, and are inscribed merely "Batumskaya Poshta" and value. The Kuban Republic, or North Caucasia, is said to have issued stamps, but little is known of them, and if they have really appeared, they must be of extreme rarity. The same is true of the stamps of Southern Lithuania, or White Russia. There are eight varieties of these, all of the value of 50 skatiku, surcharged on various Russian stamps of the 1908-11 issues.

The Don Cossacks have set up a republic, and in addition to overprinting various Russian stamps, have issued a regular set of their own, with St. George for a central design, and the laughable inscription EDENAYA ROSSIA, meaning the "Only" Russia! Rather a large-sized order for a province about the size of Missouri!

Another portion of southern Russia, the province of Georgia, has also established a republic, with philatelic accoutrements. The design, of course, pictures St. George, as much a patron Saint of Russia as of England. Strange to say, the inscriptions are in Latin instead of Russian characters, so that it is easy to place the stamps by the name "LA GEORGIE" at top.

Baltic Russia has been most prolific of new governments, the most northerly of which is Finland, which again becomes a stamp-issuing country after eight years of philatelic somnolence. The Helsingfors and Wasa issues are entirely commonplace, the inscription "Suomi" indicating "Finland." The Helsingfors (current) issue with overprint "Aunus" is supposed to be an occupation set, the word being a variant of "Olonetz."

Estonia proclaimed itself an independent republic Nov. 11, 1918, but the German "Ob. Ost." offices continued to operate until Nov. 23. Meanwhile a small issue of provisional Estonian stamps appeared in Rakvere. The stamps were cut from wrappers and surcharged "Eesti (Rakvere)" and new value in three lines. There are four of these stamps, and they are very rare. An alleged provisional issue, made by hand-stamping "Eesti" on "Ob. Ost." stamps also appeared, very likely in Germany, as the stamps seem to have been unknown in Estonia. The first regular issues were the well known "Eesti Post" imperfs., four in number, which were followed by the 5-penni yellow, picturing gulls in flight. This stamp was in use only a few days, and is very scarce. A most decided novelty in design is the I Mark, Viking ship. The Estonians have preserved their racial traditions and language with remarkable fidelity, and this stamp is a reminder of the time when our remote ancestors wore byrnie and helmets, and drank from horns.

Latvija, or Lettonia, produced the famous "printed on warmaps" issue, in some ways the most interesting of all war issues, as being made with actual war material. A large variety of maps were used, probably 25 or 30 varieties. About three dozen stamps in each sheet show no traces of the map on back, but are easily identified by the hard, stiff paper. There are 228 stamps to the sheet, 12x19. Later issues are on writing and cigarette paper. The Riga "liberation" issue appeared to commemorate the overthrow of the Bolsheviks. The design is attractive, tho the skull in the foreground detracts somewhat from the general makeup. Paper with hexagon watermark was used for this issue.

As usual, there were several issues of stamps of a private or quasi-official nature before the regular government issue, but in practically every instance collectors will make no mistake in avoiding these productions. In one instance a set of six German stamps rubber-stamped LIBAU is offered at about $500. Few American collectors will "fall" for such things.

KRUNA AND KRUNE.

By HENRY KUH.

In Number 1, January 3, Mr. H. F. Obermanns reports a supposed error appearing on the Hungarian stamps surcharged by the Croats. I am quite a little bit sorry that I must be so rude and shatter the joy of the holders of these wrong surcharges, which, as I will show, are absolutely correct when the Croatian or Serbian language is terra cognita to you.

The collectors not familiar with this language are misled by the fact that Kruna is singular and Kruna plural, but it is not known to them that this does not always hold good. The language in question has the "peculiarity" (and what language does not have peculiarities) to seemingly contradict itself, for Kruna becomes plural after four, although the figures dvije, tri, četiri (one, two, three) are governed by Kruna, and all the subsequent figures, pet, five, deset, ten, etc., up to billions and more remain Kruna.

There are two reasons for this "un-stableness" of the language: the first, the grammatical (for it is a fact that the language has a grammar and just as hard to study as that of other languages). The word in dispute ends in a vowel, which necessitates the employment of the singular Kruna as plural after figure four. On the other hand, all denominations without a vowel at the end, like the word perper on some of the Montenegro issues, must take the plural form perpera after figure one, or the Hungarian filler, if adopted for the Croatian stamps, would, of course, read filir singular and filira plural.

The same holds true in regard to the Serbian and Montenegrin para (singular) and pare (plural), but commencing with figure five there, too, the singular assumes the role of plural. The word Dinar on the Serbian stamps after the

UNITED STATES POSTMARKS AND CANCELLATIONS PRIOR TO 1890.

By J. A. RITCHIE, 2305 Andrews Av., N. Y. City.

Group II.—"U. S." Cancellations.

No better evidence of the widespread interest in United States postmarks and cancellations could be had than the reception accorded the opening article outlining the plan of the work undertaken.

The response from collectors has been simply splendid!

Co-operation has been not only spontaneous, but universal.

Its very generosity has been of the greatest encouragement and a real spur to further endeavor.

Collectors thruout the country have not only swamped us with requests for Co-operators' Proof Sheets of Group I, but, of far greater importance, have sent in new and startling animal cancellations not appearing in the original Group I illustration.

This assures a splendid showing of new and additional cancellations which will be illustrated, together with the original plate, in the Co-operators' Proof Sheets of Group I to be mailed out February 16th.

If you have not already sent in your name and address—do it now!

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

Fiume.—We have a new variety of charity stamp. This is the 25c plus 2-Lire stamp issued for the Dr. Grossich fund. It is blue, and the design reminds one immediately of the Herick's Pills Medicine Stamp, U. S. No. 5393. Two surcharges have been issued, also. The 45c of the "Fiume" set has been overprinted FRANCO and 10c; the 25c of the "Posta Fiume" set is surcharged FRANCO and 5c. Likewise the "Pro Fondazione Studio" set has been reduced to the status of a regular issue by the overprint VALORE GLOBALE and the nominal face value. Thus we have another complete set of stamps, 12 in number. These stamps bear on the back, repeated three times, the inscription POSTA di FIUME in pale blue-grey.

France.—The current 1 centime stamp has been surcharged "1/2" in two lines in carmine, and is used by publishers to frank newspapers. It is not sold to the public.

Japan.—The writer saw recently a block of 25 of the current 1/2 sen brown which bore a most peculiar cancellation, covering the entire block. The third vertical row of stamps each bore a circle, enclosing a Japanese character, and on each side of these circles were two heavy, parallel lines covering the remaining stamps. Short vertical lines projected from the lower horizontals on each side of the circle. This is evidently some kind of a precancellation, as the characters read "Kawa Mata Post Office." It is by long odds the most striking cancellation the writer has ever seen.

Morocco.—While examining a lot of 15c current pictorials, we discovered that this stamp has been re-engraved. The re-engraving is easily distinguished, as there are but 11 crenelations along the top of the wall above the gate, while the original shows 12 and part of a thirteenth. Furthermore, the shading across the gate in the original is vertical; in the new issue it consists of 8 horizontal lines, and finally, the frieze around the gate has in the re-engraving been replaced by a few rough lines. The new production lacks the fine lines of the original almost entirely, and has a rather rough appearance.

Switzerland.—Three new Pro Juventute stamps are just to hand. As usual, the designs figure the arms of Swiss cantons. The shield in each case is outlined in black, and the inscription "Liberte et Patrie" on the 10c (Vaud) is also black. Otherwise all lettering is colorless. The writer does not know the cantons whose arms are pictured on the 7 1/2 and 15, but both show keys.

7 1/2 grey and red, white double key on red ground.

10c red, shield green and white (Vaud).

15c purple, shield red and white single key, white and red.

Those familiar with Swiss heraldry will doubtless recognize the arms from this description. The stamps have varnished surface, and are perf. 1 comb machine. These stamps are strikingly handsome, and compare with the 1918 Pro Juventute set in this respect.

Tunis.—A 30c stamp has been added to the current set; it is lilac and brown violet.

United States.—Los Angeles precanceled the 16c and 24c aeroplanes during the Xmas rush. Only a few sheets were treated thus, and surcharges are read up. No doubles or inverts.

You cannot afford to miss this first Proof Sheet, let alone those following.

Remember the first one is free.

Those for this group (No. II) and subsequent groups can be had for one price only, and that price is co-operation.

Co-operation given cheerfully and willingly—without stint.

Co-operation in the form of the actual stamps or covers showing cancellations or identifications of only the specific Group then under consideration.

Co-operation solely for the greatest good of Philately—and that means a real help to you!

If, perchance, you missed the opening article in the last issue of the WEEKLY, send for a reprint now, so that you may familiarize yourself with the plan.

Shield Cancellations will constitute Group III, to be illustrated next week, and there will be forty-eight interesting varieties shown.

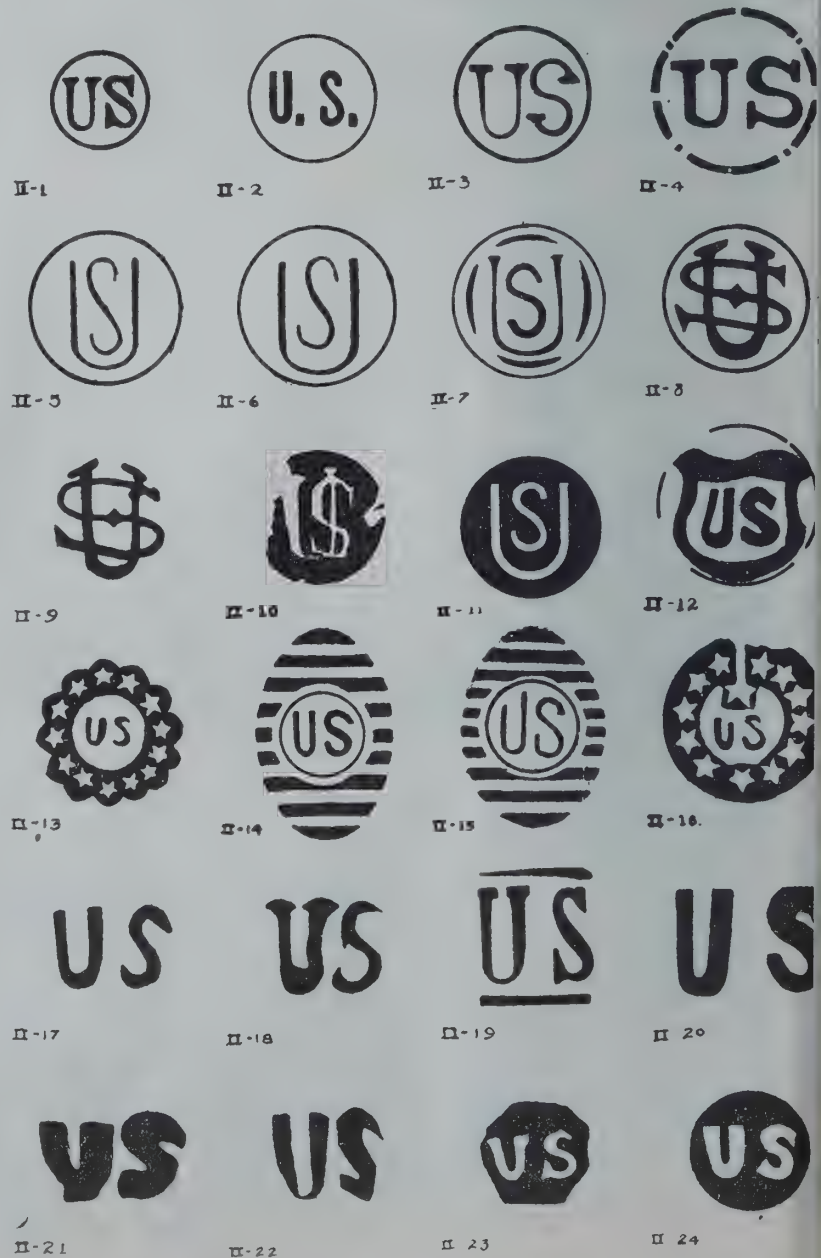

All communications should be addressed to J. A. Ritchie, 2305 Andrews Ave., New York City.

Group II.

"U. S." Cancellations.

(Note:—Cancellations consisting solely of the two letters "U" and "S" in combination are listed in this Group. Those consisting of the letters "U" and "S" in combination with some other numeral, letter or word such as "U S Mail", &c., will be listed under another and separate Group or Sub-group).

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ESTHONIA (EESTIMAA).

By AUGUSTUS H. KIUSALAS.

The Republic of Esthonia, whose independence was proclaimed Nov. 11, 1918, and the Esthonian National Council recognized by the British Government as early as May 3, 1918, occupies the northern half of the Russian Baltic Provinces, an area nearly 8000 square miles, has a population of somewhat less than one million souls. Capital and chief seaport, Reval, (Tallinn) of 65,000 population. The boundaries of the land, inhabited by the Esthonian-speaking race, are as follows:—West, Gulf of Riga; North, Gulf of Finland; East, River Narowa and Lake Peipus; South, a line drawn across Livonia, beginning at Lake Peipus, below the mouth of River Embach to Neuhausen; then westerly to Marienburg to Walk and Ruyen (conceding the first to Esthonians and the latter three to the Letts), reaching the Gulf of Riga between the towns of Hainash and Salis, including islands of Oesel, Dago and the famous Moon (Mohn) Islands, and numerous others of less importance.

Originally ruled by their own chiefs, they were conquered by the Teutonic Knights of the Sword, later belonging to Denmark and then to Sweden. Finally it was brought under the Russian Government at the beginning of the 18th century; through the war-like exploits of Peter the Great, and the lamented and decisive defeat of Charles XII of Sweden on the Field of Poltowa. It was ceded to Russia by the Treaty at Nystad in 1721, and became a Russian Province in name only. It was ruled as before, by the Baltic Barons, the descendants of the Teutonic Knights, who overran the Baltic Provinces in the 13th century. The barons had a charter right, a kind of "Gentleman's agreement" with the Russian Government to exploit the Esthonian peasantry. Russia cared very little what the barons did, as long as they kept the peasants in submission to them and the Government collected taxes and customs for Russia. These taxes were a heavy burden upon the people. The barons were precise in fulfilling their obligation. They had already seized all the land, declared the Ests serfs, and from that date were the undisputed lords and masters over a population of slaves, which outnumbered them by five hundred to one.

The Esthonians are not a beautiful race; they have bony features and rather coarse manners. They suggest the qualities of their inheritance,—common sense, vitality and great determination. Although white, they belong to the Mongolian race, a mixture of Finns and Slavic Tchuds. They belong to the Lutheran Church, which was the religious belief of their masters. Some, since 1900, have become Russian Orthodox, largely through the great influence of the Russian Orthodox Church and Russian Government. Their language, mode of living and customs are similar to the Finns, though they are not as far advanced in literature, art, industry, commerce and self-government as the Finns.

They speak two distinct dialects; even their books are printed in two distinct printings. One, the northern, called Reval (Tallinn) print; the other, Dorpat (Tartus) print. They are not as well educated as their neighbors to the north, the Finns, and the Letts, to the south. Very little good literature has been produced by them, but their folk songs and folk-lore are said to be unusually rich and interesting, while their mythology is surpassed only by the ancient Greek. The chief literary work is Kalevy Poeg, (Son of Kalev), an epic poem collected by Drs. Fahlmann and Kreutzwald from the folk tales and published about 1860. The hero, of gigantic size, who is the personification of the race, displays in his various adventures a wonderful Titanic force, who ruled over the country in the days of independence and prosperity. He did numerous wonderful feats, each one being beyond the power of a mortal to perform; but like King Arthur, he has never appeared to bring to his people the liberty and happiness that the Germans have taken from them. The race is indeed strong physically; such giants of strength like Lurich and Hackensmidt (The Russian Lion) were born in Esthonia. The reason for mention of Kalevy Poeg here is that he is the national hero of the Esthonians. The writer can make the prophecy that the Philatelic Public will, no doubt, see his likeness portrayed on future issues of stamps of this country.

The Esthonians are not, and could not, be called an educated and highly cultured people, but strange as it is, in their midst in northern Livonia is situated the city of Dorpat, the great seat of learning, the "Jena" of Russia.

Dorpat, otherwise known as Yuryew, Tartus and Tehrbata, was founded by Yaroslav I. of Russia in the 11th century. Situated on the river Embach in northern Livonia, Dorpat has a population of 45,000, which is more or less cosmopolitan. The Domberg, a hill at the northwest extremity of the town, is the seat of the famous Dorpat University, founded in 1632, by Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, and one of the principal seats of learning in Russia. It has a very good medical school with a library of 200,000 volumes, and a botanical garden. It also has a teachers' seminary and a veterinary institute. It is the seat of Russian Protestantism.

Esthonia is mostly level and marshy, none of the hills exceeding 1000 feet in height; Mt. Muna, the highest, is 997 feet. The soil is fairly fertile, and the people are mostly engaged in cultivating land and also engaged in fisheries. In so-called normal times, Esthonia exported flax, butter, wood pulp, potatoes, cement, paper, and a great deal of alcohol made from potatoes. In 1912 Russia took more than $40,000,000 in revenue from the province. Very little manufacturing is done by them, though there are large cotton mills near Narva, a match factory in Fellin and an enormous paper pulp mill near Pernau. There are also many small establishments producing alcohol from potatoes. The alcohol, after being distilled and reduced to 40%, makes the famous Russian drink called Vodka, a colorless, highly intoxicating liquid, which was consumed by the Russians and Esthonians themselves in great quantities.

Esthonia, at present, has a semi-democratic and anti-Bolshevik Government. It is governed by the Esthonian National Council and protected by the Allied Powers. The country has a ready produced various issues of stamp inscribed Eesti Post, and on some issue Eesti Vabariik (Esthonian Republic). The stamps are very poorly executed, a proof that the Esthonians are not very far advanced in the art of engraving and printing. Judging from the reports in our press, they are liable to be absorbed by the Russian Soviet Republic. At present there is a peace parley going on at Dorpat with Esthonians and representatives of the Soviet Government.

The Soviet Government has delivered an ultimatum to the Esthonians to deliver the main ports, namely, Reval, Baltic Port, Hapsal, Arenburg and Pernau to them. The Russians made them plainly understand that, although all the world was against them, the greatest Russian military genius, "General Winter", was still with them whose present rating is as high as 40 degrees below zero. That is, if the Gulf of Finland freezes, Allied help could not reach Esthonia, and Kalevy Poeg peacefully rests under the rock of Kolvan in Reval.

FALKLAND ISLAND VARIETIES.

I have recently come in possession of an interesting copy of a stamp not found listed in any catalogue accessible to me. It is a used 4 penny of either the 1881 or '86 issue of the Falkland Islands with watermark inverted. We already have the upright and sideways watermarks catalogued but no mention of the invert. It would seem there must be other copies in existence and interesting to know if such have been noticed by other Falkland Island collectors. I also possess a used copy of the split or penny 1891 issue triply surcharged one-half penny purchased from M. Peckitt some time ago. also not catalogued.—EDWIN F. SAWYER.

THE HANDSOME NEW SET OF NEW ZEALAND VICTORY STAMPS.

HUNGARY, 1914-1919.

By MAJOR R. LOCKHART.

At the outbreak of war two issues were in use in Hungary viz., the ordinary series of 1913 and the "Flood" issue of the same year. The former series remained current right up to the 31st December, 1917, though many other war issues had appeared in the meantime.

After the 5th August the first new stamps to appear were the "Flood" series of 1913, bearing the overprint

Hadi segély
ozvegyeknek és arváknek
Két (2) filler

Surcharge in red, except 10 filler, which is in violet. These stamps were issued on 7th October, 1914.

This inscription signifies a "War subscription for the widows and orphans of fallen fighters." All the stamps were sold at 2 filler over face value.

I will not waste space with a check list, as it coincides, both in this issue and the next, with the unsurcharged issues of 1913.

Early in 1915 the ordinary postage stamps of 1913 appeared with the surcharge

Ozvegyeknek és arváknek
Két (2) filler
Hadi segély

in red on all values except the 10 filler, where the surcharge is violet. This issue was also sold at 2 fillers over face value for charity purposes.

A second printing of the 60 filler stamp issued in 1916 shows a larger type surcharge than the 1915 issue; otherwise there are no varieties to chronicle.

In 1916 two new values were added to the ordinary series (unsurcharged):

1916. Type of 1900. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Surface-printed.
70 filler, brown.
80 " violet.

In 1916 there appeared three new charity labels, sold at 2 filler above their face value. The designs are: on the 10 filler a Hussar fighting, the 15 filler an infantry soldier, and the 40 filler an eagle.

1916. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Surface-printed.
10+2 filler, red.
15+2 " violet.
40+2 " brown-carmine.

In the same year there also appeared the first of the "Reaper" series, a set which has now become very famous among New Europe collectors, as it has received innumerable overprints since the Armistice. In the first two values to appear, the figures of value were in white on a colored ground.

1916. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. "Reaper" design. Surface-printed.
10 filler, red.
15 " violet.

On 30th December, 1916, the new Emperor and Empress were crowned, and two special stamps were issued in Budapest to commemorate the occasion. They bear the portraits of the Empress and Emperor respectively. They are quite the ugliest stamps issued by the Central Powers during the war, but they seem popular on the Continent, and with the Budapest postmark of 30/12/16 they fetch quite good prices.

30th Dec., 1916. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Lithographed. Coronation issue.

10 filler (Zita), lilac.
15 " (Karl), red.

A million of each were issued, and those not sold on the Coronation day were offered again on 7th January, 1917. A few evidently remained in some post offices right up to the end of 1918, as both stamps are known with the S.H.S. overprint of Jugo-Slavia.

Early 1917 saw the issue of the remainder of the "Reaper" and "Parliament" set, but all the low values now appeared with the figures of value in colour on a white ground.

1917. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Surface-printed. Designs—Reaper, 2 filler to 40 filler; Parliament at Budapest, 50 filler to 10 krona.
2 filler, red-brown.
3 " lilac-red.
5 " green.
6 " greenish blue.
10 " red.
15 " violet.
20 " grey-brown.
25 " blue.
35 " brown.
40 " olive.
50 " lilac.
70 " blue and bluish green.
80 " yellow-green.
1 krona, magenta and rose.
2 " brown and bistre.
3 " deep lilac and grey.
5 " brownish black and brown.
10 " violet and lilac.

An exhibition in aid of War Charities was held at Budapest on the "Margaret Isle" in the Danube from 15th Sept., 1917, to the 24th October. The patron was Colonel-General the Archduke Joseph. To commemorate this exhibition, two Charity stamps were issued, the 1st Reaper stamps (10 and 15 filler with white figures of value) being overprinted with the following surcharge:—

József főherczeg

Vezérezredes

Hadi Klárlitáza

1 Korona

1917. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Surface-printed. Issue of 1916 surcharged for Charity.

1 krona on 10 filler, red.
1 " " 15 " violet.

From the 4th to 24th July, 1918, an aeroplane mail service was flown from Budapest to Vienna, and two provisional stamps were issued to frank the mail carried.

4th July, 1918. "Parliament" issue surcharged.

1kr 50 filler (red) on 75 filler, blue and greenish blue.
4kr 50 filler (blue) on 2kr, brown and bistre.

On 1st September of this year a new value was added to the Reaper series:—

4 filler, slate-grey.

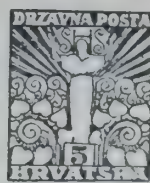

In the autumn of the same year a new short set appeared, showing the portraits of the Emperor and Empress in their Coronation robes. These were sold in all offices concurrently with the "Reaper" set.

1918. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 15. Surface-printed. Portrait of the Emperor Karl IV.

10 filler, red.
15 " violet.
20 " deep brown.
25 " light blue.
Portrait of the Empress Zita.
40 filler, olive.
50 " purple.

The revolution and declaration of a republic followed very soon after the issue of these stamps, and consequently some values are difficult to find, especially the 15 and 50 fillers.

The end of 1918 was a period of great disorganisation, but soon after the New Year of 1919 the new Republican Government overprinted all available stamps with the word KOZ-

NEUROPE SPECIALS.

The other values had evidently been printed, as the Bela Kun gang made use of them. These manufacturers started operations by overprinting all the stamps they found with the legend:—

which translates "Hungarian Soviet Republic." The stamps I have seen are all of the "Magyar Posta" (Reaper) series, and are of the following values:—

2 filler, yellow brown.
3 " red brown.
4 " slate grey.
5 " yellow-green.
6 " greenish blue.

2k, brown and yellow-brown.
3k, violet and dark blue.
5k, brown and yellow-brown.
10k, violet and lilac.

There soon appeared a permanent set of hideous designs and large size (30x35 mm.).

1919. Wmk. Crosses. Perf. 12. Sur-face-printed.

15 " orange and blue (Petofi).
60 " slate and dark brown (Martinyovics).
75 " lilac and deep purple (Dozsa).
80 " olive and brown (Engels).

Luckily this issue was very short-lived, and ended with the overthrow of Bela Kun this summer.

The return of a constitutional government resulted in the issue of the remainder of the "Magyar Posta" (Reaper) set. So far, I have seen the following values:—2, 5, 6 and 95 filler, 1 krona, 1kr 20, 1kr 40, 3 krona and 5 krona, but doubtless the missing values have now appeared, as they had all been issued with the Bolshevik surcharge.

Affairs in Hungary are still very unsettled, and several districts have set up autonomous republics, surcharging the Hungarian stamps to suit themselves. Serbs, Roumanians, French, Jugo-Slavs and Geko-Slavs have all occupied parts of the country and surcharged the poor, long-suffering "Reaper" set. —Postage Stamp.

Printings.

Excepting some of the wrapper stamps, and two or three adhesives, which were printed and issued through a misunderstanding or in violation of the contract between Butler & Carpenter and the government, all the private die revenues issued up to October, 1868, were engraved and printed by Butler & Carpenter in Philadelphia, and after the death of John M. Butler in October, 1868, the surviving partner of the firm, Joseph R. Carpenter, carried out the contract until its termination August 31, 1875, when it passed to the National Bank Note Company of New York.

Until October, 1880, when the Bureau of Engraving & Printing at Washington took over the work, the stamps were manufactured in New York under the contract with the National Bank Note Co. That company produced the stamps for about three and one-half years, but from about February 1, 1879, until October 16th, 1880, the work was done by the American Bank Note Co. This last concern was a consolidation of the National and Continental Bank Note Companies with another company which had also been known as the American Bank Note Co. The National and Continental Bank Note Co.'s are the same concerns that printed U. S. postage stamps between 1861 and 1879, and the American Bank Note Co., organized in 1879, is the same concern that printed the U. S. postage stamps from 1879 to 1894 and is still in existence.

In 1873, when the Continental Bank Note Co. obtained the contract previously held by the National Bank Note Co. to print postage stamps, the Continental Co. engraved secret marks on many of the National Co.'s dies and made new plates from these altered dies to distinguish their stamps from similar stamps then current which had been made by the National Co., and it is possible that when the National Co. obtained the revenue stamp contract in 1875 they also engraved secret marks on the dies turned over to them by Mr. Carpenter. The present writer has not found any secret marks on any private die stamps and does not expect that any such marks ever will be found, but it is possible they exist. The American Bank Note Co. probably did not place any secret marks on their stamps for the same reasons that they placed none on their postage stamps. They were not competitors of the National Co. after 1878, but were then the same firm.

The Bureau may have used secret marks but probably did not. The private die stamps were never sold to the general public, and if any of them were unsatisfactory there would be no difficulty in establishing who printed them. In the writer's opinion the only "secret marks" on the private die stamps are the imprints and plate numbers on the margins of the sheets and the guide lines used by the Bureau. Proprietors of articles requiring stamps rarely bought less than 100 sheets at a time and because of the various imprints used, one glance at the margin of any sheet would be sufficient to tell who printed it.

In many cases the various printings of the private die stamps are far more difficult to identify than the various printings of the U. S. postage stamps of 1871-82. Often they can be distinguished only by the shade and there are perhaps more than a hundred stamps, each of which is almost as difficult to classify as the 24c postage stamp of 1871-75. There are shades and shades, but almost no other means of identification. When nobody knows what the Continental 24c looked like how can anyone tell if they have it, and if we do not know which particular shades of color were used by Carpenter and which by the National Bank Note Co., how can we tell which concern printed which stamps?

All the private die stamps on old paper—except a very few—are Philadelphia prints and all those on the pink paper are National prints, but both Carpenter and the National Co. used the silk paper, and the watermarked paper was used by both the National and the American Co., and by the Bureau. Some help can be secured in classifying the stamps by studying copies bearing dated cancellations, but most of the stamps are not cancelled and the cancellations are not wholly reliable. The greatest help is obtained from imprints, but here again the student meets a stone wall. Almost always the margins containing the imprints were cut or torn from the sheets before the stamps were used and only a very few stamps—less than one per cent.—will show even a small part of an imprint. Usually the outside row of perforations came between the imprints and the outside row of stamps, and unless the alignment of the perforations was poor enough to produce badly centered stamps, no trace of an imprint will be found. Because most imprints are found on poorly centered specimens and no collector likes to retain off-center stamps, a great deal of evidence that would be of immense assistance in the study of the private die stamps today was discarded years ago and is gone forever. The craze for perfect condition has not been a wholly unmixed blessing to philately.

The Bureau imprints and the National imprints are scarce, even on very common stamps, and the American imprints and those on the Philadelphia printed stamps are very rare indeed. The National imprints occur at the top, bottom and sides of the plate, six or eight times on each sheet and the Bureau imprint is also found on all four sides of the sheet—once at each side. The Philadelphia and American imprints are much rarer because the American imprint occurs only once at the top and once at the bottom of the sheets and the Philadelphia imprint is found only once on each sheet, at the bottom. The imprints differ noticeably from each other and usually can readily be identified even though only a small portion shows.

Philadelphia Imprints.

The first Philadelphia imprint is exactly like that found on the general issue stamps of 1862-71. It consists of a rectangular panel of color with "Butler & Carpenter" in colorless letters surrounded by a border of colorless dots. In colored capitals outside the panel at the left is "Engraved By" and similarly at the right "Philadelphia". This imprint has been noted with "Plate No." in larger letters below the panel but there appears no record of any numbers on any of the Philadelphia plates. The second Philadelphia imprint is exactly like the first with the name changed to read "Joseph R. Carpenter". At the middle of the top and the bottom of the sheets printed in Philadelphia is found a small plus sign marking where the sheet could be divided.

BOOKLETS: MR. COLLECTOR:—I TOO WAS CONFUSED

when I first heard of booklets and tried to figure out what they were and whether or not I should try to find out more about them. Feeling that I was then collecting about all that was interesting in the stamp line, I neglected them just like many others are still doing. One day a friend of mine showed me his collection, the first booklet collection I had ever seen. Seeing I was interested, he was kind enough to explain the different varieties to me and suggested the idea of seeing what I could find at the local post office. At first the postmaster thought I was crazy but soon becoming interested himself, we together looked over a number of booklets with such success that my collection was soon well on its way.

Well, to make a long story short, booklets have become my hobby. A few weeks ago, when Mr. George Beans offered to turn over his stock to me, I welcomed the opportunity. He hated greatly to part with his favorites but the pressure of other business interests demanded he do so. It is my sincere hope that I may be successful in rendering the same efficient service in the future that he has in the past.

Firm in my belief that there are many collectors who are still holding back because they do not quite understand what booklets are, and for this reason are more confused than attracted by them, I have prepared a small descriptive circular for those who are interested enough to write for it.

This circular and the booklet leaf of six stamps mounted and described therein are pro gratis for the asking. No obligation is incurred by those who request it, for its only aim is to enlighten those who desire to learn something of booklets, their classification, how to distinguish the different varieties and how to look for them when the opportunity affords.

Yours truly, PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY. SIMPSON YEOMANS

BOOKLETS: National Imprints.

When the National Bank Note Co. took over the plates Mr. Carpenter had been using, they erased the Philadelphia imprints and probably also the dividing crosses, and engraved new imprints, each of which consists of a colored panel about 40 mm. long with rounded ends and surrounded by two fine continuous colored lines. The colorless letters on the panel read "National Bank Note Co. New York", Co. being engraved with a small "O" having the period under it. The plate number the imprint panel in small colored capitals appear the words "Printed By The". To the left of the plate number there may appear a monogram of the initials "N B N Co" in single line capitals interlaced. The monogram measured about 5x3½ mm. On some of the plates bearing 210 subjects the imprint appears over the 7th and 8th stamps at the top of the sheet, below the 7th and 8th stamps at the bottom, and beside the 4th and 5th and 11th and 12th stamps in the outer (first and 14th) rows at each side. The plate number comes over the 9th stamp in the top row.

It would be well to state here that the writer assumes the same general arrangement of the imprints was followed by the bank note companies and the Bureau on their respective plates, but that there is not sufficient material available to verify this assumption.

was engraved in script letters about 3 mm. high, at the top of the plate beside the imprint, like this—No. 27. Above

The second National imprint is usually found on plates made from dies engraved by that company and can readily be distinguished from the first National imprint. A colored panel 27 mm. long, with rounded ends, rests on a similar panel 44 mm. long. The lettering in each panel is surrounded by a row of colorless dots and the double panel is enclosed in one fine continuous line of color. The lettering is colorless and reads "Engraved & Printed By The" in the upper section and "National Bank—Note Co. New York" in the lower section. Co. is spelled with a large "O" followed by the period and there is a dash between "Bank" and "Note".

AMERICAN PLATES.

Evidence exists that there are two kinds of American imprints, but it is quite scanty and in many cases the American Co. appears to have used the National plates without engraving an entirely new imprint on them. Stamps bearing the first National imprint but with a monogram composed of the initials "A B N Co" instead of "N B N Co" have been noted and one stamp has been found which bears part of an imprint in a panel like the first National imprint, but which reads "American". Further information about the plates turned over to the American Bank Note Co. at the time of the consolidation is lacking.

Regarding the plates made from dies partially or wholly engraved by the American Co., nearly complete data is available, altho the imprints are indeed rare. In the following list the plate numbers marked * have been verified and the numbers not assigned may belong to the four other stamps.

The dies for the 1c and 2c stamps of H. R. Stevens and the 1c and 2c of the World's Dispensary Association were all approved in March, 1879, and those stamps are stated to have been issued during that year. It is possible, therefore, that they were printed from plates Nos. 94, 95, 96 and 97, since the die of the Hop Bitters stamp was not approved until April, 1879, and that Nos. 110, 111, 123 and 124 belong to the plates of other stamps.

American Imprints.

Stamps from American Bank Note Co. plates Nos. 98 to 128 usually bear two imprints, each consisting of a small rectangular panel of color measuring 29x2 mm. centered over the 7th and 8th stamps in the top row and under the 7th and 8th stamps in the bottom row of the plates containing 210 subjects. The plate number is found at the right of the top imprint and is in script letters about 3 mm. high, like the National plate numbers. On stamps like the Reading Match 'No.' is over the 9th stamp in the top row and the numerals come over the 10th stamp. A fine continuous line of color surrounds the imprint panel, which bears the words "American Bank Note Co. New York" in colorless letters. This imprint greatly resembles the Bureau imprint on the postage stamps of 1891.

Bureau Plates and Imprints.

When the Bureau of Engraving & Printing took over the private die stamp plates from the American Bank Note Co. in October, 1880, the American and National imprints were allowed to remain on the plates, but these of imprints were scratched by drawing through them and "Bu. E. & P."

n italics was engraved beside the scratched imprints. In the lower left corner of each plate, so that it appears in the lower right corner of the sheets, the Bureau also engraved in italics the title of the plate and the plate number assigned to it by the Bureau.

The title and plate number were engraved to read from left to right on the plate—that is, forwards—and therefore read from right to left on the stamps—that is, backwards. (See cut of Trenton Match imprint.) The purpose of this seems to have been to enable the printer when selecting any plate to identify it at once by merely glancing at the lower left corner. He did not have to stop and spell out the title backwards to see if he had selected the right plate, but could read the title forwards just like any print.

The Bureau engravers also added guide lines or "dividing lines" on the plates to facilitate separating the sheets of stamps into panes. These dividing lines run through or near the center of the sheet horizontally and vertically and divide it into four equal, or nearly equal parts. The sheets containing 210 stamps (arranged 14x15 or 15x14), and many others, would not divide equally each way and in these cases the dividing lines meet at one side of the center. Sometimes the lines are continuous from top to bottom and side to side and on other plates they do not cross the plate but run in only two or three inches from the edge. Possibly the latter peculiarity occurs only on plates taken over from the bank note company, while the continuous lines are on plates made at the Bureau, but there is not sufficient data at hand to determine the truth of such a supposition. It is quite certain, however, that there were no dividing lines on any plates made in Philadelphia or in New York except the Jamaica Ginger plate (Fred Brown) and possibly the 1c J. C. Ayer & Co. plate.

The next Bureau imprint is supposed to have been placed on plates made at the Bureau from dies previously made in Philadelphia or New York. It is simply one line of small capitals about 37 mm. long reading "Printed at the Bureau Engraving & Printing." Like the third and fourth Bureau imprints it is found in the middle of the top and bottom and each side of the plate, with the bases of the letters toward the stamps, except at the bottom.

SUBSCRIPTION ARREARAGES.

A new policy has now been established by the publishers of the WEEKLY in dealing with expired subscriptions. It is our intention to promptly discontinue the paper when the expiration number has been reached. A notice will be plainly printed upon the wrapper and a subscription blank enclosed in the paper. It will be absolutely necessary for every subscriber (who desires the regular weekly visits of the WEEKLY) to keep informed concerning the date of subscription expiration. The new plan becomes operative with this issue. Where in the past subscribers have had from two to three months in which to renew, in the future a prompt remittance at the time of expiration will be absolutely necessary.

Illness of Mr. Severn—We regret to announce the illness of our editor, Mr. Severn. Neurope—This particular number of the WEEKLY is epochal. It represents a period that is without doubt the most prosperous that philately has ever known. While the trade is flourishing abroad, especially in England, it remains for the United States to show the world the high-water mark of philatelic prosperity. A glance through this number of the WEEKLY voices more eloquently than words can express the activity of the stamp trade throughout the length and breadth of the United States. Without doubt the many stamp issues of Central Europe constitute the most important factor in bringing this about, and we recognize the popularity of Neurope stamps with this special number in which they are written up and advertised in a superb manner. We thank all of those who have made this great number possible.

though the P. O. Department would permit us to continue these subscriptions for a year. In the future, all subscriptions will be discontinued immediately upon expiration. When your subscription should be renewed a notice to that effect will appear printed in large type upon the wrapper, and folded within the paper will be a notice of expiration that cannot fail to be seen. There will be no more postcard notifications, and subscribers allowing their names to be dropped must not expect to secure back numbers upon renewal of their subscriptions. We are placing this matter fairly and squarely before every subscriber, as the paper stock situation has reached that point where conservation is really necessary. We desire to add that any subscriber can readily ascertain at any time just how his subscription stands by glancing at the Whole Number on the wrapper and comparing it with the Whole Number on the first page of the WEEKLY. When the Whole Number on our title reaches the Whole Number on your wrapper your subscription will have expired, and you will help this office a great deal in the matter of mailing list changes if you will forestall our arrearage notices. Many subscribers are renewing for two years, and renewals of this kind are especially gratifying. This rule is now effective and subscribers will please understand that hereafter their paper will be discontinued promptly on expiration of subscription.

Rarities to America—Charles T. Carpenter of Coffeyville, Kansas, sends us a very interesting clipping from the Kansas City Star of Thursday, Jan. 15. It is entitled "Rare Stamps to America" and in the date line we find "London". The article is attributed to the "Reciprocal News Service". This is our first contact with this service but we are prepared to say that this article is so meritorious as to lead us to believe that philately will receive great benefit from it. The article states that the great philatelic treasures of Europe are being bought freely by American collectors and that this is particularly true of many big German collections. It is common report that a U. S. dealer recently arrived at New York with several trunk loads made up of purchases in the German market. This article is so newsy that we shall reprint it in an early number, as it points clearly to a fact that is self-evident, and verifies our continued acclaiming of the present days as being the best philately has ever known.

The Stamp Society—Every stamp society should be a philatelic missioner, and if it fails to occupy this position in the community it is not living up to its responsibilities. We were never better organized than at the present time and there is hardly a city where philatelic interest is strong that does not have its stamp club. The virility of such a body depends upon how faithfully it exalts stamps and stamp collecting. It is all very well to have a club-room where men can go and swap stories, but if this is all, the club will be a failure. A circular letter just re-

THE CRACOW ISSUE OF PROVISIONAL POSTAGE STAMPS OF POLAND.

By PERCY MCGRAW MANN.

The heading would indicate a pretentious article on these provisional stamps issued sometime in early 1919, but, unfortunately, I have not enough material at hand to make it so. The heading I have selected will be suitable for indexing purposes, as it may be that the notes I am to set forth in the following paragraphs will be of referential use.

Cracow, as we all know, is part of the Polish Republic—in Neurope—and formerly, after the division of the earlier Polish Kingdom, was in Austria. It is not necessary to tell its history or about its geographical details.

In Scott's Circular for June 1919, the stamps I am to write about are set forth in the table of new issues as "Tarnow Issue" and "Cracow Issue", and again in the September 1919 edition of the same publication, we find some more of the "Cracow Issue". I do not know whether the new edition of the Scott Catalogue will retain the same numbers as given to each stamp listed in the Circular, so I will not refer to them here.

Austrian stamps were used for overprinting, with the words POCZTA—POLSKA, 12 point Roman capital letters being used, but the technical name of the type is unknown, at this moment, to me.

The series I write about is made up of the 50, 60, 80h and 1kr of Scott's type A39, 2kr of type A40, 4, 6 and 30h of type N9 and 5 and 15h of type D4. As both the newspaper stamps and postage due stamps are overprinted "Postage—Poland", I believe they were used as regular postage stamps and not for the original purpose for which the unoverprinted stamps were issued.

I mentioned the "Tarnow Issue" above not because it is part of the series or will be written about in the following, but because I see it listed as part of the "Cracow Issue" in Yvert & Tellier-Champion's Catalogue. Its overprint is quite different, printed in condensed type, a bit taller, and with the words of the overprint transposed. It may be a part of the Cracow series, because it is generally found with them and Tarnow is not very far away from Cracow. Gibbons' War Catalogue gives the issue as "Myslenice" with the exception of the Tarnow 25 on 80h, which it also lists as "Tarnow".

Locher (the Swiss firm) in a War Stamp Catalogue list the entire series including the 25 on 80h as being issued in "Oderberg". Oderberg is not far from Cracow, being to the west of it, as Tarnow is along the same railroad to the east. And this latter catalogue gives a list of an entirely different series for "Myslenice". The overprint in this case being "Poczta Polska" in two lines, but without any ornament between the words, and it is in caps and lower-case instead of all caps.

The cataloguers will have to get busy to straighten out these various issues, as much confusion seems to be the rule rather than the exception. For my part, I have been unable to locate "Myslenice". It may be that the stamps were used in many cities and towns of South Poland, which formerly belonged to Austria.

While I would like to be able to inform my readers as to where these stamps were issued, I must confess I do not know. I have had the advantage of going over a quantity of the stamps, however, and my purpose in writing this short article is to describe the varieties I discovered in the overprinting.

The POLSKA POCZTA 25 (in three lines) on the 80h, type A39 (Scott) of Austria, which was probably issued at Tarnow, Galician Poland, because most of the catalogues seem to agree on this point, can be dismissed immediately. I have not seen any variation in the overprint.

As mentioned before, the overprint on the rest of the series, the "Cracow" issue, consists of the words POCZTA—POLSKA in two lines. Between the two words a diamond shaped ornament occurs. This ornament is composed of an outline diamond with a square dot in the centre of it. Overinking sometimes causes the diamond and dot to mass into a solid diamond and it is noted that some of the ornaments which appear to be worn type have the four sides of the diamond concaved inwardly towards the square dot. The illustration in Scott's Circular shows a round dot in the centre of the diamond.

The position of the ornament in relation to the two words (POCZTA—POLSKA) varies, and the words themselves vary in their position to each other. While at first glance the overprint appears to be very uniformly set up, close observation discloses that almost every stamp on the sheet varies in the positions of the letters of the words and the ornaments. Unfortunately, I have not had the opportunity of observing or studying full sheets of the stamps, and, for that reason, cannot give a complete list of the variations—which, if I were able, might prove tiresome reading to the majority of my readers. However, the variations I set forth hereunder may inspire a few collectors to give a little more attention to the details of their stamps, and may not prove uninteresting to another few.

I have made up a little reference collection of these stamps, and while I have not incorporated therein all the variations that occur on each value, all the values show, collectively, most of the differences. And here goes:

On the 50h and 60h I have the same varieties: 1. The ornament is directly under the "CZ" and over the "LS"; the second "P" is directly under the first "P". 2. The ornament is directly under the "Z" and over the "S"; the second "P" is a trifle to the left of the first "P".

SCANDINAVIANS==BRITISH COLONIALS,&c.

Over three months ago we began to get goods for this adv. On this and the following pages you will find offered what is probably the largest variety of medium priced stamps ever offered in an adv. on this side. We are not going to comment on the adv. much we'll let the goods and prices speak for themselves. Look the adv. over carefully, keep it on hand, as it will be good for at least 30 days, but of course first orders get the goods when our supply is limited. There are a host of "hard-to-get" stamps offered. Prices have been made with regard to cost and not catalog, as the present Scott 1919 cat. is of little use as a guide to values now. We believe the War stamps offered to be the largest and best lot advertised by anyone and prices reasonable. Your attention is called to them in particular. We know in many cases we cannot repeat the offers made at the same prices, as the terrific demand all over the World is stripping the market of many even comparatively low priced stamps. At the head of another page you will find terms and conditions relating to this adv. which please read.

SCANDINAVIANS

have always been desirable. The following are priced according to cost and not the catalog. We get them as cheap as they can be bought. In some cases prices are full to double catalog, but the ones at full list are a "better buy" than others are at half list and less. All nice to fine copies, and we have most everything in 20th. Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland. There are some boys here almost always "out of stock" when you try to buy them.

NEW EUROPE - FIUME - ETC.

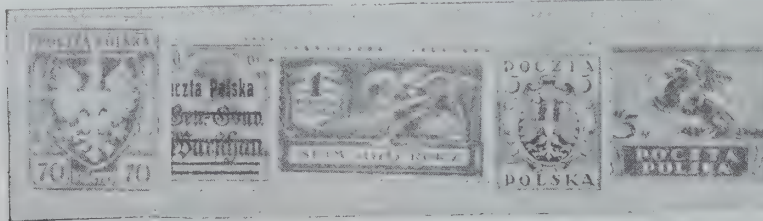

We offer you below a splendid lot of these new countries. While many of the issues may seem unnecessary, few collectors understand the real situations in these countries, or they would think differently. Historically, and in every way, they are the most interesting stamps ever issued, and in most cases the cost is not great. We have illustrated a few of the types and regret space does not allow us to give cuts of more. We numbered the cuts from left to right. When we say "cut No. 3" we mean it's the third cut from the left.

Terms—Cash with order, except parties known to us or who show they are O. K. when goods can be sent for cash at once on receipt. In every case cash with order gets first preference. This sign (*) means unused. Everything in good to fine condition, and anything not O. K. is returnable. Orders under 25c are postage extra and we prefer not to receive orders of less than 25c as the clerical work is about the same as on larger orders. Where possible, please give us a second choice order to work on in case anything is sold out. We will always send the first choice items when in stock. In such a large lot it's impossible not to run out of some items, through unexpected demand, etc.

B. C. WAR TAX, Etc.

Like the regular B. C. stamps are standard goods. Here are nine or ten of them out as cheap we believe as you'll ever find for.

BRITISH COLONIAL WAR TAX, ETC.

Most of all obsolete now and prices offering wholesale which of course means fall too very soon. Here is a very good lot of them. Anything you wish not offered please ask for.

THE CRACOW ISSUE.

On these two values I have found an entirely different ornament consisting of what looks like two small squares on end, thus: ♦♦. This variety probably occurs only once in a setting, as I only found one among some large blocks I had. This ornament is directly under the "CZ" and over the "LS" and the second "P" is directly under the first "P".

The 80h shows: 3. The ornament is nearly under the "C" and over the "L", being slightly to the right of the middle of these letters; the second "P" is slightly to the right of the first "P". 4. The ornament is directly under the "CZ" and over the "S"; the second "P" is much to the left of the first "P".

Of the 1kr: 5. The ornament is directly under the "CZ" and over the "LS"; the second "P" is very slightly to the right of the first "P". 6. The ornament is under the "C" and over the "LS"; the second "P" is slightly to the left of the first "P".

I presume the four values mentioned are all of the same setting, although the 80h appears to be slightly different in detail, which is hard to explain within the scope of this article. The 2kr is a different setting, of course, because the stamps are larger and a fancy scroll ornament is set between the words. The newspaper and postage due stamps, being of a size, are probably of the same setting for the overprint, but the stamps being smaller, the setting is also different than that for the four values first mentioned. A greater range of variation also seems to occur on these, although they may be the same as for the larger stamps, my supply for study not being large enough to determine all features.

On the 4h Newspaper stamp: 7. The ornament is directly under the "C" and over the "L"; the second "P" is directly under the first "P" (this occurs on the left hand stamp of a pair, the right hand stamp being as variety 1 given above). 8. The ornament is under the "C" and over the "S"; the second "P" is much to the left of the first "P".

On the 6h Newspaper: Variety 3, as the left hand stamp of a pair, the right hand stamp being: 8. The ornament is under the "Z" (slightly to the right) and directly over the "S"; the second "P" is a little to the right of the first "P". I also have variety 4 on this stamp.

On the 30h Newspaper: 9. The ornament is directly under the "C" and over the "LS"; the second "P" is much to the left of the first "P". 10. The ornament is slightly to the left of "C" and directly over the "L"; the second "P" is a little to the left of the first "P".

The 5h Postage Due shows the same varieties as for the Newspaper stamps.

On the 15h Postage Due: 11. The ornament is under "OC" and over "L"; the second "P" is a little to the left of the first "P". I have variety 8 on this value 12. The ornament is directly under the "C" and over the "L"; the second "P" is a little to the right of the first "P".

The most interesting part of my study was the finding of the out-of-the-usual ornament on the 50 and 60h, but the assuredly three settings on the three different sized stamps can afford a considerable amount of study and as the stamps are not high priced, something further than what I have shown may exist if any one cares to search out these overprint variations.

The denominations I have listed seem to have appeared at the same time, and vary somewhat from some of the chronicles. It is probable that this overprint may have been applied in a number of the cities and towns, which would account for one chronicler listing some values and another listing others and the two dove-tailing, and the two chroniclers deciding that the whole series of all the values must have been overprinted at the same place, or the place where each chronicler decided they were issued. Time will disclose the facts, but the opportunities for forging the overprint were many and I presume this has no doubt been done; and because many issues were made it is difficult to determine what were necessary and what were not, and which have been forged and which have not. If the stamps are cheap it will not disfigure your collection to have some forgeries therein, but watch your step when you buy the high-priced ones. Eventually the cheaper stamps, if forgeries, can be weeded out without material loss to those who bought them, because the student will want the forger along with the genuine, but the student will not buy a high-priced forgery of a high-priced stamp.

May I be excused for this dissertation on "forgeries"? As I write, it occurs to me that when so many variations occur in the issues of overprinted stamps, like the series of Poland just described, the opportunities for a forgery passing the eagle eye of the student are many. It were better, indeed, if we didn't have to place such stamps in our collections. Nevertheless, for the good of philately we must list them if they are authentic issues, and it was for that very reason that I thought it a good thing to tell about what I had found on the POCZTA (ornament) POLSKA'S.

WAR TAX STAMPS OF CAYMAN ISLANDS.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

The postal surtax of 1/2d upon all correspondence addressed to places within the Imperial Penny Postage schedule, which had been introduced into the parent colony of Jamaica in March, 1916, was adopted by the Justices and Vestry of the Cayman Islands at a meeting on September 20th of that year. The resolution was duly embodied in Law IV. of 1916 entitled "a Law to impose a special War Tax on certain Post Letters." This Law, which was formally approved by the Governor of Jamaica on November 15th, 1916, became effective as from February 25th, 1917, and was to remain in force for one year from that date. Owing to the prolongation of the war, the War Tax was re-imposed for a further period of 18 months, commencing from May 27th, 1918. Between February 27th and May 27th, 1918, therefore, the postal tax was temporarily suspended. A special stamp to denote the new combined postage fee of 1 1/2d was ordered to be prepared by the Acting Commissioner, and to this end a supply of current 2 1/2d stamps was forwarded to the Government Printing Office, Kingston, Jamaica, with the request that they might be reduced to the face value of 1 1/2d by means of a surcharge and in addition overprinted with the words WAR STAMP in a like manner to those then current in Jamaica.

Accordingly, in November, 1916, the sheets of 120 stamps each were overprinted WAR STAMP from the same setting of type that was used for the 3d Jamaica war stamp, printed about the same period, whilst a numeral surcharge of 1 1/2d was set up to cover a half sheet of 60 stamps and applied at a second operation. The same varieties of the "War Stamp" overprint that occur on the 3d Jamaica may also be found in identical positions on the sheets of 1 1/2d on 2 1/2d Cayman Islands. In addition, the value surcharge presents numerous minor varieties, represented by varying lengths or thicknesses of the fraction bar, as well as in the position of the "d" following the fraction.

The first printing, consisting of 25,000 stamps, reached Georgetown (Grand Cayman) in December, 1916, but in the interim between then and the actual issue of the War stamps in February 26th, 1917, a second printing comprising a further 48,000 stamps had been made from new settings of both the overprint and surcharge, with the words WAR STAMP in larger and bolder type (8-point Roman), which was subsequently utilized for the Jamaica issues also. A variety with "fraction bar omitted" occurred on the

These first two printings of Caymanian war stamps were merely of a tentative nature, pending receipt of supplies which had been ordered from printers in London (Messrs. Thomas De la Rue & Co.), and came to hand on September 4th, 1917. In this case the overprint and surcharge were applied from electrotypes plates, in smaller, thicker numerals, for the latter, and contained no outstanding varieties. At least three printings were made in London during 1917-1918.

Early in 1919, a supply of the current 1 1/2d stamps, overprinted WAR STAMP only, together with a special printing from the plate of the 2 1/2d values in orange, surcharged "1 1/2d" before, was forwarded to the Islands through the Crown Agents for the Colonies, and were placed on sale in Grand Cayman some time in February. No varieties have so far been noted.

THE NEW 10kr GERMAN AUSTRIA.

We have received from A. Koechlin the information that the high values of the new set for German Austria are beginning to make their appearance. We illustrate the design of the 10kr value. It represents the Parliament Building in Vienna and is surface printed in olive green and dark brown on white paper. Mr. Koechlin adds that the lower values of the set, which have been temporarily out of issue, are now on sale again.

LITERATURE JOTTINGS.

By PERCY C. BISHOP.

Mr. Griebert's "Spain" is published in quite the grand manner, the size and style and the arrangement of plates being identical with the fine monographs issued from time to time by the Royal Philatelic Society. It was time we had something good on Spanish stamps in English, and, despite the not very "popular" price of £2 net, there is certain to be a good demand for Mr. Griebert's fine work.

Congratulations are overdue to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, which is the "Stamp Collecting of America," on a splendid fifteen-hundredth number. A fine record is MEKEEL'S "1500 not out," and we have nothing to equal it on this side as regards the total of numbers issued. In the matter of longevity, however, the Americans have "nothing on us." Messrs. Alfred Smith & Son's Monthly Circular is at the threshold of its forty-sixth year, the P.J.G.B. is nearing thirty years of age, as is also the London Philatelist, and it is not so very long since the Philatelic Record gave up after an uninterrupted run of thirty-six years! Thus, in point of age, Stamp Collecting is quite a journalistic "junior"; but, since its visitations are weekly, its "score" rapidly rises, and it is quickly overhauling many of its more ancient contemporaries in the matter of "numbers issued."

It is a fairly open secret that Mr. D. Field's catalogue of the "Stamps of the Great War," good as it undoubtedly is, will be easily eclipsed in excellence by the second edition when it makes its appearance some time in 1920. The production of the first edition of a specialist catalogue must be an anxious and a nerve-racking business for all concerned!

Messrs. Bright & Son's new War Catalogue—the eighth edition—is a great advance upon all previous issues. An excellent shillingsworth this. Another popular book, Melville's "New Europe," is out of print again, but a new edition, the third, is spoken of for January next.

An excellent new French journal, La Philatélie Française, has been added to the list of Oversea journals, having their British agencies domiciled at 89 Farringdon Street; and subscriptions can be booked for this at 2s 6d per annum; single copy, as a specimen, 7d post free.

Philatelists are beginning to awaken to the fact that it is a good plan to subscribe to a selected few of the philatelic journals published overseas. Insularity and stamps do not mix well at all. The Stamp Collecting Literature Department makes this sort of thing easy. You pay the subscriptions and we do the rest. And when a number of oversea papers are taken, the saving in time, labour, and postage is very considerable. Lists of journals recommended in all countries, with annual subscription rates, will be furnished on application.

One finds the average collector rather diffident about getting together a philatelic library, so many books are published nowadays, he says, and the expense is considerable. Poor reasons, these. A philatelic library, like a collection of stamps, is just what you make it—cheap or dear, according to the lines you lay down. A ten-pound note will fit up a fairly good small working library, and one need not spend even that amount all at once. Take a leaf from the book of the elastic-bookcase makers. Have an elastic library. You will be astonished at the speed with which it will expand by dint of spending a shilling here and a half-crown there.

Oh, the difference between the schoolmaster of thirty years ago and the schoolmaster to-day in relation to philately! A generation ago stamp collecting was frowned upon and discouraged. Now the schoolmaster, in most cases, is a keen philatelist himself and a missionary of the cult towards his pupils. What should we have thought, thirty years ago, of a schoolmaster who not only encouraged his class to study stamps, but helped them to form their own Philatelic Society, and fitted up for them (entirely at his own expense) a small library of philatelic works? That has happened more than once during the past few weeks. Small collections of popular-priced hand books, catalogues, &c., suitable for school use, can be supplied at £1 and upwards.

It is a sign of the times that the Trustees of the British Museum have acquired a supply of Mr. Melville's excellent handbook on "The Tapling Collection," for sale at Bloomsbury. Visitors to the National Stamp Collection may now follow the exhibits with a more intelligent interest and a greater degree of enjoyment. There is hope for the British Museum yet!

The excellent "Dictionary of Philately," by Bertram W. H. Poole, of which, so far, two parts have made their appearance (A-B and C-G) is to be completed in one very much larger part covering H-Z. No price for this concluding section has yet been announced, but directly the book comes to hand it will be sent out to all those clients who have expressed a desire to receive it. The completion of the work is a tribute to the industry of Mr. B. W. H. Poole and the enterprise of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, wherein it is running as a serial. It has been the common fate of philatelic dictionaries in the past to come to grief when half-way through the alphabet.—Stamp Collecting.

RARE STAMPS TO AMERICA.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Americans are to be the champion stamp collectors of the world. There is at present a larger demand on the London stamp market in the United States than from any other country. The biggest and most valuable collections still are mostly European, but as with other desirable possessions the tide sets steadily across Atlantic.

In pre-war days Germany ranked next collecting enthusiasm; now some of the best stamps, being things so easily obtainable and concealable, are finding their way out of the country by clandestine means; stamp smuggling is a fact. Ultimate purchases by foreigners, paid in depreciated marks, are helping depletion of her stores. A flood of German stamps is finding its way to London and Paris, and eventually to New York, and will be quickly absorbed by collectors.

A WORLD-WIDE HOBBY.

After America and Germany, the most collectors were to be found in Britain and France, each easily supreme in the ranks of its own empires. But the hobby for stamps is now world-wide and no means confined to the white race. It is shared by Hindus and Japanese in particular, and is rapidly extending among them.

Stamp collecting is a hobby that appeals for intelligence and education. So that is not strangely well up in geography, or the owner of a recent album, can answer offhand, if asked, the whereabouts of Anjouan, Benadir, Zanzibar, or Elobey, Annobon and Cororé? That last magnificent Elobey, Annobon and Cororé reminds one of a key signpost, "To Margery Chease-Town and Mogador;" it has the magic ring to its termination. At music great Milton would have been of the names in the modern album—anyone knows who is familiar with lines:

From Atropatia and the neighboring Adjabene, Media, and the South
Susiana to Balsara's Haven.

NO LONGER A SCHOOLBOY GAME.

Time was when collecting was mainly confined to schoolboys. They were fortunate who held on to the stamps. Values have increased out of all recognition. Now the hobby is patronized by people in every rank of life—King George is well known to have one of the finest collections in existence and actually paid the highest price on record for a single stamp. This was $7,250 for a 2d "Post Office" Mauritius stamp from a long forgotten schoolboy collection. It was recognized by a friend of the owner and put up to auction with no idea that it would reach such a high figure.

FEW TREASURES IN SCHOOLBOY ALBUMS.

But all stamps are not rare and the schoolboy album that yields a treasure is very much the exception. The vast majority of stamps never will be rarities. Most stamps are issued by millions and worth only a few cents a pound as "packet fillers."

COUNTERFEIT THESSALY.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

Fakes of these stamps are appearing on the market in quantity. They are very well produced but differ from the genuine in the following respects: colors vary somewhat, paper is exceedingly white and hard, very smooth; stamps are ungummed. The small picture of the bridge of Larissa has the shading made up of irregular dots and small smudges of color instead of parallel horizontal lines. The perforation, like that of the genuine, is 13½. The fakes are in sheets of 12, much better centered than genuine, and there are guide dots in various places on the margin of the sheets.

The genuine stamps are on slightly yellowish paper, and have a yellowish gum which makes them curl slightly. They show numerous flecks of color around the margins of the stamps (impressions of stone margins) and these are quite lacking in the imitations, which are "too good to be true."

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

CHAPTER II.

Official Reports and Notes.

In the annual report of the Postmaster General for the year ending June 30, 1919, he speaks in detail of the new automatic vending machines and tells the advantages to be derived from them. Mention is made that a committee had been appointed to inspect and report on those machines submitted, and of twelve so examined, three proved useless for the purpose of the department, "while others possess unquestioned merits." None, however, were immediately available for use, "due to defects in minor parts of construction." Additional time was granted manufacturers to make these minor changes with the understanding that the changes were to be "finally submitted" by December 1, 1919.

In the report of the Third Assistant Postmaster General for the same period also briefly states that a series of experiments were being made. "These," he says, "will demonstrate whether the adoption of this method of selling stamps would be feasible and profitable, and will also indicate the best type of machine. If the claims for this method of selling stamped stamps are substantiated it will prove a valuable adjunct to the service and a decided step in advance."

Now successful these inventors were in their tests we learn from the 1918 report of the Postmaster General, where we are informed that "twenty-five machines were submitted to this department for test during the year, and six were found to possess sufficient merit to warrant practical trials under actual conditions in post offices.  Every expectation that satisfactory results will result from the work now going on, but this department is not prepared to accept any make for its use."

The Third Assistant Postmaster General in his report for the same period further and states that the owners of these six machines that possessed the "given permission to install machines in their home post offices, with expense to the department, for a period of thirty days' practical test. Owners of five of these machines responded, and tests have been made in the post offices at Baltimore, St. Paul, New York and Washington. While the fifth machine is now undergoing tests at Indianapolis. While machines tested have not been so successful as to give wholly satisfactory results, the experiments have been sufficiently encouraging to justify a continuance of the investigation."

An interesting part of the report, viewed from a philatelic standpoint is as follows:—"The department is now endeavoring to fill requisitions of postmaster or limited quantities of stamps in rolls for use in stamp vending machines. There is a growing demand for stamps put up in form, which the department will endeavor to meet."

In the next report of the Postmaster General, that is the report of 1919, makes mention of either these stamp vending machines. This is possible due to the fact that George von L. H. who took such an interest in the subject, had retired and was succeeded by Frank H. Hitchcock, who was in this position during the Taft Administration. During Hitchcock's four years as Postmaster General he never mentions these machines nor does he specifically mention the coil stamps, in his annual report.

The Third Assistant's report shows the department's continued interest, nevertheless, for in his report for 1919 we recognize that a field exists for stamp vending machines, and that coiled stamps are needed for the successful operation of many of these devices, the department has undertaken to supply stamps in coils in limited quantities. The coils contain 500 and 1000 stamps, arranged endwise or sideways, and are issued with or without perforations between the stamps, as preferred by purchasers. The rolls are made by cutting sheets of stamps into strips, pasting the strips together, and coiling them upon pasteboard cores one-half inch in diameter. This method is laborious and expensive, but it is the best that can be done with present facilities."

"The demand for stamps in coils will increase. Usefulness of the coils is not confined to the vending and affixing machines. It would be a great convenience if they could be produced in sufficient quantities to supply post offices for retail sale at stamp windows. The coils would also be convenient form for sale of stamps to business houses for general purposes. I recommend that steps be taken looking to a change in method of printing our postage stamps which will enable the department to provide the service." It will be noted by our readers that this is the first official suggestion made relative to a special press for coil stamps and it is quite possible that had not the Third Assistant Postmaster General continued his interest we would never have had the efficiently produced rotary coils of to-day. Another gentle reminder as to the necessity of retaining high grade men even when we have a change in administration.

The Postmaster General acted on the recommendation of his Assistant and during 1910 authorized an expenditure of $5,600.00 from the appropriation for expenses incident to the investigation and testing of mechanical and labor saving devices, for the construction of an experimental machine, after plans prepared by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, designed to print adhesive postage stamps from rotary hardened-steel intaglio plates upon dry paper in continuous rolls.

MY FRIEND THE PENNY BLACK.

By CHARLES NISSEN.

British stamps have been more to me than a hobby, more than a business, during the past twenty-five years. They have been my constant friends and companions. They have filled my thoughts and monopolized the larger part of my time and energies.

The Penny Black in particular, the most written about and talked about, the most famous and fascinating stamp in the whole length of the catalogue, has claimed and held my close and eager attention for a full quarter of a century; and, although a great deal more is known about the Penny Black now than in 1894, there is still much room for further study of this alluring stamp. Very grudgingly has it yielded up the secrets of its plate varieties. Only by unremitting study on the part of a few enthusiasts has it been possible to elucidate the many problems, line by line, I had almost said "scratch by scratch."

But that has been the lure of this ever fascinating stamp, the source of all its charms and value to the student. Lacking the glamour of great rarity—for it is a stamp which even now is "Gibbonsed" at no more than $1.00 to $2.50 for used specimens according to "state"—the stamp still wields a sway over philatelists that very few other issues can even approach. And it is the mother of all stamps—the beautiful mother of a somewhat varied brood!

The question has often been put to me by the Doubtful: "Thou art of the hobby; 'It's not worth while beginning a collection of British now, I suppose? Prices have about reached top, haven't they?"

I remember the same question being asked in 1894, and in every successive year since; but one thing I have never seen, and never look to see, and that is a set-back, even a temporary one, in the market values of mint or "fine used" copies of British stamps. The history of this branch of the philatelic hobby is not calculated to encourage the fears of the timorous. The course of prices has been ever upward, and from 1894 to the present year—the period covered by my own personal experience of the market—there has been a cumulative and continuous appreciation in price.

It would seem to be a bold step to predict a further advance in the face of the present high level of values, but I have not the slightest doubt that those who think the "British" have now "touched top" will find their views falsified in the near future. So it was in the "nineties"; so it has been throughout the twentieth century. There was always, and I believe there is still, a failure to realize the real scarcity, and therefore the real value, of mint and "fine used" British stamps.

One thing there stands to the credit of the Penny Black which I think few other stamps can claim. Throughout the years it has been "worth more than catalogue" for specimens in anything like fine condition. "Any change in the price of the Penny Black?" has been a common question on the publication of each successive catalogue. Some think that its minimum "used" price in the current catalogue should be more than 4s, but perhaps that is too much to say. There are Penny Blacks and Penny Blacks. I should be inclined to state its full range of philatelic value as from 6c to $25, and in that estimate I think you have the full measure of the unique position held by this stamp in the affection of philatelists—the abiding hold upon the public fancy of "my friend, the Penny Black."

C. G. DIETRICH, NUTLEY, N. J.

THE STAMPS OF AUSTRIA, 1914-19.

By MAJOR R. H. D. LOCKHART.

Of all the stamps issued during the war none are more beautiful in either design, printing, or colours than the "field post" stamps of Austria and Bosnia. For that reason, I feel sure this group will become a popular one among British collectors in the near future.

For those who wish to collect these issues, the following notes may prove useful, as there is as yet no British catalogue which provides a reference list.

I will first of all deal with the ordinary postage stamps of Austria.

The first to be issued after the outbreak of war were two low values of the Jubilee set of 1910, with the date altered to 1914. These stamps were sold at 2 heller above face value, and the proceeds went to a fund for the widows and orphans of soldiers.

1914 (October 4th).—Surface-printed, perf. 12½, no wmk., chalky paper. Design of 1910, but with date of 1914.

5+2 heller, green. 10+2 heller, rose.

On May 1st, 1915, a larger set of charity stamps was placed on sale. The designs are pictorial, each value showing one branch of the armed forces. They were sold at 1, 2 and 3 heller above face value respectively. The series remained on sale till the end of September, 1915.

1915 (May 1st).—Surface-printed on chalky paper, perf. 12½, no wmk. Various designs.

3+1h violet-brown. 20+3h blue green.
5+2h green. 35+3h ultramarine.
10+2h rose.

During this period the postage stamps of the 1908 series were still on sale, but on October 1st, 1916, an entirely new set was issued. The stamps are of the same large size as the 1908 series. The design of the low values, from 3 to 12 heller, is the Imperial Crown; the middle values, from 15 to 30 heller, show a portrait of the Emperor Francis Joseph, and the values from 40 to 90 heller show the arms of Austria. The krona values are of similar design to the 90 heller, but are of larger size and line-engraved.

1916 (October 1st).—Surface-printed, perf. 12½, no wmk. Various designs.

3h violet. 25h light blue.
5h green. 30h slate blue.
6h orange. 40h olive.
10h lilac. 50h bluish green.
12h greenish blue. 60h blue.
15h carmine. 80h red brown.
20h brown. 90h lilac.

Line-engraved.
2 krona, deep blue. 4 krona, dark green.
3 krona, carmine. 10 krona, deep violet.

It will be noticed that the colours of the 10 and 15 heller are changed to meet the increased postage rates.

In addition to the above values, four stamps were printed, but never issued, viz.:

24 heller, blue.
36 heller, violet.
54 heller, orange.
42 heller, deep brown.

all bearing the portrait of the Emperor. In 1917 these four stamps were used as postage dues by surcharging them with the word "PORTO" on top and over the figures of value, the new values being as follows: 10, 15, 20 and 50 heller.

With this new complete series there appeared a pair of triangular stamps for express newspapers. The values are 2 heller red on yellow and 5 heller green on yellow.

The death of the old Emperor and the accession of the young Emperor Karl made the stamps of 15 to 30 heller obsolete. On May 10th, 1917, these four stamps were replaced by new ones, bearing the portrait of the new ruler.

1917 (May 10th).—Surface-printed, perf. 12½, no wmk.

15h brownish red.
20h blue-green (a pale green shade is known also).
25h blue.
30h violet.

Five days later two new "express newspaper" stamps appeared. The triangular shape had proved a nuisance so the design was redrawn to fit horizontal oblong. The values and colours remained as before.

In the autumn of 1917 a new print of the krona values appeared, in which all the colours were made brighter and more attractive.

1917.—Issue of 1916 in new colours, line engraved, perf. 12½, no wmk.
2 krona, sky blue.
3 krona, rose.
4 krona, yellow-green.
10 krona, light violet.

An aeroplane mail was started between Vienna, Cracow, and Lemberg the end of March, 1918, and, to pre-empt the charges of letters carried by mail, three special stamps were issued.

1918 (March 30th).—Aeroplane stamps surcharged "FLUG-POST" and value. Line-engraved series of 1 Special printing in new colours.
1.50 kr on 2 krona violet.
2.50 kr on 3 krona yellow.
4 kr light grey.

This post proved a failure, and stamps were soon withdrawn from sale.

Just before the Armistice, four values were prepared—viz., 4, 45 heller, and 1 krona, but only the 4 and 45 heller were ever issued.

1918 (September 1st).—New values current series, surface-printed, perf. 12½, no wmk.
1 krona, red on yellow.

At the same time the values 2 to 10 krona appeared on silk thread paper but with colours unaltered.

THE REVOLUTION.

November, 1918, saw the break-up of the Austrian Empire and flight of the Emperor. The Republic which assumed the reins of power in Vienna started postal operations by overprinting all stamps in stock with the word "Deutschösterreich" in German diagonally up the stamp. The values thus treated were those in use on the silk thread paper. The unprinted stamps had only recently been placed on sale, and they are consequently quite scarce, and should rise greatly in value.

Yvert catalogues the 20 heller stamp with head of Francis Joseph, with German-Austria overprint, but I can find a copy of the stamp in any dealer's stock, so I am inclined to doubt its existence.

The values I have seen are as follows:—

1919.—Stamps of 1917-18 issue, printed "DEUTSCHÖSTERREICH" diagonally upwards.

3h violet	Design.
5h green
6h orange	Imperial Crown
10h lilac
12h greenish blue
15h brownish red
20h deep green	Emperor Karl
25h blue
30h lilac 40h olive
50h blue-green	Arms of Austria
60h blue	(Surface-printed)
80h reddish brown
90h violet
1kr red on yellow
2h light blue
3h rose	Arms of Austria
4h light green	(line-engraved)
10h light violet

Yvert is also wrong in ascribing the colours of 1916 to the krona values instead of those of 1917.

At the same time the complete set of newspaper, express, and postage stamps received the same overprint.

This provisional issue was succeeded in September, 1919, by the permanent issue; a series of upright stamps of curious design.

1919.—Surface-printed, perf. 12½, no wmk.

3h grey	Design.
6h orange	"Posthorn."
12h greenish blue
15h yellow green
10h carmine
25h blue	"An Eagle."
45h olive
1kr red on yellow
20h deep green
30h brown
40h violet	"A classical figure"
50h blue

Doubtless by the time these lists

print, the high values will have been issued to complete the set. This brings the Chronicle to date, so will now turn to the "Feldpost" and occupation stamps issued by Austria during the war.

PART II.

THE "FELDPPOST" STAMPS.

The British occupation of Northern France during the past five years was purely military one. In this it differed from the occupations of the Central Powers. When Austria seized any territory she administered it, and consequently had to run a postal service. The "Feldpost" stamps are principally for this purpose, and they were issued for all territory within the "war area" except Bosnia. Bosnia was under a military government during the whole period, and consequently used her own official stamps.

The first series of "Feldpost" stamps issued by Austria was the 1912 series for Bosnia, with the black overprint "SERBIEN" horizontally along the bottom of each stamp. The invasion of Serbia was hardly the success the Austrians expected, and, on being driven back across the frontier, they naturally had to further use for these stamps. It is extremely doubtful whether any were actually used at all, and collectors should beware of false postmarks. This set was eventually reissued on March 6, 1916, and remained in use for a short time concurrently with the sets that will be described later. These stamps are all scarce, and the full set would be worth £6 to £7 at least.

4 (September).—Bosnian stamps of 1912, overprinted "SERBIEN" in black capitals, horizontally on the bottom of each stamp.

olive.	3kr carm. on green.
blue.	25h blue.
wine red.	30h orange red.
green.	35h blackish green.
black.	40h violet.
light carmine.	45h olive brown.
olive green.	50h blackish blue.
yellow brown.	60h red lilac.
purple violet on cham-	72h dark blue.
pagne.	5kr violet on grey.
green on blue.	10kr blue on grey.

The next set was issued on April 1, 1915. A general set for use in the occupied territories—Russian land, Galicia, Montenegro, Albania, etc.—The stamps used were again the 1912 issue of Bosnia, overprinted "K.U. FELDPPOST" in two lines in black, reading diagonally up the stamp.

The values and colours are, of course, exactly the same as in the Serbian set described. This set remained in use only two months, and many values were very scarce, particularly the 30 kr and 3 and 10 krona. The full set fetches £8 to £9 in Holland or Belgium.

This set was replaced by a permanent issue on July 1st, 1915. The portrait is the same, but the design is slightly altered. The words "Bosnien-herzogovina" are, of course, abolished, and that the lower part of the stamp contains merely the figures of value. The inscription at the top is altered to read "K.U.K. FELDPPOST."

5 (July 1st).—Line-engraved, no wmk., perf. 12½.

light blue.	30h orange red.
brown red.	35h dark green.
green.	40h deep violet.
black.	45h black olive.
light carmine.	50h blackish green.
greenish olive.	60h brown lilac.
yellow brown.	72h deep blue.
red lilac on cham-	3kr carmine on green.
pagne.	5kr violet on grey.
black on light blue.	10kr blue on grey.

All these "Feldpost" sets of Austria are known imperforate, and very high values are asked for such varieties in Germany, but it is exceedingly doubtful if any stamps were ever officially issued in such condition.

By the Spring of 1916, Serbia had fallen into Austrian hands. The victors therefore issued a series for this country. This series was exactly the same as the first "Serbien" set, except that the surcharge was now made diagonal across the lower right corner of each stamp. This issue was made on March 6th, 1916, and on the same date the 1914 issue was placed on sale again, but it is difficult to be certain if any were really postally used.

I will not provide a check list, as both series are identical except for the position of the overprint.

In April of the same year, the general "Feldpost" set was made available for use in Serbia, and consequently only one printing was made of the special "Serbien" series.

In consequence of the increase in the postage rate, some new values were added to the "General" set, and the colours of the low values were altered to suit the Postal Union colour agreement.

1916.—Line-engraved, design of 1915, no wmk., perf. 12½.

10 heller, sky blue.
15 heller, carmine rose.
20 heller, olive green.
80 heller, yellow brown.
90 heller, wine red.
4kr dark lilac on grey.

For some obscure reason, two stamps were specially overprinted for use in Montenegro in the spring of 1917.

1917 (March 1st).—Austrian "feldpost" stamps of 1915, overprinted, in black, "KUK MILIT. VERWALTUNG MONTENEGRO."

10 heller, sky blue.
15 heller, carmine rose.

These two stamps are of considerable rarity. They were later overprinted with the word "MONTENEGRO" in black along the bottom of the stamp, but were never issued in this condition.

The death of the old Emperor made a new general series necessary, and this duly appeared in 1917. These stamps are very similar in design to the stamps they succeeded, but hardly so effective, though the portrait of the young Emperor is a work of art—a delightful piece of engraving.

The check-list is as follows:—

1917.—Design of 1915 modified and portrait of new Emperor substituted. Line-engraved, no wmk., perf. 12½.

1h greenish blue.	30h blackish grey.
2h orange-red.	40h olive.
3h black-brown.	50h deep green.
5h light green.	60h deep carmine.
6h violet.	80h steel blue.
10h yellow-brown.	90h deep violet.
12h dark blue.	2kr car. on lt. yellow.
15h rose.	3kr deep grn. on grn.
20h chocolate brown.	4kr car. on brt. green.
25h violet blue.	10kr violet on grey.

The conquest of Roumania in the autumn of 1917 resulted in a flood of occupation stamps by both Germany and Austria. Austria's contribution consisted of two series. The first series was issued at Bucharest on November 1st, 1917. It was composed of a special printing of the "Emperor Karl" general series. The engine-turned tablet at the bottom of the stamp between the figure of value was overprinted in black with the word "BANI" or "LEI". The values and colours of this series are exactly the same as for the current "feldpost" stamps of Austria, so a check-list is unnecessary.

A whole year passed before any Caporetto and the occupation of a good portion of Venezia. The Austrian headquarters occupied the same town—Udine—that General Cadorna had just evacuated, and there, in the autumn of 1917, the stamps for the Austrian occupation of Italy were issued.

1917 (December).—Austrian "feldpost" stamps of 1917 with portrait of the Emperor Karl. Line-engraved, no wmk., perf. 12½. Surcharged with new values in black.

2 cent. on 1 heller, blue-green.
3 cent. on 2 heller, orange-red.
4 cent. on 3 heller, brown-black.
6 cent. on 5 heller, green.
7 cent. on 6 heller, violet.

1918 (July 20th).—Series of stamps known as the "Karlfonds" stamps. Surface-printed, perf. 13, no wmk. Inscribed "K.U.K. FELDPPOST KARLFONDS."

- 10+10 heller, green (Karl's portrait).
- 20+10 heller, purple (Zita's portrait).
- 45+10 heller, blue (Karl's portrait).

A somewhat similar set was issued in Bosnia on the same day, but these may be recognized by their inscription, which reads "K.U.K. Militär Post."

The summer of 1918 also saw a new issue for Roumania. The set of November, 1917, was reissued in a slightly modified form. The engine-turning on the tablet between the figures of value was omitted, so that the words "BANI" and "LEI" appeared on a plain background. In the case of the "lei" values the letter "k" was omitted, so that the value appears "2 LEI 2" instead of "2K LEI 2K," as in the former edition. There was no change in the values or colours, so that a check-list is unnecessary.

Just before the Italian victory on the Piave, in the autumn of 1918, a new series was printed. The stamps are somewhat similar to the "Karlfonds" series of July, 1918, and are surface-printed.

1918 (September).—Surface-printed, perf. 13, no wmk. Portrait of the Emperor Karl.

The defeat and break-up of the Austrian Empire prevented the issue of these stamps, and thus ingloriously ends the story of the "Feldpost" stamps of Austria. They are simple, and there are no minor varieties. Prices are not excessive, though some series are rapidly getting scarce. Their colouring is superb, and there are few, if any, finer examples of the engraver's art in all the eighty years of postage stamps. For these reasons, I cannot imagine the British collector boycotting them for any length of time.—Stamp Collecting.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

CROATIAN EMISSIONS.

By MAXWELL KRAUSE.

There have arisen, during the past two years, many complex problems for philatelists to solve. The world chaos resulting from the Great War and the armistice has set the stamp-collecting fraternity topsy-turvy and made our albums antiquated and obsolete. Poland, with her rapid succession of issues and provisional issues, has, I fancy, kept many a collector awake o'night, disturbed his sleep and given his better half just cause and grounds for divorce. The hundreds of surcharges, hand-stamped and machine-stamped, with which the various cities of the Ukraine surcharged the stamps of the old Russian Empire, are enough to disturb the tranquil life of any easy-going, mild and gentle philatelist. The magic trident, Hetman sign of sovereignty in the Ukraine, has been impressed in so many forms on Russian stamps, that he must indeed be a dispassionate collector of Neurop, who can consider the multiplicity of this surcharge and continue normal in his every-day life.

But these countries have, at least, been definite units. Their postal issues have been complex, but we have no difficulty in tracing their origin and meaning. Jugo-Slavia, on the other hand, offers a different problem. Here we have several newly-liberated states, destined to be united into a single kingdom, inflicting postal issues upon the long-suffering philatelic public, each for its own particular use. To picture a similar situation, let us imagine that postage stamps were in use at the end of the American Revolution. Until the Constitution had finally been approved and ratified by all the States, we would have had the stamps of Great Britain existing with surcharges for each of the thirteen original colonies, or the same number of definite issues to take their place.

Jugo-Slavia (consisting of Serbia, Croatia, Carniola, Bosnia, Montenegro and the part of Dalmatia not occupied by Italian forces) was not at any rate quite that bad. Thus far only one of the former southern Austro-Hungarian provinces issued stamps, namely Croatia, which read DRZAVNA POSTA—HRVATSKA and are supposed to be valid in Croatia-Slavonia only, while the so-called Laibach issue stamps are valid in all Jugo-Slav territories, as indicated by the letters SHS or CXK. This is quite plain, but on the other hand the Kingdom of Serbia stamps are used in Serbia only, together with the SHS stamps. Let me confess right here that I am somewhat hazy on the geographical and political end of the proposition. While intensely interested, I am not sufficiently acquainted with the facts to enter into a controversy with anyone concerning the exact boundaries or political composition of any of these divisions. Since I am considering the issues of Croatia only, in this article, I will hereafter confine myself to that State, or, rather, to its postal emissions.

The former Kingdom of Croatia, for many years tributary to Hungary, used the postage stamps of that country and received its supplies of them, before the termination of the war, direct from Budapest. On the proclamation of the independence of Jugo-Slavia on the 29th of October, 1918, the postal service of the several states passed into the hands of the local authorities and Croatia celebrated its autonomy by surcharging the stocks of Hungarian stamps remaining in its possession. This surcharge consisted of a line across the monetary designation of filler, and the imprint, in two lines, of "Hrvatska" and SHS. The former word means Croatia. The three letters SHS have been variously interpreted, but the correct meaning is Srbska, Hrvatska, Slovenska, or Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia. The obliteration of the word "filler" leaves these surcharged stamps without the designation of the monetary unit, which in fact is "fillir" (Heller in German), but I suppose that in a new issue a term not reminiscent of the former Austro-Hungarian empire will be found.

On the higher values the Hungarian Korona was obliterated with the new money-term Kruna; on those stamps bearing the effigies of Hungary's former rulers, the imperial crown was covered with a round figure resembling a wheel; on the Charity stamps the Magyar "2 filler Hadisegegy" was obliterated in two lines by the Croatian "2F ZA Narod. Vijece"—"for the national people's assembly". On the 2f orange-yellow Newspaper stamps, the Magyar label "Hirlapjegyz" was obliterated with small vertical lines and on the green and red special delivery stamps the word "Sürgös" was replaced with "Zurno" meaning "quick". But the surcharges Hrvatska and SHS, always in black, appeared on every stamp.

The printing of these surcharges was done at Agram by several printing houses. Carelessness and untrained help resulted in a number of errors and in poor type-setting. Reverse, transverse and double overprints are not uncommon. The 10f Reaper with white figures has been found with overprint on the back of the stamp, and the 20f Emperor Charles is said to exist with surcharge in blue instead of black.

So far as we know, there are forty-one varieties of this Croatian surcharge. Their comparative rarity is, of course, determined by the number of each issued. This can be determined from the following official figures published in the paper Narodne Novine or National Gazette:—

While these surcharged stamps were still in use, there appeared an issue of four values to celebrate the independence of Croatia. These stamps showed a coat of arms surmounted by the figure of a kneeling slave breaking his chains.

On a label drawn around the two sides and bottom of the coat of arms appear the words "29 LISTOPADA 1918", which signifies the 29th of October, 1918, the day of the declaration of independence from Hungary.

Above the slave appears the now well-known "Hrvatska" and in each of the upper corners the letters SHS. In the lower corners are the figures of value. This set, which was issued from Agram, was announced to consist of the following

10h red, 30,000

20h violet, 30,000

25h blue, 25,000

45h olive-green, 15,000

However, I cannot help thinking that either a further printing or a reprint of this issue took place, for the price of the set has declined, in Switzerland from 85 francs to 35 francs within the last two months. 35 francs would certainly be too little for a set of which only 15,000 complete series exist.

The supply of surcharged Hungarian stamps diminished rapidly and the Croatian authorities issued from Agram a series which had more the appearance of a definite issue. It consisted of ten values and three designs of numerous shades and several perforations. The first three values show the allegorical figure of a woman, surrounded by rays of light and with a halo which contains the three letters SHS. The figure of value is directly beneath her feet and Hrvatska appears beneath the value. The label at the top of the stamp contains the words "Drzavna Posta" (Governmental Postal Service). The next four values show a sailor standing before a mast on which flies a flag bearing the letters SHS. The values in the upper and lower labels correspond with the first three values. The last three, or Kruna values, show an eagle with spread wings perched on the head of two other eagles which seem rather worse for wear. Here Hrvatska appears on top of the figure of value. A circular label surrounds the top of the figure and contains the inscription "Drz. HS Posta." I am unable to state the number of stamps issued of each value at they must have been considerable. I have also seen them used on letters mailed from towns in Slovenia and believe that they were in fairly general use in both provinces. A description of the series follows:

- 2h light brown, (woman).
- 3h lilac, (woman).
- 5h light green, (woman).
- 10h red, (sailor).
- 20h choc. brown, (sailor).
- 25h blue, (sailor).
- 45h olive-green, (sailor).
- 1k carmine, (eagle).
- 3k dark lilac, (eagle).
- 5k brown, (eagle).

There was also a newspaper stamp issued of the value of 2h. Unlike the postal emissions, it was imperforate and consisted of an almost solid block of golden yellow with Drz. Posta and Hrvatska in white letters at the top, HS in a white circle in the center and white figures of value in each lower corner.

These stamps appear to have been dispersed by the so-called Laibach issue showing a giant breaking the chains which bound him. This latter issue bears the name of the Serbo-Croat-Slovene state and is intended for use throughout Jugo-Slavia, as letters from the different territories would indicate.

SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) ANNUAL.

Members of the Springfield stamp club held their annual meeting recently with 25 present. One new member was admitted into the club at the business session. The annual reports were given and the secretary reported 26 meetings held during the year with an average attendance of 20. The club now has 32 active members and 15 passive members, even having been added during the year. The president gave a summary of the year's work, and the treasurer reported good balance on hand in spite of the extra expense, as the club remitted the dues of all members in the service.

The entertainment committee reported contests held, conducted on the handicap basis. Allowing for all handicaps, C. C. Lapham came out ahead, Mr. Morris second and Edgar D. Curtis third. The first five men were very close with only about five points apart. The report of the judges on the fifth annual contest was given. These papers were submitted this year to three Springfield men who are not stamp collectors. They were Ralph W. Ellis, E. Lyford and Henry Bradley. Each member was allowed to choose his own subject. Eight members entered the contest. The winners were Robert C. Monroe first, who showed a page from "The story of postage stamps"; Henry Lincoln Bailey, second, who showed a special Barnum & Bailey circus, the stamps showing the pictures of animals arranged on a circle with the side rows; Mr. Morris, third, and he showed reasons for issuing United States stamps, showing the many purposes they have been used for.

This was followed by the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, John W. Prevost; vice-president, Edgar D. Curtis; secretary, Lynwood A. Bemis; treasurer, Albert W. Morris. The next meeting will be held two weeks with Leigh F. Morgan of Hardy street. The date for the observance of the 25th anniversary has been set for February 12 and an elaborate program is being arranged. The date will be announced later.

WITH OUR ADVERTISERS.

The outstanding feature of this special number is the Phillips advertising found on the six middle pages of the issue. It is no doubt the greatest advertisement of a philatelic nature ever published. We know of nothing in the history of the WEEKLY that can approach it. This is not a demonstration of favoritism towards the WEEKLY, but a purely business proposition. Mr. Phillips frankly says that he could not and would not advertise with us as he does unless it was a profitable proposition. We appreciate the splendid testimonial that this firm gives to the strength of our publication as an advertising medium.

The Marks and Western Stamp Companies each have a page advertisement and the former firm also carries two smaller ones. Since the season opened, they have taken a number of pages. Quite recently the Marks Stamp Co. has increased their office accommodations and the firm is without doubt doing the greatest stamp business in Canada and one that will rival the best in the United States. The Western Stamp Co. has contracted for five pages to be used for this season.

The page advertisement of the Knickerbocker Stamp Co. is strictly in keeping with the title of this number. The offers presented show that the firm has a nice line of stamps from all the New Europe countries. We might add that this name is being used by a dealer long established in New York City and one who has been a regular patron of the WEEKLY in the past. We are well acquainted with the firm and can assure our readers that prompt and courteous treatment is a part of the Knickerbocker's business assets.

The Dietrich advertisement of a half page is also quite in keeping with the contents of this special number. Mr. Dietrich has taken pains to secure a varied assortment of Neurope supplies and his advertisements in the past weeks have indicated his success in this direction.

The quarter pages of Scott Stamp & Coin Co., Krause, Mann, Voorhees, Moon, Bier, Parker and Hennig are all prominent features in the presentation of this special number, and we wish them well in their quest for business.

We have a galaxy of names in connection with the use of eighth pages: Fox, Buckey, Gallant, Hyde, Hussey, McFadden, Carter, Pauline, Chandler, Nickles, Williams and Watson are all represented. Our subscribers are earnestly requested to hold this special number and make it a medium for bargain hunting during the weeks that are to follow. It will be practically impossible to do justice to the many offerings found herein in the confines of a single week.

NEW ALBANIAN SURCHARGES.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

When the Austrians were forced to evacuate Albania, they left behind them, in Scutari, quantities of stamps which they had prepared for the fiscal administration of Albania. These stamps bear the following inscriptions in Albanian and German: ADMINISTRAT' E FINANCAVET TE SHQPNIS above, FINANZVERWALTUNG ALBANIENS below, the double eagle in centre; figures of value in all four corners, word of value top and bottom. There are two types of the eagle on the 64 heller, the normal being small in outline, the variety large, and solid color.

The Albanians surcharged these stamps, and in doing so apparently made use of all the type in Scutari, judging from the variety of fonts represented. The new value appears at top, over the old. The Albanian inscription is covered by the word POSTA, below the eagle is "e Shkodres" and over the German inscription, SHQYPNIS. The lower value label is covered with 5 parallel horizontal bars. In order to obliterate the eagle, and as a control mark, a comet is hand-stamped in aniline ink. There are several varieties of this comet, marking several different issues, but the purpose of this paper is to list the varieties of type in the surcharges, these being the same in all the issues, which include postage dues surcharged TAXE, and a postage issue with XVIMCMIX for control.

tions but the above were found in 20 specimens of each value. In the first issue with Roman Numeral control, the control surcharge is in malachite green on the 10, and in eosin red on the others. In the second issue with curved comet to left, the 10 has the comet in malachite green, the others in eosin. The third issue has the comet to right, straight tail, gentian violet on all values. The postage due surcharge is in gentian violet also.

Only the third issue is obtainable at a reasonable figure; the first and second and the dues are very scarce.

is simply great if you're that fond of it. Just to show that there is something else to the stamp business I crave pardon for stating the following facts:

This business was established in a serious way about five years ago on a capital consisting chiefly of a rubber band and a shoe-string, backed by a firm faith in stamps and a tremendous amount of nerve, gall, sprightliness and personal egotism. The rubber band became hors du combat quite sometime ago but there are now two shoe-strings.

During 1919, I travelled more than 15,000 miles to buy, sell, talk about, look at and study stamps.

Without any assistance from any other human being I sent out to my customers through the mails alone during those twelve months about 600 selections having a total net value in excess of $36,000. Every detail connected with the business was attended to by myself.

The net profits of the business compare favorably with the wages of an average mechanic of ordinary skill, but whereas the latter has no capital investment and assumes no risk of loss I am obliged to work far longer hours than he does in order to give my customers satisfactory service. Perhaps my service is what you have been looking for. There's nothing like trying it to find out.

United States Stamps WANTED

I am exceedingly anxious to purchase anything really fine in the way of United States Stamps either postage or revenue. I will buy single items or entire collections. Remember, I am interested in stamps for the pleasure I derive from them and when buying anything it is not necessary for me to figure a profit. I simply figure how much it is worth to my collection and as a result pay top notch prices for top notch things.

If your collection is in FINE condition and is for sale I would be pleased to have you submit on approval. Also want old covers, blocks, etc. I am buying several collections monthly, most of which have possibly been submitted to others. There must be a reason why they finally reach me. Write me before selling elsewhere.

UNITED STATES.—On January 1, 1920, the Post Office Department placed on sale at all of its offices, the new War Saving Stamps, together with the necessary cards for mounting twenty of them. This year the stamp is a little wider than the one of last year and is square rather than rectangular. In the center there is enclosed within a circle a Stuart portrait of George Washington and running up and down on either side we find the different months of the year mentioned together with the value of the stamp for redemption purposes during the month in question. The stamp is printed in a beautiful shade of carmine.

1920 War Saving Stamp. Perf. 11.

Your editor is giving quite a little attention to the study of the 2c rotary coil stamp and hopes that by the time he reaches this variety in his article on the "Coil Stamps of the United States" now appearing in the WEEKLY that he will be able to present full details regarding the many types and sub-types. While a wonderful lot of material is on hand to work with, nevertheless he solicits unused strips of four of this stamp, both watermarked and unwatermarked, sideways and endwise in all shades. If you have a coil of these stamps or any duplicates, rip out a line strip and send it along and we will not only remit promptly but will thank you publicly for your kindness. The Bureau will be able to tell us what they have done, but it will take the actual stamps themselves to tell which appear watermarked and which appear unwatermarked.

Mr. P. Dillingham is the first to show us the new Post Office Official seal, he having submitted a vertical pair for our inspection. The stamp is printed in black on white unwatermarked paper and is perf 12. It is rectangular, similar to the last issue, and in the center we find the same Liberty Head, flanked on each side by labels in one of which we find "Officially" and in the other "Sealed." At the top, "Post Office Department," and directly under this, "United States of America." The lower half of the stamp is left blank, the word "By," only, appearing in this space. This is left blank for the stamp of the post office using the seal. The entire design is enclosed within a fancy rectangular border with rounded corners.

We learn from a press notice dated Washington, January 15th, that the House of Representatives in considering the Post Office bill for 1921 eliminated appropriations for continuing existing aeroplane mail service after July 1st next, including proposed extensions. This item carried $850,000.00 for purchase of airplanes and the extension of aerial mail routes through the South and to Alaska. Supporters of the aerial mail service look to the Senate to restore the provision. The bill as it passed the House, carried an appropriation of $460,977,868.00 for maintenance of the department. This is the largest post office appropriation ever presented.

COOK ISLANDS.—A London correspondent writes:—"Recently I was informed, on what I consider to be first-rate authority, that there is shortly to be an entirely new pictorial series of postage stamps for the Cook Islands, which are intended to advertise the beauties of the archipelago, and the rich possibilities of its trade. I am given to understand that the designs of these will most probably embrace, among others, the following subjects:—(1) View of Rarotonga; (2) View of Rarotonga; (3) British Residency, Rarotonga; (4) Shark Fishing, Aitutaki; (5) The Makatea (Ancient Reef), Mangaia; (6) View of Atiu; (7) Natives, Mitiaro; (8) View of Mauki. These will, of course, supersede the already obsolete "queen Makea" and "Wry-neck" stamps of the Federation, as well as the provisionals of Aitutaki and Rarotonga."

We were very much surprised the other day to be shown the 2d, bird type, surface printed, on chalky paper, perf. 15x14. It seems that these were issued several months ago, shortly before the Rarotongan stamps were put on sale. As far as we can gather, not more than 80 sheets, i. e., about 10,000 stamps, were received at the Auckland office. A few speculators became aware of the fact, and before the general public knew of their existence, they went in and bought up the lot. Fortunately for them, the Government printing office people did not print any more, as the 2d Rarotongans had been sent out in the interim. The purchasers kept the matter dark as long as it suited them, and the stamps are now being offered at considerably enhanced prices. They can easily be distinguished, for they are very much better productions than the previous kinds. — Australian Stamp Journal.

DENMARK.—We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for showing us copies of the new 60 ore value and the 15 ore Official stamp. The colors of the former are brown and blue, while the latter is printed in dull purple.

FINLAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson has shown us copies of the following new provisionals, 10 on 5p and 20 on 10p. The surcharges are both in black and of the same style as 50 on 25p described in the last issue. Mr. Wilson adds that the surcharging of the 50 on 25p in black was an error, as it was to have been in red, and this color will be used in the future. These were all issued the 24th of last month.

ROUMANIA.—Mr. Gerald Mongeon advises us that he has seen a copy of M.V.I.R. surcharge of Scott's No. 220 with surcharge inverted.

RUSSIA—Offices in China.—We quote Champion's Bulletin: "The director of the Russian Post-office at Kharbin, for some time having been short of the high values of Russian stamps, was authorized to proceed to surcharge a number of smaller values. One of our correspondents has been so kind as to send us a few specimens of these surcharges and writes that six values thus have been created. They are the following: 35k on 2k, 50k on 1k, 70k on 3k, 1 rouble on 4k, 3 roubles on 7k, 5 roubles on 14 kop. The envelope our correspondent sends us is prepaid with these stamps; one of them, the 35 on 2k, is perforated, the other imperf rate, but we do not know if the same is the case with the other values. The also appears to exist a rare error: the 1 kop. imperf. having been surcharged '70' unawares, as the normal surcharge should be '50.'—So far Champion Bulletin.

In regard to above we may note, that in our number 8 we chronicled under the heading "Russia" the 35 on 2 kop. This stamp, according to our correspondent, was issued also for use in Siberia, and as our sending prepaid with no less than 10 of these stamps was postmarked "Irkutsk" (Siberia) our informant appears to be correct. — Philatelic Trader.

TURKEY.—Owing to a shortage of small coin, several values of the regular Pictorial Issue have been placed in circulation, on heavy ungummed paper and re-perforated. They are available both for postage as well as currency. — Economist Bulletin.

TURKS ISLANDS.—We have been shown by J. A. Galbraith and P. Smith specimens of the very recent war tax issue in these islands. The 1d and 3d were both overprinted "War Tax" in two lines in black. They were issued Dec. 15 and are already obsolete, the war tax law having expired Dec. 28. Mr. Galbraith also shows the 25h in carmine slightly different from the shade of the 1d, and no doubt due to the fact that it is printed on greenish tinted paper. Curiously enough the green tint shows on the margins of the sheets but is hard to distinguish in the stamp itself.

BOUNDARY LINES IN NEW EUROPE AS SEEN BY "STAMP COLLECTING."

BARANYA STAMPS OF HUNGARY.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
By MAXWELL KRAUSE.

The year 1919 was not only prolific in issues of new nations brought into being by the Council of Versailles, but it brought forth such a multitude of surcharges that the collector of 20th Century stamps or of War Issues or of Neurope can well ask "where is the end thereof?"

New states seized the postal emissions of their late overlords and overprinted them with the symbols of their new-found independence. Expeditionary forces of the Allies or the buccaneering troops of their smaller confederates celebrated Victory by imprinting the stamps of the Central Powers with the tokens of their triumph. Germany and Austria had surcharged the stamps of Belgium, Serbia, Roumania, Montenegro, Russia and Italy, or had overprinted their own stamps for postal use in those countries, and it was fitting that the Allies return the compliment. So 1919 witnessed an orgy of provisional issues that has never been surpassed.

The close of the war found the entire southern part of Hungary occupied by allied troops. Under the terms of the armistice, the postal and telegraphic service was left in the hands of the local Hungarian authorities under the supervision of Allied commissioners.
Gradually some order was restored and the ordinary routine of business life resumed its normal course.

It was at this time that the Bolsheviks seized control of the Budapest Government. Hungary fell under yoke of the new economic religionists and the little order that existed threatened to return to chaos. Among the Hungarian comitates was the little southern division of Baranya, of which Pecs (Funfkirchen in German) is the principal town. It was occupied by the Serbians, who had supervision of all its economic affairs.

Its people, too, were to a large extent sympathetic with the Jugo-Slavs, just as many of the citizens of southern Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois were sympathetic with the South in the war of the Rebellion. Encouraged, no doubt, by the Serbians, they revolted against the Bolshevik regime and declared a temporary independence. What better way of displaying that independence to the outside world than by displaying it on their postage stamps? A brilliant and fashionable idea indeed. On the 5th of May, 1919, the post-office at Pecuh,
(the Croation or Serbian term for Pecs) principal city, or county-seat, as we would term it, of Baranya, placed on sale the new stamps. They were the various issues of Hungary surcharged.

The Pecuh post-office seems to have had on hand quite a varied supply of the old stamps. We find no less than thirty-seven different stamps bearing the new surcharge of "1919 Baranya" in two lines, and in some cases a new value added, making three lines. The old issue of Hungary with the turul bird, the mower and parliament issue, Charles and Zita, charity stamps, the previously surcharged Koztarsasag provisionals, and the special delivery and postage due stamps were all brought forth and sent again to the printing press.

But sadly enough, the local authorities were not yet content. Probably to make an even half-hundred, they further increased the number of varieties by duplicating some of the surcharges in red ink, the great majority having been surcharged in black.

There can be no question as to the authenticity of the issue, for the stamps were postally used during several months and during that time were on sale at ANOTHER "FIRST TRIP"

By F. S. POTEET.

Another link in the "Coast to Coast
r Mail Route" was formally opened ursday, January 8th, when Mr. Farr utter, piloting a de Haviland four
neously with Mr. Walter J. Smith aving from Grant Field, Chicago, at omptly 8.30 a. m., westward bound.
r. Nutter was forced to descend for pairs while crossing Iowa, while Mr.
nith, making a long detour to avoid e worst of a snow storm in Illinois
d stopping thirty minutes at Iowa ty, Ia., for gasoline, arrived in Omaha 12.55 p. m., about one hour ahead his schedule and with an actual fly-g time of 3.55 for 490 miles, an avere of 137.46 miles per hour.

There were no special cancellations ed, altho all letters arriving at this minus were stamped: "Delivery of is letter expedited one business day Air Mail." in purple. Each cover d the Chicago Air Mail Service can-ellation in purple and the date, Jan.
9.00 a. m. Practically all had "Inau-ral Flight Chicago—Omaha Air Mail" ewritten in black. Collectors of irst Trips" have much to guide them this occasion. Seven bags of mail re carried each way.

The covers, showing the stamps, were roduced in the Daily News and the orld-Herald of the following dates.
e twelve cent rate of postage and ecial Delivery was made up of two eroplane stamps, altho several were t with ordinary stamps, being marked y Air Mail". Two bags of mail
m New York and other eastern cities re included in this mail and some re destined for points farther west.

This service is scheduled for daily eration beginning February 1st. As on as practicable, it will be extended the coast. It is probable that there l be a special cancellation for s next extension. This matter was ught up in reference to this trip but hing was done in time, altho senti-nt points toward such a special rking for any future inaugural trips.

NEW YORK MATCH CO.
By CHRISTOPHER WEST.
1c Green & 5c Blue.

This company succeeded the firm of B. Howard & Son after Benoni Howard had been driven out of the business as a result of his attempt to defraud the government by using a counterfeit of his own stamp. In January, 1871, it also bought out Bauer & Beudel. The blue Howard stamp was used by the New York Match Co.
only until a new plate could be made from the Howard die by changing the firm name on it. The Bauer & Beudel die was changed and a new plate made early in 1871, but stamps from the old Bauer & Beudel plate continued to be used by the New York Match Co. until June, 1872. Quite likely the use of the old designs was continued because of their trade-mark value and the color of the stamps printed in the Howard design was changed from blue to vermilion to avoid any possibility of confusion with the stamp which had been counterfeited.

The old Bauer & Beudel stamp and the 1c vermilion were discontinued in June, 1872, but the 1c blue, altered from the Bauer & Beudel die, remained in use until August, 1875. During the six years, 1869 to 1875, the New York Match Co. also used another 1c stamp, of which the Boston Book states:—
Die approved, Oct. 18, 1869.
First issued, October, 1869.
Last issued, Nov. 30, 1875.
72 stamps per sheet (12x6).
11,588,128 issued on old paper.
19,728,360 issued on silk paper.

This is a tall stamp measuring 23x60 mm., and excepting only the 5c blue of the same design is the only match stamp of this shape and size in the entire series. Presumably it was intended to encircle the package of matches to which it was affixed. The design is one of the least meritorious of the Philadelphia productions. At the bottom and near the top are found colorless ovals; the upper inscribed,
"A Match-Beyond-Comparison," and the lower, "Office No. 1—Park Place—New York." Between the two ovals is a shaded circular disk with border of pearls bearing "Match" on a fancy shield in the center, with "New York" above and "Company" below. At the top of the stamp, reading upside down, is an ornamental label inscribed "One—1—Cent" and "U. S. Inter. Rev." in two lines.

The stamp was engraved by Carpenter and most of them were printed in Philadelphia. The records would indicate a printing by the National Bank Note Co., but proof of such a printing is lacking. Considerable variation in shade is noted and both yellowish green and a more bluish hue are found on the old paper, which varies in texture as is usual during this period. The yellow green hue is not noted on the regular silk paper.

Regarding the 5c blue the Boston
Book states:—
Die approved, Sept. 12, 1871.
First issued, February, 1872.
Last issued, February, 1872.
72 stamps per sheet, (12x6).
144,000 issued on silk paper.

But one order was ever received for this value, after which the Company informed Mr. Carpenter to consider the stamp as obsolete, as they should not use it in future.

This stamp and the 5c Greenleaf are the only 5c match stamps and were for use on a package of 500 matches.
Evidently few packages containing this number of matches were made and sold during the nineteen years the match tax was in force. The New York 5c is exactly like the 1c green used by this concern in everything but the numeral of value and the color.
The color is a beautiful deep blue and tends to overcome the all too evident mediocrity of the design.

In a collecting sense the 5c blue has always been rare, and as the years go by without any increase in the meagre supply, its rarity is becoming more and more appreciated. The number of copies in existence may total less than twenty and, as only three or four of them are really perfect, that the stamp has acquired a notorious reputation for poor condition is not to be wondered at. Most of them are damaged and many are off center to boot. A goodly number of the M & M stamps rated among the great rarities are only two or three times as rare as this stamp.

The catalog quotations fail to give an adequate idea of the difficulty of obtaining a fine specimen, or even a fairly good one.

(* Sterling.)

The New York Match Co. commenced business at the Howard factory, 527 West 43rd St. The directories for 1871-3 give the factory at 525 West
47th St. and 1875-77 at 523 West 43rd
St. The office was at Park Place for two or three years and then moved to 58 Warren St. The company does not appear after 1876-77. Altogether they used over 66 million stamps, which represented a tax of about $100,000 per year.

THE AZERBAIDJAN ISSUE.

Thanks to the courtesy of my perspicacious correspondents, Messrs.
Whitfield King & Co., I have a complete set of nine gay, if crude, lithographed labels before me, all inscribed "REPUBLIQUE D'AZERBAIDJAN," in French and Turkish. The first, of the face value of 10 kopecs, is upright in form and has the picture of an unknown soldier guarding what may be the national flag (blue, white, and red horizontal stripes); it may be intended to represent the Persian flag, which, however, is of green, white, and red horizontal stripes, the blue band possibly being due to the crudity of the lithograph. However, the national lion, which is a component part of the Persian flag, on which it invariably appears in the centre, is not to be seen on the emblem displayed on the stamp of Azerbaijan. The Ottoman Crescent, instead, figures on the latter.

The 40k, 60k, and 1 rouble stamps are uniform in design, being transverse oblong, with a peasant surveying the setting sun. The 2, 5, and 10 roubles are also similar in design, which is of a mosque, and also displays the Crescent, while the 25 and 50 rouble stamps have a simply drawn view of the roof of some building not specified, as well as the Crescent. These quaint scraps of paper—they are all imperforate and minus watermark, though with gum—are evidently very scarce. Our correspondents received two sets from a British officer on the spot, and remark that they see no reason "why these stamps should be boycotted, as suggested, any more than those of the other small Republics which have been carved out of the late Empires." However, if Azerbaijan was, as already stated, "unfavourable to the cause of the Allies," would not the boycott be justified?

It transpires that, so long ago as May, 1917, provisional stamps were issued in the part of North-West Persia occupied by the Allies, and the following values of the Arms series of Russian adhesives were overprinted with the words "OCCUPATION AZIRBAYEDJAN" diagonally in two lines of small sans-serif capitals: 4, 5, 7, 10, 10 on 7, 15, 20, 25, 35, 50, and 70 kopecs. Now it would be interesting to learn to what extent these were used, and I hope that any reader who has been so fortunate as to have received copies, used on entire, will be good enough to lend them for the purpose of detailed description.

returned to my desk.

I desire to thank my New Issue clients assure them that I greatly regret the days and bookkeeping errors which arose.

THE SOMERVILLE STAMP SOCIETY.

The Somerville (Mass.) Stamp Society held its first exhibition on Thursday evening, January 22. This was the first philatelic exhibit ever held in the city, and the rooms of the society were crowded with visitors and collectors from Boston and vicinity.

Arthur T. Browne, president of the society, opened the meeting shortly after eight o'clock. Much interest was shown in the collections entered, which were arranged in six classes, each group being displayed separately. After those present had examined each lot, the awarding of the prizes was determined by popular vote.

The collection of the stamps of China, exhibited by Clark W. Tuttle, which has won awards from several societies, was given the large silver cup, while Mr. Browne's collection of Nicaragua won the second prize in this class.
Other awards were as follows: Revenue stamps of Mexico, by T. F. Emerson, first prize; revenue stamps of Canada, by Glenn A. Balch, second prize.

Twenty-five most interesting stamps, by Lester M. Bacon, first prize. Local stamps of the United States, by Paul Wilson, first prize. Specialized collection of Three Cent Green, United States, by Mr. Tuttle, first prize. General collection for boys sixteen and under:— Stewart Browne, first prize, and two other awards in this class, for the collection of John and Robert Holmes, and for that of Frank Clements.

Engraved certificates and award ribbons were presented to the winners, and Mr. Bacon donated a set of proofs of the Columbian issue to the winner in the class for boys. Later in the evening a group picture was taken of those present.

The exhibit has stimulated considerable interest among the local collectors, and the attendance on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, when the rooms are open, has noticeably increased.
Meeting place, 258 Elm St., Davis Square.

In Preparation

is a new edition of our Handbook on the U. S. issued since 1901.
If more of the readers of this paper took the trouble to secure these handbooks they would undoubtedly be better posted on our stamps. For ten long years we've been writing, illustrating, explaining all about U. S. Coils yet only last week an educated business man writes us "what is a coil?"

GREAT CAESAR'S GHOST

There is no handbook in the world pricing all the variations of U. S. stamps except this handbook and its as complete as 100 pages or so can make it. Unless we receive support how can we continue to produce these expensive books?

"HARD-TO-GET" United States Stamps AT BARGAIN PRICES

It is almost impossible to obtain fine copies of United States stamps, consequently most collectors content themselves with second grade copies as space fillers. To meet this demand we have put up some of the higher grade United States stamps in packets, which we offer at a very liberal discount from catalogue. Only stamps of a better grade are included—no revenues or envelopes, unless so desired. Included in these packets will be found the '57 and '69 issues, also dollar Columbians, the 7c, 24c and 90c 1870-88 stamps, etc. No two packets exactly alike and no duplicates in any package.

Official Reports and Notes.

In the meantime the vending machines did not produce the results that had been hoped for and expected, but the affixing machines had begun to more than surpass expectation. As a result, many business houses began to install these devices and the demand for coils started. Prior to March 22, 1910, the Post Office Department counted the coils in with the ordinary stamps, but beginning on that day they kept a separate record. During the period beginning March 22, 1910, and ending June 30th of the same year, the post office issued 42,144 coils having a value of $388,161.39. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing had begun to distinguish the coil stamps from the ordinary beginning with the fiscal year starting July 1, 1909, so that during the year ending June 30, 1910, there were actually issued 63,323 coils. Previous to that time no records were kept of the number of coils issued.

In the 1910 report of the Third Assistant Postmaster General we are told of the new machine installed by the Bureau for coiling stamps, to be used in place of the old method of cutting the sheets into strips and pasting them together by hand, but this machine, however, must not be confused with the Stickney rotary press which came along later. I will explain all of these methods of coiling in a later chapter. In this report we are told that the "Bureau of Engraving and Printing has recently completed a machine greatly reduces the cost of putting them chine for coiling postage stamps, which up in that form. It is simple and effective construction and performs the work of about 10 operatives. Under the old method of coiling the cost is from 6c to 12c per coil. During the past year the demand for coiled stamps grew to such an extent as to make this expense something of a burden, and it became necessary to charge it to the user, but with the new machine, however, the coiling is done at a cost of a fraction of a cent and the extra charge can probably be discontinued. If a sufficient number of machines can be installed during the coming year, it should be possible to supply coiled stamps for general purposes. The coils will be a very great convenience to users of postage stamps in quantities, whether an affixing device is used or not. They are particularly adapted also to retail sales in post offices, as stamps can be torn from strips much more conveniently than from sheets." Although the Post Office Department promised us as far back as 1910 to eliminate the extra charge on coils they are still at this date making an excess profit through the few cents that they collect which is supposed to cover cost of coiling.

During the following year, that is the one ending June 30, 1911, the department issued 276,285 coils valued at $2,549,568.75, an increase of 557.13% over the previous report. During this year the department filled 1,343 requisitions for coil stamps from postmasters in comparison with 424 requisitions the previous year, or an increase of 216.51%, which is indeed a wonderful showing. In fact, the demand for coil stamps at this time increased very much more than the demand for any other class of stamps.

The machine previously mentioned for coiling stamps reduced the coiling charges to such an extent during 1911 that we find it could reel rolls of 500 stamps at a cost of 3c to the department and coils of 1000 at 6c, whereas by the old method coils of 500 perforated cost .0761c, the same unperforated .0547c and coils of 1000 respectively .1122c and .0885c.

The report of the Third Assistant Postmaster General for 1911 in speaking of these coil-using vending and affixing machines says that "the department has been pleased to do what it could, by preparing stamps in coils, to facilitate the development and use of these appliances, but it has been compelled to deny many applications for coils in special forms different from the adopted standards. Obviously, it is impracticable to keep on sale in post offices coils constructed to meet the special needs of many different venders and affixers, and if an exception were made in favor of one manufacturer, the demands of others for special construction could not consistently be denied. This office has therefore taken the position that vending and affixing devices requiring coiled stamps should be made to conform to the standards which have been adopted by the department. The standard coils now furnished have 500 and 1000 stamps perforated or unperforated, arranged endwise or sideways, as may be desired by users. From this it will be seen that a considerable variety is provided."

Coils were becoming more popular from month to month and the department seemed to desire their extensive use. On November 29, 1911, the Postmaster General in order No. 5944 instructed postmasters on and after January 1, 1912, to sell coils of 500 stamps at 3c above face value and those of a 1000 at 6c. It may be of interest to mention here that when coils were first issued no extra charge to the public was made to cover the cost of coiling. When the demand became large, however, this extra burden became quite an expense and during the latter part of 1909, the department charged 8c in excess of face value for coils of 500 stamps perforated, 6c for similar coils unperforated and 12c and 9c for coils of 1000 perforated and un-

THE STAMPS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

By W. H. BRUCE.

I have followed with considerable interest Mr. Poole's article on the "Postage Stamps of New Brunswick," and note his reference to an article by the writer in Post Office for October, 1892. The circumstances as related there are absolutely correct, and so far as I know the remainders were never transferred to Halifax or anywhere else. Possibly, Mr. Ward got the incident confused with the Nova Scotia remainders, which later came on the market.

There is, however, an unwritten chapter in the story of those New Brunswick remainders that may be of interest at this time. A considerable quantity of the sheets of various denominations were retained by a Mr. Malcolm A. MacLeod, a Post Office Inspector, and also a stamp collector, who about two years subsequently noting a demand for and the increased value of used copies, had some circular rubber cancellation stamps prepared with the names of "Richibucto," "Hampton," "Sussex" and other towns in the province, and cancelled a large part of his holdings, which later were sold to English dealers and one occasionally met with today in collections. All such cancellations are faked. For this exploit Mr. MacLeod was afterwards retired from the service.

In regard to the Connell Essay, Mr. Poole is also correct in his assumption that no legitimately used copy ever existed. In Stewart's Quarterly, a literary magazine with a stamp department, published at St. John, about 1864, by Geo. Stewart, Jr., appeared a letter over the signature of the Hon. Charles Connell, that not a copy had ever been issued to any post office. This letter later was reproduced in The Postmans Knock, also a St. John publication, but later transferred to San Francisco, where the publisher went for his health, and where he died.

When in Chatham, N. B., a few years ago on a stamp hunt, the writer ran over to Woodstock and had a chat with Dr. Connell, a son, who informed him that so far as he knew, every copy had been destroyed except two, which the family had kept as souvenirs. Just how many copies escaped destruction is not known, but originals are rare, and the reprints are also quite scarce.

Mr. Poole makes no mention of the provisional 1½d, overstamp in the bisected three pence, used at the Fredrickton post office.

NOTES FROM EGYPT.

By FELIX COHEN.

Philately in Egypt is prosperous, notwithstanding only a single philatelic Society has an existence in Alexandria. The Alexandria Philatelic Society only admits 25 members and dealers are, for unknown reasons, excluded. But, on a general line, dealers are not angry at this disposition, as they are having a prosperous time with the many collectors who are among the Officers of the Army of Occupation and who are buying readily. Cairo, the capital, had in past times a philatelic society, but I am informed that it does not now exist, although a goodly number of enthusiastic collectors reside there and that H. H. the Sultan is a keen stamp collector. The beautiful specialized collection of Egypt formed by Mr. A. Eid which pressed my heart with emotion every time this sympathetic collector was pleased to show me, became the property of H. H. the Sultan for the sum of £4,000 months ago.

In a general manner, the new issues of Palestine, Cilicia, Syria, and Arabia aroused the interest of a great number of people who would like to collect but are afraid of the quantity of issues. Little propaganda work has been done here for encouraging people to have interest in stamps, so they are somewhat uncertain about the first steps in our hobby. I do my best to teach the charm of collecting to interested people, but in this country of deserts my voice alone ends in a desert, too. I think it ought to be a duty for a dealer to do always some propaganda work, as the more interest in stamps we have, the better it is for older collectors and ordinary dealers.

Palestine stamps attract the attention both of collector and dealer. The issue is scarce, as the postal traffic is not very great with Palestine, on account of the many restrictions. Moreover, big cities in Syria like Beyrouth, Damascus, etc., which used E. E. F. stamps, have been evacuated by the British Authorities and consigned to the French. Yet there are some errors among the E. E. F. issue (no point after E or F, and PAID with AI tied together etc.), and before parting with some of these stamps, collectors and dealers are eagerly observing if they are all O. K. It is rumored that this set of Palestine, which has been printed by the Survey Department in Cairo, will be replaced as soon as the future of Palestine will be settled, so these stamps will by no means be too common.

The numerous issues of Cilicia have been, strange to say, welcomed here, and as large quantities were to be seen here, (exported from Cilicia "by a former postmaster," "by a vice-postmaster," "by the niece of a post-office servant of some lost village of Cilicia" and so on) many collectors immediately specialized this country. To say the truth, these stamps are not sympathetic to me, as on account of the many issues of the unknown Turkish signification of their arabesques, I am still at a loss to know which stamp is to be placed first in my stock. Somebody showed me specimens with double surcharge, CILICIE other with inverted surcharge, then double of which one inverted and finally three stamps, of which two alone had the surcharge CILICIE. I think that the French speculative system of former times (remember Djibouti, Madagascar, etc.) has been, this time, associated to the natural speculative instinct of Orientals. A complete collection of all this stuff ought to make the collector grasp the opportunity for fresh air, as they offer anything possible in philatelic phantasy. I am surprised at not having seen yet a stamp with six surcharges CILICIE, of which one in red, three in black and two in green, three of which inverted and on the back twice overprinted CIL without ICIE. Then advertise it as scarcer than the Mauritius 2d and that the proprietor would at a sacrifice give it away for a gold field in Alaska!

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Current Opinion for January has an interesting illustrated article, "A Renaissance of Philately," which occupies two pages. Clipping from A. E. Towle.

—The New Haven Junior Philatelic Society is Connecticut's latest contribution to organized philately. It is connected with the local high school and regular meetings are held twice a month. The president is Carroll G. Alton and the secretary, L. O. Kirschner.

—Poole's Advertiser is a No. 1 publication just issued from the office of our Los Angeles dealer friend. It is a house booklet and a sample will no doubt be sent on application. We note a full list of the WEEKLY publications advertised.

—The Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh, Pa., held its 32nd annual dinner at the Hotel Chatham January 20. We have been favored with a "check list" of the spread and a place card made in the form of a post card and bearing a stamp precancelled appropriately in connection with the event.

—The Atlanta (Ga.) Stamp Club was organized Jan. 11, 1920, at the residence of E. L. Neidlinger. Mr. Neidlinger was elected president, Eugene Whitaker secretary, and Walter Lemmond treasurer. Regular meetings will be held and nearby collectors who are interested may address the secretary at 38 Drexel Av., Decatur, Ga.

—The New York Sun of January 25 published a half page article dealing with the "Breaking and Making of Nations Recorded in War-Born Stamps." It is illustrated with the picture of a huge cover bearing the address of Eugene Klein, the Philadelphia dealer. The article is of great interest in its association of new stamps with the "tragedy of breaking empires." Clippings from various parties.

—On the occasion of the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to New York City, Charles Lathrop Pack assisted him in the planting of a tree in Central Park, near where King Edward planted an American elm many years ago. Mr.

ST. PIERRE AND MIQUELON.

One seldom stops to think of these two little islands as being the only remains in North America of the once great French possessions. They were retained simply as fishing stations for the French fleets on the Grand Banks when Canada finally passed into British control in 1763. Their total population is but 5,500, which does not seem to warrant any heavy postal traffic or the need for any great number of stamp values, to say nothing of many surcharges. Yet the Colony has been guilty of a considerable output of provisional stamps besides those regularly appropriated to its use.

Postage stamps were not used in the Islands until the "Eagle" type of the French Colonies issue was supplied in 1859. When used in St. Pierre and Miquelon they can, of course, only be distinguished by the cancellation, which is the regulation French Colonial type, consisting of a lozenge made up of dots with the distinguishing letters of the Colony in the center—in this case the letters "S P M." The same remarks can be applied to the succeeding French Colonial issues—the Emperor's head, laureated and unlaureated, and Ceres head types issued unperforated, to distinguish them from those used in France from 1871 to 1877; the allegorical group type issued in the same manner from 1877 to 1881; and the regular Colonial series in the seated goddess type issued from 1881 to 1891.

Between 1885 and 1891 the Colony seemed to find it necessary to issue some 18 varieties of provisionals, each identified by the letters "S P M" save three peculiar ones which appeared in February, 1886. At this time the abundance of surcharges had exhausted the stock of stamps in the Colony, and an order was issued that "until the receipt of postage stamps from France, letters for the interior of the Colony will be franked at the Post Office window by means of the letters "P. D." These letters, of course, mean simply "paid to destination" and were used in France on mail matter just as the word "PAID" and the amount used to be handstamped on our own early letters. But the Post Office made up some small squares of paper bearing the letters "P D" with a line beneath, and below that the figures 5, 10 or 15, which were applied to mail matter at the Post Office window. Some have maintained that these have no standing as stamps, even under the terms of the order, as that intended the letters "P D" to be hand-stamped or written on the envelope, as is usual with unstamped mail matter. The fact of the "P D" and the amount being on a separate piece of paper is held not to give these pieces any standing as postage stamps.

In 1890 it was decided to provide each Colony with a special set of stamps. The reason is stated to be that "the traffic in present Colonial stamps furnishes by the monetary exchange large benefits to some rascals. Given the difference, often considerable, which exists in the exchange rate between two Colonies, 1000 francs in stamps at Saigon, for example, can represent 1200 and 1300 francs in Reunion. It is therefore easy to procure stamps in Cochinchina which, sent by post to some other Colony, will represent there a sum much higher than the purchase price. Stamps with different inscriptions will put an end to this petty traffic."

The result was the Colonial type stamp representing the figures of "Peace and Commerce" with a special panel for printing in the names of the various Colonies. But previous to the issue of the special type it was deemed best to surcharge the stock of the "Goddess" type on hand in each Colony with the name of that Colony, so as to at once stop the speculating game. A circular from the Ministry of the Colonies to this effect was sent out and St. Pierre and Miquelon readily acquiesced. Not only this, but red ink was used as well as black on four values, and a number of provisionals of low value were put forth. For provisionals of higher value, a number of the postage-due stamps were taken and overprinted with the initials "T P" for "postage stamp."

The new issue with the Colony name appeared in 1893 and was in use until 1909, when, in conformity with many of the French Colonies, a special set introducing local objects into the design was used. These showed three subjects, the head of a fisherman in his "sou'wester" on the low values, a sea-gull in flight on the middle values, and a vessel under sail with codfish in the lower corners on the high values.

The year 1912 saw the Colony's share of the surcharging of old stock (the two previous Colonial issues) into 5 and 10 centime stamps—a sharp game played on the credulity of stamp collectors.

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Act IV, Scene i (up to date).

The quantity of old stamps is not great. They drop not as the ones of newest Europe Upon the place beneath: they are twice blest; They bless the man that sells, and him that takes;

They're mightiest of the mightiest; they portray

The throned monarch seated with her crown And sceptre, attribute to Majesty;

"Victorias" and heads of noble kings; And many other rarities that may

Be much enthroned in collectors' hearts. They are an ornament within themselves; And all collectors like to show the best.

With many seasoned pieces. Therefore if Investment be thy aim, consider this,

That in the course of buying, all of us Should seek condition; we do pray for bargains, And that same prayer should teach us all the place

To go for bargains. I have spoke thus much To illustrate the beauty of old stamps;

Which if thou follow in our Bulletin, Must needs give orders to the merchant there.

Hereafter our subscription department will be conducted on a "cash and carry" basis. In next week's paper expiration notices will appear in the usual form and on the wrapper will be printed in large type, "Your Subscription Has Expired." Only ten days will be allowed for the receipt of subscription renewals, when all subscriptions in arrears will be discontinued. Where subscriptions are discontinued no back numbers can be furnished. The Whole Number on next week's paper will be 1520, and we publish this notice prominently in order that no subscriber can complain at not receiving sufficient time in which to renew. If the Whole Number on your subscription is 1520 or under, this notice applies to you. A renewal for two years will be appreciated.

EDITORIAL.

Down—The prevailing "flumonia" tapped us and several weeks have passed during which our recollection of events has been somewhat nebulous. Yet the philatelic convalescent has an advantage over the non-collector, as it is within his power to pass time pleasantly that otherwise would hang heavily over his head. The ease with which stamps are handled makes them a popular means of recreation in the sick-room. Many a packet of stamps, not to mention albums, are bought by parents and others for the collector who is anchored at home. Dealers can tell of many instances of this kind and stamps must be given high place as a remedial agent.

Ruffo—Titta Ruffo, who was the bright particular star of the recent opera season in Chicago recently, was kind enough to ask that we inspect his collection of stamps, but alas for the vanity of human wishes. First, we were under the weather and then the great Ruffo was indisposed; and the efforts of our friend Mendelsohn to arrange the meeting were of no avail. The Signor keeps his best collection in the vaults at Rome, but his second collection, the companion of his travels, is said to be an interesting one. We acclaim Titta Ruffo as a philatelist who is always ready to avow his affiliation with stamps, and he compels a respect for them in the estimation of the outsider by his sincere interest in them.

Easy—We all know about those "Do You Want Money" advertisements in which the philanthropic advertiser offers to advance a sum of money sufficient to cover your needs merely on your note. Now we find a London stamp dealer advertising, "Do You Want a House?" The manner of acquiring the domicile is clearly set forth and it would not seem difficult to follow the directions. Hear ye: "You will find it impossible to rent one and to buy one you will need money. Why not turn your stamps into cash? The demand for good collections and rare stamps was never so great as it is to-day and the opportunity to obtain a good price should not be missed." So far so good, but as evidence of the unprecedented demand for stock, the clenching argument is made: "If we do not require your stamps for our stock, we no doubt know someone who does want them."

Value—The great work of Mr. Ritchie on the cancellations of the earlier United States stamps is well under way and readers are impressed by the importance of this historical study. The advantage that philately will derive through the research, propelled with a fine enthusiasm by John Arthur Ritchie, is a manifest one. The monograph will identify and classify the scores of odd and unusual cancellations and disclose a significance to some of them that is not apparent on the surface. What we wish to call attention to is the wider interest that Mr. Ritchie's compilation carries. He is making a contribution to the archives of American history and we have the opinion that any student of Americana who has no thought of stamps will yet have his attention arrested favorably by the story of the markings upon them. The shaping up of the material that Mr. Ritchie has gathered indeed is a labor of love and we again dwell upon the privilege that is offered collectors who have something of interest in cancellations to show their pieces to Mr. J. A. Ritchie, who may be addressed at 2305 Andrews Ave., New York City, and thus secure recognition in a work that will last through the years.

Referred—The following inquiry has been received: "Will you please tell me what postage stamps are now used to prepay postage from two commercial cities on the Arabian Coast: Aden, near the Red Sea Suez Canal route and Muscat, on the Persian Gulf side. What stamps were used formerly: for example, ten years ago. Certainly the British have maintained an important consulate at Aden; and there must be considerable trade at Muscat." Aden was occupied by the British in 1839 and is legally part of the British India, and the British have a political agent and consul at Muscat which has long been the center of "a considerable trade." If the ordinary British stamps are not used on letters from these cities at present, we wish some correspondent would give us information on the subject.

Agone—A reader sends us a number of mementos of the days when the organization of the American Philatelic Society was under way. Official Circular Number 2 of the "American Philatelic Association" was issued from Grand Crossing, Ill., December, 1886, and showed that a good many who sent in their names as members were slow in qualifying for membership. We read: "Out of this select 250 but 116 have actually taken the step and made good their promises of a few months ago. And why is this so? No one can complain about the amount of the annual dues,—they are certainly low enough." However, in 1887, the American Philatelic Society gained a firm foothold and by the end of that year was entrenched with three or four hundred members. Among the Chicago workers for the American Philatelic Society were Messrs. Bradt, Gadsden and Wolsieffer and we find impressed on an old circular, a rubber-stamped facsimile of a Centennial stamped envelope with the postal legend replaced by the inscription: "P. M. Wolsieffer & Co., dealers in postage stamps, Philadelphia, Pa." The young concern certainly had an attractive "card" as it approximated the envelope stamp in a surprising manner.

Interested—A number of our readers make us the repository of their woes on the subject of the catalogue and no doubt they feel relieved in unburdening themselves of their complaints. Of course, the shortage in the current edition of the catalogue is unfortunate and the collector who wants to buy the book but cannot find one on sale may grumble, but the contingency was one that could not have been foreseen, we suppose. When the criticism is well-taken and is one that does not concern price, we shunt it to the publishers of the book, who, we are satisfied, are progressive enough to improve their product in any way that is feasible. As for prices, the publishers have their own problems to solve. In times of unprecedented activity, even a Solomon will be caught napping. A few months make changes and render obsolete quotations that were good a short time before. The new catalogue will bring order out of a condition that has its complications, at present.

and we understand 200,000 were overprinted.
The surcharge consists of a large outlined figure "2" over Washington's head, and at the lower part of the stamp we find three parallel horizontal lines marking out the figures of value. The sur-charging is in black, but is so light that it takes a close examination to notice that there is any surcharge at all. We judge this stamp will be found in numerous dies and on the different color papers. We hope to have more information on the subject next week.
In a recent issue we published a list of plate numbers as furnished us by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. Mr.
A. E. Owen informs us that the Bureau has made an error in listing three of the plates, for he has seen stamps with these numbers and they are not as described. We take pleasure in giving the correct listing:—
Pl. No. Den. Class. Series. Subj.
10104 1c Ord. Curv. 1911 170
10125 1c Ord. " " 400
10126 1c " " " "

In our original listing we described the first plate as being ordinary with 400 subjects and the other two plates were listed as 2c denominations instead of 1c.
Mr. Roy Curran sends us a very interesting clipping from one of the Chicago papers of January 9, 1920, describing the first Chicago to Omaha air mail flight which took place on the previous day. It seems that the aero-plane not only carried letters and post-als but newspapers and parcel post packages. In some of the latter were sweetbreads and a young porker consigned to General Pershing, who was the guest of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce on the day of the flight.
We understand that the ordinary cancelling machine was used to postmark letters for this trip, and as a result the covers cannot be distinguished from those going forward on the same day via train.

Mr. H. S. Dickey submits for our inspection a very interesting vertical block of twelve of the Kansas State Food stamp perforated 12 with the two center vertical rows imperforated between. This stamp is of the "5 pound or pint" denomination and is printed in red on unwatermarked paper. While we do not list Tax Paid as a rule this item is so out of the ordinary that we thought it worthy of mention.
Mr. J. M. Bartels sends us a detailed list of all of the circular die envelopes embossed upon the 1919 watermarked paper discovered up to January 15th in addition to those given in his published list. These include the different knives, types of watermark and papers.
I also now notice that he is listing the 2c light red as a distinct and separate variety. It seems that the dies for the 1c Die A and the 2c Dies A and F have been working over time, for most of these newly listed varieties fall under these classifications.
Messrs. H. F. Metz, H. W. Porter

and P. M. Mann have also kindly favored us with information of interest.

AUSTRIA.—Four high value stamps, showing a view of the Rathhaus at Vienna, have now been issued in German-Austria, thus completing the new series inaugurated last August. They comprise 2kr orange and black, 3kr blue and brown, 4kr red and black, and 10kr olive and brown. The latter is illustrated in the Amiens Echo. A set of twelve new postage due stamps has likewise been brought into use in Austria.
—Stamp Collecting.

BAVARIA.—The Stamp Lover reports
the current Official stamps of Bavaria (1916-1919 issue) overprinted VOLKS-STAAT BAYERN. They are of white wove paper (tinted for 15pf and 1M) watermarked horizontal wavy lines and perforated 11½. These stamps are surface printed at the Munich mint.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Mr. H. R. Arnold calls our attention to a slight variance of the bar in the ½ of the No. 102 War Stamp. In one specimen the bar is on the level with the round stroke of "d," while the other shows it on the level with the top of the round stroke of "d."

COOK ISLANDS.—We have seen the 2d
"torea" stamp, surface-printed on chalky paper, wmk. NZ and Star (sideways), perf. 15x14. We understand that a small number of sheets was issued prior to the 2d of New Zealand overprinted RAROTONGA. It is a very fine clean-cut impression in a warm brown, being a very superior stamp to the original 2d adhesive, perf. 11.

The circumstances under which it appeared are shrouded in mystery, and undoubtedly this new torea is a rarer bird than the elusive 3d engraved provisional of Rarotonga. According to my valued correspondent in Sydney, very few people were successful in obtaining more than a block of four of these surface-printed twopennies, which have, of course, been superseded by the same denomination of New Zealand, overprinted "Rarotonga".

It appears that these new 2d toreas were printed and sent to Auckland, but, before they were put on sale, it was decided to issue the Rarotongans; so two people in Auckland went along (evidently having got the "tip") and bought up the whole supply, which, I understand, consisted of about fifty to a hundred sheets. Although these stamps must have been obsolete for several months, my informant did not hear of them until October 14th, although he adds that some time ago he had a letter from a customer in New Zealand asking if he could send him a block of four of these stamps. At that time my correspondent naturally concluded that his prospective customer was asking for something which did not exist.

There is, it seems, a man in Auckland who has been going in for speculation of the above kind for some years

A-P-P-R-O-V-A-L I have a great many kinds foreign and some U. S. stamps that I would be glad to send on approval in lots: 5, 10 to 25 of a kind in small envelopes at very reasonable wholesale prices. I have discontinued sending sample sheets as I got so many orders that I was constantly getting out, so I have decided the best way is to send on lots of about 20 kinds at a time on approval.
These are very good for small dealers and also for some dealers not so small. Better have me send you a lot to be reported on at once soon as received. My ready-to-send-out approvals of 20 stamps at 12c per sheet or 10 for $1.00 are great sellers. Every sheet catalogues over $1.00. No duplicates.

past, and he has accumulated a big lot of sheets of Pacific Island stamps which have recently become obsolete, although he is not at all keen to sell and is asking tremendous prices for those he has.
What will eventuate I do not know, but it is stated that the gentleman in question is a very shrewd person and one difficult to bargain with.

There is no doubt the temporary Cooks (as we might call the short-lived 2d stamps, which are the subject of these remarks) were genuinely printed and sent to Auckland, and there is also no doubt they were sold "in the usual manner," but it would seem that that "usual manner" is that anyone who knows the right individual in the stamp distributor's room can go up and pick anything out of his stock which has come from Wellington before the general public gets to know anything about it. In other words, the sale of Island stamps at Auckland is being carried on as a separate business in itself.

I understand that the new surface-printed 2d Cooks have been sold in Auckland for as much as 3s6d each.
Undoubtedly they will quickly mount to very high prices.

Meanwhile I learn that the brand new Cooks are now in process of active preparation and that a feature of them will be a striking portrait of the great explorer-mariner, James Cook himself.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—Stamp Collecting reports that a correspondent has advised them that in a small parcel of stamps from this colony the 6d King George stamp, orange, is with inverted watermark.

FINLAND.—We are advised by a correspondent that the colors of the current 5p, 10p, 20p, 25p and 50p stamps will be changed as follows: 5p will be grey, 10p will be green, 20p rose, 25p brown, and 50p blue. There will also be a new value of the current issue, viz.: 75p orange.

NORWAY.—Our Christiania correspondent sends a copy of the 35 ore in a new colour—grey-brown instead of green—
as issued December 5th.

At the same time he informs us that the original die for the postage due stamps has been sent to the engraver to be altered. The word "Portomærke" has to be spelled "Portomærke," and the
"at" in "at betale," will be altered to "a".
The words "at betale" will be placed in the middle of the white label instead of on the bottom of it.

The first stamp which will appear in the new type will be 30 ore—a new value same type. In the electrotype plate, from Flint, Mich., in purple ink, the 4c, 6c, 10c, 13c, 15c and 20c normal and the 10c special delivery, perf. 11.

9c, 10c, 11c, 12c, 13c and 15c from Saginaw in a new type. (SAGINAW-of bars.

Mr. L. C. Metcalf reports the 3c victory reading up and down from N. Y.
City; from East Aurora normal and inverted; from South Bethlehem, Pa., normal; and from Elgin, Ill., reading up.

Washington, D. C., is out with a new type; (WASH-D. C.) in two lines, similar to U-15 type. The 5c, 12c and 20c have been reported.

Muncie, Ind., also has a new plate,
same as Cincinnati and Kansas City,
the U-14 type. I have the 5c inverted, 6c, 8c and 15c normal.

Herrin, Ill., is fast falling into the unfair list. Unused precancels with full gum are coming on the market, which shows there is a leak. Besides all kinds of colors of ink, overprints reading up and down and normal, you know, just like Techy, can be had. I would advise my readers to forget all about Herrin.

Philadelphia is precancelling the 3c victory and the 24c airplane.

Minneapolis is now using the new 13c, writes Fred Allen.

Mr. A. R. Beardsley sends the publisher a pair of 3c victory from Altoona, Pa., in red ink, and states that all precancels used during the Christmas season were in red.

PHILATELIC RECRUITING.
By STANLEY PHILLIPS.

Every time a stamp lover shows his album to a friend who does not collect, he should do so with the idea of interesting him in the hobby. This is no selfish counsel, for in doing so he is opening up new sources of pleasure to his friend and forging an additional link in the chain of their friendship.

As no recruiting sergeant baits his trap with the pleasures of platoon drill or the artistic beauty of perfectly formed "fours," so the would-be recruiter for the philatelic ranks should avoid boring his audience with a learned disquisition on varieties of paper, watermark, or perforation. There is always a tendency, when talking on a technical subject to the uninitiated, to use abstruse terms which convey no meaning to the outsider. This arises, more often than not, from harmless vanity, though, with some, philatelic terms are in such frequent use that it is forgotten that they need explaining. The best teacher, however, is the one who uses the plainest language to express his thoughts, and, if technical terms cannot always be avoided in talking of stamps, their meaning should always be clearly explained.

It must be remembered that the primary appeal of the postage stamp is to the eye, and for the purpose of interesting the novice stamps must be regarded as pictures, even though philatelic standards of value may have to be set aside. We may have our own private opinion of Seebeck's commemoratives, and other pictorial stamps, but the fact remains that these despised but attractive issues are the means of gaining many recruits to our hobby, and once in the fold they soon learn to consider stamps as something more than pictures.

Do not, therefore, turn the page containing Bosnian pictorials with a contemptuous sniff, regardless of your hearer's appreciative comments. He is attracted by their appearance and will be more so if you explain that three of the views on these stamps are of Sarajevo, the scene of the murder which formed the pretext for the world war.

If you wish to make a convert of anyone, show him the stamp designs which appeal to his particular bent. Is he interested in engineering? Then point out to him the bridges, locks, liners, and express trains of the United States, or scenes on the canal on the stamps of Panama. Do travel and adventure hold attraction for him? In a turn of the page you can transport him from Mexico City to Zanzibar, or from the ruins of Babylon to the Pyramids; while if men rather than places are his forte, your album holds portraits of Columbus, Balboa, Pizarro, Magellan, Cook, and many another famous traveler. Is the call of the air in his blood? The stamps of Cuba and the United States will furnish him with aeroplanes, or he may, if you are fortunate in their possession, gaze with envy on stamps which accompanied Hawker or Alcock on their epoch-making flights.

The whole range of history, from Darius and Solomon to President Paderewski and the pioneers of Bolshevism, finds illustration in your stamps. A wonderland of strange fauna and flora is open to you. The weird mammals of Australia, the birds and beasts of tropical Africa, the coral wonders of the South Seas, are all to be found within the compass of a single volume, for there is little in the world that does not find its counterpart on a postage stamp.

It is this connexion of stamps with the things one knows, or has read of, which gives them their powerful attraction. If they had no living interest, the issues of the Great War would not have brought thousands of recruits to the hobby, nor would the columns of the daily press have been thrown open to the philatelic journalist.

To be an efficient stamp showman, then, it is not necessary to have abundant technical knowledge, but there must be familiarity with stamp designs and what they represent, and this is not gained without study. The stamp collector of to-day is in this respect more fortunate than his predecessors. The leading catalogues append descriptive notes to most designs, while journals such as Stamp Collecting present news about interesting stamps in an attractive form. A little study, a perusal of some of the readable books about stamps which abound nowadays, and the collector will have no difficulty in entertaining his guests by the display of his album.

There are, of course, other ways of arousing interest. "Money talks" and rarities should be pointed out, as well as stamps which would be rare if they showed some particular variation. This again will lead on to the subject of printers' errors—stamps in which the centre is printed upside down, or a letter or stop is missing from the overprint—always with an explanation of the difference in value arising from these mistakes. The mistakes of designers, resulting in such "howlers" as Columbus looking through a telescope before such a thing was invented, the seal with forelegs of Newfoundland, or the reverse-legged elephant of Sierra Leone, will also furnish excellent material for a stamp chat.

Then there are those numerous "freak" stamps—a whole philatelic "Barnum's." Stamps of weird shape or unaccustomed size: Lettland stamps printed on German war maps, exercise-book paper, or cigarette paper; Lithuania's makeshift issues on the paper of which bread tickets were made; Russian or Ukrainian money stamps with inscriptions on the back; and Nicaraguan fiscals converted into postage stamps by a similar inscription. These and many others have their own attraction.

Another change of subject and the showman describes strange watermarks—umbrellas, turtles, elephants, swans, pineapples, and many others. Every stamp is the text of some anecdote or reference. The tale of Connell, the New Brunswick postmaster who thought his features worthy of a place beside those of his sovereign, the story of the King of Sicily, whose vanity would not allow his portrait to be disfigured by a postmark, and hundreds of other stamp "yarns," cannot fail to interest.

Instances could be multiplied indefinitely, but enough has been said to show that the requisites for a philatelic recruiter are a real love of stamps and a knowledge of everything about them that is of general interest. Thus armed, he can interest all whom he meets in the King of Hobbies, to his own and their lasting pleasure.—Stamp Collecting.

SHANGHAI: U. S. P. O.

We hear a good deal nowadays about "direct action," but how about the following for "direct speaking":—

"Post Office Department,
United States Postal Agency, SHANGHAI, CHINA,
October 5th, 1919.

NOTICE TO PATRONS.

At present this Office is out of stock of non-surcharged stamps of the following denominations:—

1c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 50c, $1.

This is regretted, but cannot be helped, and patrons are requested not to argue the matter with the stamp clerk. It is not his fault, he cannot help the situation, and discussing the matter with him delays service to others.

(Signed) ED. H. EVERETT, Postal Agent."

Anyhow, we know more than one postmaster who would have seized on the opportunity to release a new lot of provisionals on an oversuffering stamp world, particularly as the 1 cent has been sold out for many moons, and for some inexplicable reason supplies are not forthcoming—in spite of more than one cabled request to Washington!—Stamp Collecting.

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

CHAPTER III.

Methods of Coiling.

As previously mentioned, the first coils made at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were issued in February, 1908, and at that time the 1902-1903 series of postage stamps was in use. Those selected for coiling were the one cent and the five cents of the 1902 type and the two cents 1903 or shield type.

These stamps, it will be observed, were printed in sheets of four hundred subjects, twenty horizontally by twenty vertically, with margins and plate numbers on all four sides. The sheets had guide lines running the entire distance both horizontally and vertically between the tenth and eleventh rows, which lines divided the sheets into four panes of one hundred subjects each. To perforate these sheets, perforating machines with parallel wheels holding perforating pins were used. These wheels were evenly spaced so that the perforations supposedly would fall in the blank space between each row of stamps. Instead of having one of these wheels for perforating the space with the guide line, namely the space between the tenth and eleventh rows, there was a round knife which cut the larger sheet of 400 into two sheets of 200 subjects each at the same time the sheet was perforated one way. These sheets of 200 were then run through a similar perforating machine in the other direction which cut them into post office sheets of 100 subjects, the same time perforating the stamps the other way.

In the making of the first coils, however, the large sheets were perforated one way only but as this work was done on the regular machine, these larger sheets were cut into smaller sheets of two hundred. When lengthwise or as they are sometimes called, endwise coils were wanted, the sheets were perforated horizontally only in sheets of 200, twenty by ten, and for the sidewise coils, the sheets were perforated vertically only in sheets ten by twenty. These part perforated sheets were then cut into strips of ten, that is the unperforated spaces were cut with knives and these strips were pasted together by hand, wrapped on a paper core about one-half inch in diameter into rolls of 500 or 1000 as wanted. If you have pictured the sheet of 400 to yourself and followed my explanation you will realize that when these sheets have been cut up that a knife has cut the guide line in each case. The guide line stamp, therefore, always becomes an end stamp of each strip of ten and at the other end of the stamp strip the end stamp has a margin, that is part of the sheet margin. These strips when attached one to the other therefore showed not only a paste up but a guide line as well, after every tenth stamp. This accounts for the strips found once in a while although scarce, which show both a guide line and a paste up in the same place.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, however, did not continue this method very long, for they realized that it was just twice the work in pasting together strips of ten stamps as it would be in pasting strips of twenty, therefore they removed the circular knife from the regular perforating machine, which had been cutting the large sheets into smaller ones, that is the knife which cut through the guide line, and put into its place another perforating wheel. With this machine they were able to perforate the entire sheet of 400 subjects one way without dividing it into smaller sheets. These sheets were then cut into strips of twenty and coiled by hand but instead of giving both a line and a paste up after every tenth stamp we find first a line, then ten stamps away a paste-up, then another line, etc. As the demand for coils at first was not great, this slow and expensive method answered its purpose but when the demand increased the Bureau realized that this coiling must be done in some other way.

About the middle of the year 1910 the mechanical department of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing designed a machine consisting mainly of knives and wheels into which were fed sheets of part perforated stamps, the sheets having previously been joined by means of their margins. This machine

Here is a cheap, neglected and very interesting line. Many new plates are put into use monthly and single stamps with the plate numbers attached can be secured at most any post-office.

I have quite an accumulation of issues prior to 1914, all of which are now obsolete. Plain copies of these varieties sell for double face and I have made up some lots of various issues all with different plate numbers at the same rate. Most are low values—the greater part 1c and 2c values.

H. F. COLMAN.

cut them into strips and then into coils

at a time. The use of this machine again necessitated the larger sheets being cut into smaller sheets of two hundred

but this time the cutting was done

at right angles to the perforations instead of parallel, thus continuing to give us the distinct line and the distinct paste up variety. The Bureau at first had considerable trouble with this type of machine, for the perforated coils were still being perforated 12 and the operators spent most of their time in rejoining coils that had broken apart.

The machine, however, after some changes gave fair satisfaction and little trouble was experienced after the perforation was changed to 8½. This machine was finally arranged with two extra knives, one at each side, which trimmed off the margins or rough edges

from the two outside coils.

Because there was but little margin between the tenth and eleventh rows of stamps where the regular sheets were cut in two for coiling, the Bureau designed special sheets which had a wider space between these rows. This space was about 1 cm. wide and had a guide line the same as the regular plates.

Twelve plates in all were made, four of the 1c denomination bearing numbers

6581, 6582, 6585 and 6589, and eight of the 2c denomination with numbers 6566 to 6573 inclusive. These plates showed no plate number at the top and bottom

but two on each side and the inscription "COIL STAMPS" in large block

letters also appeared once on each side.

These twelve plates were made the latter part of 1913 and were arranged for the lengthwise coils only, with the wide space just mentioned between the tenth and eleventh rows in vertical direction on all twelve plates. Why they did not make similar plates for the sidewise

coils I cannot say unless the Bureau realized that the new rotary postage plates would soon be working and that these flat plates would not be required.

Stamps were coiled in this manner

until June, 1914, when the first coil postage issue from the rotary press appeared. This new press had been used for printing revenue stamps for some months and had proven very successful, consequently the Bureau looked for a great saving in the coiling of postage stamps, the cost of which, under the old method, had become quite an item.

This press for printing stamps from rotary hardened-steel intaglio plates upon dry paper in continuous rolls was designed by Benjamin R. Stickney, a mechanical expert in the employ of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The machine was so arranged that dry paper from a large roll continuously passes over a cylinder made up of two steel plates, which are automatically inked and cleaned. The paper then passes over electrically heated rollers which dries the ink and next over gum-ming brushes into the drying box. The roll is then taken to the perforating machine and then coiled. Stamps produced by the rotary press are exceedingly well printed, having a softer and more pleasing appearance than those printed from the flat plate. The omission of the preliminary wetting down of the paper practically does away with the variation caused by shrinkage, making it possible to perforate the stamps

more accurately, so that the centering is substantially perfect. This machine has been so improved that today it is turning out stamps in coils by the thousands

at just a fraction of their former cost.

The cylindrical plates used on these presses for the sidewise coils are made up of 170 subjects, ten rows of 17 side-wise by ten endwise and are curved

so that two plates when fitted together form the cylinder mentioned above, which revolves in the printing. One revolution will of course print 340 subjects divided into two panes of 170

each by means of a vertical line, which is caused by the ink taken up in the crevice at the joining of the plates.

By looking over a large number of guide line strips from the rotary printings you will note the thickness of this line varies, depending upon whether the plates fitted tightly together or not. I might here mention that one familiar with the work from these presses can readily tell the rotary print from the flat plate print by its general appearance,

but one not familiar will find that the former is slightly larger, due to the fact that there is no shrinkage in the dry printing. The lengthwise coils are printed in the same way from plates of 150 subjects, 15 endwise by 10 sidewise,

one revolution of the cylinder printing

300 subjects. We therefore in the case of the sidewise coil have a line after every seventeenth stamp and in the case of the lengthwise after every fifteenth

stamp.

All coil stamps from the first, after having been rolled into coils of 500 or a 1000, were wrapped in a small piece of manila paper of the same width as the coil and marked in black ink on the hand rolled coils in four lines "500

1c Stamps Rolled Lengthwise Perforated" as the case might be; those from the first automatic machine had an extra line added still printed in black "Auto-Wound" and when the rotary came along the wording was the same but a large capital "R" meaning rotary was added to the left of the imprint. The rotary imprints, however, the early coils which were rolled by hand showing a paste up with a plate number and arrow together, endwise coils with paste up showing vertical guide line on the right side of twenty stamps and on the left side of the next twenty. When it is realized that these strips were pasted together by hand and that the operator took any strip that came along it will be understood why, in some of the earlier coils you will find plate numbers, line varieties, arrows, imprints, etc., all in the same coil. When the automatic machine was later used the coil was the same throughout, that is if one paste up showed a plate number, they all had it. For those interested in plate numbers it will be well to remark that all coils are found with them with the exception of the endwise coils from the special "Coil Plates" that were made the latter part of 1912 and the rotary coils. Even the latter can be found with plate numbers at rare intervals when an unusually off-centered coil is located from the side of the sheet. The paste up variety is also the exception instead of the rule in the rotary coil, for it only appears where the coil has been broken apart, and consists of a small piece of gummed manila paper holding the torn edges together. I have gone deeply into the methods of coiling stamps so that later on it will be understood why certain varieties that have come on the market could not have been issued by the Bureau. I will deal with these, however, under a chapter headed "Fakes".

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By CHAS. WILSON.

Cincinnati, O., and East Pittsburg, Pa., are both using the 10c Special Delivery Precancelled.
Reno, Nevada, precancelled the 3c Victory Christmas in Type U. 3.
Corpus Christi, Tex., 3c Victory should be a scarce one, as only part of a sheet (68) were precancelled. Four of them were double.
Plymouth, N. H., used red ink this year on all values 1c to 20c. Also inverted.
Tilton, N. H., precancelled all values 1c to 15c, including 6c Airplane.
A large Mail Order house is using North Kansas City, 7c and 9c are the only values I have seen.
Chandler, Okla., used a type similar to U8 but larger.
Cushing, Okla., used a small type similar to U4.
Emporia, Kan., used all values 1c to 50c in the small type.
Council Bluffs, Iowa, used a roller type. The 1c-20c invert and 1c revenue are the only values I have seen.
Have seen Manville, N. J., in U3 type. 1c is the only value I have seen.
Hutchinson, Kan., is using the 1c and 2c Due and the 1c ordinary postage.
Many of the older collectors seem to be taking up Precancels. It does not seem to appeal to the boys as much as a collection of foreign stamps.

NOTES FROM EGYPT.

By FELIX COHEN.

There is a very great interest about the French stamps issued at Beyrouth, Syria, the day of arrival of the French General Gouraud. The British P. O.
sold up to that moment Palestine E.
E. F. stamps, but as the French Authorities took possession of Syria they wanted to place their stamps in use.
The French had none ready besides the limited stock that belonged to a French Field P. O. so they used this stock of current French stamps overprinted T. E.
O. and in Egyptian currency, millimes and piastres, until the arrival of greater quantity of French Levant stamps which were also surcharged as the others,
"T. E. O." (territoires ennemis occupés) =(Occupied enemy territory) and are now still in use. It is somewhat difficult to say if a new issue of special stamps is contemplated, as the current stamps are sold in limited number.

The peculiarity of this state of things is that the French Authorities are obliged to surcharge their stamps in Egyptian currency. The reason is simple.
After the Turkish defeat, their money being considered "à la bolchevique" or "turn the banknotes wheel" people there would no more accept payments in Turkish money for their goods and, if there was any transaction of goods, this had to be done in Egyptian currency, this being also the money which had been brought there by the hundreds of thousands of soldiers with the Egyptian Expeditionary Force. Now that the French are there, the inhabitants being accustomed to deal with a rather sound money, do not feel inclined to accept the French currency, which is severely depreciated here (actual rate: one Egyptian pound equal to 41 French francs and the pre-War rate was 26 French francs). This is the reason why stamps in territories occupied by the French are sold in Egyptian money. If this will be discontinued nobody knows, but I think that every economist would rather prefer to get actually 41 francs as 26 for his Egyptian pound of stamps now.

It is curious to note that Cilicia and Syria in some cases still use E. E. F.
stamps or same mixed with French T.
E. O. stamps. There was a scheme to overprint French Alexandria stamps with "T. E. O. Cilicie" but we now know that these two countries will be administratively amalgamated by the French, so whether this projected issue may see "the light of the day" is unknown.

Smyrna, Constantinople, etc., have again the foreign P. O. abolished with the Capitulations in 1914. This event gave us at that time a surcharge of F stamps issued in 1914 by the provident Turkish Postal Administration. There is a real wonder that they don't issue now a new set surcharged "To abolish the abolition of Capitulation stamps of 1914". Surely there is at Constantinople one or several Mohammeds who watch the decision of the Paris Conference in order to know what can be commemorated, abolished or proclaimed on their stamps.

The Indian I. E. F. stamp is a real Indian product. I don't say that for a joke, but as many errors have passed it can't surely be called a work of perfection. Besides the catalogued double overprint of the 3 pies stamp and the point missing on a stamp in every sheet
I discovered stamps with 2 points after F., (probably the one missing has been added here); I have this on stamps of 1/2 and 1 anna but I don't affirm that other values will be without this imperfection. On the other hand I happen to have now a complete sheet of the 1/2 anna with a clear double overprint.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—F. D. Martin, the manager of the Elk Stamp Exchange, calls our attention to an error in their last advertisement. The North Borneo set that was advertised as complete lacked No. 146.
Mr. Martin has made amends wherever possible and would like to hear from anyone who has a complaint.

—We are pained to report the death of A. E. Drought, St. Cloud, Florida.
We learn from Mrs. Drought that her husband passed away on Sunday, Jan.
11. We wish that we could write intelligently of Mr. Drought's philatelic activities. He has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY practically from No. 1 of our publication, and we hope that someone who knew him can supply the "In Memoriam" that we would publish.

Remember, I refund your money. Out of about 250 sold never had but four (4) returned. I will send you a pretty fair grade of approvals and the discount will make you wonder where I stole them. After April 1st, I will have only a small amount of time for stamps so hustle while you have the legs and give me some orders.

SUBSCRIPTION ARREARAGES

In the past we have allowed three months' time in which to renew subscriptions, but a radical reform has now been put in operation. Hereafter our subscription department will be conducted on a "cash and carry" basis. In this week's paper expiration notices will appear in the usual form and on the wrapper will be printed in large type, "Your Subscription Has Expired." Only ten days will be allowed for the receipt of subscription renewals, when all subscriptions in arrears will be discontinued. Where subscriptions are discontinued no back numbers can be furnished. The Whole Number on this week's paper will be 1520, and we publish this notice prominently in order that no subscriber can complain at not receiving sufficient time in which to renew. If the Whole Number on your subscription is 1520 or under, this notice applies to you. A renewal for two years will be appreciated.

With this issue of the WEEKLY a new plan has become operative as regards subscription renewals. Every subscriber in arrears is notified this week of the fact, a subscription blank being inserted in the paper and the wrapper bearing in large type the notice "Your Subscription Has Expired". One more number of the WEEKLY will be mailed to those whose subscriptions have expired, but they will not receive the WEEKLY of Feb. 28. This means that the subscription department of the WEEKLY will henceforth be conducted on a "cash and carry" basis. The cost of paper stock with other incidental expense renders it absolutely necessary that henceforth all subscriptions shall be paid for in advance.

Where subscriptions are discontinued and subsequently renewed we cannot supply back numbers. Only a limited quantity of office copies is reserved each week and we cannot call upon them to meet the requirements of subscribers who carelessly allow their subscriptions to lapse. This notice will be repeated from time to time so that subscribers will clearly understand the new order of things.

This new plan means that we have now transferred to the subscriber the responsibility of knowing when his subscription expires. Each week the Whole Number on the wrapper is a constant reminder as to the standing of the subscription and there can be no excuse for a subscriber not to know just when his renewal should be made. No simpler form of bookkeeping between publisher and subscriber could be devised than the one we have in force.

We strongly urge subscribers when renewing to renew for two or more years and thus be relieved of the anxiety in connection with the regular receipt of the paper. We feel assured that MEKEEL'S WEEKLY may be counted upon as a fixture for many years to come, and there should be no hesitation in making your renewal for as long a period as you can afford.

EDITORIAL.

Envelopes—The post office department has issued circulars of interest to collectors of United States envelopes in particular. Three cent envelopes, in accordance with the announcement made some time ago, are to be overprinted "2" in order to utilize the considerable stock of three cent stamped envelopes remaining in post offices. The change of denomination is to be effected by running the envelopes "through" canceling machines equipped with special dies, bearing the numeral "2" in place of the regular postmarking-canceling dies. The "purposes" of the overprinting are based on economy and conservation. In the "description" paragraph, we learn: "The dies which are being provided print upon the three cent stamp envelopes a large double-line numeral 2, with either horizontal or vertical lines beneath it to cancel the two original numerals 3. Some of the 3 cent envelopes, however, are overprinted '2 cents', the large figure '2' appearing at the left of the 3 cent stamp and the word 'cents' running through it. The overprinting is done with either black or red ink." As the 2 cent dies are sent to postmasters, an authorization will be given to them to proceed with the overprinting; and the new envelopes will be sold at the current price for the two cent envelopes. The department has issued a notice that the demand for two cent stamped envelopes has been so heavy that the contractor cannot supply the requirements although he is using every effort to do so.

Alleged—Mr. Geo. E. Foster, Milltown, Washington, sends the following clipping from the Seattle Post-Intelligencer: "Mexicans Probe Fake Stamps. El Paso, Tex., Jan. 27th.—Stamp counterfeiting frauds involving at least 500,000 pesos are being investigated by a federal court in Mexico City, according to Excelsior. A number of wealthy land owners were reported involved." No doubt further particulars will be forthcoming.

Notice—From the Canal Zone, Mr. J. P. Coveleski writes that the stamps sold in the Canal Zone and Panama post offices are for U.S. gold pieces. Many are under the impression that the stamps are sold for silver at one half of the value. Mr. Coveleski learns that there are 50,000 each of the new issue of postage due stamps of 2c and 4c denominations, surcharged in red. The surcharge is similar to the previous issue and in the two cent, the figure 2 is different.

Plaint—When the old-timer who surrenders his stamps or starts a new collection, writes us to commend or to criticize adversely the present modes of stamp collecting, we welcome his letter. It is worth mentioning that the subject that is dwelt upon by the writer almost invariably is not unnecessary issues, minor varieties, "what to collect" or topics such as once held the floor but the condition question. It is almost impossible for the old collector who has been outside the pale for years to realize the importance of condition at present and he is disposed to growl a bit at the exactions of to-day. One correspondent writes to say that his complaint is based on the experience he is having in improving his U. S. specimens, such as off-center gumless unused copies. He says that they are scorned at a low price by dealers and collectors, while fine copies are held at top-notch prices. We admit that many an old collection is a disappointment, as the condition of the stamps in the album is such as to scale down the prices ruthlessly in this day and generation. However, it is useless to pull against the tide of popular opinion, but for all that one may collect just what he wants without let or hindrance.

Settled—Mr. Albert J. Moore, Kennebunk, Maine, writes: "Referring to your article headed 'Tough,' in the edition of August 16th, 1919, relating to package of stamps sent by me by parcel post to the Scott Stamp & Coin Company of New York City, for which I entered claim for indemnity, the package having been lost, I am pleased to say that I have received check for $63.40, covering full value of this package. The case seemed hopeless for a time, but by using every means possible, I obtained a rehearing with the above result." Here is an instance that "the truth shall ever come uppermost and justice shall be done."

Exchange—An "exchange" transaction is reported by Mr. Arthur H. Robertson, Chase City, Virginia: "I beg to say that the writer arranged for a cable transfer to Poland of 3,000 marks. The whole cost was about $72 (marks were then quoted at 2 cents) and besides I secured two stamps from the sender, of the new Polish Republic."

Big—A subscriber who is interested in the promotion of philately through public channels makes the suggestion that the dealers use large space in the great weekly publications of general circulation. His idea embraces the idea of the advertising of stamp collecting through the united support financially of the dealers of the country in a manner somewhat similar to that adopted by some of the big business interests that advertise the product that is sold by a good many producers whose names are not associated with the advertisements. A campaign of this kind may be advisable when the commercial kinship of those engaged in the business is close and where the article is one for general consumption or at least is marketed broadly. As for the individual dealer, he is unwilling naturally to risk the expenditure of a large sum in advertising his business in a publication of general circulation for his immediate good or the welfare of philately. Experiments that have been made in this direction have been attended with mixed results and the cost of each reply higher than the dealer can afford to pay. The juvenile papers are not under consideration. The time may come when the stamp dealing interests will be such accord that something of the kind may be discussed by them, but the time will be well in the future.

Satisfied—While it is argued that satisfaction with prevailing conditions is incompatible with progress, we nevertheless view with complacency the results achieved through the newspaper press in particular. We refer to a publicity that is found there, evidence of which are far-flung. The organized effort that is to be credited with the fulfillment of the enterprise has succeeded heavily and the good that is being done is not alone apparent at present but will crystallize in the future as well. The reading columns are being used advantageously that there is no cause present to supplement the work otherwise and until the field shows signs of having been exhausted there is no reason to change the order of approach. The fact that the philatelic theme can be made interesting enough to compel the notice of the editors of the newspapers is no mean triumph for the pursuit.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

BELGIUM.—The remaining values of the Albert "helmet" set have appeared, as follows:—

5c deep green. 40c red-orange.
Placing by sale on 50c red-brown and 50c provisional envelope. The information came to hand so late that I was unable to get more than a short note in our last issue.

I am now able to state that the varieties which I received from Washington were Die A upon white, size 13.
The copy received from one of the correspondents was of a sharp, clear type, while the other was from a worn die.

1920—Envelope—Circular Die.

2c on 3c purple, on white.

Through the courtesy of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, we are able to inform our readers that these stamps are surcharged by means of the standard canceling machines equipped with special dies. These canceling machines are found in the larger Post Offices. The dies are being furnished by Washington so that they will be uniform, and to date the Postmasters at Washington, Cleveland and St. Louis have been authorized to overprint their stock of 3c envelopes. No doubt the other Post Offices having large stocks on hand will be supplied with these dies,
as fast as they can be made.

We would appreciate early advice from any of our correspondents relative to the placing on sale at their Office of these surcharged stamps, and if they will send us samples of as many sizes and dies as possible, it will enable us to furnish our readers with the latest news upon the subject and eventually present a fairly complete list.

We are told by the Post Office Department that the various colors and sizes will be overprinted, and under these circumstances we must depend entirely upon the collectors in compiling a list. We, therefore, especially appeal to our readers to send us samples of whatever is placed on sale in their Office.
The person who thought of surcharg-ing these envelopes by means of the canceling machines was certainly a genius of a high order, and it is surprising that this inexpensive way of overprinting envelopes had not been thought of before.

Until recently the 3c sidewise coil stamp, issue of 1910, perforated vertically 12, upon single line watermarked paper, Scott's No. 340B, had only been known in used condition. All of these were found on the correspondence of Bell & Company, Orangeburg, New York, who seemed to have obtained practically all that were issued by the government.

Mr. J. P. Hammerly, at the time they were issued, wrote to Bell & Company for a strip of four for his collection, but they refused to comply with his request, feeling that they had no authority to sell these special stamps in coil form to the public. Mr. Hammerly then appealed to the Postmaster of Orangeburg and obtained a strip of four for his collection, these having been sent him by the Postmaster under date of November 8th, 1911. Fortunately the strip sent by the Postmaster was a paste-up showing plate number 5126, the paste-up occurring between the third and fourth stamps: To the best of our knowledge, this is the only unused strip known. In fact, all other known copies of this stamp are single copies, used. This piece being unique is without doubt the rarest coil strip in existence.

The local Philadelphia Post Office was supplied sometime ago with stickers for use on C. O. D. Parcel Post packages, and it is our impression that these are just as much entitled to catalog rank as the Official Seals now listed. The labels were 34 mm. by 25 mm. in size, printed in red on white unwatermarked paper, and are perforated 12. The inscription is in four lines enclosed within a rectangular border, as follows: "C O D—No.—Charges—$—M O fee—cents".
In the lower left corner of the sticker we find the number "3816 C", which is evidently the form number.

Mr. H. S. Dickey of Newton, Kansas, sends us for our inspection a sheet of 25 of the blue on white, Official Seals, rouletted vertically with a sewing machine perforation horizontally. The sewing machine perforation differs from any that we have seen upon any stamps heretofore. We find two small square holes close together, then a space, then two holes, etc. These seals, as is well known, are made for the government under specifications that are by no means strict, and the method of separation is left pretty much to the contractor. As a result here of late we have been able to locate all kinds of combinations, including part perf. as well.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. Robert Loeb reports that he has recently secured a copy of
No. 147, 6h, deep orange, surcharged surcharged stamps already chronicled

 the Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following:—10 on 5p, 20 on 10p and 75 on 20p.

FRENCH LEVANT.—Under the caption "Syria" we find the following in the December 31st number of L'Echo de la Timbrologie:—

"M. Elias Chonéri writes from Beyrout that the issue of French stamps has commenced there. The series consists of the adhesives of French Levant, overprinted with the letters T.E.O.
 ('Territoires ennemis occupés') and value in millièmes and piastres on those stamps which have not already been surcharged. Several of these are now in use.

"At the moment of going to press, we learn that, immediately on the arrival of General Gouraud at Beyrout on November 21st last, the following stamps of France were issued, surcharged:—

T. E. O.

5 MILLIEMES.		Number
1m on 1c	900	1p on 10c	9,000
2m on 2c	450	2p on 25c	9,000
3m on 3c	900	5p on 50c	9,450
4m on 15c	2,400	9p on 40c	4,350
5m on 5c	9,000	10p on 1f	2,625

"All these stamps are on the 'GC' paper. They were not sold in the ordinary way over the counter at the post office, and the following notice was displayed there soon after the 'appearance' of the stamps:—

"Owing to the withdrawal of the current postage stamps in favour of a new series, of which the quantity is provisionally limited, it will not be possible to buy stamps at the Post Office as before, but the stamping of letters and other correspondence will be done by the postal employés themselves."

Needless to add that these very limited and select stamps very quickly disappeared, and that the poor overworked "postal employés" have not lost much by the unfortunate (for us) restrictions of the number produced.
 —Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Robert Loebli informs us that a new set of stamps will be issued within a few months comprising fifteen values, ranging from 5pf to 5 marks.
 There will be a prize contest for designs. Mr. Loebli writes: "It is hoped that a sensible and pleasing set of stamps will result instead of such philatelic monstrosities as were issued by the National Assembly at Weimar. It is intended to adjust the colors to the U.P.U. color scheme.

HONDURAS.—Mr. Francis J. Bowman has shown us a copy of the new 15c stamp just issued. It has an equestrian statue picture in the middle with "Cor-reos de Honduras" in a half circle at the top together with "U.P.U." and "1919" in each corner and the value in words at the bottom. The color is blue and we are further advised that the use for which the stamp was intended is for paying postage on letters to foreign countries.

Plaint.—When the old-timer who resurrects his stamps or starts a new collection, writes us to commend or to criticize adversely the present modes of stamp collecting, we welcome his letter.
 It is worth mentioning that the subject that is dwelt upon by the writer almost invariably is not unnecessary issues, minor varieties, "what to collect" or topics such as once held the floor but the condition question. It is almost impossible for the old collector who has been outside the pale for years to realize the importance of condition at present and he is disposed to growl a bit at the exactions of to-day. One correspondent writes to say that his complaint is based on the experience he is having in improving his U. S. specimens, such as off-center gumless unused copies.

 He says that they are scorned at a low price by dealers and collectors, while fine copies are held at top-notch prices.
 We are indebted to the Economist
 Stamp Co. for submitting to us specimens of the commemorative stamps mentioned above.

LIBERIA.—The Economist Stamp Co.
 has submitted to us a set of five triangular registration stamps in use in this country. They are all 10c value but of different colors. Each stamp has in the center a picture of a ship sailing on the ocean and just above are the names as tabulated below.

Green and black, "Harper".
 Red and black, "Robertson".
 Gray and blue, "Buchanan".
 Violet and Blue, "Monrovia".
 Bistre and black, "Grenville".

At the bottom corners are the figures of value with "Ten Cents" between, while in the scroll around the picture is "Liberia Ten Registered".

REUNION.—As the stock of 1 centime stamps of this Colony was entirely exhausted on Aug. 1, it was found necessary to authorize provisionally the payment in cash for the postage of the newspapers of the Colony, and to use for this purpose the handstamp "P.P."
 and the special dating stamp, which had to be done by the Post Office of Saint-Denis on the wrappers for single copies of papers.—Stamp Collecting.

RUSSIAN NORTH-WEST ARMY.—These stamps are already obsolete and our agent has sent us the following interesting information:—

"The advance on Petrograd by the Russian North-West Army has ended in a total fiasco. They were obliged to retreat on Esthonian territory, where they were disarmed. Yesterday (December 1st), it was reported that the Russian North-West Government had to liquidate their affairs now that the Bolsheviks have recaptured the North-West District. All the Russian Ministers have resigned with the exception of the Premier, who remains in Office in order to settle different questions with the Esthonian Government. The inscription OKKA, (pronounced oksa), on these stamps are the first letters of the four Russian words ODJELNY KORPUS SEVERNOY ARMII, meaning 'separate Corps Northern Army,' of which the North-West Army forms a part. The stamps were issued for both postage and revenue purposes."—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

BELGIUM.—The remaining values of the Albert "helmet" set have appeared, as follows:—

5c deep green.	40c red-orange.
20c black-brown.	50c red-brown.
25c deep blue.	10fr violet-red.
35c bistre-brown.

The 10fr, like the 5fr, is of large size, 25.5x33 mm. A plate number appears at the bottom of each sheet, to the right of guide line below the 5th and 6th stamps, (or below the 6th stamp) in bottom row. The 5c is numbered 4; the 20c is No. 1; the 25c, No. 2. The others I have not yet seen. In addition, each sheet has the initials CC perforated (generally) below the eighth stamp in the bottom row, and the top of sheet is stamped "DEPOT 1919" in double-lined frame.

GERMAN AUSTRIA.—The 10 kronen stamp has appeared; it is a handsome bicolor pictorial, depicting the Houses of Parliament, with their Greek portico. The frame has conventionalized heads of wheat at sides, "Deutschösterreich" above, "10 Kronen 10" below, and is chrome green. The centre is printed in Roman sepia. The name of the engraver, J. F. Renner, appears in very small letters below frame. Silk paper, perf. 12¾; 34½x21 mm. (oblong).

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The "Chain-breaker" set has been redrawn, and while closely similar to the first issue, there are many small differences which readily identify the latest emissions. The easiest way to identify the redrawn stamps is to compare suspected specimens with first editions, counting the number of rays behind the figures in the upper left-hand corner. As the redrawn stamps have more rays, this is proof positive that their coarse appearance is due to new stones and not to wear. The shades differ slightly, also, and the redrawn stamps seem to be issued both rouletted and perforated, indifferently, and both straight and saw-tooth roulettes are used, occasionally both on the same stamp.

The surcharged Bosnia newspaper stamps are now appearing in perforated condition.

FINLAND.—This country is acquiring the surcharge habit in a dangerous way by overprinting high values on low ones. The following have been issued:

10 on 5 penni.	50 on 25 penni.
20 on 10 penni.	75 on 20 penni.

It seems strange that it should have been necessary to surcharge to get a 20-penni stamp when there were sufficient 20's on hand to supply stock for the 75-penni overprint.

MARKET NOTES.

The fifteenth edition of Gibbons' War Catalogue has just appeared, and, as it contains a few noteworthy alterations in prices, a few comments may not be out of place. The first local 1s Bahamas has risen to 70s. The first "Special Delivery" remains at 15s: this stamp does not appear on the market nowadays and must be worth this price today. The 3c orange small "War" British Honduras is a good little stamp, and although often offered at a good discount off cat., is worth full quotation. After a long lapse of time, several of the Shah Bushires are priced again. The cheapest stamp is the 2ch, which is quoted at 45s. All the values up to the 12ch (except, of course, the 5ch) vary in price from 45s to 70s (12ch).

The "C.E.F." Cameroons have at last been raised—previously they regularly changed hands wholesale at well over full cat.! From the 2½d to 8d the price now asked is 7s 6d each, whilst the four high values are put up to 75s apiece. The first local Cayman has made a big jump—the latest figure being 15s. The second local is at 2s 6d, whilst the third blue goes up to 9d. All Caymans are popular, and these prices will again increase in due course.

The old prices of Nauru "Waterlows" have been dropped out!

The New Britain and Marshall Is. lists will be a disappointment to the collector, as, with a few exceptions, "blanks" reign supreme in the price column. Samoa and Togo (on German) are also very poor as regards prices—no stamp of any importance is priced in either list.

The 3d Turks Islands local in red is priced at 12s 6d. This is a good stamp.

In the Supplement (New Europe) several decreases in prices are to be noted. To take rather an extreme example, the set of three Poland (Lublin issue) has dropped from 30s to 10s. The decreases are not, however, on the whole, anything like so rigorous as the example I have cited.

Messrs. Bright & Son's Eighth Edition of "War and Armistice Stamps" is also to hand, and it looks much fatter than its predecessor. There is one thing that I particularly like about this

I have a great many kinds foreign and some U. S. stamps that I would be glad to send on approval in lots: 5, 10 to 25 of a kind in small envelopes at very reasonable wholesale prices. I have discontinued sending sample sheets as I got so many orders that I was constantly getting out, so I have decided the best way is to send on lots of about 20 kinds at a time on approval. These are very good for small dealers and also for some dealers not so small. Better have me send you a lot to be reported on at once soon as received. My ready-to-send-out approvals of 20 stamps at 12c per sheet or 10 for $1.00 are great sellers. Every sheet catalogues over $1.00. No duplicates.

I think most collectors will agree with me when I say that a catalogue which contains long lists of stamps and very few prices is of very little interest or value. A man who collects any particular country, group, continent, &c., already knows what was actually issued. Thus it comes about that he buys a catalogue to give him an idea of how much this or that stamp can be bought at.—Stamp Collecting.

"Stamps As An Investment—"

"What to Collect and Buy"

This is the title of an absorbing little booklet which gives some remarkable information upon the investment side of stamp collecting. A long list of stamps is included showing the actual rise in prices during the past few years—a list which proves conclusively what a wonderful investment stamps have been.

Further, if you want to know what stamps to buy today as an equally good investment in the future, get a copy of "Stamps As An Investment".

Whisperings and Whimperings of a Philatelic Nut

Edited by COTTON C. DOYLE.

Vol. I No. 7.

February 14, 1920.

Price: Postfree.

EDITOR COTTON C. DOYLE.

Editor's Note.

It was our intention to answer the following inquiry in our regular inquiry dept. but so many collectors are becoming alarmed at the way the prices of certain stamps are sky-rocketing we felt that the subject should be treated with more importance. This column is operated partly for the dissemination of philatelic knowledge of a certain sort, and when we know all about the underlying causes for the high prices which are being discussed and commented upon so widely it is not fair to the reader for us to tuck the information away in the Query Dept. where no one might ever get the benefit of it. Therefore we will print it right here where every reader who gets this far will see it.

"Fresh Ed., Dear Sir,—What are Yonkers? Are they peelable a la the kind of hinges advertised at 10c per, or are they the parts of Neurope the war maps haven't caught up to yet? If so, how are they related to the Junkers who inhabit that place on a certain continent which has been often referred to since Nov., 1918, as Ausgespielt?" Our name is not Ed and the gentleman is wrong. From our handy volume of the proof sheets of the latest Standard Catalog—no, not catalog, we mean Encyclopedia—the following data has been most painstakingly compiled;—viz. & to wit—

Yonkers.

Yonkers are a fish. They are the most voracious fish extant or ever issued or in use. Formerly they were found only in the vicinity of a large eastern river and, philatelically speaking, they can get away with more bait and not get hooked than any other members of the grab-all tribe. They are the piscatorial opposite of the finless fish that belong to the w.k. genus sucker. Yonkers can smell a bargain 9,876 times as far as the ordinary bull-head or horned-pout can scent the fattest, juiciest angle-worm that ever went angling. They are as wily as a Sioux Indian and as pugnacious as a first mortgage. Their war cry is "Get all you can and never give up anything."

For several months the presence of yonkers in increasing numbers among philatelic centers all over the United States has been reported with accelerated frequency. Fear is felt that unless their progress is checked the old style or garden variety of bargain hunter will be completely exterminated and already many of the latter are showing alarming symptoms of malnutrition in advanced stages. It is a mistake to consider them a disease, but if you catch any yonkers, telephone for the nearest wild-cat stock promoter and with his assistance immediately inoculate each yonker with the deadly malady known as "P.O.T.B.R.", which is Latin for paralysis of the bank roll. This is the most effective remedy for yonkers yet discovered.

There was once an old gink named McGugg
Who possessed the "philatelic bug."
Now, a stamp he could tell
Just by scenting its smell—
Some smeller had old gink McGugg.

Well, he once smelled a stamp from Hoboken.
(Of this truth I would feign be outspoken.)
It was fluted on top,
And it pictured a mop,
With the handle part already broken.

This "rare local" went in his collection,
(Such rare stamps were his one predilection.)
When he found it was fake,
Oh, the pain!! and the ache!!!
He is now in the lunatic section.

Query Dept.

Patience of Paterson:—The 3c '61 you submit is neither pink, near pink nor pinkish. It is a common rose tint that appeared about 1863 after the carmine reds and before the lake reds, but because of its pale rosy appearance we fear it is sometimes sold as "near pink" for 10 or 20 times its real worth.

If you will remember that the early printings of the "September" types of the 1861 issue were made on paper remaining from the "August" issue, or a very similar thin, brittle paper and that the stamps of the pink group were the first 3c of the September issue, part of your difficulty will be removed.

The pink tints ran only a short time—perhaps a month or two—which is why they are so uncommon. When used they usually bring 25c to $10 each, according to the color, condition, etc. The variety cataloged as No. 64 is one of the scarcer of the group and if not actually the first tint printed must have been one of the earliest, for it is known to have been used in August, 1861. We do not expect to live long enough to find out which is the scarcest of the pink tints and we do not dare an attempt to describe the most popular of them. More brilliant philatelists have tackled that job repeatedly in the past 50 years and failed each and every time.

This tint appears to lack sharpness—the impression. Instead of each line standing out clearly the lines seem run together, giving the stamp a ve "soft" appearance. If you are ever New England in August take notice the pink spirea, commonly called hack or steeple bush, which grows plentifully in the pastures there. The tall spire-like blossom heads are composed of myriads of tiny flowers, each indistinguishable, but altogether forming a solid mass of color. If we were asked to describe No. 64 we would say it is the color of a steeple-bush blossom and let it go at that.

W. R. H., Michigan:—You are one of our jolliest faultfinders and we are always glad to hear from you. The number of German military maps used in preparing the Latvia stamps of the first issue was exactly 8,933,211. If you

Personal Notes.

Frank Duke of the Pacific Coast is recovering from the effects of a bad dream he had just before Christmas. Frank thought he was swapping M & M with Bill Slosner whose front gate is nearer the Golden Gate than Frank's and when he looked at his album the next day he had one too many 8c Swaim's and was short one six-center. The whoop he let out made the neighbors think the Apaches had taken the war path again. For two weeks his temperature stayed at 103 and his conversation was flavored with orange colored dragons. But he has forgiven Bill now and they are good friends again. He found the missing rarity in a waste basket about two minutes before the said basket was emptied into the kitchen fire. The circumstances indicate that in trying to improve his collection he had thrown away the wrong stamp. Bill says he'll bet a thousand years of California sunshine to one New England winter that Frank will never be so absent-minded again.

Arthur Joslin of Conn. has a fine lot of Waterbury cancellations but has not yet found a Waterbury watch. We do not know of anyone who has and consider this very strange. In making and using almost every device for a cancellation that you can think of off hand, how did the postmaster there overlook the product that put Waterbury on the map of fame? We fear many and many a stamp collection treasured forty years ago was swapped for a Waterbury watch. Where are those watches now? Have they disappeared forever and all the watch cancellations—if there were any such—with them?

Paris vs. Pensauken.

By COTTON C. DOYLE.

"What are you lookin' so glum about?" said Casey, handing McVittles a two-for-a-quarter cigar like they used to buy for five cents each before the war. "Has O'Hoolihan been raidin' y'r stock agin or did you pick up a sleeper and have it come apart into seventeen pieces when you gave it a bath?"

"Nothin' of the kind, Casey," replied McVittles, grumpily "Can't I wear a glum look on my own face if I want to, and anyhow, why shouldn't I look glum when I'm thinkin' of all them rare and beautiful stamps Count Von Ferrary has left in his will to the museum in Berlin f'r nothin' but Germans to look at? And beside—"

"Oh, forget it," interrupted Casey. "Berlin will never see them, and even if they did, what is it to you? The count had the reputation of bein' good pay, though a trifle slow sometimes on account of havin' so many secretaries to O. K. the bill—f'r a consideration, I suppose—but you never said he owed you a cent and you told me y'rself you hadn't sent him anything since the time he came across so handsomely f'r that old cow's head thing that looked as though the cat had lugged it in, havin' fished it out of an ash barrel in the back alley. You never yet have told me the story about that stamp, though many s the time you've promised to, but whenever it's mentioned there comes a sparkle in your eye and a chuckle from between your lips and as I'm in the mood f'r listenin' I'll thank you to make good on your promise right here and now. No doubt you'll feel better f'r gettin' it off y'r mind."

"Very well then, Casey, shove the matches over where I can reach them handily when the cigar goes out, and I'll tell you the whole truth about it, barrin' the exact dates and a few other details I may not remember just right. This is how it came about.

"Some years ago, before Mrs. Campbell went into the soup business, a bunch of would-be real estate kings, includin' myself, bought house lots over across the river within smellin' distance of where her fact'ry now stands. We all had the grand idea that it would soon become a great residential district where fellers who make as much money in their business as I do in my dreams would want to live. We thought wrong, but f'r a while it looked rosy and once I was offered fifteen hundred dollars f'r my slice of that part of the United States that goes by the name of Pensauken. I refused. and lived to be both sorry and glad

"Time rolled on, as time will, and soon after my old friend, that glorious enemy of every man who voted the Ray-publican ticket, Grover Cleveland, was elected President, I became seized with an acute attack of solar plexus in the bank roll. My middle name was Hard-up. The section of the earth I was payin' taxes on was too far from the soup fact'ry f'r Mrs. Campbell to want it as a handy place to pile discarded tomaty skins and not far enough away f'r any millionaire to make a Jaykill Island out of it, even if it had been an island, which it wasn't, and the best I could get for it was nine hundred dollars, ten down and a dollar a week forever. But whether I had to swallow a loss or not, sell it I must, and the day when I was forever to renounce my ambition to become a second John Jacob Astor had almost arrived, when by chance I happened to hear of a feller who had a stamp collection with a lot of rare old-timers—so he said—in it.

"Takin' a friend along with me to keep my courage at one hundred per cent, I found the feller all right and you can believe me or not, Casey, but right there at the top of the Roumania page of his album was the most magnificent Moldavia 81 cent cow's head stamp you could dream about findin'. There were some other good ones, but that was far and away the prize of the lot.

"What'll you take f'r the book just as it stands," says I, turnin' the page quickly so he wouldn't see me noticin' the Moldavia.

"I dunno what it's worth," says he, "what'll you give?"

"Well," says I, "I dunno what it's worth either, and right at this minute I'm pretty short of cash, but, says I, I'll tell you what I'll do. I own a mighty fine houselot over in Pensauken that is just one houselot more than I need and for which I have refused fifteen hundred dollars, says I, and if you'd rather have it than this book of old cancelled stamps I'll swap with you, f'r I can have more fun with the stamps than with the houselot, says I, which was the truth, Casey."

"Did he take you up?" out in Casey.

"Yes, Casey, he took me up all right, and he probably thought I was crazy, or on my way there, but before he had a chance to say Aye, Yes of No, this friend I had took along, grabbed me by the arm and yanked me out in the hall and began a very spirited and entirely one-sided conversation by askin' me how long I had been a lunatic and wound up by threatenin' to tell my wife and go to the court and make application to have a conservator appointed to look after my affairs the way I should have looked after them if I had been in my right mind and possessed of the kind of brains sane people carry around in their heads. If I insisted on swapping a perfectly good houselot f'r a book full of old rubbish he would have nothin' to do with the transaction, or with me either, and off he went wearin' an expression of pity mingled with extreme disgust and I had to carry the book all the way home myself.

"We had known each other since we had gone together as school boys but after that he would dodge when he saw me comin' and he made it as plain as anything could be that he considered me either crazy or a fool, and probably both. But I bided my time and wrote a letter or two and a few months later I met this one-time friend on the street and before he could dodge out of the way I grabbed him by the coat sleeve and hauled him around where I could look him in the eye and told him I had something I was mighty desirous to show him."

"What is it this time," says he, "have you bought the county jail or is it some other foolishness?"

"Pullin' a letter out of my pocket I shoved it up close to the end of his nose and says—do you see that stamp and that postmark?"

"Yes," says he.

"What does it say?" says I.

"It's a French stamp and it's from Paris," says he.

"Right," says I, and further, says I, takin' out the letter itself, do you see that crest, says I?"

"Yes," says he, "but I don't know what it stands for."

"Neither do I," says I, unless it's French f'r money, but it's worth noticin' as we go along and I don't want you to miss anythin' worth seein', says I, so now look at this, says I, pullin' another piece of paper from the envelope and spreadin' it out—what do you call this?"

"Why, it's a draft on New York," says he, "f'r—good heavens, man—it's f'r two thousand dollars!"

"Right," says I, both times. And who is it payable to?"

"To you," says he, "but what for?"

"Well," says I, seein' that you're so anxious to find out, I'll tell you. I've sold a stamp from the book of old rubbish you thought I was crazy to take in swap f'r that Pensauken houselot and this is the payment f'r that one old

THERE are thousands of Boys and Girls who collect postage stamps. There are thousands of Boys and Girls between the ages of ten and eighteen who could be interested in stamp collecting—and become customers "for keeps" if they knew about your stock.

Why don't you keep your name before these prospects (as well as their fathers and mothers who are interested in fulfilling the desires of their children), by advertising in ST. NICHOLAS? Shall we quote you our rates?

stamp. Now what have you got to say about my sanity, says I."

McVittles tossed the stump of his cigar in the general direction of the office cuspidor and drew a fresh one from Casey's vest pocket before Casey realized what his friend was doing. Picking up the box of matches from the counter he selected one and leaning over, scratched it on the sole of his boot. The head flew off with a flash and only a little smoke rewarded his effort. A second match performed in substantially the same manner. The third, however, lit and McVittles puffed contentedly. "These matches," said he, "could be improved. Many are struck, but few light."

"Yes," agreed Casey, "but what did your friend say when you told him what you'd got for the Moldavia? Did he apologize for the way he'd been treating you?"

"No," answered McVittles, "not much he didn't. He seemed kind of stunned f'r half a minute and then instead of admittin' the joke was on him and beggin' my pardon and congratulatin' me he gave me an answer which, I doubt not, was as big an earful as ever I encountered. "All I've got to say, says he, is this,—there's a bigger fool in Paris than there is in Pensauken!"

BRUESSER AND THE "RHEIMS FUND"

Singularly enough we received in a recent day's mail two items closely related to each other.

A letter from Charles S. Thompson of Los Angeles, Cal., was sealed with a label printed in brown and showing a view of the Rheims Cathedral. It is upright rectangular in shape and bears the inscription upon four sides "American—Fund to—Rebuild—Rheims Cathedral." It is a handsome label.

The second exhibit is a clipping giving the particulars of the arrest of E. J. Bruesser, who is alleged to have attempted to raise one million dollars for the purpose indicated upon the label previously referred to. Bruesser was arrested in Savannah and has been indicted by the Federal grand jury N. Y. City for use of the mails with intent to defraud.

U. S. MATCH AND MEDICINE STAMPS.

PRIVATE DIE PROPRIETARIES.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The third Bureau imprint is also a single line of small type and reads "Engraved & Printed at the Bureau Engraving & Printing" in caps and lower case letters, the whole measuring about 34 mm. long.

horizontal lines. In one case, however, —the stamp of I. S. Johnson & Co. (Anodyne Liniment?)—the letters are nearly always punched. The following list is not intended to be complete but merely to serve as an illustration:—

The fourth Bureau imprint is a combination of the second and the third, and reads, "Engraved & Printed at the Bureau, Engraving & Printing." all in capitals and measuring 47 mm. long. The third and fourth imprints were placed on plates made from dies engraved at the Bureau. All the plates used by the Bureau are believed to have had the title and plate number reading forwards in the lower left corner.

In addition to these imprints, many plates used at the Bureau have letters engraved on the margins and these sometimes show on the margins of the stamps in the outer rows. It is thought these letters are the initials of the printers of the stamps and that each time a plate was taken from the vault the printer's initials were marked on it so that a check might be kept on the plate and on the stamps printed from it. Similar letters are found on the margins of the Pan-American commemorative postage stamps of 1901, but the latter appear to have been punched on the plates, while on the private die stamps the letters are usually engraved in slanting capitals between two faint

BIG FOR A QUARTER.

Twenty-five cents is a very small sum nowadays and its purchasing value in United States stamps will be very, very much less when the new Scott's catalogue is ready.

I have had a line of bargain packets made up for more than a year. Their catalogue value is based on the old low prices and they are the best bargains I can recommend. I would not be surprised to find they will increase in catalogue price fifty per cent. with the new prices.

Packet 1 contains stamps that are damaged; Packet 2 stamps that have straight edges and Packet 3 is a wholesale mixture for dealers.

Packet 1—25 vars. U. S. cat. $2.50, 25 cents. Packet 2—15 to 25 vars. U. S., cat. $1.25c. Packet 3—Lots cat. $1.00 to $2.50, 25 cents.

size according to the shape and size of the bottle, pill box or other package upon which they were used, and the "strip" match stamps were made long and narrow because they were intended to encircle the match-boxes. On the other hand, many of the stamps are much alike, because one die was used successively by several firms, often only the firm name being changed.

There are, however, other similarities that will be found upon closer study, and even if we did not know the stamps were engraved by several distinct engraving concerns it would be possible to make quite an accurate classification of them merely by arranging them according to certain recurring features of their designs. Peculiarities of ornamentation and backgrounds, and the shape of the lettering and the numerals are repeated all through the Philadelphia productions. Similarly, the New York stamps also have characteristic features and those engraved by the American Bank Note Co. as a rule resemble each other more than they resemble the National stamps. And when we come to the Bureau designs we find them quite unlike any of the earlier engravings but in most cases very much like each other. The reason for this grouping of similar characteristics in the stamps produced at the same establishment is simply that only a few workmen engraved them and the peculiarities of the workmanship of each engraver were frequently reproduced in the stamps engraved by him.

The following table shows the number of dies for adhesive stamps engraved by each concern. The reader will note that nearly two-thirds of them all were engraved in Philadelphia, and if allowance is made for that fact that half of the dies credited to the National Co. were not new designs, but were only alterations in Philadelphia dies, it will be seen that about three-fourths of the designs should be credited to Philadelphia.

*Note.—One Canned Fruit stamp engraved by Butler & Carpenter included.

Of the 106 dies engraved in Philadelphia after Mr Butler's death 85 were entirely new and 21 were old dies altered. Most of the dies engraved by the American Bank Note Co. and by the Bureau were also new, but 45 of the 90 dies engraved by the National Co. were old dies altered. It is noted that 35 match stamp dies were engraved by the National Co. Of these 35, only 7 were new designs, the remaining 28 being old dies altered. In many cases the ownership of the match dies changed and the new owners continued to use the same dies without alteration until the National Co. began to print the stamps. It would appear that when the National Co. discovered this state of affairs they prevailed upon the then owners of the dies to have them suitably altered and this is why there were so many "new" match stamps issued in the latter part of 1875 and the early part of 1876.

Of the 55 medicine, perfumery and playing card dies engraved by the National Co. only 17, less than one-third, were old dies altered. The reason for this proportion being so different from that of the match dies appears to be that there were fewer changes in the ownership of these than of the match dies. The element of risk entered into the match business to a greater extent than into the other businesses subject to the proprietary tax.

CHAPTER XI.

Colors.

Generally speaking, the same colors and shades found on the general issue stamps occur also on the private die stamps of the same period up to 1875. There are a few exceptions, and after 1875 there are many shades found on the private die stamps that do not occur in the general issues owing to the greatly restricted printing of the latter. Throughout the M & M issues many shades of green, red and blue are found, and a respectable showing of browns, oranges and purples. In the last color group we may include everything from slate to violet. Certain stamps vary but little in shade and hue; others show a wide variation, and some of the colorings are very beautiful indeed. Often it happens that the shade of a variety on silk paper is quite different from the shade of the same stamp on old or watermarked paper and it is not difficult to identify quite a number of the stamps on pink paper show the least variation in shade, probably because the pink paper was in use only a few months and there were few printings of any one stamp on it.

By the following table, which includes die varieties of adhesives only, it will be seen that black was used for nearly half of the stamps, blue and green about one-sixth each, red—(pink, rose, carmine, lake, scarlet, vermilion, etc.)—about one-tenth, while the browns, oranges and purples together comprise only one-twelfth.

greater protection against the removal of cancellations and re-use of the stamps—did not apply to the private die issues. Most of the latter required no cancellation and there was no necessity for using a color costing $5 per pound on them. There were at least two mixes of the ultramarine ink and as it was purposely intended to be fugitive we find considerable variation in the shade of the different stamps printed with it, and in different specimens of the same stamp. All, however, have a distinct violet tone and can be distinguished from pale and other light blues. The ultramarines are most frequently confused with blue stamps printed from worn plates. Several of the ultramarines are stamps that were also printed extensively in blue from worn plates. This is particularly the case with the Barber, Eichele, Roeber, Swift & Courtney and 4c Ayer. The ultramarines from these plates do not show the wear which is so noticeable on many of the blue printings.

It is rather unfortunate that the current catalog lists several stamps in ultramarine which were not printed at all until years after the true ultramarines were issued, thus confusing what should be a clear and definite record of a perfectly legitimate issue. All the true ultramarines seen by the writer were on the thin to medium thick old paper in use in 1869. Alleged ultramarines on silk and watermarked paper cannot be from the 1869 printing, because neither of those papers was used until several years later. A bright blue approaching ultramarine was used on silk paper sometime between 1871 and 1878 but it is not like any of the 1869 ultramarines and is even rarer than many of them. It may exist on any stamp printed in blue on silk paper but has been noted only on the 3c match stamp of D. M. Richardson.

Excepting only the Barber Match Co. stamp, which has been reported upon good authority, the writer has seen all the ultramarines listed here and is satisfied they are genuine.

Match stamps, (all 1c):—Barber Match Co., Bauer & Beudel, Cramer & Kemp, P. Eichele & Co., Excelsior of Baltimore, B. & H. D. Howard, Ives, "Franklin", Orono, V. R. Powell, H. & W. Roeber, Swift & Courtney, Zisemann, Greisheim & Co.

Medicine stamps:—4c J. C. Ayer die cut, 4c Dr. John Bull, 1c Perry Davis & Son, E. L. Soule & Co. wrapper (Syracuse).

Playing Cards:—A. Dougherty 5c. Of the Eichele, Franklin, Orono, Powell and Dr. Bull's only two to four copies each have been noted, and some of the others are almost as rare. The Bauer & Beudel and Cramer & Kemp are found much oftener. Only one copy of the 4c Ayer has come to the writer's attention.

The ultramarines are sometimes confused with another rare printing which occurred subsequently, probably in 1870. For this printing a peculiar light blue ink was used on two papers, both of which are comparatively thick. One is highly finished and very hard, the other is rather soft and quite porous. Because this ink appears to have been used only on these papers and most of the stamps from this printing are rare, the writer entertains the opinion that this may have been an experimental printing for some purpose not known. Of most of these stamps only two or three copies have been noted but the Holloway's is not extremely rare. Of course, any blue stamp printed about 1870 may exist in this printing.

Matches:—Cramer & Kemp, 1c & 8c Ives, "Franklin", Orono, Powell, 3c Richardson, Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. Medicine:—C. F. Brown, 1c Perry Davis, Holloway's Pills, 1c D. Ransom & Co. Perfumery:—1c Wright.

The Bureau printings of stamps for which vermilion was used in the New York and Philadelphia printings are often in a rosy hue with little or no trace of orange. Such stamps as the 1c Schmitt & Schmitt diehl, 1c Centaur Co., 4c John F. Henry, 4c Tarrant & Co., and 2c Weeks & Potter in rose or pink are Bureau prints. The 2c medicine stamp of Geo. Tallcott, however, has not been noted in rose but is known to have been printed by the Bureau in vermilion.

The only private die stamp printed in purple by the Bureau is the 1c stamp of the Manhattan Medicine Co. The Bureau print is a true purple, decidedly reddish, whereas the National print is a violet—decidedly bluish. It is interesting to compare the printings of this stamp with the printings of the 6c general issue proprietary stamp of 1875-83. In the latter also the National prints are blue, while the reddish stamps were produced by the Bureau.

The writer greatly regrets being unable to give the distinctions in shade and hue between the Philadelphia and New York printings on silk paper, and between the National, American and Bureau printings on watermarked paper for the great majority of the blue, green, red and brown stamps, and for all of the black ones. There are too many shades of each printing and too little data to identify the shades of any printing. Where possible, the known shades will be noted in the articles on the individual stamps.

HELP THE PENDING POSTAL BILL.

(Every subscriber is earnestly urged to write as many members of the House P. O. Committee as possible, urging support of the Fess bill referred to in the article below. It will mean much to the newspapers of the country if this bill can become a law, and every ounce of influence possible should be brought to bear upon the committee. Don't argue the wisdom of the Zone system, but ask that the Fess bill may receive favorable consideration.—W. O. W.)

At Washington, February 10, The House Post Office Committee held a hearing on the "Fess Bill" H. R. 10876. Briefly, the bill repeals the present progressive scale of second class postal rates, and establishes the rates in effect the first year of the existing law. While the objectionable zone system is retained, the rates are a big reduction from the rates in the existing law, and it is a movement in the right direction.

The bill recognizes the present lack of adequate postal data on costs and therefore proposes a commission of Congress to make a thorough investigation of the entire postal situation. This, we believe, will open up a way to obtain just consideration for all periodicals and newspapers.

The Postal Committee therefore urges that you write today to each member of the House Post Office Committee, expressing your endorsement of the Fess Bill, without prejudice to your belief in the unsoundness of the zone system, and ask them to report the Fess Bill favorably.

The newspapers, farm papers, magazines and other periodicals are in complete accord on the wisdom of this move.

NICARAGUA 1918-19 PROVISIONALS.

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, B. P. S. 646

CHAPTER I.

Collectors who like to specialize will find plenty of amusement in the 1918-19 provisionals of Nicaragua. Not only is there a most excellent opportunity for serious study, as this issue is rich in errors and minor varieties, but a collector will derive considerable pleasure at a small expenditure of money.

In 1918, a shortage of the 1/2, 1, 2 and 5 cent stamps resulted in the birth of another provisional issue. The 1914 issue was used for surcharging and the 3, 4, 6, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 50 cent stamps of that issue, as well as the 25 and 50 cent stamps of the 1912 official set, were used.

The 1913 issue of provisionals from Nicaragua furnished quite a number of errors and one inverted surcharge, which is quite a bit of a rarity as most collectors of Nicaragua are aware of. I have examined hundreds of the new provisionals and have not seen an "invert" among them.

The 1913 issue produced quite a crop of errors, among which are "do" for "de" in "de cordoba"; "corooba" for "cordoba" and "Valb" for "Vale". I have also seen stamps with the "Vale" omitted and others with the "Va" of "Vale" missing.

But the 1913 provisional issue does not hold a candle with the 1918-19 outfit which was hastily put into use and resulted, accordingly, in many errors and minor varieties.

The gem of the whole issue was the so-called "Bluefields Issue", which I will describe more fully later on. The first of the new provisionals was the 1/2 cent, which was surcharged on the 6, 10, 15, 25 and 50c stamps, in black and also in red on the 50c. The surcharge was as follows:

Vale
medio centavo
de cordoba

There are a number of fine errors to be sought for. I have in my collection a copy of the 10c stamp surcharged "Val" for "Vale". I also have a copy of the 15c stamp with the error "coboda" for "cordoba". I have a copy of the 15c stamp showing a double surcharge which requires no use of a high powered glass to see. It is a jumble of duplication of letters.

Next came the 1c which was surcharged on the 3, 6, 10, 15, 25, 25 official, and 50c in black. On the 20c the surcharge appears in both light red and dark red. The surcharge is as follows:

Vale
un centavo
de cordoba

There are a number of interesting errors. First there is the "Val" which appears in a dark red surcharge on the 20c. Then there is the "uu" for "un" centavo on the 3c. I have a single copy of this error, also a fine pair (horizontal) showing the error on the right hand stamp. I also have a block of four, the No. 1 stamp showing a minor variety, a small "u" in "un".

Speaking of double surcharges, I have found one on the 3c with "Vale" in the third line printed so that "le" falls upon "de":—

Vale
un centavo
Vade cordoba
un centavo
de cordoba

And on the 15c I have another fine double surcharge, so pronounced that the letters in the surcharge are all blurred.

There are also several interesting errors on the 20c with the light red surcharge. I have two of these. One reads "un c ntavo" and the other "un cent vo". These are not broken type varieties but are caused by the type having dropped out of the setting.

I also have a copy of the 25c official, showing a double surcharge.

The latest acquisition to my collection of double surcharges is a copy of the 6c with Vale upon the letters "rdob" in the second line:—

un centavo
de cordoba
un centavo
de cordoba
Vale

This is some surcharge.

THE SCHOOLMASTER AND HIS STAMPS.

By J. DIGBY FIRTH.

There is no doubt that stamp collecting has the highest percentage of devotees among the juvenile population. In an average class, say, of third- or fourth-form boys, I have invariably found at least 30 per cent more or less active collectors.

This being the case, the question arises, How is it we have not more philatelists among the adult portion of the population? There are many reasons, no doubt, for this, but possibly an important one is that most youngsters start badly, their collecting being merely a desire to accumulate.

Very few young beginners get any guidance whatever as to how to collect, care for, or properly mount their stamps, and within a comparatively short time they abandon the pursuit, never having understood the real interest and fascination of intelligent collecting. Though nowadays stamp collecting is not actively discouraged in schools, comparatively few teachers give it the encouragement it deserves. In the past, schoolmasters, on the whole, sneered at the hobby, which they considered mere trifling and a great waste of time. The late Ascott R. Hope, a well known dominie and boys' author of his day, in his book, "A Book about Boys," speaks with the utmost contempt of the hobby and the boy who takes it up. However, this was some fifty years ago, and it is encouraging to know that prominent educationalists of the present day have spoken in the highest terms of stamp collecting as a useful adjunct to the teaching of both history and geography.

The average boy has little natural taste for geography; now, if the subject has to be studied, the first thing to do is to awaken that taste. The reading of travels has been suggested as a means to this end, but unfortunately few boys read anything more than fiction outside their school hours. Reading non-fiction is often considered a task. A more efficient awakener, I am convinced, is an intelligent system of postage stamp collecting. Teachers would do well to make full use of the fact that the boy's stamp collection is his toy, and that the knowledge he can gain from it is taken as a pleasure.

Chats on the method of collecting, mounting and proper care of stamps, &c., might occasionally be given. History and geography lessons could often be admirably illustrated by special selections of stamps, either passed round the class or examined a few minutes before the conclusion of a lesson.

After long experience as a practical teacher, I am fully assured that any little time spent in preparing suitable exhibits is amply justified by results. In fact, I find it convenient to keep a stock of stamps specially prepared for the purpose, some of which have been in use for many years. These stamps are mounted on white card, glazed with old photographic negatives of varying size, and finished off like lantern-slides with passé-partout. Shown in this way, the exhibits can be freely handled, without any fear of the stamps getting soiled or damaged.

In order to get in touch with boys one does not meet in the classroom, I have devised another method of enlisting interest. In a corridor, where many boys pass and repass daily, the use of a large glazed cupboard has been secured. This has been divided into a dozen separate compartments, each one something more than a cubic foot in dimensions. The compartments are filled with suitable exhibits, with descriptive label attached, and each week of the term three exhibits are removed to make room for three new ones.

The character of the exhibits varies very considerably. Included are sets of coins (ancient, medieval, and modern), objects of antiquarian interest, natural history specimens, &c., but stamps constitute a good proportion of the exhibits. Each selection is concisely written up to illustrate some point or other in contemporary history or geography or the trend of foreign politics. The boys themselves frequently loan interesting objects for exhibition, and in the case of stamps they are encouraged to write up and prepare them for exhibition.

We have had on view selections of stamps and entire to illustrate the history of the Penny Post, the evolution of the ship, tropical scenery and natural productions, philatelic zoo and botanical garden, methods of transport in various parts of the world, &c. These are some of the numerous exhibits of general interest we have arranged from time to time.

Very many chapters in history have been illustrated in the manner outlined above. These include the history of France from the Second Republic, events in the history of South Africa, India, and Australia, the Spanish-American War, and the Mexican Revolution.

Many other points in the world's history have been admirably shown by series of commemorative stamps, such as the United States Columbus issue and others far too numerous to mention. In fact, much interesting information can be gathered from postage stamps, nearly every new issue being printed for some special reason—a new king on the throne, a revolution in progress, a centennial of some great event in a country's history, a jubilee. Of such events a collector learns through his stamps. The changes of government, whether by pacific or violent means, may be easily traced on the faces of the stamps.

The boys should be encouraged to know thoroughly the geography of their stamp collections, and become familiar with the position of each country—its principal cities, climate, area, and other details.

In the multitude of the recent war stamps and Armistice issues there is great scope for the teacher. At the present time we are arranging a special exhibition to trace the history of the Great War, the rearrangement of territory and the birth of new States.

In conclusion, I would, as the result of twenty years' practical experience, very heartily commend the frequent

COUNTERFEIT TETE BECHE, FRANCE.

Collectors are warned against very dangerous forgeries of French imperforates of early issues, and especially tete beche pairs. On the authority of Frank P. Brown, who has examined both the one franc and 15c lately advertised by a Toronto dealer, we can say that both are forgeries. The one franc is a wonderful piece and would deceive all but specialists; the 15c is far more crude and ought easily to be distinguished from the genuine.

To the Advertiser:—On Feb. 1 we were informed by our linotype operator that hereafter all advertising copy must be plainly written and edited. This was not all. We shall do well to quote the exact language in the notice received:—"Matter must be plainly written and properly edited, otherwise it will have to be handled on a time basis."

Mr. Advertiser, do you know what this means. Simply this, that we cannot permit good copy to bear the financial burden imposed upon us by those who write slipshod copy. Most of the copy which reaches this office is in good shape, typewritten and very well edited, but from this time on more care must be exercised by many of our patrons.

We suggest that you take plenty of paper upon which to write your adv. Do not snatch any piece of waste paper that happens to be near. By all means use ink if not typewritten. When abbreviations are used make them so plain that a non-philatelic compositor can read them. Leave out all frills and bear in mind that we are printing a newspaper and not a magazine. We shall be compelled to return to advertisers any copy that does not conform to this new condition of things.

To the Subscriber:—We must reiterate our statement concerning subscription arrearages. Hereafter there will be no postcard notices of discontinuance of subscriptions. You must yourself keep track of this matter. There will be one notice and only one, which indicates that your subscription has expired and paper will be discontinued within two weeks.

Under the new order of things we shall not attempt to furnish back numbers, as we have only a limited supply retained for office files. The number on your wrapper each week is a constant reminder of the time of expiration and all you need to do is to compare it with the Whole Number on our first page and see whether the number on your wrapper has been reached by the number on the paper. Don't wait until the last minute to renew your subscription, and when you do renew make it for two years if possible.

One other thing, let the number on your wrapper govern you entirely in the matter of expiration. If a notice gets into your paper informing you of discontinuance, pay no attention to it if it does not conform with your number. Mistakes sometimes happen in our mailing department.

Watch your wrapper number.

EDITORIAL.

Needed—The new edition of the standard catalogue in this country is announced for March and it bids fair to come at an opportune time. Its arrival will be welcomed, as the many new issues have somewhat complicated the outlook of the ordinary collector. A systematic review of the Neuropé issues is wanted by the collector who has not made a particular study of the stamps and an orderly indication of values will hearten those who have not made progress through the maze of relative uncertainty in the case of some of the stamps. A fair appraisal of the values of the stamps in question probably will give a momentum to the market as even the liberal-minded collector is wondering at the different quotations attached to the same stamps. We know that prices fluctuate and under any circumstances may be the subject of argument but it is demanded that they be adjusted in good faith. It is of interest to find that according to a correspondent a certain set that was issued by his country was recently offered in our columns at a price lower than he would be willing to pay for it, even though he lives in the country of the stamps' origin. We suppose that flying threads of this kind will always be found.

Prices—The prices as shown by the advance sheets of the new edition of the catalogue are causing the inevitable discussion. At any rate the cataloguers are hewing to the line and we believe that they proceed cautiously and with conviction in making their estimates. Raises in prices, we infer, are based upon a knowledge of prevailing conditions chiefly, but at the same time the facts of the past as affecting certain stamps have their influence. We understand that in the placing of prices, expert analysis and commercial experience keep hand in hand as in a broad sense, the first recognizes supply and the second consideration, demand. Each change in price has a tangible basis, and then attention is given to minor counts that have a bearing on the position of the stamp. As a rule, collectors have their opinions on values of stamps that they have given unusual attention to, and it is conceivable that their information on the subject is entitled to respect if not acceptance. We think that the cataloguers take pride in doing their work without fear or favor.

Exhibit—We are informed by Mr. C. A. Jenkins of the Cleveland News, that the Guardian Bank of Cleveland "is making an attractive display that is being given much attention of war stamps or stamps of the new governments. About two hundred varieties on and off cover are tastefully mounted, labeled legibly and framed, making the window containing them the cynosure of all eyes. Due prominence is given to the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club who loaned the exhibit." There is no better advertising feature in our opinion than a window display of stamps in a downtown store; and from it both the exhibitor and the stamp collecting fraternity benefit.

Covers—A close observer of philatelic customs writes to comment on the fact that certain "used" Neuropé stamps quoted him by correspondents are invariably higher than unused, and he asks if it is possible that the expense of canceling to order might account for the difference in price. "Two correspondents quote a very reasonable price on a desirable set, but the third, my old friend, asks fourteen times as much. He remarks that I should beware of 'fakes,' and that he can guarantee the covers he has for sale. From my previous dealings with him, I should be inclined to trust his word in the matter, but I should be paying a big price for that set. Is the Original Cover to be added to the long list of articles 'Made in Germany'?"

* * *

Added—We are indebted to Mr. R. M. Brookfield, Jr., Philadelphia, for the information: "Reading in your January 24th issue, the editorial paragraph under the heading 'Cards,' with the final reference to the 'Internal Revenue Paid—7 cents per pack.' I wish to offer a little information. These wrappers were used as provisionals, not for a single pack of cards but for a carton containing about a dozen packs. Two values exist,—the 7c as described in the article, and an eight cent value which is identical with the other. Both are quite scarce."

* * *

Envelopes—We saw the new overprinted "2" on three cent stamped envelopes on Feb. 5th and they are now coming thick and fast. We are told that there are 12 million three cent envelopes in the Chicago office. The postmaster of Cleveland says that in ten or fifteen years the envelopes "doubtless will be highly prized by stamp collectors."

Letter—We quote from a letter, substantially as written: "I find comfort in your welcoming words to the old collector who renews his allegiance to philately after a period of inactivity. This spirit is one that has a practical end, as a collector who is brought into the fold again to stay counts as much as the new collector. The collector who comes back is like the man who returns to his home town after an absence of many years. He finds that progress has been made and even though he recognizes familiar signs, here and there, the atmosphere of the place is not the same and he is out of tune with it. He needs encouragement until he gets in step

Many—Never before have we received so many clippings from the newspapers on stamp collecting topics. A bundl impressive size represents the contri tions since the first of the year and find that some of the "stories" are excellent material. We are particularly pleased to see "Curious Ways of Celling First Stamps," from the Mineapolis Journal which lauds the world Mr. J. A. Ritchie in making a comparison of our early cancellations. A telling of the interest and historical features of the book, as ultimately will be, a plea for official co-operation with Mr. Ritchie is made as follows: "The American collecting world will that the Triangular Capes reigned supreme in the opinion of the children.

A large display of American and foreign philatelic books and papers, foreign covers, U. S. covers before the time of stamps, handstamps used in early Wisconsin post offices, and old fashioned wax wafers completed the exhibit.

Packets were distributed to all, and more than an hour was spent in exchanging. The girls were interested chiefly in securing pretty stamps, while with the boys, catalogue value was the first consideration.

This meeting was the first of a series which have been planned by Professor Brown, in co-operation with city teachers. At the next one, to be held early in March, junior collections will be exhibited and philatelic prizes will be awarded to the three collectors of grade school age exhibiting the most neatly arranged collections.

Sections of the museum collection are always on display, and a collection of philatelic literature in the State Historical University and the several city libraries is in constant use. All of which goes to show that Madison is indeed a live spot on the philatelic map.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Messrs. Percy M. Mann and W. P. Colman have shown us copies of the recently chronicled 2c on 3c circular die envelope with red surcharge instead of black. From what we can learn the red was the first surcharge applied, and this not proving very successful they decided to use black. As yet we have only seen the surcharge applied to the 3c on white but have no doubt the others will be making their appearance shortly.

To date we have seen 1920, 2c on 3c circular die.

- (1) Die A on white, size 13, black surcharge.
- (2) Die A on white, size 8, red surcharge.
- (3) Die F on white, size 8, red surcharge.

There are four dies of the 3c envelope and four colors of paper, namely, white, blue, buff and amber, making sixteen varieties possible if we disregard sizes.

Mr. W. P. Colman states that he has located the black type of surcharge printed on the back but not on the front, surcharged on both the front and back and surcharged on an albino. As the surcharge is applied by means of the canceling machine and as most of the offices with stock on hand will do their own overprinting we are likely to have hundreds of varieties. As we must depend upon our readers to advise us what is on sale in their office in order to be able to give a complete list, we trust as soon as they are placed on sale you will send us a copy of each. We will gladly reciprocate if desired.

We wish to thank Mr. G. A. Martin for sending us a copy of the instructions issued by the Third Assistant Postmaster General relative to this overprinting. We see from these instructions that the postmaster can use his own discretion as to the use of the red or black ink. We also notice that three types of dies are to be furnished, that is type 1, with the large open figure "2" with horizontal lines beneath; type 2, the same figure with vertical lines beneath and type 3, reading "2 CENTS" with the figure of value falling to the left of the embossed stamp. We have only seen type 1.

Messrs. Standish Prescott, Harmon Wendell and C. M. Breder have written us regarding this issue.

Through the courtesy of Hon. James L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are able to continue our list of plate numbers.

I am under the impression that some of the above 2c plates of four hundred subjects designated as "ordinary" are really curved for use on the rotary press. This list will therefore be checked for errors.

It may be of interest to mention that the proof sheets of the 2c rotary press stamps have been checked and that there are four dies, one of which has never been used and a fifth variety from the "S 40" plate which we will consider as a sub-variety of Die II. Details regarding these dies and information as to how they may be distinguished will be given in our next Chronicle.

We wish to thank Messrs. George Soullman, Arthur W. Reum and H. W. Porter for information of interest.

GUATEMALA.—Messrs. Bright & Son chronicle the following:—

12½c red new type with bird in centre with tablet at bottom inscribed

GUATEMALA

Timbre de Reconstruccion
1919.

JAMAICA.—Mr. P. Dillingham advises us that a second printing of the 3d War stamp with red surcharge has been put on sale, this occurring Jan. 23rd. The stamp is of a much paler color than heretofore and the shade of the surcharge somewhat different. There is an unlimited supply of this printing so our correspondent is informed.

MACAU.—Messrs. Bright & Son advise us as follows:—"Our Agents in Hongkong, Messrs. Graca & Co., sent us specimens of some new Provisional Macau stamps as follows:—½ Avo on 5 Avo Ceres type of 1914; '2' on 6 on 25 reis green with Lisbon Republica overprint, 1915 issue and Imposto de sello 2 avos on 18a on 50r pale blue with Lisbon Republica overprint, 1915 issue. They also inform us that these Provisionals have been issued on account of the stock of these denominations being exhausted, owing to the necessary supply not arriving from Lisbon. 80,000 of the ½ on 5 Avos were issued and 50,000 of the 2 on 6 on 25r, but they did not say how many of the other variety. These stamps are sold by the Post Office cut in centre of each pair, and are sold only 10 to 20 copies at a time to each applicant. To obtain the stamps uncut, one must buy from the Post Office the whole complete set in current use."

STANLEY GIBBONS, LIMITED

391 STRAND, LONDON, W. C. 2.

ROUMANIA.—Stamp Collecting reports that they have been informed by their Bucharest correspondent that the long promised set of stamps bearing the portrait of King Ferdinand, was due for issue on or about Jan. 1st.

SLESVIG.—Copies of the remarkable "Plebiscite" stamps are at hand. The colours and subjects are as follows:—

Type 1.—Two lions (one above the other) in circle.

2 1/2pf grey. 20pf ultramarine. 5pf green. 25pf orange. 7 1/2pf bistre-brown. 35pf grey-brown. 10pf rose-carmine. 40pf violet. 15pf deep mauve. 75pf green.

Type 2.—Large transverse oblong.

Landscape, with value in shield supported by lion on either side.

1 mark brown. 5 mark yellow-green. 2 mark bright blue. 10 mark red.

As we remarked when we first foreshadowed these stamps, four months ago, they are among the most extraordinarily interesting of all the world's myriad scraps of postal paper.

As stated last week, the set has also appeared with the overprint "C.I.S."

(which is in black capital on the entire

with the flames rising from each corner.

All values are inscribed REPUBLIQUE d'AZERBAIDJAN at foot, and values are in lower corners. Turkish inscriptions at top read similarly.

BAVARIA.—All three of the Ludwig issues exist imperf., and are worth about 20 per cent more in that condition, so that apparently they are sold officially.

The use of German stamps surcharged Freistaat Bayern is said to be due to the enormous demand for Bavarian stamps by collectors and the inability of the Bavarian printing establishment to equal the demand with the home product, hence the use of those of Germhunny.

Certain values of the current Freistaat set having been exhausted, the 5, 7 1/2, 20 and 50pf, have been surcharged with a new setting of type, rather thinner than the original, and modified Roman instead of German letters. The 1, 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20 Marks have been surcharged anew with much larger, modified Roman letters.

The entire set of official stamps, with the exception of one or two values which will appear soon, has also been surcharged VOLKSTAAT BAYERN.

BULGARIA.—The 5s green of the Boris set has made its appearance.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Has overprinted all Austrian stamps in stock with a diagonal, three-line surcharge, in large capitals, POSTA CESKOSLOVENSKA 1919. This issue appeared about the 15th of December, 1919, and postage stamps, specials, newspapers, aeroplane and postage dues were so treated, as were also several varieties of Hungary. The exact number of varieties is not known, but there is a very large number, some of which, having been produced in small quantities, are very scarce.

The stamps were sold at an advance of 50 per cent over face and the proceeds used for charitable purposes. There are in the neighborhood of 80 varieties, perhaps more, and they were good for internal postage until December 31 only.

DENMARK.—A new 60 ore, brown and blue, has appeared. Current type.

ESTHONIA.—October 28, 1919, a provisional issue of stamps appeared in Tallinn, Esthonia. They were made by handstamping EESTI POST in aniline violet, on perforate and imperforate stamps of the current Russian set as follows:—1k imperf., 2, 3, 5, 10, 15 and 25kop, perf. The surcharge on the 10kop is in black, the others, violet. Nothing is known as to the official nature of these stamps, but covers in the possession of the writer bear both these stamps and the regular issue of Esthonia, and the reader is left to draw his own conclusions, tempered by the price asked for the set, which is £15!

print DEUTSCHÖSTERREICH, has been found with double surcharge, one normal, the other vertical, reading down, and covering portions of both stamps of a vertical pair.

The remaining values of the Parliament-buildings set have appeared and resemble the 10-Kronen, previously described. All are copper-plate engravings, on silk paper, perf. 14, but the 10k has been found perf. 12½x11½ also.

2K orange and black.
3K cobalt and Roman sepia.
4K red and black.

Centres in second color; number in sheet, 120.

The new postage dues have also been issued. They are of the general postage-due design, with figure in centre. The heller values, 22x22 mm., are typographed and perf. 14. The figure is in a crown-shaped frame, above which is DEUTSCHÖSTERREICH, below, PORTO. The Kronen values are 22x30 mm. and the design is more ornate, while the word Krone or Kronen is inserted in the frame at right.

Designs, as usual, are by Renner, and colors are as in former set, i.e., lower values red, higher, bright blue. Heller values are printed 100 in sheet, Krone values, only 80. The set consists of the following:—5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 80 heller, 1, 5 and 10 Kronen.

GERMANY.—The aerial-post stamps have been severely criticized as being "crude", "tasteless" and so weiter! They are 21½x33, typographed 50 to the sheet. The 10pf is used on postals, the 40pf on letters.

GUATEMALA.—It is seldom that any country outside Europe produces new issues any more, but Guatemala has issued two new handsome pictorials, which arrived on a letter postmarked December 16, '19. These are 60c olive and black picturing the Joaquina (pronounced "Hwakeena") Maternity Asylum, and the 90c brown-red and black, showing the Estrada Cabrera practical school. The 60c has "Guatemala" and "U.P.U. 1918" at top, and value at bottom. In the 90c this arrangement is reversed.

HUNGARY.—The Roumanians surcharged no less than 77 varieties with the circle-PFTFT design. These include all sorts of issues available: special delivery, mowers, turul, republic, Karl, Zita, Parliament, postage dues and these with KOTZARSASAG as well as remainders of the 1913 Flood issue.

LATVIA.—A large stamp to commemorate the first year of Lettonian independence, was issued Nov. 18, 1919. It is very large—33x45 mm., and shows a Lettish woman in national costume, sword in right hand, left resting on a wreath which encloses "1918—18 Nov.—1919". Bottom label is inscribed LATWIJA PASTA 10 Kap. Colors, brown and red. Little can be said either for the beauty of the stamp or the lady, but it (and she) are large, and will consequently fill a lot of space in an album.

The higher values of the current set have appeared. These are perf. 3 Roub., dark blue-green and orange. 5 Roub., dark grey-violet and orange. Centres in second color.

LUXEMBOURG.—Two stamps of the current set have been surcharged "Droits de Statistique" in black. These are revenue stamps used on bills of lading, invoices, and receipts, and are NOT postage stamps.

6½c on 10 lake and 12½c dull green.

JUGO-SLAVIA has a new set of newspaper stamps, imperf., all in grey, 2, 4, 6, 10 and 30 heller. The design is a kute kewpie with a bundle of "extras" under each arm. The inscription DRZAVA S H S appears at top in both Cyrillic and Roman letters. The value is, in figures, at bottom.

NETHERLANDS.—The 30c stamp being useless under new postage regulations, it has been surcharged to meet the new rates: 40c on 30c, lilac and brown, also 60c on 30c.

RUSSIA.—The army of the West has a set of 8 stamps, imperf., 100 to the sheet, lithographed. They show the arms of Russia, and are inscribed RUSSKAYA POSTA at top, and value at bottom. They are spaced 3½ mm. vertically, and 4 mm. horizontally. The design is simple and pleasing, and the colors harmonious.

5kop dark brown.
10kop mineral blue.
15kop orange.
20kop violet.
30kop ochre.
50kop light blue.
60kop yellow-green.
75kop myrtle green.

In addition to the above, on Oct. 11, due to accumulation of mail for which stamps were not available, from 100 to 500 copies of various Lettish stamps, including the Riga liberation set, were handstamped with a Russian cross in a circle.

This was done at the order of the Russian governor. Later a lithographed surcharge was made, and in these there is a net under-ground to the circle. Of this issue from 2800 to 16100 were issued, except the 10kop, of which there were only 400 copies. By order of the governor of Mitau the stones used for surcharging the stamps were destroyed. Two postmarks were used in cancelling these stamps, the Lettish "Jelgawa—Mitau" stamp, and later the old Russian stamp.

The Army of the Northwest has surcharged current Russian issues with an inscription in a frame. This lettering

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS
Beverly, Mass. Portland, Me.

reads "Sev. (ernaya) Zap. (adna) Armiya" or Army of the Northwest. Fourteen values, 2kop to 10roub, have been seen.

SCHLESWIG.—The Plebiscite stamps have at last appeared. There are values, 2½pf to 10 marks. There are three designs, all rather crude, the principal feature of which is a pair of anemic lions. Values to 75pf are tangles, mark values oblongs. All in the inscription SLESVIG PLEBISCIT. 2½pf grey; 3pf brown; 5pf green; 7½pf brown; 10pf red; 15pf violet; blue; 25pf yellow; 35pf lilac; 40pf brown; 75pf blue green; 1mk red; 2mk blue; 5mks chrome green; 10mks green. There are two slightly different types of the 10pf.

SIKKIM.—Another Indian State has begun to issue stamps for interior. Sikkim is a frontier state, and a region of high mountains, (Kunlun) having an altitude of over 20,000 ft., and immense rainfall, sometimes 300 or 400 inches! Darjiling, "the city of the diamond thunderbolt," an important British sanitary station located in Sikkim. Tumlung is its capital.

A one-anna stamp, yellow, has appeared. It is square, and shows a mountain, probably Kunchinjunga.

SWITZERLAND.—The arms on the charity stamps are as follows:

7½c Lower Unterwald.
10c Vaud.
15c Upper Unterwald.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

The stamps of Aitutaki, Cook Islands, Penrhyn and Rarotonga will soon be obsolete, as new picture series are in course of preparation for these islands and will be on sale very shortly. The Rarotonga sets overprinted on New Zealand stamps especially, will undoubtedly increase rapidly in value, as these stamps were in issue for a very short time only.

Meanwhile, Cook Islands have given us a little surprise. Our Australian correspondent informs us that a small quantity said to consist of some fifty sheets only, of the value of 2d and perforated 14 by 15, was sent to this Colony to be used up. Long before Australian dealers were in the know, New Zealand speculators got wind of the affair and bought up practically the whole quantity, and we feel sure that owing to the very small number issued, this stamp will rise considerably in value.

We managed to acquire two sheets, however, not at face-value, and are offering these to our New Issue Service subscribers at 3s per stamp while they last.

A new 10s value of Malta water-marked multiple C.A. found its way some little time ago on to the London market. We were not successful in securing a quantity of these stamps for our New Issue Service, and were informed that these stamps were issued by mistake and would not be on sale until the stock of the old 10s stamps was sold out. There is consequently no need for anxiety to secure this stamp at a high price as we believe that they will very shortly be obtainable again in any quantity desired.

The stamps of the N. W. Pacific Islands have always been difficult to obtain from the Postal Authorities, as only small lots were sent out from time to time to this new Colony. A new setting, said to be the fifth, has been prepared and we are glad to say that we have obtained a parcel of all the values that have been issued so far. The new stamps show the same overprint but in one setting only, viz., Type 1, and differ slightly in shade from the previous issues. The entire parcel will be distributed at our usual 10 per cent rate to all our subscribers, who will no doubt find these stamps welcome additions, especially as we are informed that the name of these Islands may soon be changed.

The heavy fluctuation of the rupee has given rise to various enquiries, and we wish to point out that the rupee of British India is at present 2s 4d and may soon go up in value. East Africa and Zanzibar quotations are about 1s 10 1/2d per rupee, but even these prices will probably be altered before long to a higher rate. Everyone will remember that we sent out large parcels of British Somaliland and Seychelles at the rate of 1s 4d per rupee, whether we shall be able to do this in the future, is very questionable.

Regarding Falkland Islands War Stamps locally overprinted, we wish to point out that a small parcel of the 1s value has been re-issued, and this stamp differs very materially in colour from the one that suddenly made its appearance a year ago, the re-issue being overprinted on a stamp of a pale-brown shade with white gum, while the first one issued is of a deeper colour and has brown gum. We are informed that the re-issue is also exhausted at the Post Offices, and we are certain that the value of the first issue has in no way decreased, in fact, it is as rare as ever, and will go up in value as soon as the few copies we still have on hand are sold out.

Some time ago we read that a new St. Lucia stamp of the value of 1s, printed in brown, had been issued. This announcement was somewhat previous, as on ordering a parcel of these for our Service the money was returned to us with the information that the 1s brown was not yet available.

We are also informed that there is a great shortage of some of the lower values of Kedah, and in some of the districts ordinary stamps of Straits Settlements are being used for postage until new supplies reach the Colony from London.

We particularly wish to warn collectors against the many new sets of so-called new European stamps that are being thrown on the market at extortionate rates. The worst offenders are the Ukraine and other parts of Russia, Hungary, and the new Governments(?) of the North-Western Provinces of Russia. It should be borne in mind that at the present moment you can receive 350 Polish marks for one pound, and 650 Austrian crowns for the same amount, and if collectors have the chance of purchasing this rubbish at a price slightly above these rates they may possibly never lose anything—unless these obscure Governments throw demonetised remainders upon the market.

We have all heard of and also seen the much-discussed stamps of Latvia printed on the back of German maps of the German General Staff. Although only a few thousand stamps were said to have been printed on these maps, we abstained from making any purchases whatsoever, as we had already had some ten months ago an offer of a parcel consisting of 120,000 stamps, and since then these stamps were being freely dealt in at prices from 1s to 5s each. They are now obtainable at a fraction of a penny, and it seems as if someone not belonging to the German General Staff must have given orders for the production of fresh maps, and as no doubt the original stones are still in existence they are being printed off by the hundred-thousand.

From all sides we are besieged by offers of Ukraine stamps, and already experts are advertising their help and are warning collectors against the forged trident overprints; for so-called Russian Republics, and even towns, are issuing their own stamps, and as long as collectors make a demand for these questionable rarities, so long will the market be flooded with them.

We have seen an advertisement published by members of a Buda-Pesth Philatelic Society, warning stamp collectors against the acquisition of some of the surcharged and overprinted sets of Hungarian stamps, which are said to have been engineered without the slightest authority, and are not even available for postal purposes.

Everybody is allowed to purchase what they like and what they fancy, and as long as collectors bear in mind the ridiculously low rates of exchange, we do not think much money will be lost in the acquisition of these labels.—Griebert's Philatelic Notes and Offers.

El Centro, Calif., still another new one in small type without lines or bars. The 5c, 6c, 7c normal and double, 10c, 13c and 30c reported.

Sapulpa, Okla., still another new city, is using the U-3 type and the 7c, 15c, 20c and 50c perforated 11 has appeared.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

AUGUST EICHELE.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The St. Louis directory for 1868 lists the following match manufacturers:—
Thos. Allen, (Eichele & Co.) res. 722 4th St.

Thomas Allen, prop. St. Louis Match Factory, 41 Chouteau Ave., res. 718 S. 4th St.

Augustus Eichele, res. 511 Marion St.
A. Eichele & Co. (Samuel Peltz & Thomas Allen) 2011 Columbus St.
Peter Eichele & Co., 1503 Columbus St.

Peter Eichele, res. 1609 Jackson St.

In 1865 Aug. Eichele, (Superior Telegraph Matches), is listed at 258 Columbus St. and A. Eichele & Co. at the same address the next year. Commencing in 1867 the address is given as 2011 Columbus St. until 1871, when it appears as 1503-5 Columbus St. and the latter address holds good until the last appearance of the firm in 1881. Until 1871 P. Eichele & Co. were located at 1503-5 Columbus St. Just what the connection, if any, between the three firms, Thos. Allen, August Eichele, and Peter Eichele was, the writer has been unable to discover. For many years August Eichele, Jr., is listed as foreman of Eichele & Co. at the latter's address. The references do not state whether or not the Thomas Allen of Eichele & Co. is the same Thos. Allen of the St. Louis Match Factory. There are several Thomas Allens listed at the time, one of whom was president of the Iron Mountain Railroad, but no other Eicheles are mentioned in St. Louis for many years.

Of the August Eichele stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved, May 31, 1865.
First issued, June, 1865.
Last issued, Feb. 16, 1869.
10,715,000 issued in black on old paper.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).

This is one of the most attractive match stamps and one of the most interesting. An upright rectangle of the standard 1c size, the design is a clever adaptation of the 30c postage stamp of 1860. In place of the Franklin profile the central oval contains a three-quarter portrait of Mr. Eichele and "U. S. Inter. Rev." replaces "U. S. Postage" at the top. "One" or "Cent" appears in tiny letters across each of the four shields and in place of "30" at the bottom we find the numeral "1" crossed by "Matches", the C being superimposed on the numeral in a most unusual and curious manner. At the left, reading up, is "Aug. Eichele" and at the right, reading down, is "St. Louis, Mo.", occupying the spaces which contain "Thirty-Cents" on the postage stamp. A minute colorless five-pointed star is tucked away in the corner below the "In" of "Inter."

The stamp went into use and was retired at almost the same time as the Thos. Allen and preceded its other St. Louis contemporary—the P. Eichele & Co.—by more than a year. It was engraved by Butler & Carpenter and all were printed in Philadelphia. Fair specimens are not easy to find; good copies are difficult; and fine condition is nearly impossible. In view of the comparatively large quantity issued this is surprising, but it is doubtful if there are ten really fine copies in existence, and no pair has been noted.

UNITED STATES POSTMARKS AND CANCELLATIONS PRIOR TO 1890.

By J. A. RITCHIE, 2305 Andrews Av., N. Y. City.

The initial article of this work on postmarks and cancellations, outlining the plan in detail, appeared on January 17th. Response was not only immediate but wholehearted. In fact, it was so generous that in writing the introduction to the second article a few days after the appearance of the initial installment on January 17th, the author was prompted to emphasize the reception given the series because of the very great encouragement this response gave not only him but the backers of the plan.

Optimistic though we were over the co-operation received within the week following the opening article we were totally unprepared for the results of the full month period that has elapsed between then and the present writing.

Subsequent analysis of the replies received showed that during the first week we had heard only from collectors in the New England states. Time has now permitted replies from every section of the country and the reception of the plan can now be accurately appraised. The result of this appraisal is such as to make it difficult to speak conservatively.

Suffice it to say that our carefully laid plans for handling the details of such a work systematically and efficiently have been completely upset because of the extent to which our most optimistic forecasts have been exceeded. In a word, we have been literally swamped. This situation has necessitated some immediate and imperative changes in the handling of the details, which changes, however, effect but slightly the collector so far as his co-operation, outlined in the original plan, is concerned. Fortunately, the structure of the plan was made elastic enough to provide for this contingency, and the most serious result of the response which has overwhelmed us will be a delay for the next few weeks in the following phases of the plan.

First.—There will be a slight delay in the return of stamps and covers submitted by collectors and your indulgence in this regard is urgently solicited for the time being. Shortly, this phase will be so systematized that all material will be mailed back within ninety-six (96) hours of its receipt.

Second.—The appearance in the WEEKLY of successive Groups have been and will be, for a short time, somewhat irregular but eventually they will appear weekly.

Third.—A delay has been necessitated in the preparation and sending out of the Co-operators' Proof Sheets and those of Group I, instead of being mailed out on February 16th, as planned, will not be sent forward until February 26th. Thereafter they will appear regularly on time.

Now that the plan has been in operation over a month, permitting the proper analysis of its efficiency, several slight re-adjustments have become imperative. Of one thing we may all be sure. The extent of the co-operation accorded this work has been such as to establish, beyond the question of a doubt, the important and indispensable part that postmarks and cancellations now play in the serious study of United States stamps. It has become, in truth, an elemental and recognized branch of Philately, and the fondest hopes of the sponsors of this work have been amply justified.

The wholehearted co-operation of collectors in the suggestions which follow is essential as never before, if the work is to be continued along the ambitious lines originally laid out. In other words, as before stated, this entire work is a labor of love, voluntarily financed, in addition to the large demands made upon the time of the author. So great have been these demands that it has become necessary to employ an assistant permanently for his full time under our supervision. Further, it has also become necessary to employ an artist whose whole time will be devoted to tracing postmarks and cancellations submitted. Such assistance requires a peculiar kind of experience and for this reason is most difficult of procurement. Every effort is now being bent to obtain the proper persons for this work and by the time this appears in print it is hoped these

BIG FOR A QUARTER.

Twenty-five cents is a very small sum nowadays and its purchasing value in United States stamps will be very, very much less when the new Scott's catalogue is ready.

I have had a line of bargain packets made up for more than a year. Their catalogue value is based on the old low prices and they are the best bargains I can recommend. I would not be surprised to find they will increase in catalogue price fifty per cent. with the new prices.

Packet 1 contains stamps that are damaged; Packet 2 stamps that have straight edges and Packet 3 is a wholesale mixture for dealers.

Packet 1—25 vars. U. S. cat. $2.50, 25 cents.

Packet 2—15 to 25 vars. U. S., cat. $1, 25c.

Packet 3—Lots cat. $1.00 to $2.50, 25 cents.

Not over five packets of Nos. 1 or 2 to a customer. Have about ten different lots in Packet 3—is the limit to a customer.[22

Dealers will find these profitable.

assistants may be on the job and broken in.

The wholehearted and willing observance of the following new rules will mean everything to the continuance and success of the plan and again we urge the same splendid degree of co-operation in their observance that has characterized that already accorded us by collectors universally. Before listing these new rules, however, the observance of three old ones must be reiterated here.

First.—Only those postmarks and cancellations of the specific Group under consideration should be submitted. Collectors are earnestly requested not to send in postmarks and cancellations promiscuously, but to wait patiently until the specific Group appears in print to which their particular postmarks apply—then is the time to co-operate!

Second.—Tracings or free-hand drawings or written descriptions, no matter how accurately made, cannot be accepted under any circumstances. Only by the submission of the actual stamp or cover can the accuracy or authenticity of such an important work be guaranteed by the writer.

Third.—Collectors should submit only those actual stamps and covers showing a clear-cut, definite design. It is obvious that in the interest of accuracy no guess work should have a place in such a work as this.

Now for the new changes in the plan:

First.—Owing to the delay of the mails from points as distant as the Pacific Coast, the time for submission of material has been extended from fifteen (15) to thirty (30) days from the date appearing on that issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in which the original Group in question was illustrated. In order that material submitted may appear or be chronicled in its proper form in the Co-operator's Proof Sheet, collectors must mail their material hereafter so that it will reach the writer within this thirty (30) day period.

Second.—In case material cannot be sent within this thirty (30) day period, it should be forwarded anyway, in which event it will be illustrated and chronicled for incorporation in the completed work, which is to appear in book form at the conclusion of the present series of articles. In this connection, it should be borne in mind that the present series are merely for the purpose of gathering material for the completed work.

Third.—Co-operator's Proof Sheets will be mailed you promptly forty (40) instead of thirty (30) days from the date of the WEEKLY in which illustrations of the original Group in question appeared.

To illustrate paragraphs one and three above:—Group I, animal cancellations, appeared in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of January 17th. Forms for the Co-operator's Proof Sheets for this Group would close, under these new rules, thirty (30) days later, or February 16th, and the Co-operator's Proof Sheets of Group I will be mailed out forty (40) days from January 17th, or on February 26th. In the above connection, while this may seem like a considerable delay, collectors should bear in mind that, once these series appear regularly they will receive the Co-operator's Proof Sheets of a new Group every week.

Third.—Hereafter the denomination and year of issue of the stamp upon which a particular postmark or cancellation is chronicled will appear in the sectional catalog in addition to Scott's number. (For example: 65—3c 1861). This addition is in response to the suggestion of several collectors.

Fourth.—The writer must decline all requests to place a valuation upon postmarks or cancellations submitted and it will be appreciated if collectors will respect the necessity for establishing this precedent, thus saving embarrassment on either side.

Fifth.—The author must likewise decline requests to pass upon the genuineness of any postmark or cancellations submitted.

Sixth.—No responsibility either implied or otherwise will be assumed for the genuineness of postmarks and cancellations illustrated and chronicled. The necessity of this rule is obvious, and furthermore, it is the writer's belief that no specialist, no matter how expert, can pass upon, with absolute certainty, the genuineness of every questionable postmark or cancellation.

Seventh.—On the other hand, the writer reserves the absolute right, without liability, to question the genuineness of any postmark or cancellation submitted. In case of such questioning, if the owner so desires, the postmark in question will be submitted to three disinterested experts for their decision, which will be final.

Eighth.—The right is also reserved, without liability, to question "smudged" postmarks, which are claimed by their owners to represent a definite object. This includes the right, which is reserved to the author, of declining to illustrate or chronicle such "smudged" postmarks for the definite objects they are claimed to represent.

Ninth.—The original groups hereafter will contain cancellations other than those in the writer's collection and other than those chronicled by him while on the stamp market.

In addition to the above new changes collectors have been generous in responding to the author's request for constructive criticism and suggestions. Two or three of these should be touched upon because, while they cannot be followed, they merit notice.

First.—Several collectors and dealers have been fearful that by re-producing genuine postmarks accurately and exactly that undue temptation would be presented for the counterfeiting of these postmarks. They suggested that either the size of the design be changed from that of the original or that a secret mark be incorporated in the illustration. The writer has given a great deal of thought to this particular suggestion and has taken it up at length with the publishers, engravers and backers of this work. Agreement is unanimous that it would be impractical from the mechanical standpoint to follow out this suggestion, and, second, that even were it possible, such change in designs, no matter how small, would prevent the proper identification of the postmarks illustrated by collectors, and, of even greater importance, fail to defeat any counterfeiter intent upon counterfeiting postmarks.

Another suggestion has been that the writer announce the subject of several Groups in advance. It is hoped to do this later but until the work is more systematized, the right must be reserved to select Groups haphazardly and to illustrate them without prior notice.

The final suggestion that merits attention is that the author give more emphasis to historical postmarks, such as "Paid", "Ship", "Railroad", "Way", "Steam", "Packet", etc., rather than to illustrate purely picture cancellations, such as animal cancellations, etc. Obviously the former are of greater historical interest and value and it is planned to give these Groups of postmarks their proper attention later on.
Their number is so many, however, that until the work is more systematically arranged, the author must confine himself to the rare groups which, after all,

are the picture cancellations.

A word about the illustrations themselves, which have already appeared.
The writer was very much disappointed in the ragged and unworkmanship-like appearance of the postmarks that have appeared. This was due to too great faithfulness in following the exact design. Hereafter, the re-production of the postmarks themselves, as well as the index numbers accompanying them, will be clear cut and sharp.

Gratitude would be an empty word
if the author and those responsible for this work did not take this opportunity of expressing their sincere and whole-hearted appreciation for the truly remarkable co-operation accorded universally by collectors. In truth, this co-

ANNUAL MEETING OF R. I. P. S.
The annual meeting of the R.I.P.S. was held Feb. 17, and in connection with a request for the local selecting of A.P.S. convention dates, August 10-13, were chosen. The old board of officers was re-elected:—Robt. S. Emerson, president; W. H. Colwell, vice president; Roy S. Barker, secretary-treasurer; Jerome Fleischer, exchange manager, and A. B. Slater, librarian. The meeting adjourned to March 2, to continue the discussion of business.

The page advertisement of Fred E. Prohaska speaks for itself but we shall be pardoned for the space we use in referring to the progress of this live dealer. In 1913 Mr. Prohaska started in a small way in the stamp business and advertised in Adlets, specializing in stamps at 1c each. So much labor was entailed that he gave up dealing until last August, when he began using a two-inch space regularly in our columns.

We quote from Mr. Prohaska's latest letter:—"The results have been astonishing and I have your paper to thank for 90% of my customers. I have built up a very large stock from a rather small beginning and am adding new items every day. I believe that you will agree with me that my page of offerings is a very good one considering the length of time I have been engaged in the business. If there be any part of my adv which is objectionable or which conflicts with any of your rules you may edit it, as I want to play fair and have the good-will of everybody."

It is needless to say that such an advertisement as this coupled with the splendid spirit of the dealer who submits it makes a combination that we endorse with satisfaction. There was never a year in the history of the WEEKLY when so many page announcements have been used as at the present time. It is paying others and it will pay you. Our price is $65.

TO CALIFORNIA.

By CHARLES ELMER JENNEY.
(We have received from G. M. Williams & Son, Fresno, Cal., a pretty New Year's greeting made up of a handsomely printed card with the following verses written by C. E. Jenney, who will be remembered by many of our readers because of his interest in philately. The lines show the real genius of the poet and we print them in order that Mr. Jenney's oldtime friends may enjoy them.—W. O. W.)

1849
Rude, wild, unkempt, this strange new land
That bordered on the Western strand,—
From old ties far departed,—
But they who sought beneath thy earth,
And delved to better know thy worth,—
They found thee golden-hearted.

THE SEVENTIES.
Wide tramping o'er thy herbage plains
The herds clashed horns, the droves tossed manes
Flocks fed o'er realms uncharted;
Yet ever Spring renewed the green,
And with her satin poppy sheen Bedecked thee golden-hearted.

TODAY.
Land of the strong and brave and free
An empire by the western sea,
Glad-homed and many-marted,
Where 'neath the vine and fig one roves,
Or through the dark-green orange groves,
All gleaming golden-hearted.

THE FUTURE.
Heir to the sunshine, heir to health,
Heir to unestimated wealth,—
All that the Past imparted,— Shalt thou, bestowing with free hand
Thy blessings wide through every land,
Be called the Golden-hearted.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Active—It is gratifying to notice that there is an improved tone in the local philatelic societies and that they are doing much more to justify their existence than for some years past. Reports from Indianapolis, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Pittsburg and Chicago, not to mention other cities, indicate that an enterprise is being shown in the conduct of the local organizations that must reflect with benefit upon home philately. Chicago is awakening to again take its place as one of the leaders, Indianapolis is promoting good work, Cleveland has a recent display to its credit, and if we mistake not, Cincinnati is very much alive. Now Milwaukee comes to the fore and announces that on the evening of February 21st, 1920, an exhibit of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society in the Public Museum will be reviewed by philatelic Milwaukeeans and visitors who have been invited from neighboring cities. A dinner will follow at which some well-known philatelist will make a short address. For several years past we have partaken of the hospitality of Milwaukee collectors on their festival night and we know that the society there is admirably cultivating the local field. We hear of successful exhibitions that have been held by societies or groups of collectors in the smaller cities and we are impressed by the unselfish spirit that is shown by members of local societies in promoting an interest in their pursuit. This is the time of year for stamp exhibitions and we believe that no display of stamps to which unattached collectors and others had ac-

Represented—In the London Graphic for January 3rd, 1920, we find an editorial inspired by a consideration of the growth of the "Who's Who" books, which concludes with the observation: "Even at its lowest reckoning, 'Who's Whoism' gives much pleasure and does no harm." For us, the meat in the kernel is the inclusion of "Who's Who in Philately, London," in the list of Who's Who books, cheek by jowl with the compilations of the kind on medicine, science, theatre, etc. We must extend our compliments to the London editors; they are so well-informed about philately that it may be said to enter their working lives. On this side we lag in this respect but a change for the better is apparent through the volume of publicity that philately is receiving in the press and elsewhere.

By-Play—In "Denry, the Audacious," by Arnold Bennett, there is a bit of repartee that engages the eye that is always on the lookout for the word, "stamps," in the outside prints. Denry calls upon Ruth, in whom he has an interest that he cannot exactly define, even to himself, about an arrearage in rent. "Yes," he said, in a cold commercial tone, "I collect rents." "I should have thought that you preferred postage stamps," she said, etc. Payment would be made of course. "With a cheque?" Denry demanded, with saute, jolly courtesy. "I don't collect postage stamps. (And to himself: 'She's got her postage stamps back.')

Prices—Tales of woe have reached us now that the prices on some of the Neuropo issues have appeared in the avant courier of the catalogue, the advance sheets. Collectors, here and there, have paid unwarrantedly high prices in the light of catalogue quotations for certain varieties of the stamps in question. At the same time, we know of cases where the stamps have been bought below their evident value. It is not unlikely that a dash of bitterness appears in the cup of buyers of Neuropo as no little confusion has been occasioned by the variations in price at which some of the issues were consigned to dealers and others in this country. All has not been near-beer and skittles in this regard but we think that the average collector knowing of the somewhat speculative position of certain issues abides by market results without complaint. In fact, the mature collector finds a fascination in this uncertainty as affecting some of the stamps; and it is likely that in the aggregate the price trend works out favorably from an investment point of view.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
NICARAGUA 1918-19 PROVISIONALS.
By ARTHUR T. BROWNE, B. P. S. 646
CHAPTER II.

Since writing the first instalment of this article, I have picked up a few more interesting things that are worth recording. The first was a used block of four of the "medio centavo" on the 25c. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 all have broken type. In No. 2 the "o" in centavo is so badly broken that it is all but obliterated. No. 4, strange to say, has a clear impression.

The second find was a used copy of the "un centavo" on the 15c. In this one the "o" in "cordoba" has dropped out of the setting, making it read "de cord ba."

I have also found the "medio" on the 10 centavos with a badly broken "a" in centavos and have another copy which shows a wide spacing in "centavo" like this: "centa vo".

While looking over a number of copies of the "un centavo" on the 25 centavos, I find this surcharge comes in two kinds of type, heavy, and also in a light, thin type. I have a copy showing the "de cordoba" so badly broken that even with a strong glass it is hard to make out.

Vale
dos centavos
de cordoba

The above surcharge, in black, appears on the 4, 6, 10 and 25c of 1914 and the 50c official of 1912. It also appears in dark red on the 20c. There are quite a number of errors to be found in connection with this surcharge. I have a copy of the 4c with the "S" in "centavos" inverted. I also have a copy of the 4c showing the error "dos centavo", instead of "centavos". I have this same error on the 50c official of 1912. On the 25c I have found the error "codoba" for "cordoba" and also "Vle" for "Vale". An interesting minor variety of the 25c is a setting of the type of the surcharge as follows:

dos centavos
de cordoba
Vale

Still another minor variety of the 25c is one that shows a badly broken "e" in centavos.

Vale
cinco centavos
de cordoba

This surcharge, in black, appears on the 6c and 15c stamps. I have thus far found no errors or minor varieties of these stamps.

The second set of surcharges saw a change from letters to numerals in the type setting. First, came the following surcharge:

Vale
1 centavo
do cordoba

This was used on the 3c stamp and the surcharge is in black. Next came the "2 centavos" on the 4c, also in black, and last came the "5 centavos" in bright red, on the 15c. The "1 centavo" is quite common. I have seen no errors or minor varieties of the "1 centavo" and the "2 centavos".

In regard to the "5 centavos" I have a used single copy with a pronounced double surcharge. I also have a used block of four, every stamp in which has the double surcharge.

JUSTICE FOR THE DEALER.
By MARVIN R. BAER.

In MEKEEL'S for October 23rd, 1919, is an account of the experience of Mr. Mann with an applicant for approvals, who took 25 cents worth, remitted 24 cents, and returned the lot in ordinary mail.

I don't know what other collectors think, but it seems to me that the pleasure of looking over a lot of stamps is worth something, and certainly the dealer is entitled to some consideration.

Every collector should take a pledge something like this:

- (a) I shall never ask for approval selections unless I intend to buy.
- (b) I shall specify to the dealer just about what I want.
- (c) I shall never return a selection except prepaid as sent me.
- (d) I shall insert a check list to help the busy dealer.
- (e) I shall promptly return any unsolicited selection without taking anything, and will never buy from a dealer who sends unsolicited approvals.
- (f) I shall make it a rule to always try to purchase at least ten per cent of the total value of the lot.

I wonder if this wouldn't pay in the long run, for fair play makes for pleasant feelings, and the dealer is more apt to slip the good things to the man who treats him right.

Let's get together and try to be decent with that terrible critter, the stamp dealer, and pretty soon we will have him eating out of our hands. And remember this, that without the dealer, our hobby would soon drift into oblivion.

For the benefit of the reader I will state that I have never been a dealer, am not a dealer, and don't expect to be a dealer, so have no axe to grind.

ANOTHER BLOCK FIND IN EARLY U. S.

The O. G. block of twenty-three stamps, U. S. 3c, number 33, Scott's, recently discovered by A. Atlas Leve of Syracuse, N. Y., in the possession of a non-collector for twenty years, is in a beautiful state of preservation. The gum is about perfect, clean and clear. The block is in two horizontal rows of ten each with a third strip of three stamps at the extreme top, right side. The stamps run very finely as to color; five or six stamps show a little oxidization. At the extreme left of the block an outer line shows in the margin. There is a half inch margin at the right. In the center of the block the spacing is several times the width of the other spaces; and some pairs in the block are decidedly close together.

Oh Yes, Indeed,—

Don't think for a minute because I haven't advertised U. S. Revenues recently that none are in stock. If you happen to need such whales as the 6c Proprietary, $200 and $500 second issue, and any of the rare imperforates in pairs, etc., be a shark and get word to me before someone else beats you to 'em.

Almost every mail brings letters from good fellows who start to go fishing after the pond has dried up. And that's no fish tale either.

Finer '47's; more of them; and more reasonable prices are to be found at Westfield, New Jersey than any other place I know of.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Through the kindness of Messrs. C. A. Jenkins, Kurt Weidenthal, Dr. N. Stone Scott, M. Marcuson and H. G. Steinbrenner we are able to chronicle the 2c on 3c circular die envelope as issued in Cleveland. This is the second type as described in our notes of last week and the surcharge consists of a small double line figure "2" in addition to two groups of four short vertical lines which are supposed to obliterate the old figure of value. The surcharge is in black. As this type was first used in Cleveland we will speak of it as the Cleveland type in the future.

The first type, namely, the one with a large double line figure "2" and three horizontal lines, we will designate as the Washington type and the third variety, that is the one reading "2 CENTS", we will call the St. Louis type, as the die was sent to that place although we have not as yet seen a copy of this envelope. To date we have only seen the surcharge applied to either the size 8 or size 13 envelopes but know that the variety will appear in time.

Mr. Steinbrenner tells us that there are 1,206,000 of the 3c envelopes on hand in Cleveland and that these will be surcharged. Two hundred thousand were surcharged in Washington but this is only a portion of the supply of 3c envelopes on hand. I know they had some on blue and amber during the last days of the 3c rate but at that time none on buff were on sale. We have seen so far (February 18th) the following and would be glad to receive copies of any variety not listed, from our friends:—

1920 Washington Type.

2c on 3c, black surcharge, Die A, Size 13.
2c on 3c, red surcharge, Die A, Size 8.
2c on 3c, red surcharge, Die F, Size 8.

Cleveland Type.

2c on 3c, black surcharge, Die A, Size 13.
2c on 3c, black surcharge, Die F, Size 13.

I wrote to the Postmaster at St. Louis for some from that office but under date of February 6th he writes that they do not sell stamped envelopes to patrons of other post offices. I must say that in the past I have written at least eighty U. S. Post Offices for different things and this is the first time that my requisition has been turned down. I was a little surprised at this, for it will be recalled that Postmaster Delph welcomed the A.P.S. convention during its session in St. Louis.

In my chronicle of January 9th I stated that Mr. A. E. Owen and myself had spent some little time going over the 2c rotary coil stamp and from our observations we were quite sure that there were three dies of this stamp and quite possibly more. Since then Mr. Owen has been in Washington and with Mr. Leavy checked up the dies and found that there were at least three. The first die, which bears number 534 and which we will designate as Die I, is the one used for all of the flat plates and for the early rotary coils. The second die is No. 605, and was used for the "S 20" and supposedly the "S 40" plates and a third die, No. 611, was used on the "S 30" plates. This we will designate Die IV, for since talking with Mr. Owen I have located a fourth die which falls between the last two, and this we will call Die III. I expect to be in Washington myself next week and will then try and account for this extra die.

In order that our readers may separate these dies a detailed description may not be amiss.

Die I.—This was the first die of the type engraved and all flat plates including those now in use are from this die. The early rotary coils were all made from this die, the first endwise coil plate of 150 subjects being No. 5957, which was certified on June 13, 1912. The first sidewise plates of 170 subjects carried numbers 6056-60 and these were not certified until February 5, 1915. Two later plates, Nos 6856-57, however, were certified a year earlier in accordance with Mr. Owen's notes, these being approved on February 13, 1914. It is my opinion, however, that the "1915" of the first set is a typographical error for "1914." The last rotary plate from this die is No. 7423. Coils from this die are only known on watermarked paper. To distinguish Die I: The hair is lightly cut, the outline of the small lock of hair in front of the ear is formed by the horizontal shade lines of the face. The two locks in back of the ear are unequal in length. In the first section of the little ribbon over the left "2" there are two diagonal lines and the same number in the second section of the ribbon over the right figure "2". Both the sidewise and endwise watermarked coils are found in this type perforated 10, as well as the imperforate sidewise coil.

Die II.—The first plate from this die is an "S 20" plate bearing number 7425. Mr. Owen claims that the "S 40" plates fall under this die, but I am under the impression that they belong to the next die. This will be checked and definite information given in my coil article now appearing in the WEEKLY. This die is similar to Die I insofar as the hair in back of the ear and the ribbons are concerned. It differs, however, in the lock of hair in front of the ear. In Die II the outline is not formed by the lines of the face, but a sharp line has been cut making the lock more defined and distinct. Both the watermarked and unwatermarked, sidewise and endwise coils are known from this die.

Die III.—I can give little information regarding this die until we have the opportunity of again visiting the Bureau. It is a distinct type, however. The stamp is similar to Die II except the little ribbon sections described above have three diagonal lines instead of two. Washington's que has a large white space running along its left side, while in the Die IV this is filled in by a heavily cut hair. The head has all of the peculiarities of Die I and II, but the ribbons are like Die IV. So far I have found this variety in the sidewise coil watermarked and unwatermarked and in the endwise coil unwatermarked. It no doubt exists in the endwise watermarked, but I have not seen it.

Die IV.—The first plate from this die is an "S 30" plate bearing number 7510 and was used for making all "S 30" plates. It is the die used for all 2c rotary coils today. In this die the lock of hair in front of the ear is similar to Die II. In the hair in back of the ear, however, we find the lines deepened, and the two locks described in previous dies as of unequal length are equal in this die besides being very heavy and distinct. The ribbons are sharp and distinct and show three diagonal lines. This variety is known in both the endwise and sidewise coils, watermarked and unwatermarked.

Another Die has been made wherein the lines have been deepened, this bearing No. 626, but the Bureau tells us this has never been hardened, therefore never used. It is possible they may complete it and use it in time.

To put the above in a few words, the four dies may be distinguished as follows:—

	Lock front of Ear.	Locks Back Ear.	Lines in Ribbon.	Hair Lines
Die I	Formed by face lines	Unequal	Two	Light
Die II	Formed by distinct line	Unequal	Two	Light
Die III	Formed by distinct line	Unequal	Three	Light
Die IV	Formed by distinct line	Equal	Three	Deep

The following are known to date:—

Watermarked.

Sidewise coil.—Die I, II, III, IV.—Die I unperforated.

Endwise coil.—Die II, III, IV.

Unwatermarked.

Sidewise coil.—Die II, III, IV.

Endwise coil.—Die II, III, IV.

Compounds, Perf. 11x10.

Die II, IV.

We have further information for Chronicle, but will hold it over, until next week.

AUSTRALIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. shows us a copy of the current 3d stamp in a somewhat different shade than heretofore. The color is more of a yellow bistre.

The Economist Stamp Co. has also kindly shown us a copy of the 1d stamp printed on multiple watermark paper and the Australian Stamp Journal adds the following information:—

"Just as last month's journals were being posted on the 12th December, we discovered that the 1d King George on multiple watermark paper was on sale and in some cases we used them for pre-paying the postage on the journals. Whether or not the 1d on multiple paper is going to be permanent we cannot say, but a large supply of them was received from Melbourne and they are still procurable at the G.P.O. here; while several correspondents have acquainted us that they are on sale at various post offices throughout Australia.

The fact of these stamps having appeared endorses our action in the early part of last year in denouncing the high prices which the few, that were obtainable then, were being sold. There are rarities and rarities, but it is not wise to say that certain stamps are scarce until the possibility of printing more of them has been blocked.

With regard to the current series of the Australian stamps we should not be surprised to find further changes of watermark any day, for it seems ridiculous that three different kinds of paper should be used concurrently, i.e., single crown paper and multiple crown paper used for King George stamps and a different watermark for the Kangaroo stamps, but Mr. Harrison seems either to be experimenting with different kinds of paper or taking whatever kinds he can get, so stamp collectors must put up with them until something definite has been evolved. Possibly, one of these days, the Kangaroo stamps may disappear altogether. Indeed, a new general design might be put on the market any day, but, until something definite has occurred, we would strongly advise our readers not to give fancy prices for stamps regarding which there is any uncertainty."

AUSTRIA.—Mr. L. Bernard has shown us the following new values of the new German-Austrian Republic, which are of large design showing Parliament at Vienna. They are printed on "Granite" paper with no watermark and perforated 12 1/2. The values and colors are as follows:—

2 kronen, orange and black.
3 " blue and brown.
4 " red and black.
10 " olive and deep brown.

BAVARIA.—A. Koechlin informs us that in the near future all the Ludwig stamps with and without overprint will be issued imperforate. There will be issued in addition soon a so-called peace set in new designs. A 20pf "for invalids" has been added to this set. The sale of the 10c and 15c seems to have given quite a bit of business.

CZECHO SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us new printings of the current type 10 and 20h values. The color of the former is a distinct yellow green and the latter, red.

Fiji.—It may not be generally known that there are certain small post offices in the outlying districts in Fiji where the residents have permission to use a rubber obliterating stamp merely with the name of the district. We have seen various names on the stamps during the past few years and the ink used is usually violet. In some instances we have seen a broad arrow cancellation, but all these are merely obliterations, not overprints. It is generally supposed that this form of obliteration is a concession to the Colonial Sugar Co. of this city, who provide the obliterating stamps for the use of the people working on their various plantations.—Australian Stamp Journal.

HONG KONG.—Mr. Hugo Griebert has shown us the 25c value of this colony

"Stamps As An Investment—"
"What to Collect and Buy"

This is the title of an absorbing little booklet which gives some remarkable information upon the investment side of stamp collecting. A long list of stamps is included showing the actual rise in prices during the past few years—a list which proves conclusively what a wonderful investment stamps have been.

in the new type. The color is red violet.

NAURU.—The latest printing of the 2sh 6d value arrived at Pleasant Island on the 3rd of December and they are stamps which have been printed for Great Britain by Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. The Australian Stamp Journal calls attention to the fact that "the minute dot in the middle of each stamp at the top just above the frame line, is very noticeable in some instances, but scarcely discernible in others. The peculiarity of it is, that it is not always in the same relation to the position of the stamp, which fact will, no doubt, give rise to some discussion. The paper from which these stamps are printed is quite white, likewise the gum, giving the stamps the same appearance as those printed by Waterlow & Sons. They are printed in sheets of 40, in four rows of 10, as formerly.

We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for submitting to us a copy for inspection.

NETHERLANDS.—The Stamp Lover reports that the recently issued surcharged stamps were rendered necessary owing to an increase in the postal rates. They also add that the 30c value will no longer be printed.

NEW ZEALAND.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. a copy of the 3d value surface printed, surcharged OFFICIAL in black. The manner of surcharge is the same as the 1½ value issued a few weeks since.

NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—Mr. H. R. Arnold submits to us for chronicle a copy of the ½d, corrected setting, perforated 14x14½.

ROUMANIA (Occupation of Budapest).—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us six values of Hungarian stamps overprinted for use in Budapest. The 2, 3 and 4 filler stamps of Hungary surcharged KOZTARSASAG diagonally in black have been further overprinted as follows:—5 bani on 4 filler, 10 bani on 3 filler and 25 bani on 2 filler. These surcharges are at the top of the stamp and each has in addition OCUPATIUNEA ROMANA 1919 B.

—PESTA. Also the current 2f Due and the 2f Special Delivery stamp have been surcharged 50 bani and 1 Lue respectively, while the 15f value of 1919 issue has been overprinted 2l. The latter values also have the Occupation surcharged as the former values mentioned. The overprint is in blue and a bar on each covers the name of the country.

SWITZERLAND.—The three Pro Juventute stamps represent in their designs the coats of arms of the cantons. Nidwalden (7½c), Vaud (10c) and Obwalden (15c). The first and the last of these three represent what is commonly called Unterwalden but they have separate governments. The stamps were on sale from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31 and may be used up to April 30, when they become obsolete for postal use. These stamps are for inland postage, with the exception that they may be used on correspondence to Denmark, Italy, Portugal and Hungary.—S. MEYER.

MILWAUKEE EXHIBITION.

The Milwaukee Philatelic Society recently arranged for an exhibit which was staged in the Public Museum, where is found a very good friend of philately in the person of Dr. L. D. Peaslee. We quote the following from the Milwaukee Journal of Friday, Feb. 13:—

Postage stamps from all over the world, some of them very rare, are on display this week and next in the coin room on the first floor of the public museum.

Among the specimens are those from the new countries of Europe. Some of these stamps are nightmares of cubist and ultra-cubist conceptions. Others are very beautiful, some of the world's greatest artists having contributed to their designs.

It may not be generally known, but some of the most prominent men and women of Milwaukee are enthusiastic stamp collectors. Among these may be mentioned John H. Puelicher, president of the Marshall & Ilsley bank; William Uihlein, Dr. F. A. Kraft, former health commissioner, and Dr. Leon D. Peaslee, one of the curators of the public museum. They are all members of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society.

I have a few sheets of Latvija 5kop on hand. Those stamps are the famous printed on Warmaps stamps, the most interesting of all War issues, as being made with actual War material. One sheet contains 228 stamps printed on the back of German warmaps. Those stamps even single will bring an enormous price in the future, now Mr. Collector, what is your opinion about the value of one entire sheet? I will not detach any stamp, I sell only the entire sheet. I even will not make the price for it. I leave it to you. I shall judge any amount invested in one of those sheets will increase your investment to 100 to 300% or more.

Kindly let me know at your earliest convenience how much you are willing to pay for an entire map with 228 stamps.

I am also offering 1 set Latvija 5, 10, 15 kop. printed on Writing paper, 3 varieties for 15 cents.

NEWS CLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Ernest L. Linn, brother of George W. Linn, has taken a position with the Geo. W. Linn Co. Mr. Linn has been a collector for years and the firm feels that in a short time he will be able to handle the business in a highly satisfactory manner.

—We take pleasure in introducing to our readers a new advertiser, C. Quattlander, 777 Prospect Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Quattlander does both a retail and wholesale business and comes to us highly recommended. We hope our readers will try him out.

—"You should by all means make reference in the WEEKLY to Arthur Train's story "Tutt and Mr. Tutt" appearing in Feb. 14th issue of Sat. Eve. Post, and it will make your hearts glad to read this appealing story of a boy's love for stamps."—E. H. DRAFER.

—"All mail on the transport Great Northern, which reached Manila December 24th, 1919, was ruined by acids in the ship's hold. As I have been informed that there were several packages of stamps that were entirely ruined and no addresses discernible, it might be well to publish this."—MARVIN R. BAER.

SPRINGFIELD'S ANNUAL.

The Springfield (Mass.) Stamp Club celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday on February 12 with a banquet at the Hotel Bridgeway. About forty sat down to the tables including, of course, the ladies, and did full justice to the repast. B. A. Oppenheimer, hereditary toastmaster, was master of ceremonies and served the roasted chestnuts in great profusion. Mrs. Kitson sang the old club song with addenda, bringing it down to date and Mrs. Thompson favored us with piano solos. Miss Barbara Kitson showed the members what fancy dancing was and the Oppenheimer trio furnished orchestral music during the dinner. Messrs. Munroe, Prevost, Curtis, Corcoran, Stone, Pember and Bailey were called upon to respond to toasts and the toastmaster also did his best to persuade Mrs. Prevost and Mrs. Curtis to also favor us but they were not to be persuaded. Original songs written by the toastmaster and dedicated to several of the charter members were sung with considerable hilarity, as was one dedicated to the ladies. Mr. Stone, who was one of the founders of the club and its first president, was surprised with a present of a beautiful gold mounted fountain pen. Each lady received a gold plated pencil and each gentleman a fine leather bound stock book suitably inscribed and bearing the club seal.

CHARLES M. BREDER, PHILATELIST.

(It is the privilege of the Managing Editor to come in contact with stamp collectors of many types and to carry on a correspondence with them, which while fragmentary in its nature knows no conclusion. This is true of my experience with Mr. Breder. For years he has been in touch with the office of the WEEKLY, sending us clippings from time to time and giving every evidence of a keen interest in all that concerns our hobby. In a letter recently received he casually enclosed the photograph from which the above halftone is taken. I wrote him for a sketch of his philatelic career and he sent me a reply in such a chatty vein that instead of reducing it to facts I use it in its entirety. It will be all the more readable for that very reason, and these experiences of a general collector will find a warm response in the heart of many a reader.—W. O. W.)

At the age of eight or nine I began collecting—collecting everything—bugs, minerals, stamps, coins, cigarette pictures and what not excepting money, with an especial leaning toward stamps. Collected vigorously at times, more by quantity than variety, and lapsing into periods of actual lethargy. When fourteen years of age, the fever of stamp collecting overtook me seriously and caused me to go pedaling around the small town in which I lived, asking all the merchants the privilege of making a cruise of investigation. Finally I landed on the top floor of a three story building and beheld an elderly gentleman opening boxes and poring over all sorts of personal belongings; when he found out what I was after, he immediately took me into tow and laid the foundation for systematic collecting and sent me on my way rejoicing. This man was no other than the late Rev. James K. Mendenhall, an Episcopal clergyman and a member of the then A.P.A.—It was through his proposal with the additional endorsement of Mr. E. T. Parker that I became a member of the A.P.A. in 1886.

Eight years of such collecting as is provided by a small town of 5000 inhabitants and with the advantages of knowing both the above mentioned persons with occasional visits to Philadelphia, where I invested in my first album with dear old L. W. Durbin, brought my

BIG FOR A QUARTER.

Twenty-five cents is a very small sum nowadays and its purchasing value in United States stamps will be very, very much less when the new Scott's catalogue is ready.

I have had a line of bargain packets made up for more than a year. Their catalogue value is based on the old low prices and they are the best bargains I can recommend. I would not be surprised to find they will increase in catalogue price fifty per cent. with the new prices.

Packet 1 contains stamps that are damaged; Packet 2 stamps that have straight edges and Packet 3 is a wholesale mixture for dealers.

Packet 1—25 vars. U. S. cat. $2.50, 25 cents.

Packet 2—15 to 25 vars. U. S., cat. $1, 25c.

Packet 3—Lots cat. $1.00 to $2.50, 25 cents.

Not over five packets of Nos. 1 or 2 to a customer. Have about ten different lots in Packet 3—is the limit to a customer. [22]

Dealers will find these profitable.

H. F. COLMAN,

2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

collection up to 8000 varieties. In 1894 I got married and three years later became the proud daddy of a bouncing baby boy. Then realizing that I was a man and time to put away childish things besides needing the money, I sold my collection at auction. In 1897 I resigned from the A.P.S. and thought that my stamp collecting days were over.

Eleven years passed by without a thought of stamps. In 1908 a friend of mine got married and sent his collection to me, thinking that I could get my son interested and wanting to give him a start. He was interested but I had to do all the work. Bought a 19th and a 20th century album, 1908 edition, placed all the stamps in proper places; bought packet after packet for him and finally thought of getting him to join the A.P.S. Now, here, Mr. Editor, is where you entered my philatelic life. I subscribed again to the WEEKLY for him and asked you whether my son was too young to be proposed. You said "No!" but it would be better if I got reinstated instead. I did on your proposal. That was in 1909.

In 1910 my son said that he just could not get interested the proper way in the "little bits of colored papers." Of course, my efforts to get him interested fanned the embers of love for philately in my soul into a consuming flame by that time, so it panned out thus: "Son, I will be the collector and have all the pleasure of it and when my time comes, the collection is yours and you can do with it as you please." Thenceforth I started to collect from an "investment for the son" point of view; have not yet given up and intend to collect as long as life and money provide a way. The son took a liking to fish and studied them from a scientific point of view—he is now at the age of 22 Scientific Assistant in the Bureau of Fisheries, Division of Inquiry, at Washington, D. C.

My collection at present numbers close to 22500 varieties; have never specialized, always remaining a general collector. I still have the same 1908 Edition of albums and place only such stamps therein for which spaces are provided. Any other varieties and all subsequent issues are placed on 4"x6" cards in the numerical order contained in the catalog—three drawers, each 12" deep, now contain what cannot be placed in the albums. Entire and envelope stamps are also in the collection but no determined effort has been made by me to collect these systematically.

In later years I have resorted to approval sheets but when dealers found out the size of my collection, submitted only the higher priced stamps. A year ago last November I made up a want list of stamps that catalogued 10 cents each and less, which list numbered 1600 stamps. I specialized to the extent of getting these together before a new catalog would be issued and have succeeded in running down all but about 100. It is hard work to get the remainders.

Recently I had to spend several days in Camden, N. J., and although very busy did not fail to make the rounds of the various stamp dealers close to the Broad St. Station in Philadelphia. After visiting five different shops I went on my way, rejoicing with 18 of the wants. Strange as it may seem, I haven't a single duplicate—some few that come my way are given to the boy living next door with a hope of starting another along the joyous road of philately.

"Bill" (my pet name for him) Colman relieved me of all my duplicates several years back. "Bill" and I have a good natured knocking correspondence together: whenever he goes to N. Y. on business he never fails to stop off and see me or call me up. Have done a lot of sorting, mounting and pricing of his "Jumbo" books.

T. H. Ames has been untiring in his efforts to supply my wants and has furnished me with at least 3/4 of them. "Thames" is a young man of Montclair with whom you have had dealings. Morgan W. Taylor of Hartford, Conn., is another peerless young dealer who has helped me out wonderfully and I do not think that I am violating any confidence when I quote the following from him: "My small Adlet in MEKEEL'S is just burying me up with work. Have had a great many more replies than I ever expected."

Now, if there is anything else that you would like to know upon which I have not touched I will be pleased to furnish it.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Hanson Place (Brooklyn) Y. M. C. A. held a stamp and coin exhibit for the boys Saturday, Feb. 14, and it was a marked success. There were eight exhibitions of stamps and F. W. Paul was presented with a magnifying glass for first prize, L. G. Springer, set of Bosnia 1906, second prize, and John Horton, perforation gauge and millimeter scale, third prize.

—We have received from E. P. Updegraff a cover upon which two 1c documentaries were used as postage dues. The post office is Fort Morgan, Colo., and we quote from Mr. Updegraff's letter:—"I saw these stamps affixed and I asked the clerk if he was not making a mistake. His reply was no, that he was out of due stamps."

—H. M. Wickman, Springfield, Mass., who has been using displayed space in the WEEKLY, has entered into partnership with C. E. W. Welcome of Westfield and the new firm is known as the Wickwel Stamp Co. They have acquired the famous Dorpat collection, including a wide range of literature and stamps, and are now disposing of the same.

—A. A. Leve and others send us specimens of a new cancellation used by the New York post office. It reads in three lines "Join U. S. Army—Learn While—You Earn."

—J. A. Galbraith has removed to 79 Nassau St. and taken his place in Stamp Dealers' Row, as Nassau St. may well be called. Note the change of address.

CHAPTER IV.
Early or Experimental Issues.
In speaking of the early or experimental coil issues we can very well place under this heading all of the varieties perforated 12, that is, the first three series, for these were made before the Bureau of Engraving and Printing began to classify "Coil Stamps" as separate issues. In other words, the Bureau was certainly experimenting, not knowing exactly what was wanted and how was the best way to get what seemed to be desirable. It was not until the demand for coils became fairly large that they realized the importance of changing the perforation, cutting down the coiling costs and looking into methods that would be more efficient as well as economical.

These three issues consisted of the 1908 series which included the 1c and 5c, 1902 design and 2c, 1903 shield design coiled endwise (perforated horizontally) and the same 1c and 2c coiled sidewise (perforated vertically); the 1908-09 series, 1908 design, double line watermark, which included the 1c, 2c, 4c and 5c coiled endwise (perforated horizontally) and the same stamps with the 10c coiled sidewise (perforated vertically); and the 1910 series, 1908 design, watermarked single line U S P S, 1c and 2c both endwise and sidewise and the 3c sidewise. The 3c with single line watermark, perforated 12, was never issued coiled endwise nor were the 4c and 5c issued either sidewise or endwise. The 3c with double line watermark was never issued in coil form and I will treat of this stamp in great detail when I reach it because of the fact that so many are in the hands of collectors who bought them thinking that they were a regular official coil issue.

The 1908 Issue (1902-1903 Design)
The coil stamps of this issue are all perforated 12 and were coiled from the regular sheets of four hundred subjects then in use, namely the 1c 1902 design, portrait of Franklin, three-quarters face to right, the 2c 1903 shield design, three-quarters face of Washington to the left and the 5c 1902 design, three-quarters face of Lincoln to the right. They are all on paper watermarked double line U S P S. All varieties are found perforated through the guide line as well as with the paste up joint and at least the sidewise coils are known with the joint and guide line in the same place. I explained how this occurred in the previous chapter. Of course these stamps could exist with the guide line on the unperforated edges, with arrows showing, etc., but the combinations are too numerous to list. If one is interested in these sub-varieties, simply lay out a sheet of four hundred stamps, draw in all guide lines, arrows, plate numbers and imprints, cut the sheet apart as I explained they were cut apart at the Bureau and then paste the strips together in all manners possible. This will show what a wide assortment of minor varieties may be obtained. I might mention here that this entire issue is quite rare and with unlimited means it would be impossible to get together many of these combinations. When the issue was in use the philatelic public considered them little more than straight edged stamps and as a result many of us are still hunting for guide line strips of four of some of the denominations. It is this series that is more often faked than any other. As stated before, I will devote a chapter at the end to fakes of all kinds.

The first stamps coiled were issued through the post office to a Mr. M. Wollheim, representative in Washington of a German vending machine, during February, 1908. His purchase consisted of five coils each of the 1c, 2c and 5c endwise coils.
The 1c light green, coiled endwise, (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued on February 18, 1908. There were issued 930 coils of 500 stamps and 50 coils of 1000 each, making 515,000 stamps in all. From this number one would think the variety common, but I doubt if a hundred of them are in existence. I am unable to give a list of the offices that sold them but I remember coils were broken up and sold at the Washington office in order to get rid of them. I believe that at the time most collectors, like myself, passed them by.
The 1c light green, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued July 31, 1908. The stamp was on sale in Baltimore and in vending machines in Brooklyn as well as in other post offices. There was issued 10,063 coils of 500 stamps and 645 coils of 1000, but again I would state that the number issued by no means is an indication of the stamp's rarity. I doubt if a dozen line strips exist.
The 2c carmine red, coiled endwise, (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued along with the 1c on February 18, 1908. I have been unable to learn of a single post office that had them on sale, although I have been told more or less indefinitely that Chicago had them. In all 65 coils of 500 and 4 coils of a thousand were issued. The variety is rare and I am still hunting for a line strip.
The 2c carmine red, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was also issued along with the 1c in similar shape, that is on July 31, 1908. Like the 1c, it was also sold in Baltimore and Brooklyn. Many of these early coils reached Baltimore because that city was the home of one of the first vending machines to use government coils. Of this stamp I am informed that four coils of 500 were issued, but I believe this number refers to coils of 1000 and that quite a number of coils of 500 were issued. The stamp is scarce even in pairs.
The 5c greenish blue, coiled endwise, (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued on February 24, 1908. I know at least one coil was sold at the Washington Post Office, for I saw it being broken up and distributed. A New York stamp dealer obtained a coil at the Baltimore Post Office but used most of them for postage. A pair from this coil on a letter from the firm in question was found addressed to a Boston dealer and was cancelled July 23, 1909, so I judge this coil must have remained in the Baltimore Post Office for some time. Sixty coils of this stamp were issued all consisting of 1000 stamps. The stamp is scarce but is not as rare as the lower values.
I find philatelic mention of the 5c stamp coiled sidewise in a 1911 publication but since then I have not seen the variety mentioned and rightly so, for the stamp was never coiled sidewise. This brings to a close the first issue and one that will rank in time to come as the classics of coil stamps. All varie-

Nos. 1, 9, 30 are varieties of the "O.K." cork cancellations in black. Nos. 2 and 2a are very likely the initials of some post office clerk. Nos. 3 and 6 are from Dr. Babcock's collection—the lady and the fish. No. 11 is in red on the cover and has put Ellen-ville, Ill., on the philatelic map. No. 10, the pumpkin head is in this case a rich purple ink, tho it is known also in black. No. 15 is the gem of this series to my way of thinking, head of Liberty in dark purple. Of the various "PAID" cancellations it may be said all are found generally in black, but No. 22 in this case is in blue. It may be observed that No. 17 is found on all the previous issues of the 3c stamp, it being quite common on the 1857 3c red. Nos. 18, 25, 28 are also found on the 3c rose 1861. Of No. 26 nothing is

THE FIRST U. S. POSTAGE STAMP.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

The cancellation commonly found on the stamp consists of a small octagonal frame enclosing the letters U. S. The postmarks are also usually in red and have U. S. City Despatch Post in a circle with the month and day in the center. Occasionally the hour appears, as "4 1/2 p. m." Only in rare instances does the postmark fall on the stamp.

Nearly all the stamps were used for local delivery in New York City, but it appears that at times they were available for use on letters going to other places. John N. Luff mentions two letters, on which the entire postage was prepaid by the despatch stamps. One is a letter to Philadelphia bearing five of them, of which one was to pay for the local service and the other four covered the charge for carrying the letter from the New York post office to Philadelphia, (actually 12 1/2c). On the other letter, which went to Ridgefield, Conn., 10c postage was paid by three of the despatch stamps. In these cases it would appear the New York post office accepted the stamps in lieu of prepayment in cash and should have charged the Despatch department with the amount of out-of-town postage.

However, quite possibly these covers may indicate an early attempt to introduce prepayment by stamps on out-of-town correspondence and it is indeed unfortunate that neither of them bears anything to show the year of use. They may merely represent irregular use of the stamps. The usual method was to prepay out-of-town postage in cash, or, more frequently, to have it collected at the delivery end. The writer notes a cover sent from New York to Philadelphia bearing one of the Despatch stamps and endorsed "12 1/2"—that being the amount of postage to be collected on delivery.

If the two covers mentioned by Mr. Luff were mailed after July 12, 1845, the stamps on them took the place of the New York postmaster stamps and it is therefore possible the Despatch stamps were recognized by the New York post office for a short time as being just as available for out-of-town postage as were the postmaster stamps. Many of the Despatch stamps were used in 1845 and 1846, the latest date of use mentioned by Luff being October 24, 1846, which is fifteen months after the New York postmaster stamp was first issued. Has anyone ever seen the United States City Despatch Post stamp on a cover with the New York stamp? If the Despatch stamp was used extensively after July, 1845, such a combination should not be extremely rare, yet the writer can find no trace of such a cover existing or ever having been recorded. The obvious reason why this combination is so rare is that most of the New York stamps were used by business houses located so near the post office that they delivered their own mail and did not use the Despatch delivery. The writer has no record of a New York stamp used with any of the stamps of the New York local posts.

Mr. Luff states, "By Act of Congress, approved March 3rd, 1845, the

They may merely represent irregular use of the stamps. The usual method was to prepay out-of-town postage in cash, or, more frequently, to have it collected at the delivery end. The writer notes a cover sent from New York to Philadelphia bearing one of the Despatch stamps and endorsed "12 1/2"—that being the amount of postage to be collected on delivery.

If the two covers mentioned by Mr. Luff were mailed after July 12, 1845, the stamps on them took the place of the New York postmaster stamps and it is therefore possible the Despatch stamps were recognized by the New York post office for a short time as being just as available for out-of-town postage as were the postmaster stamps. Many of the Despatch stamps were used in 1845 and 1846, the latest date of use mentioned by Luff being October 24, 1846, which is fifteen months after the New York postmaster stamp was first issued. Has anyone ever seen the United States City Despatch Post stamp on a cover with the New York stamp? If the Despatch stamp was used extensively after July, 1845, such a combination should not be extremely rare, yet the writer can find no trace of such a cover existing or ever having been recorded. The obvious reason why this combination is so rare is that most of the New York stamps were used by business houses located so near the post office that they delivered their own mail and did not use the Despatch delivery. The writer has no record of a New York stamp used with any of the stamps of the New York local posts.

Mr. Luff states, "By Act of Congress, approved March 3rd, 1845, the rate for drop letters was reduced to two cents. Carriers were allowed to charge a like amount. We do not know what steps, if any, were taken in the City of New York to meet this reduction. Indeed, to judge by the numerous three cent stamps of the United States City Despatch Post to be found on letters dated in 1845 and 1846, it would appear that the old rates were maintained. Possibly an effort in the direction of a reduction may be indicated by a stamp, formerly in the collection of Mr. F. W. Hunter * * * which is catalogued as Scott No. 1850.

"The stamp is on the original letter, which is dated February 14, 1846. The surcharged numeral (2) and the bar over the word 'Three' are in red, of the same shade as the cancellations. There are two cancellations: first, the usual circle with the name of the post, date and hour; second, another, circle with the words 'New York—Feb. 14—2 cts.' the numeral '2' being identical with that used for the surcharge. * * * It is to be regretted that we have been unable to learn anything of the history of this surcharge."

The surcharged variety appears to have been followed by the 2c red, City Despatch stamp catalogued as No. 1851, which is so rare that not more than half a dozen copies are known to exist. Mr. Luff mentions a copy cancelled March 13, 1846, and another cancelled Dec. 9, without the year. This stamp is a rough typograph, far inferior to the beautifully engraved stamp which preceded it. Beyond what Mr. Luff states practically nothing is known about this stamp, yet there is no doubt it was a legitimate issue and the few copies existing on original covers are certainly genuine.

A few years ago a copy not previously recorded came into the writer's possession. It was on a cover addressed to East Troy, New York, and bore the usual circular postmark reading "New York—Sep. 8—5 cts". The City Despatch Post stamp was stuck on the lower left corner and had been cancelled with a few pencil strokes as many of the carrier stamps were. Unfortunately, someone had tried to remove it from the cover with disastrous results—half of the stamp was entirely gone. The letter was dated New York, Sept. 7, '53, and was written on a sheet of paper that had been previously used for a memorandum of bills paid. The memos ran from December, 1850, to November, 1852, and were on the right half of the second page. The first, second and third pages had printed ruling. The fourth page was plain. The sheet was folded double and then folded again to about 3x10 inches and "Bills" written across one end of half of the fourth page. When used for the letter the last fold was opened and the letter was written across the first page, which was then folded in, bringing the address, which was on the fourth page, outside. The stamp was affixed directly across the old fold. Both stamp and cover are genuine beyond question but do not prove the City Despatch stamp to have been in regular use as late as 1853. After March 3, 1851, the carrier fee was only one cent and therefore this stamp must have been laid aside for several years before it came to light and was used. It is incredible that copies of the City Despatch Post stamp could be so extremely rare if they were in general use in a city the size of New York for seven years—or even for seven months. Copies of the United States City Despatch Post stamp used in 1846 or in the latter part of 1845 might also have been purchased before July, 1845, and used later at the convenience of the purchaser but that does not seem to be a satisfactory explanation for the quantity of those stamps used after that date and the writer suggests that during the latter period they may have been sold and used as two cent stamps. Perhaps the rare City Despatch Post stamp was ordered for use under the new 2c carrier rate and while it was being prepared a few of the United States City Despatch Post stamps were surcharged like the Hunter specimen. The City Despatch Post stamp is such a poor piece of workmanship we can readily believe it was unsatisfactory and probably was soon discarded, whereupon the original three cent United States City Despatch Post stamp was re-issued without surcharge. This latter stamp had been sold at 2 1/2c when purchased in quantity and there was no reason why it could not be sold for 2c just as readily as for 2 1/2c.

The theory given affords a reasonable explanation of the rarity of the surcharged stamp and of the red City Despatch stamp, and explains why so many of the three cent United States City Despatch Post stamps were used during the period when a two cent carrier rate is believed to have been in effect.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Bereavement.—Feb. 24 the Managing Editor received a wire from Chicago announcing the sudden death of the mother of our editor, Charles E. Severn. I am sure that the great army of WEEKLY subscribers will deeply sympathize with our friend in the severe loss that he has sustained. No bereavement can come to a man or woman that can equal the loss of mother

Varied Contents.—We are led to remark that one of the things about the WEEKLY that is appreciated by our readers is our varied contents. No one knows week by week what is to appear in the following number and the interest therefore is strongly sustained. Two weeks ago Christopher West's instalment of his M. & M. serial occupied considerable space. No doubt some of our readers gave but a casual glance at it, but those who read the chapters presented must have been impressed with the thoroughness of the work done by the author and the value of having a permanent record of these stamps. Mr. West is a painstaking writer and when this book appears it will be a valuable contribution to the literature of our hobby. That same particular number also dealt with new issues, four experts, Philip H. Ward, Jr., Percy C. Smith, Chas. S. Thompson and Hugo Griebert, giving us the latest news in this direction. In the last issue U. S. cancellations had the right of way and Mr. Ritchie's great work was exploited in detail with the idea of securing strong co-operation from our readers. We have a large family to please, with greatly varied tastes, and if the contents of any one particular number do not appeal to you, please be as tolerant as you can of the foibles of your fellow-collector.

A. P. S. at Providence.—The action of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society in selecting the A. P. S. Convention dates in August reminds us that the time is near at hand. Without doubt the session will be a memorable one. Not only is Providence favorably situated from the standpoint of attractions, but she is famous for a very active and stable philatelic organization. Every effort will be made to make the stay of the visiting delegates pleasant, and there should be a large and representative attendance of A. P. S. members. Those who have tasted the hospitality of the city will endorse this editorial suggestion.

A New Stamp Paper.—We desire to enlarge upon a news note of two weeks ago. American philately is to be favored with a monthly stamp journal. It will be issued by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., which of itself is sufficient surety that the publication will be high class and a fixture. The prospectus indicates literary contents of a high order and the editorial staff will show a number of names famous in philatelic achievements. Even though it be a house organ, it will be a high class production.

Hard Sledding.—The past six years have proven severe ones for all newspapers. Many have suspended publication, while others have been severely crippled through labor troubles, increased cost of materials and postal legislation. There is a great dearth of philatelic newspapers and magazines in America and the situation is no different across the seas. Stamp Collecting of all the English publications seems to be the most flourishing. We have nothing but words of praise for the manner in which the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, the Postage Stamp and the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly have withstood the ravages of the war period. All four of these papers are welcome visitors, though the last named paper is not what it was prior to the war. The London Philatelist is trying to get by, through a raise in subscription rates to $5 and the dispensing with complimentary and exchange copies. The handwriting on the wall would seem to indicate that things are not as prosperous as they should be with this publication.

"Cash and Carry"—We have heard much of this phrase in recent months. It was born of war economy and its use is still with us. It will be made more familiar to our readers as the months go by, for we shall use it repeatedly in connection with our new renewal plan. In years gone by thousands of copies of the WEEKLY have been presented to subscribers in arrears, but this practise has passed into history. From now on it rests with each subscriber to find out when his subscription expires and renew before we reach the Whole Number on his wrapper. Our system is very simple and it enables anyone week by week to note the condition of his subscription. We shall not furnish back numbers where subscribers are careless enough to allow their subscriptions to be discontinued. We have only a limited number of copies for office files and these cannot be broken into to meet the wishes of those who are not willing to be governed by our suggestion.

Delayed Mails.—We have had much trouble this winter with the mails and various causes can be assigned for it. No doubt insufficient help has been employed and the movement of trains has been seriously interfered with by severe storms. There have been some curious features that have been unexplained. For instance, quite a little section of New York State, in and around Albany and Syracuse, did not receive our issue of Feb. 7 until after they had received Feb. 14. Southern California has had its troubles and some thirty days have been needed to place the WEEKLY in its subscribers' hands.

CONCERNING TESTIMONIALS.

In the future when testimonials are used in the WEEKLY we desire the full name and address of the givers of the testimonials to be printed. We feel that this is a just rule and one that will work no hardship upon our advertisers. A testimonial has little value unless accompanied by sufficient evidence as to the identity of the person giving it.

PRECANCELLED STAMPS.

(So great an interest is being manifested in precancelled stamps that we reproduce the matter below, taken from the catalog published by F. L. Smith several years ago. I remember Mr. Smith as a keen student of these stamps and he is entitled to a large amount of credit for the present-day interest in this sideline of philately. We wish that some student of precancelled stamps could furnish us with a serial manuscript which could later be reprinted in book form and be of value in stimulating the interest in these stamps.—W. O. W.)

The word "Precancelled" has been given to stamps that have been cancelled only while in the sheet, or part of the sheet, and after this was done, separated and affixed to the mailable matter. No other method of cancelling can be considered "precancelled", it not having the sanction of the Post Office Department.

Object.—The object of precancelling is to save time spent in cancelling each stamp separately, where by this means as many as one hundred can be cancelled in one stroke.

Methods.—The early attempts at cancelling were mostly made by drawing a line with a pen or brush across each row of stamps on the sheet, and in a great many cases this has continued to be done. Experience pointed out improvements, and type and printing press were later used. In this way, if one hundred were impressed at a time, it did not take long to imprint twenty to fifty thousand stamps, which is not an uncommon amount called for in one lot. In order to avoid the expense of a press, some postmasters procured rollers made of rubber and after inking, an impression was made by rolling the same over a sheet of stamps. By this method the first printing was fairly good, but as the rubber spread from continued use, the impressions were soon altered in size and shape. Other methods such as electrotypes, plates, stereotype, &c., are also used for the purpose.

Government Regulation.—The use of these stamps increased to such an extent that in 1901 the Post Office Department took official notice of them, and in the early part of that year issued regulations governing their use. One of the provisions was, that the State and Post Office name must appear upon each stamp, with a heavy line above and below the name, and printed with ink the same as used by the Department.

History.—Upon the recognition of these stamps by the Department in 1901, they became for the first time an authorized issue, and therefore as collectible as a Government emission. It can never be known when the first one was issued, and some of the used stamps now in collections with odd cancellations may belong to this class. The first stamp to have been printed with the State and Post Office name upon it, so far as known at present, was Burlington, Vt., on the 1 cent of 1882. Jefferson, Ohio, has been seen surcharged on the 2c brown of 1869 and 1c blue of 1873, but it is not known if they are precancelled. The 2c black of 1867 precancelled in Rochester, N. Y., by James Vick with a circular hand-stamp was used, but detailed information is lacking of this, also.

Bar Cancellations.—In most cases these show the early attempt at precancelling, and to this extent are history. A number can be described accurately enough to identify them, but the resemblance between others is so close, they cannot be differentiated, and in such cases the stamp should remain on the cover, and the name of the city of the sender noted.

Ink.—Both ordinary printers ink and the gray-black government ink have been used. The latter can be told by the color, blurred appearance, and lack of sharpness of the letters. All inks when applied thinly vary in shade according to their composition. Some have a bluish, some brownish and others a purple shade.

Errors.—These may be divided into two classes. In the first, they result from incorrect setting up of the type, two or more impressions and impressions in the wrong position. In some cases the method of printing requires the opposite half of a sheet of stamps to be inverted. In the second class, they result from careless handling of the "form", electro-plate, &c., so that a letter becomes broken, or partly or entirely gone. It is not uncommon for the lower projection of E to be broken off, appearing as F. Lines may be broken, appearing as bars; or one or both lines gone, periods and commas missing, &c.

Minor Varieties.—Differences between the unwatermarked 1894 and watermarked 1895 issues double and single line watermarks and perforations and shades are collected.

THOSE CUTE LITTLE S-L-CT-NS

of old U. S. postage on and off covers, revenues, match & medicine, etc., are averaging about $100 net value per s-l-ct-n against about $60 last year and the demand for them has increased more than 100%. They are for the collector who wishes to spend—or invest—at least a few dollars at a time and does not expect me to price the stamps at half of what any dealer would pay for similar good things. Good stamps; reasonable prices; the best service it is possible for me to give—this is what I have to offer. If it interests you, write me a real letter giving the best reference you can and I'll try to make you wish we'd got together sooner.

UNITED STATES.—More of the new provisional 2c on 3c circular die envelopes are appearing daily and we wish to thank Mr. C. A. Jenkins, the first to show us a copy on amber paper. Since writing our notes of last week we have seen a copy of the St. Louis surcharge and find that it differs from what we were led to expect. We find it similar to the Washington overprint with the exception of the three horizontal lines which obliterate the old figures of value. In the Washington surcharge these are 1 3/16 inches long, while in the St. Louis type they are 1 1/2 inches. We are still wondering which post office will receive the die reading "2 CENTS", which we understood had gone to St. Louis. Before these notes appear in print many other offices will without a doubt be issuing them and we will thank any of our readers to send us early data as to what is on sale in their town.

We list all types and sizes that have reached us to date.

Washington Overprint, with color of surcharge.

2c on 3c white, die A, size 13, black.
 2c on 3c white, die A, size 8, red.
 2c on 3c white, die F, size 8, red.

Cleveland Overprint.

2c on 3c white, die A, size 3, black.
 2c on 3c white, die A, size 5, black.
 2c on 3c white, die A, size 7, black.
 2c on 3c white, die A, size 9, black.
 2c on 3c white, die A, size 13, black.

(a) Same with surcharge in lower left corner inverted.

2c on 3c amber, die F, size 13, black.

St. Louis Overprint.

2c on 3c white, die H, size 8.

Keep the good work up by sending us early data as to new varieties coming your way.

A few weeks back Mr. H. W. Porter sent us a block of the current 2c stamps printed in a very dark shade and these attracted his attention because they looked different from the general run. We examined the ribbon, the heavy lock in front of the ear and the other points that distinguish the coil dies, and finding them similar to the regular flat plate die assumed that simply a new transfer roll had been made. A little later our good friend Mr. Harmon Wendell comes along with the same stamp from another part of the country and is attracted by the deepness of the impression. On top of this Mr. P. M. Mann has some sent to him and close examination brings us to the conclusion that the Bureau has made a new die for the flat plates. Insofar the two cent stamp is concerned we now have four dies of the rotary coils and two for the flat plates. The first die, known as Die I, was used both for the coils and flat plates, three additional dies were used for the coils only and now comes along a second die for the flat plates. We are at a loss to know if we should call this Die II and have it confused with Die II of the coils, which is vastly different, or call it Die V and have it in a class alone. We were the first to start to call the types of the 3c stamps, I, II, III and IV, and they are now known accordingly. We have heard many say that we should classify them as Die I and II engraved and Type I and II surface print. So that we may try to give this new die a designation that will not confuse the collector, we would be pleased to have the ideas of specialists. For the time being we will call it Die V.

1920 Unwatermarked, perforated 11.
 2c carmine, Die V.

Mr. Harmon Wendell has submitted for our inspection a copy of the 80c documentary overprinted with the first type of the Detroit provisional "Narcotic" surcharge. Previously, nothing higher than the 10c denomination were known.

We have had at least six correspondents during the last ten days send us copies of the little 1c strip Narcotics, and for the benefit of those interested, would advise that these were chronicled in detail last Spring and at that time we quoted from a letter from the Bureau. Four sizes were issued, all of the 1c denomination each varying in length and width but somewhat similar in design. They are all printed in violet. It seems that these strip stamps are used to put over the cork or to seal the package and that the balance of the tax is paid by means of the surcharged narcotic stamp overprinted on the documentaries. We have recently learned that the smallest size is issued in sheets of 200, the next in sheets of 100, the next 50 and the largest in sheets of 25. The sheets are arranged, Size 1, (5x40), Size 2, (2x50), Size 3, (1x50) and Size 4, (1x25). Judging from the guide lines we are led to believe that these are cut from larger sheets.

We have also received many letters lately calling our attention to the letter "F" found along side of many of the plate numbers. Although we gave a long description of what this meant about a year back when the Bureau first started to so mark their plates, it seems evident that some overlooked the notes, so, for the benefit of these, an explanation may be of interest.

Plates are turned out by the Bureau in quantities, and as many people work on the same plate, the Bureau several years back began putting a small dot near one of the plate numbers to indicate that the plate was finished and ready to be hardened. This dot evidently did not stand out very clearly and somewhere along in the late 8900 or early 9000 plate numbers they started to put an "F" generally near the upper right plate number to designate that the plate was finished. This letter is put on in any way and may be found straight, inverted, sideways, etc. All of the Victory plates were so marked and plates since show the same letter. At least two types of "F" are found and I believe a side plate block was noted by someone, but all I have seen have been tops.

Our thanks are extended to Messrs. Frank F. Smith, Arthur W. Reum, W. A. Beach and others for notes of interest.

stamps are still conspicuous by their absence in Malta. The only high values on sale in the post offices there at the present time are stated to be the 2s and the 10s of the old type.

The following extract from a letter received by our friend Mr. MacDonald from a friend in Malta is of particular interest in the above connexion:—

"The ten shillings was altered—'Malta' at top, 'Postage' on one side, and 'Revenue' on the other, and it was on Multiple CA. It was on hand one month at the most, running concurrently with the old issue. There is not one to be had, and I have tried all means, as I haven't one for my own collection. If, as I hear, this stamp is not going to be replaced, it will indeed be very rare. The stock which came here was very small indeed, and I hardly see the use of altering the plates if they are not going to retain this value. There are still a dozen or so of the old issue on sale and I have booked some of these. The 5s King George is still out of stock, but this will be reissued, but I will try to get one for you now, in case of accidents. The 2s 6d is finished, and will not be replaced. It was issued for just one month on Multiple CA paper, just as the 10s, and will, of course, be a rare stamp. I did not obtain one of these even. No 1s 6d stamp is to be issued, so far as is known by the P. O. officials here. The farthing has been issued in a much lighter shade, and none of the former shade are procurable. I enclose a block of the new for you. There is quite a decent stock of the 1/2d War Tax left, but they are not going to be reissued when exhausted, and there is some talk of a 1 1/2d stamp. There are not so many of the 3d War Tax left, but there are large stocks still of the 3d K.E. single, the reason being the gum is bad and no one uses them. Let me know what to do with the 5s in your next, and will obey, provided I have not managed to obtain a 5s in the meantime."

NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—Mr. W. Orchard of Hobart, who arrived in Sydney from Rabaul on the 6th instant after three years' military service there, informs us that the day before he left a supply of 10sh stamps on third watermarked paper had been received, but had not been put on sale before his departure.—Australian Stamp Journal.

A SCHOOL FOR PHILATELY.

By TANCRED.

A well-known philatelist has started a school for philately—a most promising idea. There are great possibilities. One may picture the pupils filling their note-books with all sorts of information on perforations and gum, reprints and forgeries; and gradually assimilating enormous stores of knowledge. But pupils have a partiality for mixing their ideas, and it is quite possible that a few "howlers" will be brought to light—e.g.:

Seebeck is the name of a Belgian port blown up by the Indicative.
Percé en arc was the son of Noah.
Sugar Paper is used to "rap currents."
Changeing is somebody else's baby.
Plated is what you do to your hair and the spoons and forks.
Double Impression means second thoughts.

"Horn on Forehead" signifies the Devil.
Thurn and Taxis are what you go about in.

With grille means not rationed.
The animal on the Tasmanian stamps is called a Duckbilled Polypus.
"1 1/2x12"—138.

"Van demon's land" is where you get Tasmanian devils.

"Min" the thing you have with lamb.
"Bogus" the man who invented golf.
"Mitreis" is a rapid stream.
"Bleut" was a German General.
"Peace and Commerce" were Heathen Myths.

"Remainder" is what is left over when it won't go.

"Sonora" a thing in music.
"Togo" a coat worn by Romans.
"Spandrels" a kind of dog.

We must look forward to the answers received when the first examination comes along.—Philatelic Journal of India.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

If telegrams are exact a good part of the hinterland of Syria will be administered by the new Arab State. There is so much uncertainty of news from these countries that, with the best will, I can't affirm what sort of stamps are current there now and if I have to judge from certain specimens of human beings I saw in a "Prisoners of War" camp here, there is a possibility that dealings there are paid in shells like in some West African countries. Yet the only thing I know is that I received a letter, days ago, from Alep and the stamp on it was a Turkish one-piastre stamp (Sultan and Dar-danelles type) with overprint in arabic HAKUMA EL ARABIE, which means "Arab Government". It is to be won- dered the quantity of stamps left back by the Turks one year ago in these countries. Every power had a quantity to surcharge.

Days ago I had a real shiver in open- ing a letter from Constantinople. There was inside a set of new stamps overprinted to commemorate the Sul- tan's anniversary. My correspondent wrote (as usual) that these stamps were only a few days in use, a thing which I perfectly understood by his quotation. Five values are overprinted and I could not say if these sets are complete nor could I say it in the near future, as regular registered mail from Egypt to Constantinople and back employs two months.

Besides the Turkish stamps, Con- stantinople has British, French, Italian P. O. that are using their current stamps without overprint, save the British Levant K. G. one-piastre stamp, which I saw on envelopes again. All other values are unsurcharged.

There is a rumor that Palestine stamps will be soon surcharged PAL- ESTINE. I could not have confirma- tion to this new projected issue, but there might be a possibility that the new surcharge will be a fact. It is hard to say why a surcharge on the actual E. E. F. stamps will be a necessity.

Considering that I have more matters to report from this mysterious Orient than of Egypt, I feel so free to change the title of my notes, which I am writ- ing to the benefit of the readers of M. W. S. N., without waiting the au- thorisation of a sultanial "irade".

James E. Helme and Francis Buckley, both for junior membership, were posted.

After the business meeting, Pres. Dunning announced the receipt of a photograph of members of the society taken at a banquet held in 1893, which one of our "Charter members", Mr. Charles J. Barton, had kindly donated and which had been framed and titled by Messrs. Barker and Nevin. After a vote of thanks had been given to these three gentlemen the President called upon Mr. L. L. Green to take charge of the meeting. This Mr. Green did in the fine manner so characteristic of him. He read the names of the "charter members" commenting upon them as he read. Mr. George L. Gilmore, number one in the society, was presented and he was called upon to speak. Mr. Gilmore's remarks were received with great enthusiasm and the next speaker was Mr. Charles J. Barton, who kept the meeting in an uproar all the time he was speaking. Mr. Wm. E. White, No. 62, whose picture was not one of the group, although not a charter member, joined in 1892, just about a year after the society was organized. He spoke of his early days as a collector and of the stamps which were common in those days and so hard to get now and, as the others had done, referred to the dealers who were in business in those days. Mr. Gilmore also exhibited a number of mili- tary insignia which he had collected "across the pond." After this Mr. Oscar Hill showed and talked interestingly on the stamps of the Finland Republic. When the meeting was over, the opinion was voiced by all that seldom had the society held as interesting a meeting as this one had proved to be, the reminis- cences of the speakers being equally interesting to those whose stamp col- lecting days went back to those times, and to those who have been collecting but a comparatively short time. We still have of the charter members as active members. Messrs. Geo. L. Gil- more, A. W. Batchelder, W. E. Coburn, L. L. Green and H. C. Quimby, having lost by death during the past year an- other, Mr. H. D. Humphrey.

UNSOLICITED EMCO PACKET TESTIMONIALS.

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 1100 stamps.—H. F. H., Pittsburgh, Pa.

I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. S., Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium).—I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. G., Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. C., Altoona, Pa.

A WORD ON EMCO PACKETS

Our recent advertisements are bringing inquiries regarding our LARGER PACKETS, both UNMOUNTED and MOUNTED.

Large purchases of collections and stocks both in America and Europe have enabled us to make up our own larger variety packets instead of being dependent on others for supplies.

Condition of stamps included in these packets and variety of countries is especially fine. While it has been difficult to secure the "cheaper" stamps in any quantities the market is becoming much steadier and we can include many new varieties not to be found in packets of equal size offered by any dealer. In fact, we are today supplying over one-half the leading dealers in the U. S. with EMCO packets.

U. S. MATCH AND MEDICINE STAMPS. PRIVATE DIE PROPRIETARIES.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XII.

Roulettes.

Study of the stamps known to exist in genuine rouletted condition, with the information available regarding the time when they were issued, convinces the writer that they were all printed by the Bureau and belong among the earliest of the Bureau prints. From the fact that none of them are common, that many very common stamps printed in large quantities at the time are not known to exist rouletted, and that such a large proportion of the known roulettes are small match stamps printed in the same shade of blue, it is deduced that the rouletting machines were used for private die stamps only a short time. The following pertinent reference is taken from the report of O. H. Irish, chief of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, for the year ending June 30, 1881:—

" * * * There were also constructed stock of machinery and tools, five steam power plate printing presses of the Milligan pattern, and six perforating machines of the knife pattern. By direction of the Secretary (of the Treasury) the work of printing and preparing the general documentary and proprietary and private die stamps was transferred to this Bureau October 15, 1880. On October 19th an installment of plates for this work was received by the custodian of dies, rolls and plates, and on October 20th, the work of printing was commenced. From that date to the end of the fiscal year 343,962,955 of these stamps were completed and delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Heretofore the work of plate-printing has been done upon hand roller presses in which little or no improvement has been made since their original adaptation to the work. The experiment with the new steam power presses has been very satisfactory and further improvement in presses adapted to printing from engraved and transferred plates by steam power is anticipated."

The report for the next year states,—
 "The experiment with steam power plate printing presses has continued during the past year with satisfactory results. Nothing further has been done than is set forth in my last report for the reason that the entire matter of steam power plate printing was referred by you to a special committee, who have the matter under consideration." It is quite obvious that if the six perforating machines of the knife pattern mentioned were rouletting machines, and were used to any extent on private die stamps, there would be many varieties of rouletted M & M and many of them would be plentiful. As it is, there is only one known rouletted medicine stamp and only six or eight rouletted match stamps, and none of them are really plentiful. The commonest one of them is probably less common than most U. S. or foreign postage stamps that catalog ten dollars each.

Such stamps as the 1c Richardson Match Co. and the Portland Star were printed in enormous quantities by the Bureau yet neither is known rouletted, and the Bureau printing of the Swift & Courtney & Beecher stamp probably exceeded one hundred and fifty millions—not one of which has ever been found rouletted. The rouletted match stamps are without exception varieties, which were also issued in large quantities perforated. Several of those listed are extremely rare and perhaps do not exist other than as fakes. Satisfactory copies of the Jas. L. Clark and the E. K. Smith have been noted, but the writer has not seen any copy of the Barber or the William Gates' Sons that he considers perfectly satisfactory, and in his opinion the only known copy of the Hutchinson is most certainly a fake.

Faked roulettes are often seen. The inducement to manipulate perforated Gates, Barber and Clark stamps worth perhaps 25c a dozen and in five minutes turn them into rarities worth $25 or so apiece is strong. The Bureau perforating was often so erratic that the perforated stamps have extraordinary margins and can readily be converted into alleged "imperfis" or fake roulettes. Many of the faked roulettes seen appear to have come from one source. Whoever made them knew little of what he was attempting and made quite a few too many cuts to the inch. Usually,

CHAPTER XIII.

Looking Ahead.

What is the future of M & M collecting? In one form or another this question has often been put to the writer and usually coupled with another, when will there be another boom? The writer does not believe the future history of collecting this branch of United States stamps will be very different from its past. There will be another boom in M & M stamps whenever a supply of any considerable size comes into the market. The rare stamps will usually be somewhat more difficult to obtain in the future than they have been in the past and, owing to the increasing demand for fine condition stamps of any kind the commoner M & M in such condition will be better property to obtain and to hold. There will always be buyers for the stamps which are seldom or never obtainable in fine condition because there will always be some collectors to whom a torn, creased, stained, skinned or repaired stamp is "a stamp for a' that".

Sometimes we may forget that the foundation of stamp collecting is the love of stamps and an appreciation of the sentimental and historical interest attaching to them, and in our eagerness to obtain immaculate specimens may allow ourselves to become blind to the fact that a structure cannot stand without a foundation. The desire for perfect condition is not the foundation of stamp collecting, but a super-structure resting more or less securely upon the love of stamps. The superstructure may stand or fall. Without the foundation it could not exist at all. The collector to whom a stamp has no interest unless it is in finer condition than 99% of the M & M stamps in existence are in, will not go far collecting them because he cannot obtain perfection.

If we leave out of consideration the stamps of which only one or two copies are known to be in existence there remain nearly a thousand varieties that will total between $4,000 and $5,000 at current catalog quotations. Many of these stamps are quite plentiful but many others are rare and probably the writer would not be believed if he should state how many varieties there are of which less than ten, or twenty, or fifty, or a hundred copies can be traced in collections or dealers' stocks. Suffice to say it seems doubtful to him if the total catalog value of all the M & M now in existence exceeds $100,000. Even that figure, low as it may seem, is perhaps too high, but if we allow for an error of 50% and double it we have only $200,000 catalog value. Is it not perfectly plain that there cannot be more than fifteen or twenty nearly complete collections of private die stamps in existence at any one time? If there have not been more than twenty collections that would catalog $3,000 or more each at any one time in the past, how can there be in the future?

Unless the laws of supply and demand cease to operate there never can be a broad market for M & M stamps. The peculiarity about stamp collectors is that they are stamp collectors. A stamp collector is one who collects stamps, and how can he collect that which he cannot get? As long as his collection grows his interest continues, but when his collection stops growing how often does his interest remain constant? Nine times out of ten he turns to another field in which to satisfy his desire to collect. The tenth man is the man who retains his interest against the day when some other fellow dies or quits, hoping again to have the pleasure of adding a few "stickers" to his own collection. The supply of match and medicine stamps is too small to satisfy a large demand; therefore there never will be a large demand, or a broad market. Plain enough, isn't it?

At times small lots of the common varieties sell very cheap, simply because they are not large enough or good enough to attract the collectors who have good collections, but whenever a fine property is offered it is apt to be quickly absorbed and the good stamps usually bring good prices. A boom occurs whenever enough of the scarcer stamps come into the market to attract the attention of the collectors who have been waiting—perhaps years—for a chance to get them.

There is another factor of the situation, however, that will tend to change conditions in the M & M field. Now-a-days many collectors care little about "completing" a collection. They find greater interest in studying their stamps and, if fortunate, in discovering previously unknown facts about them, than merely in attempting to get as many varieties as possible of the world, or of any country or group of countries. To the fun of collecting stamps they have added the fun of studying stamps, and it is not easy to say that the "dog" is always big enough to wag his own "tail". Collectors who prefer to study their stamps like to study stamps that have not been studied too much before. Among all the United States stamps there is no group which offers such a field for research as the private die revenues. They have been collected many times in the past fifty years, but it is only a slight exaggeration to say that they have never been studied.

YES — THEY SHOULD

We agree with the "Number One Fans" that the 5c 1847 of U. S. ought to be No. 1, and also that the one penny black of Great Britain ought to be No. 1. Both of these, and other Number Ones, such as Denmark, Norway, etc., will be found in our next sale, No. 227 date of which will be announced later. If you have any desirable rarities to offer in fine condition, now is the time to secure top notch prices at our auction sales. Act quickly if you want to get in on this season's sales.

NICARAGUA 1918-19 PROVISIONALS.

By ARTHUR T. BROWN, Boston Philatelic Society 646.

CHAPTER III.

The "Bluefields Provisionals."

A friend of mine, who lives in the South and who has often sent me interesting things for my collection of Nicaragua provisionals, wrote me the other day something which I feel should be incorporated in this article. Here it is:

"A merchant from Nicaragua assured me the other day that each postmaster there, has to order his supplies from the main office and pay for them in advance; hence, when he runs out of any value, it is believed that he has authority to surcharge the others for the value required."

Now this may be a gross libel on little Nicaragua and then again it all may be true. However, it is not for me to settle so great a question. By far the most interesting provisionals of the 1918-19 issue have come from Bluefields, on the eastern coast of Nicaragua and which is the principal town of the Department of Zelaya.

The 20 centavos stamp of the 1914 issue was pressed into service when the district ran short of the 2 centavos and 5 centavos values. I have an interesting cover, postmarked "Bluefields, Jul. 8, 1919" with a copy of the first type of surcharge for the 2 centavos that was used.

The surcharge is in black and reads as follows:

VALE
2 Cents

It will be noted that the "de cordoba" is missing in this type of surcharge and "Cents" has taken the place of "Centavos".

Next came the provisional "5 Centavos" on the 20 centavos of 1914. The surcharge is in black and there are nine types of the "5" to be sought for. These varieties are found in each pane of 50 stamps, the issue coming in sheets of 100. I have examined closely many of these stamps and have found no inverted nor double surcharges.

The specialist who goes after the nine types of "5" will have quite a task on his hands. When I started to write this article one thing that troubled me to no small extent was the fact that I am not an artist and therefore cannot illustrate the various types of the "5". I thought the matter over a great deal and then put in a couple of hours studying Scott's 1919 Catalogue and as the result of this study I have found in the catalogue just the very illustrations that I was after and I now give a list of them. These illustrations will be very handy to the specialist, as they will identify the various types that I now mention.

Type 1—On page 323 of Scott's, the "5" used to illustrate the 1915 issue of Charity-Stamp of Dutch Indies.

Type 2—On page 644 of Scott's, type "D" of four illustrations used to illustrate the revolutionary issues of Mexico, 1913.

Type 3—page 179 of Scott's, illustration "A19" of the 5s of Bulgaria 1907.

Type 4—Page 359 of Scott's, illustration "A19" of Fiji Islands.

Type 5—Page 100 of Scott's, the "5" in the 5h of Austria.

Type 6—Like Type 7 only the tail of the "5" in this type is rounded.

Type 7—Page 33 of Scott's, illustration "T11a", this is a perfect type 7.

Type 8—Page 61 of Scott's, illustration "E1".

These various types are to be found in many interesting combinations, particularly in pairs, strips and blocks. I have several copies showing the "A" in "Vale" to be smaller than the rest of the type. I have copies showing the letters "LE" of "Vale" taller than the "VA". I also have a copy of Type 1 showing both the small "A" and the tall "LE" in "Vale".

Types 6 and 7—In these types the surcharge reads: VALE
5 Cents.

In all others "Centavos" is used. I have single copies of Types 1, 2, 5, 7, 8.

I have four mint blocks of these surcharges which show interesting combinations. One block shows one copy of type 5 and three of type 6. A second block shows three copies of type 1 and one of type 2. The third block shows one copy of type 3, one of type 2 and two copies of type 4. The fourth block shows four copies of type 8.

Type 9—Page 56 of the 1919 Scott's catalogue, illustration A1 for No. 38, the Emory, Va., Confederate local.

Through the kindness of Mr. A. O. Tittmann of Port Washington, N. Y., I am able to state the number of times that the varieties occur in a sheet of 100 stamps. These provisionals were printed in sheets of 100 and in two panes of 50 stamps each. There are 16 copies of type 1, 10 of type 2, 8 of type 3, 8 of type 4, 12 of type 5, 14 of types 6 and 7, the proportion I am unable to state, 30 of type 8 and 2 of type 9 in each sheet of 100 stamps.

Following the "VALE 5 Centavos" type of surcharge, with its many varieties of the "5" came another type of surcharge which was used on the 20 centavos stamp of 1914. The surcharge was in blue and was as follows:

Vale
por 2 centavos
de cordoba

It will be noted that the "de cordoba" is included in this type of surcharge and that the type is much smaller. I have a fine vertical pair of this type with a double surcharge, used at Bluefields September 30, 1919. The surcharge is as follows:

Vale
por 2 centavos
de cordoba

I also picked up a single copy having a double surcharge which looks like this:

de cordoba
 Vale
 por 2 centavos
 de cordoba
 Vale
 por 2 centavos

I also have a vertical pair used on a cover dated September 9, 1919, and used at Bluefields. The surcharge is normal.

Another type of the "Bluefields Provisionals" was the following:

Vale
 por 5 centavos
 de cordoba

This was placed on the 20 centavos stamp of 1914 and this surcharge is in dark red. I have a copy of this type on a piece of cover, dated November 12, 1919, and used at Bluefields.

Revenues Used For Postage.

So great was the shortage of 5 centavos stamps at Bluefields that revenue stamps of all kinds were pressed into service. I have two censored covers, one dated March 14 and the other, March 24, 1919, used at Bluefields, which have the 5 centavos green telegraph stamp doing postal duty.

On April 22, the postmaster at Bluefields must have felt the shortage of 5 centavos stamps very keenly, for I have three different types of revenue stamps used at Bluefields on that day. Truly, "Variety is the spice of life" for the collector who goes after these things.

One of the stamps is the 1c vermilion fiscal, the other, the 5c olive brown telegraph stamp and the third is a 4c deep blue revenue.

June 12, 1919, was another tough day for the postoffice at Bluefields.

I have a copy of the 5c blue fiscal and a 10c green revenue used at Bluefields. I also have, on the cover, a copy of the "cinco centavos" black surcharge on the 15 centavos of 1914 stamp which was also used at Bluefields on the same day. Evidently the man who bought this one came early and thus got one of the "regular" issue, while the late comers had to take revenues or whatever they could get.

I have a pair of the 5c blue fiscals used for a 10 centavos stamp and dated June 14, 1919.

As I stated at the beginning of this article, there is no end of fun ahead for the man who starts out to collect this provisional issue of Nicaragua. Unlike many other provisional issues, there was a dire necessity for this one and particularly is this true of the so-called "Bluefields Provisionals". I shall be glad to hear from collectors having any oddities, errors, etc., of this issue. My home address is No. 25 Fairfield Street, Cambridge, 40, Mass.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

P. EICHELE & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The principal in this concern apparently was Peter Eichele, who lived at 1609 Jackson St., St. Louis, and ran the match factory at 1503 Columbus St., corner of Barry, for three or four years. The firm is listed in the St. Louis directories for 1867 to 1870. Later Peter Eichele or P. Eichele & Co. do not appear and the business was operated by August (or Augustus) Eichele under the name of Eichele & Co. at the same address. It seems probable that Peter and August Eichele were related and that when Peter Eichele died or quit about 1870 August Eichele consolidated the two businesses and thereafter ran them as one.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size, having for its principal feature an eagle with outstretched wings perched on a rock. Leaning against the rock is a U. S. shield. Above the eagle appears "St. Louis, Mo." on a ribbon and below the eagle is "Matches. One Cent". In each corner is a numeral and across the top and the bottom is a straight marginal label, the upper one bearing the firm name. The eagle and shield device is practically identical with that on the end panels of the American Match Co. (Cleveland 3c stamp).

The Boston Book states:—
 Die approved, Aug. 3, 1866.
 First issued, August, 1866.
 Last issued, August, 1875.
 210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
 33,382,100 issued on old paper.
 40,837,000 issued on silk paper.

The P. Eichele stamp was printed only in blue and is common on silk paper. Fine copies on old paper are not common. The specialist can find several distinct shades of blue and also the true ultramarine. Very few copies in ultramarine are known, perhaps two or three. The thick paper printing of 1870 probably exists and also the experimental silk paper. The stamps on thin old paper often have a greenish appearance like that found on the H. & M. Bentz. The silk paper variety is known to have been used in multiple, and many of the silk paper were used by Eichele & Co.

There may have been as many as seven plates made in Philadelphia and also one or two National plates. If the Boston Book is correct regarding the date of last issue there were no National plates and all the stamps were printed in Philadelphia. The writer, however, suspects a New York printing between August, 1875, and the appearance of the Eichele & Co. stamp in February, 1876, because no concern using stamps at the rate of ten millions a year would carry six months' supply—$50,000 worth—on hand if they could avoid doing so.

An essay of the same design on which the top label reads "Peter Eichele" exists. Probably this die preceded that of P. Eichele & Co. and the latter was altered from it. Prints occur only as die proofs in various trial colors and no record of a Peter Eichele plate has been noted.

EDITORIAL.

Prospects.—While a number of philatelic possibilities have not attained a degree of certainty, let us say, that would allow them to be called coming events, with a consequent casting of shadow before, yet we have some reason to believe that the Pilgrims' celebration will not pass unrecorded in a philatelic sense. Some time ago the Senate post office committee approved a reduction in the rate on local or drop letters from two cents to one cent, at the same time an appropriation of $1,400,000 was made for a trans-continental airplane route from New York to San Francisco. A congressman is intent upon reviving the revenue tax on matches and the rate that he selects is one cent each hundred matches.

Pleased.—Sometimes the bread falls buttered side up. A caller has just shown a fine copy of the 2 cent, U. S. I. R., on green paper, civil war issue, on the back of a photograph. A friend who knew of his interest in stamps sent him a batch of old pictures, each with a revenue stamp on back. All of the revenues with the single exception of the green paper variety were of the commonest stripe. This stamp as well as its fellow, the 2 cent orange bank check, was mentioned for the first time in the WEEKLY over fifteen years ago; and they were catalogued in 1905 or 1906. These stamps are scarce, and if there was a good demand for them, they would become shy indeed.

Picture.—At the risk of being tiresome, we must repeat that the publicity that philately is receiving in the press of this country almost exceeds belief; and it is learned that conditions similar to those prevailing here are to be found in some of the foreign countries. Picture as well as print is used to exploit the stamp theme and particularly we are pleased to see that Briggs, the cartoonist, again gives stamps a fling in "The Days of Real Sport." One of the boys in the picture says: "C'mon over'n our wood-shed 'n I'll show yuh my cigarette pitchers and my 'proval sheets of stamps." The snow has melted from the hills and the coasting season is closed.

Plain.—When is an August issue not an August issue? When a fellow finds a cover bearing a postmark in August, 1861, the stamp is not an August issue, in all probability. The luckless discoverer is inclined to ask with some asperity how it is possible for a stamp postmarked in August to be of the September issue. It is then incumbent upon the expert to say in mollifying tones that if the stamp, albeit postmarked in August, has not the characteristics of the August stamps, the specimen must be of the September brand. This explanation taxes the credulity of the innocent bystander who emerges from the situation a bit dazed. It is about time that a "note" of explanation regarding the confusion of dates presented by the stamps themselves be circulated. The communication from Mr. Lyman J. Seely in the following paragraph is opportune and sheds further light on the case submitted by a reader who had a thirty-cent, 1861, postmarked in August, used on cover, that was pronounced to be of the September issue by all the judges.

Argument.—Concerning the "August and September" issues of 1861, Mr. Seely writes: "When do you suppose that we shall drop the misleading designation of 'August' issue when referring to the probably quite accidental emission of (was it October?) 1861? It is years since there has been any serious question of the date of issue of the so-called 'September' stamps of 1861. So many copies of the 'September' issue dated August 16, 17, 19 of 1861, many of them used in towns at some distance from the Atlantic seaboard, ought to convince anyone that the September issue appeared not later than August 15th. So far as I am concerned I have seen enough to satisfy me that the so-called 'August' issue was nothing more than a set of essays, of which some trial sheets of the 10c and 24c values, in which both the colors and designs were practically the same as those of the accepted series were shipped out by mistake some time after the real August consignments. The facts about the appearance of the other 'August' values (or at least a story concerning a former official of the bank note company and a trunk full of unissued varieties) is pretty well known to old-time collectors. I have no first hand knowledge concerning it but the facts surrounding the issued stamps seem to support it. One conspicuous prop of the claim that only the 10c and 24c 'Augusts' ever were used is to be found in the 5c buff. The 5c 'August' is brown but I know at least one copy of the 5c buff that is year dated 'August, 19, 1861'! Surely, no one will contend that the 5c stamps were ever printed simultaneously in yellow and in brown. No one ever heard of an 'August' 5c in buff. There is no chance for a mistake there. The only reasonable deduction is that the August 5c was not printed until after the color of the regular 5c had been changed to brown and that it was printed at the special order of some one who wanted the stamps for private purposes. The fact that (unless my memory or information is bad) all dated copies of the 10c and 24c 'August' essays were used in November and December of that year (and still later, of course) helps the theory that they escaped accidentally for reasons already given; and that neither they nor any other of the 'August' stamps were intended to be used as postage. That the 10c and 24c were used gives them status as officially issued postage stamps but I can see no reason that any other 'August' values should be classed other than as essays."

Answered.—The inquiry of a correspondent as to what stamps are used in prepaying postage from Aden and Muscat has been answered by several readers. The Rev. J. Dreyer writes: "Both Aden and Muscat are subordinate to the postal administration of British India and use British Indian stamps.—(cf. U. S. Postal Guide, July, 1919.)" Mr. Benjamin Cadbury says: "In a missionary mixture that I purchased recently there was a piece of a cover with the 3m orange embossed envelope stamp of Egypt and alongside of it, the 4a olive green, King Edward of India. Each stamp is canceled with the Aden postmark in 1908." Mr. E. J. Newcomer has an early Indian stamp, 1865 issue, 2a orange, postmarked Aden. We think that India has it by a large majority, although a casual caller who tarried at Aden a spell says that he used Great Britain, King Edward stamps from there. Perhaps, the heat at Aden disturbed his memory.

COUNTERFEIT D. W. I.

We are informed that counterfeits have appeared on the Paris market of Danish West Indies Scott's numbers 105 to 108. Specimens of the counterfeits have been submitted for our examination and we do not consider them particularly dangerous. Our informant, John Spohr, 59 Rue de Rochechouart, Paris, France, would like to be communicated with in case dealers here in the U. S. are able to indicate sources of supply.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
POSTAGE STAMPS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.
CHAPTER I.—Introduction.
British Columbia is a province of the Dominion of Canada bounded on the east by the Rocky Mountains, south by the United States, west by the Pacific Ocean and Alaska, and north by the 60th parallel of latitude. Its area is 390,344 square miles, including Vancouver Island (14,000 square miles) and Queen Charlotte Islands (5,100 square miles) which are 200 miles north-west of Vancouver Island. British Columbia was practically under the control of the Hudson Bay Company until 1858, when, owing to the discovery of gold, it was made a crown colony. The former crown colony of Vancouver Island was united with it in 1866 and the province joined the Canadian Confederation in 1871.

The scenery is rugged and picturesque. Between the western slopes of the Rocky Mountains (highest peaks, Mount Brown 16,000 feet and Mount Hooker, 15,700 feet) and the sea the area is largely occupied by spurs and outlying groups of that chain. Near the coast these form the Cascade Range. Of the rivers the most important is the Fraser, 800 miles long, and 600 yards wide at its principal outlet in the Gulf of Georgia. Of the Columbia only the upper portion is within the province. Many varieties of climate are found. That of Vancouver and the coast of the mainland is very similar to that of the south of England and is considerably milder than that of corresponding regions in the same latitude on the east of America. The interior generally is dry and almost rainless, but parts suffer from heavy rainfall.

The chief industries are mining, fishing and lumbering. A large part of the country is densely wooded, and many trees are of great commercial value—e. g., the Douglas pine, the Menzies fir and the red cedar. The mines and fisheries are the chief sources of wealth. The rivers swarm with salmon and there are numerous canneries with an immense output. Other rich fisheries have not yet been properly developed and the seal fishery, formerly of great value, is declining, owing to the Bering Sea Fisheries decision.

The mineral wealth is incalculable. Extensive coal fields occur on the mainland at Nanaimo and on Vancouver Island, the former being an important factor in naval defense, being close to and in railroad communication with Esquimaux Harbor, the fortified headquarters of the North Pacific squadron. On Queen Charlotte Island is a large anthracite coal area.

The population of the province exceeds 200,000, including about 35,000 Indians and Chinese. The chief towns are Victoria, the capital, on Vancouver Island, Vancouver, New Westminster, the former capital, and Nanaimo.

The provincial government is administered by a lieutenant-governor, appointed and paid by the Dominion, assisted by an executive council and a Legislative Assembly of thirty-eight members, elected by the people of the province. It is represented at Ottawa by three senators and six members of the House of Commons.

Until the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1885, British Columbia was isolated from the rest of the Dominion. Now, however, it occupies a favorable position with regard to the markets of the west of South America and Australasia. Lines of steamers connect Vancouver with Hong Kong and Australian ports, while the telegraph cable to Australia, which was completed in 1902, served to increase the prestige of Vancouver. This city, which is the largest in the province, was of little importance until it was made the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1887. Its site a dense forest until 1885; it is now a well built modern city with miles of well paved streets, lit by gas and electricity, electric street cars, a fine Anglican cathedral, a handsome opera house, three parks, wharves and warehouses, smelting-works, etc.

Vancouver Island, which now belongs to the province of British Columbia, is separated from the mainland by Queen Charlotte Sound, Johnstone Strait, and the Strait of Georgia. It is 278 miles long and varies in width from 50 to 65 miles. Its shores are marked by rocky promontories, sheltered coves, fine harbors and on the west deep fiord-like arms of the sea. The island was discovered in 1592, by Juan de Fuca, and visited in 1792 by Captain George Vancouver, R. N., but the first permanent settlement was not made until 1843, when the Hudson Bay Company built a fort where Victoria, the capital, now stands.

CHAPTER II.—Postal History.

Documents relating to postal matters in either British Columbia or Vancouver Island are few and, for the most part, unimportant and uninteresting, so that it is not possible to trace the postal history of the province from official promulgations as we have been able to do in the case of other British North American provinces. Mr. Donald A. King, whose researches along this line have been of the utmost value to students of British North American postal history, and to whose writings we have already made frequent reference, was able to add but little to the meagre information published by the London Philatelic Society in the "Stamps of British North America". His letter to the Provincial Secretary of the Province in 1895 was, however, instrumental in inducing Dr. C. L. Helmcken, the speaker of the first Vancouver Island Parliament, to write some wonderfully interesting reminiscences which will form the subject of a later chapter.

The first Directory in the Colony was published in 1860, and it contains

of old U. S. postage on and off covers, revenues, match & medicine, etc., are averaging about $100 net value per s-l-ct-n against about $60 last year and the demand for them has increased more than 100%. They are for the collector who wishes to spend—or invest—at least a few dollars at a time and does not expect me to price the stamps at half of what any dealer would pay for similar good things. Good stamps; reasonable prices; the best service it is possible for me to give—this is what I have to offer. If it interests you, write me a real letter giving the best reference you can and I'll try to make you wish we'd got together sooner.

D. TAUSSIG, 10 West 28th Street, NEW YORK

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The 2c provisional envelopes surcharged upon the 3c circular die continue as the center of interest. Not only Washington, Cleveland and St. Louis have issued these but Dr. Leon A. Thompson sends us some from Boston on all four colors of paper and Mr. A. E. Owen tells us that they are on sale in New York and hands us copies on white. The die for surcharging has arrived in Philadelphia but has not been used, but by the time these notes appear most of the larger post offices will without a doubt be issuing them.

The first three cities to issue them, namely Washington, Cleveland and St. Louis, were each given a different die for overprinting and consequently we have described them in these notes as the Washington type, the Cleveland type and the St. Louis type. We will continue to use this same designation, although we now find that both Boston and New York are using what has been known as the Cleveland overprint. It seems that different types of cancelling machines require different dies, consequently the die which an office will receive will depend upon the make of machine on hand.

Mr. V. W. Barlow sends us some interesting varieties of the Cleveland type, including the overprint on the albino, another of a similar nature but with the inked embossing showing on the back in reverse and a third with the envelope folded inside out so that the stamp appears on the inside in the upper left corner, the overprint being in its normal position. The above are Size 5, Die E. Mr. P. M. Mann has located three new varieties of the St. Louis type, one of the sizes coming with the scarce 1915 diagonal watermark and the other with the 1915 horizontal. Out of 100 envelopes only seven had the scarcer watermark. The envelopes in question are Size 10, Die H.

Since our Chronicle of last week we have seen the following:—

1920 2c/3c Circular Die Envelopes, Black Surchage.

Cleveland Type

2c on 3c Die A, Size 3 on buff.
2c on 3c Die A, Size 3 on blue.
2c on 3c Die E, Size 5 on white.
2c on 3c Die E, Size 5 on amber.

St. Louis Type

2c on 3c Die A, Size 3 on white.
2c on 3c Die A, Size 11 on white.
2c on 3c Die H, Size 10 on white.

We are still looking for the others and would thank our readers to send us copies of anything on sale at their office. To date we know of 18 different varieties for those who go in for sizes and 12 varieties for those who collect cut squares and simply want dies and papers.

FENNEL STAMP CO., INC., FULLERTON BLDG., ST. LOUIS, MO.

It will also be of interest to know that the Washington Post Office has started experimentally to surcharge the old 2c postal cards 1c in a black overprint. These have not been issued up to this time but will possibly appear very shortly.

In our issue of February 21st we gave a list of plate numbers as furnished us through the courtesy of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. In this list we described numbers 10436 and 10439 inclusive as being ordinary curved plates of 170 subjects. We are now informed that these are the new rotary plates of four hundred subjects. What is more, the new rotary press is ready for printing these large sheets which are to be cut into post office sheets of 100. The new perforating machine has arrived and within the next few weeks we may look for some of the rotary impressions in other than coil form. Director Ralph was most anxious several years back to print all of our postage stamps on the rotary press and in this way save the government hundreds of thousands of dollars, but outside influences blocked his move. I am indeed glad to see that at last circumstances have lessened the influence of this previous power and I hope that they will never again be permitted to interfere where efficiency is at stake.

In our issue of February 28th we described four dies of the 2c rotary coil and in the following issue mentioned a second die of the flat plate. We have since had a chance of checking this information and find that the extra type of the rotary and the new one of the flat plate are really not new dies but different transfer rolls made from the same dies. We will therefore revise our classification as follows: Three dies were completed and have been put in use. The first die, which is known as Die I, was used for the early rotary coils and for all of the flat plates to date. A new transfer from this die for the flat plates has recently been taken, and in our last issue we called this Die V. We will now designate this as Die Ia. The second die made was used on the rotary coils only and this we call Die II. The third die was made for the rotary coils only and recently we designated this as Die IV. We now know what we called Die III is an offspring from this die, hence Die IV now becomes Die III and our previous Die III becomes Die IIIa, in other words, we have made our Dies III and V sub-varieties, as they are not made from separate dies.

Mr. A. E. Owen tells us of a new die that is being made from the previous Die III. This new die will show six reliefs but has not been completed as yet. Shortage of skilled labor has induced the Bureau to adopt many new ideas which are more efficient, will give a greater product without a proportionate increase in costs and the finished article will equal if not surpass the previous work.

AUSTRIA.—We are advised by Edward W. Neely that in Major H. B. Lockhart's item on the stamps of Austria he states that the 2 heller is light blue, while the correspondent recently received one that is brown and surcharged DEUTSCHOSTERREICH on blue paper.

The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 15h bistre, perf., of the new type

BATOU.—The ways of the British Authorities who are dispensing philatelic, if not other, wares at this Black Sea port are mysterious. Not content with the regular series of postage stamps in the "Tree" type (which it is understood were prepared expressly for the régime of Albion), they have now overprinted those stamps with the words
"BRITISH OCCUPATION," in two lines of black capitals. Messrs. Fred. J. Melville, Ltd., has shown us the following values:—

5 kop. green.	2 roubles rose.
10 kop. blue.	3 roubles mauve.
25 kop. yellow.	5 roubles brown.

—Stamp Collecting.

We are indebted to the Economist
Stamp Co. for submitting the first specimens of these stamps for our inspection.
We note, however, that they submit a copy of the 7r, which is not listed by the above paper. The color of the stamp is dull red.

BAVARIA.—C. G. Dietrich advises us:
"I have just received the remaining high values of the Ludwig set surcharged 'Freistaat', that is to say, the 1, 3, 5, 10, 20 marks, also the 1m 25pf on 1m green, which is rather strange, as the 1m in this colour does not exist in former printings. The only values which so far have not appeared in this set are the 30, 35, 40 and 75pf. The Ludwig 1914 set has been issued imperforate."

BELGIUM.—The Economist Stamp Co.
has shown us the 1915 issue up to and including the 1f values with the following surcharge: EUPEN & MAL-MEDY and just below the following values: 5pf on 5c, 10pf on 10c, 15pf on 15c, 20pf on 20c, 30pf on 25c, 75pf on 50c, 1m 25pf on 1fr.

The last two surcharges are in red,
the others are black.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—We are indebted to Bright & Son for the information that the 2nd fortress type, perf. 13½, has the following new colors: 10h green and 20h rose.

CUBA.—C. L. Douglass submits to us for inspection a copy of No. 232, containing an interesting and uncatalogued error. The word OCTOBRE is spelled OCTUBRE.

FINLAND.—The Economist Stamp Co.
has shown us the following new copies of this country: Current type, 5p grey and 50p blue.

MOSUL.—H. R. Arnold sends us the following information regarding the "I E F 'D'" stamps:—"In the 3a the 'D' has the quotation marks at the top as has also the ¼a, 1a and 4a. In the 2½a the 'D' has quotation mark to the left but a square period to right instead of quotation mark."

PERU.—We are indebted to H. N.
Haas and Fred L. Onken for showing us copies of the 5c commemorative stamp issued last December. It is of somewhat larger size than ordinary and has the portrait of A. D. Leguia in the centre in black, while the other color is light blue. The "5" is in each corner, while at the top is the coat of arms of the country and the words PATRIA NUEVA. Around the portrait is COM-MEMORATIVA DE LA CONSTITU-CION DE 1919.

ROUMANIA.—Fred. J. Melville shows us a copy of the 1 bani, black, of the new type recently issued and at the same time advises that the 40b has appeared, the color being brown. The stamp has the portrait of King Ferdinand in a circle at the top of the stamp, while the name of the country is at the bottom with the numeral and name of coin at the left. It is printed on very coarse paper and perforated 13½x11½.
Messrs. Bright & Son chronicle the following values of the new type, on black:—

5 bani, green,
10 bani, red,
15 bani, brown,
25 bani, blue.

SCHLESWIG.—The Economist Stamp
Co. has shown us the following stamps:
At the top is the PLEBISCIT, while at the bottom is SLESVIG with the numeral in the lower left corner and the coin name in the right:—

2½pf grey.
5pf green.
7½pf brown.
10pf red.

SWEDEN.—By the time these lines appear in print it is probable the new series of postage stamps for the country of King Gustaf will be on sale. So long ago as July last we found an interesting forecast of them in the Danish newspaper, "Politiken," in which were illustrations of the prospective new designs.

We now find a lengthy article on the subject in the "Svensk Filatelistisk Tidskrift," which gives full details of this new series. The first of the three designs shows a heraldic lion holding a globe on which are the three crowns of Sweden; as to the lion, he is certainly a fearsome beast, bearing but little resemblance to the variety ordinarily found in zoological gardens, but he is at least reasonable in contenting himself with only one tail, which is more than we could say for some heraldic lions known to us. This design is by an artist named Elinar Forseth. The second design is the work of an artist named Axel Toerneman; it bears a remarkably effective full-face portrait of King Gustaf, and, besides this, only the word "SVERIGE"
and a large figure of value—no frame or other superfluous ornamentation. The third type shows crown and posthorn and has more inscriptions than the other two together.

All the designs entered in competition were on view at the Postal Museum at Stockholm. The occasion for the new designs is the decision of the Swedish Post Office Department to undertake the manufacture of its stamps on its own account, a course which, it is reported, is to be adopted by Great Britain from the end of the present year.—Stamp Collecting.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—G. M. Strader informs us of the organization of the Winston-Salem (N. C.) Stamp Club. Eighteen members joined at the first meeting and indications point to a live club in this "city of industry".

—Herman W. Boers calls our attention to the fact that he recently purchased a sheet of ninety-eight U. S.
$1 stamps used. It is an unusual block, beautiful in cancellation and perforation.

—We have received a rather new venture in an approval book made by F. L.
Belanger, Willoughby, Vt. The book can be built of as many pages as one desires, the sample before us having spaces for 110 stamps. If interested, communicate with Mr. Belanger.

—"Even if I did not like MEKEEL'S I should still be a subscriber, as it is a standard-bearer for stamp collecting, a clean and educational hobby. Standard-bearers must be supported, therefore I am pleased to be a subscriber."—H.
S. DICKEY.

—C. F. B.—It is not our intention to reprint any of the Jan. 31 articles in leaflet form. We have no special binder to use in connection with our publication.

—"The old saying that there is nothing new under the sun is not true, as Uncle Sam is to give us in the near future the one and two cent stamps in the 400 subjects, perforated on all four sides and each stamp to be perfectly centered. This, I consider, the eighth wonder of the world. How nice it will be to receive an order for U. S.
stamps in the future without the clause
'Please send well centered copies, and perforated in all four sides.' I understand that the one cent stamps are printed and done up in bundles, but on account of a mishap to the perforating machine two cent stamps are not finished."—W. P. COLMAN.

N. B.—The above rates include the Colonial Postage of 5 cents on every half-ounce; and where it is marked optional, it has reference only to the United States postage.

The rates of postage, it will be noted, are in decimal currency, while the solitary stamp issued in the following year has the value expressed in pence. The decimal value was given because at that time almost the only gold and silver coinage circulating within the province was that of the United States. As no copper coins were in circulation it is difficult to know how the postal authorities expected customers to pay such odd amounts as 48c, 39c, 47c, etc. It will also be noted that no rates are given to the United States and the reason for this would seem to be that the Wells Fargo Express Company had an office in Victoria and handled most of the mail to San Francisco and other points in the States.

In the directory of 1863 a list of the local post offices in British Columbia is given, together with the rates of postage on letters and newspapers between the various offices. There were only nine post offices altogether—at New Westminster, Douglas, Hope, Yale, Lytton, Lillooet, Williams Lake, Quesnelle and Antler, respectively—and the postal charges were exceedingly high. The charge for letters ranged from 5d to 4s and were based on the distance of one office from another, while newspapers were carried for 2 1/2d within one zone and for 5d outside that zone. The prepayment of the postal charges was compulsory and as only one stamp of the facial value of 2 1/2d was then in use it is obvious that as a general rule postage was paid in cash. Even were it desired to use stamps it would have been impossible to make up the rates of 1s, 2s, 3s and 4s with this one value, and as the lowest charge was fivepence (between New Westminster, Douglas, Hope and Yale) two stamps were always necessary. The stamp was really of use only in paying the postage on newspapers between the four post offices named above.

A FIRM FULL OF PEP.

By L. H. BRIGHAM, Southbridge, Mass.

Let me congratulate you on your recent issue dated January 31. Some mighty fine numbers of this paper have been issued in the past but I consider that the aforementioned issue takes precedence over them all.

The W. C. Phillips Co. of Hartford should also be congratulated on the splendid six page ad which they ran in this number. If Hartford was never on the map before, these people have placed it there this time. It is such advertisement as these that do more to further the interests of Philately by the unusual amount of interest attracted by same than anything else outside of an exhibit.

MARKET NOTES.

Russian stamps overprinted "British Occupation" are surely an unexpected novelty! The two new provisionals are very unusual curiosities. In the first place the overprint is in Russian (Batum State) and English "British Occupation." Secondly, the new facial value is increased 1,000 times in the case of the 10 roubles on 1 kopec!

This issue is bound to be popular, and if the issued figures given us are correct the price at which they have been offered—50s per pair—sounds reasonable. The face value is 25 roubles.

A well-known firm tells me these stamps are "entirely speculative."—Yes, perhaps they are, but does not this apply to a good many stamps and issues which have appeared during the last few months?

Several dealers tell me that the "Pad-rewski" set of Poland is one of the most popular sets issued during recent times—the sales are phenomenal. It appears that many music shops are doing quite a trade in this issue, as many musicians are buying the set in order to get the one stamp bearing the portrait of the musical genius. I trust some of our musician friends will now become stamp collectors.

A correspondent has drawn my attention to the business methods at present adopted by German dealers and publishers "to push foreign trade." The green covered advertisement sheet published at Poesenick (and sent broadcast over here) is a typical example. The rate a page advertisement is "320 marks" or "400 francs" or "£16." My friend wanted to take a page and remitted 320 marks for same. Back came a refusal pointing out the rate was £16. Surely a mark is a mark in Germany? My correspondent naively remarks: "I offered them their own blooming money, instead they demand (some hopes!) 3,840 marks per page—that's what it works out at to-day's exchange. I shouldn't have minded risking 26s 8d." I have been glancing at the "bargains" offered in this publication, and it certainly is somewhat interesting to note that the majority of German dealers offer a stamp at a certain number of marks and then to foreign buyers (us!) the price is 50 to 100 per cent higher.

Mr. Houtzamer sends me some cuttings from an Australian paper regarding the status of certain New Britain and Marshall Is. stamps which have been sold at high figures in some of the London auctions. In these notes some months ago I quoted several auction prices for war rarities, and, according to the article above referred to, some of these errors and varieties were not issued. Personally I do not know anything about the status of the "1" on 2d on 20pf Marshall Is. to make an example. I quoted an auction price—something between £40 and £50, if I remember rightly.

Apparently it has now been decided by our Australian contemporary that this stamp was never issued. Gibbons now catalogue this stamp, and further, one of the copies bought at auction was submitted to the Expert Committee and passed genuine. Beyond this I can give no information upon the disputed stamp. Most of the leading authorities here consider its status beyond question.

Czecho-Slovakia has issued a new set of stamps—overprinted on Austrian—which must be a record even for New Europe. The set comprises over a hundred different stamps! Evidently some stamp or stamps are rare, as the prices asked are roughly: Set of 22 different, 5s; set of 88, £16; complete set (about 102, I think), £180!—Stamp Collector.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

(A final drive will now be made for the completion of the Dictionary. It will be necessary for us to cover letters H to Z with new matter dealing with subjects not included in the text proper. Conditions in Europe have resulted in new nations, new stamp issues and new inscriptions to such an extent as to make our Addenda an important feature of the work. We have waited thus far to cover the developments and now feel that the time has arrived to head up the book. In the preparation of this copy, we ask the help of our readers where there are inaccuracies or where amplification is advisable. We shall first cover in our Addenda material H to Q, (several instalments of copy being necessary) after which R to Z will be similarly dealt with.)

HADI SEGELY, ETC.—This long inscription on certain stamps of Hungary means "War subscription for the widows and orphans of fallen fighters". They first appeared Oct. 7, 1914. All were sold at 2 filler over face value.

HAUTE-VOLTA—(Upper Volta).—A French colony in Africa made by setting aside a part of Haut-Senegal et Niger. The Volta is a large river flowing into the Gulf of Guinea.

H A W.—The initials of H. A. Willemssen, postmaster of Curacao, which appeared on provisional 1c stamps made in the Dutch colony in 1918.

HRV.—This abbreviation occurs on some of the crown values of the Jugo Slav stamps and stamps for "Hrvat-ska", the native term for Croatia.

HRVATSKA.—A former province of Hungary and one of the three principal members of the state of Jugo-Slavia. Population about 2,000,000 and capital city Gazreb (Agram).

IMPERFORATED.—The term "im-perforated" is an ungrammatical form. It is synonymous with "unperforated", which is the older and proper English form for "not perforated". It has been contended that the term "Unperforated" means "perforations have been removed". This is erroneous.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—("Jug" pronounced "young", meaning south.) A term commonly applied to the Slavs in southern Europe. The Jugo-Slav or Serbo-Croat-Slovene state includes all southern Slavs namely, Servians, Slovenes, Bosnians, Dalmatians, Croatsians and Montenegrins, with the diplomatic or political capital at Belgrade and the commercial or financial center at Zagreb.

KIEV.—A district in the Ukraine where in 1918 Russian stamps were surcharged with a trident and used for postal purposes.

K. O. M. W.—These letters found on stamps of Poland represent "Komitet Obywatelsky Miasta Warszaw-sky", meaning "Municipal Council of Warsaw".

KRALYEVINA SRBIJA.—These words in Slavonic characters are shown on the 1904 stamps of Servia and mean "Kingdom of Serbia".

KRIEGS-BESHADIGTE.—This inscription is found on certain stamps of Bavaria and means "War Wounded". The stamps thus overprinted were sold at an increased price over the nominal face value, the extra amount being used for the wounded of the world war.

KROLESTWO POLSKIE—(Kingdom of Poland).—Stamps bearing this inscription were prepared in 1918 but never regularly issued, though on the stamp market they have no postal standing.

KUBAN REPUBLIC.—A district on the Black Sea formerly under the rule of Russia and known as North Caucasia. Its capital city is Ekaterinodar. Stamps were first issued in 1919.

KYDONIA.—The former Turkish Sanjak of Karassa having been occupied by the Greeks in 1919. Stamps were issued at Kydonia and this name appears on the stamps.

LA GEORGE.—A country of Transcaucasia which in ancient times was

"SATISFACTION APPROVALS".

I have not had general approval selections for several years, as my yearly price-list and my very successful "Approval Want-List" system have filled the bill.

But the price-list is no more, as the market is too uncertain to warrant the fixing of prices for the future.

I am busy with an approval series that I hope will spell S-A-T-I-S-F-A-C-T-I-O-N in every way. It will be some time before it is completed but I shall from time to time announce progress. This series is for those who spend $2 or more at a time.

NOW READY.

Unused postage from 1890 to date—singles in shades.

Reference is required from those not having an approval account with me in the past two years. Stamp dealers or your bank is the most satisfactory reference.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Marks Stamp Co. of Toronto, Can., wishes us to state that they are not the firm that handled the counterfeit French stamps referred to in a recent number of the WEEKLY as offered "by a Toronto dealer". We are very glad to insert this information and let it be known that the Marks Co. knows nothing whatever of the stamps in question.

—The 32nd annual stamp exhibition of the Pittsburgh Philatelic Society was held Feb. 17 in the Society rooms at the Hotel Chatham. Nearly one hundred were present. The first prize was awarded to W. J. Price for a collection of 5c and 10c 1847 U. S. Second and third prizes were also awarded.

—We have received from M. L. Nichols, Berwick, N. S., a catalog printed in 1892, giving the prices paid by the J. W. Scott Co. for both U. S. and foreign stamps as well as coins. It is an interesting commentary on the stability of stamp collecting, comparing the prices of today with those of thirty years ago.

—The Vermont Philatelist is the latest Vol. 1 No. 1. It is published monthly by the Vermont Philatelic Society, with F. L. Belanger in charge.

—W. Howard Zimmer, a longtime subscriber to the WEEKLY and residing at Portland, Ore., departed this life Feb. 15, 1920. Mr. Zimmer will be remembered by many of our readers, as his name has been frequently seen in our columns in past years. He was a great lover of the WEEKLY, and we tender our sympathy to the bereaved parents.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from G. M. Strader, B. F. Boyer, Leo A. M. Bowers, Kenneth Tallmadge, Dr. R. Martin Bruns, H. R. Arnold, Victor Nesslund, T. C. Mann, Herman W. Boers, John P. Cooper, Fredk. S. Wist, Morgan Fremlin, J. Schmerl and Arthur Rehfuß.

—Due to pressure of other philatelic activities, C. Lat. Wilhelm has withdrawn from the firm of Schnick and Company, effective on and after March 1, 1920. The business will be continued as at present, by Mr. H. H. Schnick, under the same firm name of Schnick and Company. Mr. Wilhelm thanks the many patrons of the firm for their support and hopes it will be extended as generously in the future to the firm as it has been in the past.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XV.

The Bocas del Toro Issues.

In November, 1903, a series of surcharged stamps was issued at Bocas del Toro which remained in use but a short time. The remainders were bought up by a German firm having a branch there and shipped to Europe, our supply here having been mostly obtained from German sources. Used copies, particularly of the 5c and 10c, were, however, received at New York and other ports in the ordinary course of trade, but have never been very plentiful, and the series has since become decidedly scarce. With the genuine stamps received from European sources was a liberal supply of obvious counterfeits, but whether fabricated at Bosca del Toro or "somewhere in Germany" is not known. There were also stamps bearing a totally different surcharge, which were regarded almost from the beginning as questionable.

The genuine surcharge shows wide variations in appearance due, apparently, to the way that the handstamp was applied. I give herewith two examples, a being from an unusually heavy impression and b from a rather carefully applied one. I believe that both were made from the same rubber handstamp, but the heavier impression from an optical illusion appears to be from shorter letters than the other.

a- RDE PANAMA

b RDE PANAMA

There is, however, another genuine surcharge which differs from those illustrated in a period after the R. This occurs so far as known only on the 10c and 20c and is considerably rarer than the normal type.

The following list is complete so far as data is available. I would suggest that little attention be paid to varieties, except the one with period after the R. The misplaced surcharges are far from common, and are not liable to the same suspicion of being "made to order" that is suggested by the handstamped Panama and Colon issues

186. 50c bistre-brown, surcharged violet.
 - a. Diagonal surcharge.
187. 1p lake, surcharged violet.
 - a. Inverted surcharge.
 - b. Diagonal surcharge.

There are unimportant variations in diagonal, vertical and double surcharges. The supplement to Stanley Gibbons' catalogue, dated June 30, 1904, lists the provisional 5c on 20c black on lilac of 1894 with the Bocas del Toro surcharge but does not give the type of the figure "5". Mr. Luff states that he has never seen this stamp and has not been able to verify its existence. As the stamp in question is not rare, there would be no particular difficulty in obtaining a copy, and if I appraise the Bocas del Toro post office fairly, there would have been no difficulty in getting possession of the handstamp and using it for any speculative purpose, but I must admit some surprise that such an obvious fraud should ever have been seriously regarded.

So far we have been on firm ground, but there is another series which bears the surcharge in violet. The Standard Catalogue lists the following:

- 1c green, surcharged violet.
- 2c rose, " "
- 5c blue, " "
- 10c yellow, " "
- 1p lake, " "

Two varieties of this surcharge have been noted and I illustrate them herewith:

Panama
Panama

Bartels gives the 5c and 10c as actually existing and the 1 and 2c as doubtful, adding as also doubtful a 20c violet, surcharged violet. I have also seen the 1 centavo, and suspect that in one instance the surcharge may have been made with a fine brush instead of a handstamp.

Let us now examine the evidence on which this series was listed. They were first heard of in an advertisement in a German philatelic publication instead of at New York, Mobile or New Orleans, which are the ports of the United Fruit Co., a corporation that virtually controls the entire business at Bocas del Toro, and where the stamps would naturally arrive on regular correspondence if genuine. A very small number of used copies subsequently arrived here, but at least in one instance with enclosures of stamps from a German firm at Bocas del Toro.

At first I understood that the series was entirely unknown in the Canal Zone, but have since been informed that a single copy is known there which came not from Bocas del Toro but from a French dealer.

To fully satisfy myself as to the truth of the matter the following notice was inserted in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS of May 11, 1918:

"In the course of my studies of the postage stamps of Panama, I have had occasion to inquire into the genuineness of the Bocas del Toro issues, Scott's Nos. 158 to 162, 378, 379 and 461.

If any of your readers have these stamps on the original covers, and will kindly send them to me for examination, they will be very carefully considered and promptly returned. It may be as well to emphasize the fact that in a case of this nature, nothing but stamps on the original covers would have any weight in favor of the genuineness of their issue.

I should greatly regret depreciating the value of any specimens for which collectors may possibly have paid fancy prices if they are really authentic."

As no one has come forward with any evidence as to the genuineness of these stamps, I feel compelled to characterize them as an unofficial issue if not entirely fraudulent. The existence of a few postmarked copies is not conclusive, as no one outside of Bocas del Toro knew what was or was not the official surcharge. If a letter once passed the postoffice there it would not be questioned, and this could be done readily with the connivance of an employee.

RYNACHI YOKOHORI.

Our Japan Correspondent.

It is with no small pleasure that we present this week the picture of Rynichi Yokohori, our Japanese correspondent. Mr Yokohori, while young in philately, is well informed and has proven a valuable helper in keeping our readers posted concerning philatelic happenings in the far east. The Managing Editor has found in him a very faithful correspondent, and takes great pleasure in thus publicly acknowledging the obligations under which he has placed us through his many courtesies. Mr. Yokohori resides in Tokyo, is a member of the Japanese Society and is greatly interested in all that concerns philately.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

TO MY STAMPS.

By STANLEY D. MACDOWELL.

You fascinating little creatures, how delightful is your companionship. Now that I am learning to know you so well, life would be deprived of one of its greatest sources of pleasure if you should be taken from me. Like the elves, you are small but numerous; you exist not only to serve the conveniences of correspondence, but to carry enjoyment, rest and recreation to myriads of your admirers.

Like good wine, you grow more valuable with age, and you bring the smile of contentment to him who is so fortunate as to possess you.

Your devotees are as varied as the kinds of humans who exist on this mundane sphere. From the little child hardly able to lip his own name to the aged and infirm, the span of life to which you appeal is verily the scriptural three-score years and ten, and unlike many of the so-called toys or caprices of life, your appeal is always to that which is intellectual and uplifting.

Does the historical interest us? In answer to our desire for knowledge along this line, you show to us scenes in the life story of the nations.

Is biography our chief liking in literature? Then we see the portraits of prominent men and women of the different nationalities and oftentimes you furnish us the dates of birth and death.

Or do we happen to have a liking for animals or birds? There also is our desire for information gratified, as you portray the various living creatures of the four corners of the earth.

Mayhap we are artistically inclined. There, also, do we find that wherewith to please, for colors simple, colors complex, colors familiar or strange are laid out for us to perceive and to admire.

But above all you minister to that collecting instinct which is existent in most human beings, that desire to add, to bring together and compare, so common to us mortals in one form or another.

In our throbbing modern civilization with its hurry and its discord, may you continue, Philately, on your beneficent way. All power to your influence and may your tribe increase.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SHUT-INS.

If any of our subscribers know of any worthy shut-ins please communicate with this office and we shall no doubt be able to arrange for some complimentary subscriptions to the WEEKLY. We only ask that in each instance the facts in the case be plainly stated in order that we may be assured as to the worthiness of the recipient. A friend of Philately has made this offer possible.

EICHELE & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This concern first appears in the St.
Louis directories for 1871 and is the only "Eichele" match factory listed after 1870. The address is always 1503-
5 Columbus St., where the P. Eichele
& Co. factory was formerly located.
The only persons known in connection with Eichele & Co. are August Eichele and August Eichele, Jr. The concern last appears in the directories for 1881 and after 1882 neither Eichele Sr. nor Eichele Jr. is noted at all. In 1882
August Eichele appears as superintendent of the Diamond Match Co. at the factory formerly operated by F. Mansfield & Co.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, Jan. 10, 1876.
First issued, February, 1876.
Last issued, Feb. 23, 1883.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
131,532,903 issued on silk, pink and watermarked paper.

The design is identical with the P.
Eichele & Co. stamp except the change in the firm name. There were probably at least a dozen plates made by the National and the American Bank Note Companies and by the Bureau. The stamps on silk and pink paper are all National prints. Those on watermarked paper were printed both by the companies mentioned and by the Bureau.
Yet in spite of the enormous quantity issued the writer has not yet noted a copy showing the Bureau characteristics!

There is a fair range of shade and stamps showing wear of the plates are not specially uncommon. These latter sometimes pass for ultramarine as the stamp is listed in ultramarine but does not occur in the true ultramarine of 1869. Obviously stamps first printed in 1876 cannot exist in a color used only in 1869. The rouletted variety was printed by the Bureau soon after the Bureau began to print the M & M stamps. The usual dull shade prevails.
Faked roulettes are too often seen.

The records indicate that the match

THE U. S. 5c 1847.

By W. F.

Through my ads, I have been fortunate enough to land one of the finest,
if not the very finest, specialized 5c 1847 collection perhaps in the U. S., comprising 91 covers and 199 singles varieties, and all shades of color cancellations. Collection came from Cleveland, O. Deal was handled by one of a firm of Cleveland dealers. Price I paid was very close to $3,000.

I now have the 5c 1847 bug in dead earnest, and shall go after them very strongly from now on.

Would be very glad to know why the 5c 1847 stamps did not go up in catalog value. Was in New York some few months ago and could not find any nice copies for sale even at $5. and $6. per copy. I am very anxious to pay $4. to $6. per copy for all nice copies I can get. The old price of $3. is a surprise to hundreds of collectors, who have them on hand or who want to buy them.

I wonder how many copies the Scott
Company would let me have at $3. each.
I consider the stamps easily worth $6.
or more. Would be glad to see an article in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY as to why the stamps remain catalogued at $3. and no dealers have any to sell at $5. One party has some he holds at prices ranging from $6. to $15. each. I paid him $10. a few days ago for a nice copy. If you know of any for sale at $5., fine copies, kindly send them my way, as I am ready to buy even in quantities.

EDITORIAL.

Profitable.—Writing from Budapest, Brig. Gen. H. H. Bandholtz, U. S. A., Commissioner of the United States of America in Hungary, says: "About 70,000 complete sets of the Bolshevik stamps of Hungary, surcharged, 'Magyar Tanacsokzarsasag' have had the overprint obliterated by an ornate surcharge and they were practically all sold to the Agrarian Bank which wholesaled them to dealers on condition that the minimum retail price be 250 krs, about ten times face value. The lower denominations are in fairly general use but high values were all cornered." It was on the books that General Bandholtz was to sail from Cherbourg on the "Adriatic" this month.

Active.—A correspondent abroad says that the Paris stamp bourse, "just off the avenue des Champs-Élysées", has recovered its former favor and has been opened auspiciously this year. A visit to the bourse on February 15th, 1920, well repaid the casual sight-seer, to say nothing of the one with philatelic leanings. The day was mild and the crowd in attendance was so great as to block the path of the promenade, who, out of curiosity, stopped to behold the enthusiastic traffickers in stamps. We can well believe in the words of the Paris edition of the New York Herald that "this market is typical of Paris and is well worth a visit any Sunday afternoon". The Paris stamp bourse is one of the picturesque institutions of philately and descriptions of it have been appearing in the press for forty years or so.

Locals.—From "Bismark and State Socialism," by William H. Dawson, London, 1890, Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz has extracted the following reference to the German private posts whose stamps are not always readily identified by the collector: "The (Imperial German) Post Law of 1871 forbids the transmission of letters and newspapers, etc., from one place to another except through the Imperial Post but the private town post is not prohibited. The consequence is that in a number of large towns, one or more local posts exist for the delivery of letters, printed matter and general consignments within the urban district. In Berlin, especially, the Imperial Post has suffered severely from this local rivalry, but so far no amendment of the law has been proposed. Several years ago, at least three city posts were carried on by companies and it must be confessed worked very admirably existed at the same time".

Loss.—We learn from Mr. Isaiah Rudy, Pittsburgh, of the death of Dr. Leonard M. Liddle, who as a physiological chemist was widely known and greatly esteemed. Mr. Rudy says: "Dr. Liddle was a leading member of the Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh. He specialized in U. S. stamps with a leaning toward the scientific study of the modern issues. He was well-known in Philadelphia and New York stamp circles, as he often visited the dealers there." The death of Dr. Liddle at the age of 36 deprives philately of a follower whose example and natural gifts made him a valued member of our clan.

Editorial.—The San Francisco Call and Post of March 3, 1920, contains a striking editorial on stamp collecting that ends with the sentence, "We must concentrate on stamps." Mention is made of the determination of some of the collectors in England to forswear the collecting of enemy issues, thus "making a hobby of hatred." Here is the interesting and intelligent manner in which the philatelic theme is presented: "These are great days for the stamp collectors. New governments mean new stamps and new stamps mean new hopes and delights. For them it is a new world; they can bring the old collection down from the attic and begin work again. The postage stamp was the first symbol of victory. When Germany occupied Belgium it used the Belgian stamps with a German overprint; when the Belgians occupied part of Germany, they revenged themselves by using German stamps with a Belgian overprint. The Turks issued a special stamp in celebration of their defense of Gallipoli, but the British used Turkish stamps with a British overprint when they captured Bagdad. And down in Togo and Cameroon in Africa the French and British symbolized victory by using German colonial issues marked by a triumphant stamp. The Lithuanians used captured German staff maps as material for their new stamps and the Jugo-Slavs use the old Austrian stamps remarked to show their liberation. . . . And thus these little stamps—which carry lovenotes and bills with equal unconcern—have been symbols of war."

Revolution.—Some time ago, a reader wrote: "You will recollect that one of the immediate causes of the Revolution was the Stamp Act of 1775, which provided for a tax on certain articles, such as tea; and that the stamps were issued in payment of this tax. Were stamps ever printed? If so, were they all destroyed? Didn't any escape destruction? What was the design of these stamps?" Any stamps in question which are the subject of occasional speculation both by collectors and outsiders were not stamps in the accepted sense but were embossed devices on heavy paper that were attached to the documents on which a payment of tax was required, sometimes with small pieces of lead. The first tax stamps issued by Great Britain for the imposition of taxes in this country appeared in 1765 and these embossed impressions ranging in denomination from four pence to two shillings six pence all had the word "America" in the design, which included the British crown and other similar tokens of royalty. Because of the determined opposition to "taxation without representation," by the colonists, the act was repealed March 18th, 1766. The stamps that were provided for in the act of 1775 were never in use here and as a writer says: "The design of the stamps, if any were actually distributed, must have been similar to those of the short-lived series of 1765." It was one thing to tax and another to collect it; and we quote, concerning the 1765 tax: "Hence, the very day on which the act was to have taken effect, (November 1st, 1765) neither stamps nor officers were to be found in the Colonies, and business of all kinds was transacted without the aid of the stamped paper."

Hungary.—A formidable array of documentary evidence has been placed in our hands regarding the army posts of the Bolshevik army, which, it is emphasized, did not issue army post stamps. It is held, in consequence, that the army post cancellations during the Soviet regime in Hungary are particularly interesting and are destined to attract enthusiastic notice. These cancellations are to be had in a good many varieties and we can readily conceive that they are of interest particularly to those who carefully consider these markings. However, it is rather a far cry for collectors here to ardently espouse the cancellations in question.

FULTON STAMP CO., 729 SIXTH AVE., COR 42ND ST., N. Y. CITY.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
ON LITERATURE PRICES.

By EDWIN B. HILL.
My collection of philatelic literature having passed into other hands, and subsequently under the hammer, I am in position to review the prices the various items fetched at auction, and, in a desultory way, to deduce the lessons one should learn in garnering the printed bits of press output. It may be that I am prejudiced,—in fact, I confess here and now that such is the case; but nevertheless I shall have the last word, if it is to be said.

On the night of 18 December, 1919,
in San Francisco, Edwin P. Seeböhm sold the library of philatelic literature which the writer had acquired in more than ten years of searching. With few reservations, for everything was not disposed of, I cherishing perhaps a scant dozen bits which meant more to me than they possibly could to any other collector, and Mr. Seeböhm choosing a few things essential to himself—
the library passed into various hands.
There were more than two hundred lots, and few were single "items".

The first, the "Priced Catalogue" of the initial auction sale of stamps in Europe, by our veteran dealer, the late J. W. Scott, fetched $1.40, which was high. This list had the printed prices.

Why bound volumes of the first series of "The American Journal of Philately" were knocked down at such low figures is passing strange. I can only attribute it to the lack of knowledge on the part of bidders. These went for a tenth their value. But bidding for things absolutely worthless seemingly caught the modern eye, and helped the average materially,—for which the owners may rejoice,—philanthropically.

When $13 was paid for the third and last edition of "Album Weeds", it seemed worth one's while to rejoice.
That was double the price paid for the books at publication. Then there was Crocker's "Hawaiian Numerals", which fetched $7.75,—and is worth it,—although the remote owner was glad to sell it for a third that sum.

When a bid of $5.30 acquired a file of "Gibbons Monthly Journal", and $3.20 took a file of "Gibbons Stamp Weekly", well may one weep. And those rarities,—Gibbons Catalogues,— second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth editions, at $1.50 the lot,—where were the collectors who know? The sum of one dollar was paid for Giffard's "Catalogue of the Stamps of Hawaii",—and it was a presentation copy at that, and a rarity besides. Rich be the owner today, for he has a priceless treasure!

But I chortle when it is disclosed that $2 was bid for Kohl's "Probe-drucke, Marken Mit Specimen". It is a rarity, to be sure, but it meant little to its owner-predecessor, I wot.

"The London Philatelist" has always been a favorite. Volume I fetched
$1.20; II, III, IV, $3.30; V, VI, VII,
$3.30; VIII, IX, $3.30; XI, $1.80; XV,
$1.20; XVII, 90 cents; XX, eighty cents; XXII, $1.20; XXVI, $1.50. Alas! These be the mighty fallen!

And then a file of "The Metropolitan Philatelist", Vols. I to X, went for twelve cents a volume.

For that rare gem in philatelic scholarship, "The Philatelic Record", $5.75 was paid for nine volumes,—and they would have been cheap at ten times
the price, for the sake of literature alone,—or at five times for mere collecting. But one should not judge the buyer,—over much!

That fine magazine, "The Stamp Lover", complete, 1908-1916, fetched $5.50. It is well worth the price to him who reads as well as collects, for under the scholarly editorship of Fred.
J. Melville, all the good things philatelic are considered in the columns of the "Stamp Lover".

For a file of eighty copies of Smith's "Monthly Circular", only sixty cents was paid. I may say, parenthetically, that the purchaser herewith receives a bid three times the amount paid.

Those American rarities, E. B. Sterl-ing's "Catalogues", postage and fiscal, fetched only $5.40 for the nine,—four postal, four revenue,—and the "Testimonials". That were a bargain to hug to one's heart!

When seventy-five cents captured the third edition of Kline's "Catalogue", and thirty-five cents "Pemberton's Stamp Collector's Handbook", Plymouth, England,—the former issued in 1865, in Philadelphia, and the latter in 1874,— let me cheer the hearts of the reluctant bidders by stating that the Kline is worth $10 to $20, and the Pemberton readily fetches $4 to $7. Bargains?
Commend me to the uninformed!

Seventeen editions of the Scott Standard Catalogue, perfect condition, went for $4.80. These were the small volumes, and a complete set,—and sets are not easy of attainment.

However, in spite of the bricks I have hurled, I consider the sale a success,— what might be termed in theatrical parlance an "artistic success". It has proved to the western mind that bargains may be had in philatelic literature, and that spirited bidding hereafter may win the desired item. After all, there are books and books,—but they do not always appear in the auction market.

No Fishing Here!

Good fellows who are fishing around for quotations are invited to try some other pond. It is quite useless for me to quote prices on goods that would most likely be sold before I received a confirmation of the order. Don't waste your time and mine asking for prices but ask for the stamps you want and I will submit them on approval if I have them provided you give first class bank or commercial references; otherwise, nothing doing!
A few nice foreign are in stock but my selections consist mostly of high grade early U. S. postage, revenues and M. & M. If you happen to have anything you wish to dispose of at a rattling good price and the value is there this is a good place to send it first.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.
The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. J. M. Bartels has just shown us the 3c red circular die error envelope in Die A instead of Die E heretofore known. These are not the window envelopes, as is the case of the former error, but are Knife 93, Size 14, watermark 20, embossed on white and are without return card. It seems that these were located in New York the latter part of February, by a postal clerk, among a number of envelopes returned for redemption. The firm returning them used a rubber stamp to put its name in the upper left corner, but the clerk very properly saw that this was erased before they fell into philatelic hands. In all 23 copies of the entire envelope and seven copies cut square were found.

1920 Circular Die.
3c red (error) Die A on white.

More of the provisional 2c on 3c circular die envelopes seem to be reaching us daily and we desire to thank Mr. W. A. Sisson for a very interesting lot from St. Louis which we list in detail later. Mr. Horace Freeman also remembers us by sending four on as many colors of paper from Boston. This just brings to mind the fact that in my last week's Chronicle I mentioned that the Boston, New York and Cleveland types were identical, but on closer inspection I find that the figure "2" in the case of the Cleveland type is different from what we will now call the New York type. Boston, by the way, is using the New York type. In the latter the little round ball of the "2" is found at the end of a curved line and is well below the top of the figure. In the Cleveland type this ball is attached to the end of the top of the figure, which is nearly horizontal. This makes four types seen to date, and we hope in our next week's Chronicle to be able to give a list of the dies distributed by the Post Office Department. As mentioned before, we must depend upon our friends to keep us posted, for otherwise it is impossible to tell what sizes and dies are overprinted in the different parts of the country. When your city starts to issue them, please go to your post-office and obtain as many sizes and papers as possible and we will gladly reciprocate if desired.

Since our last Chronicle we have seen:—

St. Louis Type
2c on 3c White, Die A, Sizes 7 and 9.
White, Die H, Size 13.
Blue, Die A, Size 7.
Blue, Die F, Size 13.
Buff, Die A, Size 7.
Buff, Die F, Size 13.
Amber, Die F, Size 9.

FOLKS, KNOW YE

Nodrog has flung himself among us. And from time to time we hope to squelch him. We hope—we do not promise.

BUT FOLKS, KNOW YE ALSO

that our Nodrog has ideas of his own. Even Nodrog has heard faint whisperings concerning the philatelists' Bible—our Standard Catalog.

AND FOLKS, KNOW YE MOREOVER

that although the religious Nodrog believes that at times this Bible should not be taken too literally; yet have we heard him pronounce time and time again, that he would never deviate from one belief: The creed of the stamp collector should be

SUDDEN SERVICE.

FENNELL STAMP CO., Inc., 520-521 Fullerton Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

New York Type

2c on 3c White, Die A, Size 8.

We also wish to thank Mr. A. E. Owen for sending us several varieties from New York. Mr. D. T. Eaton sends us a list of those that he has located, but as he does not mention the type of overprint, we are unable to list them at this time.

Mr. J. M. Bartels has located one of the heretofore missing links, namely, the 2c circular die, Die H on buff, Size 7, knife 59, watermark 19. This has not been known heretofore. It seems that this envelope was used by the Pennsylvania Railroad as an enclosure for the return of proxies to be used in connection with their stockholders' meeting held on March 9th. If you are lucky enough to be a stockholder, you perhaps received one, which I hope you have not returned.

Mr. H. W. Boers sends for our inspection an oddity in the way of what seems to be a precancel. It is the 1c green oval die envelope precancelled with a fancy scroll design. There is no return card to designate where it came from, but as it is addressed to Detroit, and as the precancelling was possibly applied at the same time as the name of the city, which is also printed, I am under the impression that they are from Detroit.

On mail coming from New York City and San Francisco we find two very unusual cancellations. The first of the former to come to our notice is dated February 26 and reads "JOIN U. S. ARMY — LEARN WHILE YOU EARN." The latter is similar, but the wording is somewhat rearranged.

AUSTRIA.—Owing to the raising of the postal rates in this unhappy country, certain alterations have taken place in the stamps, affecting the denomination, design and colour of some of the values, introducing new values, and withdrawing some of the old ones. Our correspondent encloses an example of the new 5 heller stamp, this being the only new value received up to the present.

At the same time he sends for our inspection a part set of the new Postage Due stamps, and also imperforate pairs of the new 5h and of the old 10 and 40h. The heller denominations of Postage Dues are square in format, the numerals and "Heller" being printed in red in the centre, with the inscription ("Deutschosterreich" and "Porto") in uncoloured fancy characters in a circular frame, the outer frame being also printed in red. The Kroner Dues are in a rather more elaborate design, but the central device consists merely of the numeral of value, the whole being printed in blue.—Stamp Collecting.

AZERBAIDJAN.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following values of stamps issued for this new republic.

10c green, blue and red.
20c blue, red and green.
40c olive green and yellow.
60c red and yellow.
1r blue and yellow.
2r red and yellow.

The frames are all printed in black and the first two types are picturing the soldier standing with his rifle in his right hand and at his back is the flag. The last four values show the sun rising over a field of grain with the reaper near at hand with his sickle ready for harvest. Each value has the native characters at the top, with the value at the base of the stamp. There are also issued, we are advised, 5, 10, 20 and 50r.

BAVARIA.—We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for showing us copies of the 1m green, 1m orange and 2m gray blue surcharged "1.25m Frei-staat Bayern," "1.50m Freistaat Bayern" and "2.50m Freistaat Bayern," respectively. All are printed in black and of three lines. Ward R. Chapin also sends us the same information.

Henry A. Meyer shows us a copy of the 20pf surcharged "5Pf Freistaat Bayern," together with an additional two line surcharge in German. The overprint is in black and of 5 lines.

BERMUDA.—In the Bermuda House of Assembly, on January 7th, Sir Reginald Gray moved that a message be sent to the Governor requesting him to order adhesive stamps of 2s and 4s denominations for use in connection with the new Stamp Duties Act. He added a request that the Receiver-General's Office be provided with the proper machines for impressing values upon documents when it is considered advisable.
 According to a report in the Bermuda Colonist and Daily News, this motion was agreed to.—Stamp Collecting.

B. Prieth sends us the following government notice of the proposed issue of two special postage stamps to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the "establishment of Parliamentary Institutions in Bermuda." The notice follows:—

"The local Government has under consideration the issue of Special Postage Stamps in two values, one penny and two pence halfpenny, to commemorate the Tercentenary of the establishment of Parliamentary Institutions in Bermuda which is to be celebrated in August next.

Suggestions are invited for an appropriate design for the proposed stamps.
 Suggestions may be either accompanied by a rough sketch or design or may merely indicate in general terms the form which it is proposed that the design should take. What is required is not a design, but a suggestion which can be worked up to a design.

As the time available for the preparation of the stamp is short, it is particularly requested that any suggestions forwarded may reach the Colonial Secretary on or before Saturday, the 13th instant."

CEYLON.—The Economist Stamp Co.
 has shown us the 1c stamp George type,
 recently issued. The color is brown.

ECUADOR.—Mr. Fred L. Onken has shown us the 1c stamp of 1915-17 issue surcharged in black with "Casa-de-Correos" in three lines. Also the 1c red and blue fiscal stamp with the same surcharge, but of smaller type and with wider space between the lines.

GERMANY.—P. J. Kranz submits to us a copy of the 10pf stamp of this country with "Saare" surcharged in black and a heavy bar at the bottom. Mr.
 Kranz also adds that the stamp was on a letter posted in Merzig, a town in the Saar Valley. He has no other information regarding the surcharge.

HAYTI.—Mr. Fred L. Onken has shown us a copy of No. 188 with the added surcharge of "5 cts Piastre" in a frame and printed in red.

LATVIA.—The Economist Stamp Co.
 has shown us a new set of two values of a commemorative issue for this country. The stamps show a soldier with an upraised right hand in which is a sword, while the left bears a shield. The right foot of the man is upon the neck of a large animal. An outer frame surrounds the picture, while at the upper left is the word "Latwija" and the numerals are at the bottom.

10k red and brown, on white.
 35k blue and black on white.

Mr. Ashley C. LeDuc also advises us regarding these stamps and also adds that he has information that there are also 25k and 1r values. The Economist Stamp Co. also shows us a copy of the 1r value of the first type, perforated.
 The colors are gray blue with figure in the center of red. The same correspondent also submits a copy of the 10k of the new type, with "Latwija Pasta Markha" in a circle with the rising sun in the center. At the bottom, "Kap 10 Kap." The color is blue.

NEW ZEALAND.—We are indebted to F. Moseman for sending us a set of the new peace stamps. We have already chronicled these stamps. Mr. Moseman says that they were placed on sale in Auckland January 26.

NICARAGUA.—"From a correspondent
 I have received some of the stamps that are at present in use there. The 1914 set is still being used, but I have the 1 centavo and 5 centavos in new colors.
 The 1c comes now in a pale yellow green and the 5c in gray."—ARTHUR T.
 BROWNE.

RUSSIA.—The Economist Stamp Co.
 has shown us a copy of the 5k 1909-12 issue surcharged "70k" in the lower right corner. The print is in black.

The annual election of officers of the Michigan Stamp Club was held Satur- day eve., March 6, at the Club Room, Fraternity Hall, Detroit. The result: Pres., J. D. Hubel; Vice Pres., J. Jung- wirth; Sec., H. J. Kaufman; Treas., N. C. Wood; Sales Mgr., F. O'Rear; Auction Mgr., D. Underwood. Board of Trustees:—H. Preston Hoskins, M. English, Herman W. Boers; Librarian, J. F. Thieffels; Publicity Representa- tive, Herman W. Boers. The Society will hold its annual banquet on March 20th at Hotel Fort Shelby. A genial good time is expected, as the com- mittee promises some good things. The monthly stamp contest amongst members is also on for that evening. United States postage stamps and 50 foreign covers are to be exhibited.—H. W. BOERS.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail- order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, be- lieving that unintentionally many corre- spondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

HUSSMAN 112 IN FEBRUARY.

We did a large business in February in the way of new subscriptions and the list below tells the story. We are particularly pleased with the work of the eleven firms, all of whom sent in 10 or more subscriptions. The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., with 112 for the month and 369 since October 1, presents a record in co-operation that has ever been surpassed. We give special mention to the eleven leaders for the month of February:—

We are holding back the names of those sending in fewer than three subscriptions, as our space is limited. The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. has a good lead for first place, while L. B. Dover, Edgewood Stamp Co., Fennell Stamp Co. and Covert Stamp Co. are having a pretty race for second place. Here is the standing of all contestants sending in three or more subscriptions February 28:—

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By ROBERT HAYNES.

In looking over a recent lot of 24,000 U. S. stamps, 1908, mostly for precancels, I found about 300 in all. Many were quite common, but among the lot were some evidently scarce, also, as two in particular were not catalogued, the 5c Philadelphia, perf. 10, with double surcharge, and 3c Utica, N. Y., reading up, with double surcharge. Besides these, I found a 5c Baltimore, perf. 10, double surcharge, also a part perf. 12 from the same city. Some other good ones in the lot were Ardmore, Pa., 4c; Burlington, Vt., 10c up; Bridgeport, Conn., 4c double; Claremont, N. H., 8c 1908, also 10c; Cincinnati 1908, 4c down; Cleveland 1908, 8c; Concord Jct., 5c; Flint, 4c; Kennet Squire, 3c; Lancaster, Pa., 3, 5c, also 4c invert; Minneapolis 1908, 8c; North Adams, Mass., 1908, 4c down; Newburg, N. Y., 1912, 10c; Providence 1908, 4c; Pittsburg 1908, 4c; Portsmouth, Va., 3, 5c; Shamokin, Pa., 5c; Richmond, Va., 3, 5c; Springfield, O., 1908, 5c; Scranton 1908, 8c; Stamford, Conn., 1908, 5c; St. Louis 1908, 6c invert; Tampa, Fla., 1912, 10c; Tacoma type 1, 10c; Waterbury 1908, 5c; Wheeling, W. Va., 5c; and Wilmington, Del., 3c.

In going over another lot of 16,000 of the same kind of stamps, I found three uncatalogued varieties, as follows: Cincinnati, Horseshoe type, 6c invert. should be No. 78a, evidently rare; Manchester, N. H., 1908, 10c invert, and 10c double invert. Some of the other good precancels in the lot were Boston, 1908, 10c invert; Cleveland, 8, 10c, 1908; Cincinnati, 10c No. 64; East Orange, N. J., 1908, 6c; Essex Jct. 1908, 3c; Holyoke 1912, 10c, double lines; Newport, Ky., 6c perf. 10; Montpelier, Vt., 1908, 4c; Pt. Huron 1908, 5c, down; Portland, Me., 1908, 5c roller; Scranton 1908, 10c; New Orleans, 5c inverted; and West Grove, Pa., 4c inverted.

Minneapolis, Minn., used a type similar to the present type, but with bars both above and below on the perf. 10 and 11 stamps. The precancels are listed in the catalogue as type 9, and priced at from 2 to 10c each. Now, I am either badly mistaken, or the catalogue is. Of the hundreds of Minneapolis I have seen in the past three years, I have found but three of this set, the 6, 8 and 10c. Can some fellow collector explain why the bottom line was removed from this surcharge, also whether this issue is really as scarce as it seems? Another friend writes in to ask if the 50c values, precancelled, of the various cities are so scarce, as he seldom runs across any. I guess most 50c values, precancelled, outside of Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Cincinnati, New York, St. Louis and Seattle, are not any too plentiful. Although I have 29 different varieties in my own collection, I have been about two years getting them. Of the dollar values, outside of Philadelphia, I have only three: Corry, Pa., Erie, Pa., and Cincinnati, O.—Philatelic Gossip.

U. S. 10c 1857-60, PLATE No. 1.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

Since the publication of the results of Stevenson's work on the 10c stamps of 1855-60 about three years ago, much data confirming the correctness of the conclusions reached by him has been obtained. Other data proves or indicates that he was mistaken in certain particulars. The present writer has not been able to locate any 10c stamp from the first plate that is undoubtedly from the bottom row and does not have the full shells. All bottom row stamps seen have the full shells characteristic of Stevenson's Type I. This fact, together with the opinion held by many students that the full shells stamps are about twice as common as Stevenson thought them to be, and with the additional fact that about sixteen full shells stamps that could not have come from the same position in the row have been identified, is good proof that the full shells stamps were not confined to the bottom row of the left pane. Obviously it is impossible to locate sixteen different positions on a row containing only ten stamps.

Complete proof that the full shells stamps extended across the entire bottom row of both the left and the right panes is still lacking but the present writer is firmly convinced that eventually it will be obtained and that there were twenty full shells stamps on the first 10c plate. There is, however, no proof or indication that this type occurs anywhere else on the plate. The following lay-out agrees with Stevenson's material and with all other material which the writer has had the privilege to examine, excepting only that the location of some of the misplaced transfers is yet to be determined.

The A reliefs marked with an asterisk (*) are the stamps which show a position dot outside the upper left corner.

The reader will note there are no position dots on the top row of either pane and should remember that there are no position dots on any of the stamps in the first (outside) vertical row of the left pane, except the dots below the lower corner stamp—No. 91 L. The writer cannot now state whether or not there are position dots on any of the stamps in the first vertical row of the right pane, except the full shells stamp in the lower right corner—No. 91 R.

Study of this lay-out leads to contradictory conclusions and the reader is just as competent to decide whether the plate was rocked in from top to bottom or from bottom to top, or partly from the bottom and partly from the top as is the writer. It is quite evident however, that the bottom row containing the full shells stamps must have been rocked in first and it may be the full shells relief was also the B relief and was altered by removing the damaged parts of the shells and part of the outer line at the bottom after the lower row of both panes had been rocked and before any other designs were transferred to the plate.

If we consider the plate was rocked in from the bottom towards the top in the following order, our conclusion may be correct;—first, the bottom row by itself; then the 9th and 8th rows together followed by the 7th and 6th, the 5th and 4th, and the 3rd and 2nd, and lastly the top row, also by itself. The best confirmation of this theory is found in the location of the position dots. In the body of the plate they occur close to the upper left corner of the A reliefs but it may well be that their position in relation to the A reliefs is only incidental and that it would be more correct to consider them as occurring outside the lower left corner of the B reliefs. This idea agrees with the location of the position dots in relation to the full shells stamps, for on each of the latter the dots are generally or always found outside the lower left corner and just about as far below the bottom line of those stamps as the dots in the body of the plate are found below the bottom line of the B reliefs. This distance is

d. It is rather odd that of the 3 reliefs recut at the top the only which does not have the tops of ovals as well as the top line is this misplaced B relief that in the top row of the pane. This stamp which should have had os of its X ovals recut to make c like the adjoining A reliefs, than the two others in the body plate whose incompleteness was not nearly so noticeable without careful examination. For this reason the present writer thinks top row stamp was the first stamp on the plate to be recut. The engraver started to do a little patching and as he went along he patched some of the designs a bit more extensively than others.

Mr. Stevenson listed nine different recuts, as follows:—
 A relief—top line recut (2).
 A relief—bottom line recut (3).
 B relief—top line recut (1).
 B relief—top line and tops of X ovals recut (2).
 B relief—top and bottom line recut (1).

This list is perfectly correct except that there is only one A relief with the top line recut instead of two, and only eight different recut stamps instead of nine. Throughout the fifty or more recut stamps the writer has examined the same eight varieties recur again and again, but no others, and the possibility of there being others of the character mentioned is very remote.

The reader may be interested to refer to Stevenson's article on the 10c stamps printed in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in May, 1917, where reference is made to the philatelic value of research work on the 10c as compared to the chemical analysis of certain fly-specks. While heartily agreeing with Mr. Stevenson's statement there, the present writer hopes to be pardoned for observing that on the only copy of the A relief stamp with the top line recut which differs at all from the many other similar recuts examined, Mr. Stevenson appears to have mistaken what looks like two fly-specks for a position dot. It is hoped that advanced philately has not yet and never will reach the point where fly-specks will be ranked as varieties.

Little can now be stated about any other misplaced transfers than the one which was recut. The writer has examined a block of four stamps arranged:—
 B—A

which may come from the upper two rows, as there are guide dots on the lower pair but none on the upper pair. None of the four stamps are recut and if the block is from the top of the sheet the B relief must be a misplaced transfer in the top row other than the one which was the apparent cause of the recutting. But if the block is not from the top of the pane the A relief in the upper pair must be a misplaced transfer. The writer has seen only one or two other misplaced transfers.

From the lay-out given it is evident if two B reliefs occur in a vertical pair one of them must be a misplaced transfer, but with two A reliefs in such a pair one is not necessarily misplaced, since the two upper rows on the plate are probably mostly A reliefs. If the upper of two A reliefs in a vertical pair shows a position dot the lower stamp is evidently a misplaced transfer, and if there are any B reliefs showing position dot at the upper corner they also are misplaced. The writer has never seen a B relief stamp with position dot at the upper corner.

—When the shortage of the 5 centavos stamp became acute at Bluefields, Nicaragua, and when they were using revenue stamps of various kinds, they also took the 10 centavos stamp of 1914 and cut it in halves, using each half as a 5 centavos stamp. I have picked up a cover with one of these "spliffs" and it was used at Bluefields October 11, 1918. While unauthorized, the necessity for using it was doubtless great. This was before they surcharged the 20 centavos stamp with the various types of the "5".—ARTHUR T. BROWNE.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

In 1864 a considerable reduction was made in most postal rates as shown by an official notice in the Gazette:—

"Public Notice.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Rates of Postage.

Between Br. Columbia and Vancouver Island, delivered at Victoria or New Westminster, for each letter under

1/2 ounce, 3d

And for every additional 1/2 ounce or fractional excess, 3d

For each newspaper, 1d

On all letters and papers to and from abroad, and delivered or mailed at New Westminster, in addition to foreign postage, for each letter under 1/2 ounce, 3d

And for every additional 1/2 ounce or fractional excess, 3d

For each newspaper, 1d

Between a Post-office at any one place in the Colony and a Post-office at any other place in the Colony, in all cases to be prepaid, for each letter under 1/2 ounce, 6d

And for every additional 1/2 ounce or fractional excess, 6d

For each newspaper, 6d

N. B.—Packages or Parcels other than newspapers, and not exceeding 8 ounces in weight, will be charged at the letter rate of 6d per 1/2 ounce.

No parcels can be taken exceeding eight ounces in weight.

(Sgd.) WARNER R. SPALDING, P. M. G.

General Post Office, 8th June, 1864.

Although the rates of postage were placed at 3d and 6d respectively, and multiplies of these sums, the only stamp available was the 2 1/2d one. Consequently, three days after the promulgation of the above quoted official Notice another one was published explaining that for the future the then current 2 1/2d stamp would be sold at 3d, viz:—

"PUBLIC NOTICE.

On and after the 20th day of June, 1864, all letters and mail matter liable to postage must be prepaid. Until other stamps shall have been substituted, there will be issued for the prepayment of postage the postage stamps at present in use, bearing the mark 2 1/2d, for which the sum of 3d will in future be charged.

(Sgd.) WARNER R. SPALDING, P. M. G.

General Post Office, 11th June, 1864.

Evidently this notice is intended to infer that postage should be paid by means of postage stamps, though as no 1d labels were provided the 1d charge on newspapers had to be paid in cash.

This 2 1/2d stamp was used provisionally as 3d until November, 1865, when a proper 3d value was issued. The official notice in the Gazette concerning this was as follows:—

"NOTICE

General Post-Office, 28th Sept., 1865.

It having been found necessary to issue a new postage stamp to meet the requirements of the Postal Ordinance, 1864, notice is hereby given that, from and after the 1st of Nov. next, the stamp at present in use will not be received by the Post Office Department.

Persons in possession of the stamp at present in use may exchange the same, on application at any of the Post-offices of British Columbia, on or after the 1st of November.

(Sgd.) WARNER R. SPALDING,

Postmaster-General.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

Curiously enough this notice makes no direct reference to the value of either of the stamps, but there can be no doubt, of course, that the new one was the 3d blue.

This stamp sufficed for the postal needs of the Colony until the currency was changed in 1867. Then, in conjunction with the new decimal currency, a series of six stamps was issued and changes were made in the postal rates. The following extracts from the Postal Act of 1867 give these changes insofar as they relate to interior postage:—

"IX. That on every letter deposited in, or passing through, any Post-office in the Colony, and not exceeding 1/2 ounce in weight, there shall be paid a postage according to the following scale, that is to say:

At or between Victoria, or any Post-office in Vancouver Island and New Westminster, or any port in the Colony, 5c

Between Vancouver Island and New Westminster and Clinton or Savana's Ferry, 12 1/2c

Beyond these distances, 25c

Between any two Post-offices above Yale, Hope, and Douglas, 12 1/2c

And for every additional 1/2 ounce beyond the above weight, there shall be paid on each such letter an additional postage, according to the foregoing rates.

X. That for every newspaper deposited in or passing through any Post-office in the Colony, there shall be paid a postage of 2 cents."

It will be noted that two of the rates quoted above call for a 12 1/2c stamp, yet no denomination of this value was included in the series nor was it possible to make up this sum except by bi-secting the 5c stamp. Whether such bi-sects were made and used we cannot say, for none appear to be known. Indeed, it seems to have been the general plan to use 15c where the rate was 12 1/2c largely, owing to the fact that as there were no copper coins there was no way of spending less than 5c anyhow!

The directory of 1868 gives a list of the rates of postage to foreign countries, most of which show a substantial reduction from those given in the list of 1860. In the following year a new list of foreign postal rates was issued and in many cases the charges were increased and in some cases were even higher than those of 1860. Thus, in the case of Aspinwall, the rate in 1860 was 20 cents for a 1/2 oz. letter; in 1868 it was reduced to 15c, while in the following year it was increased to 25 cents. Again, letters to Mexico cost 25c in 1860, 15c in 1868 and 25c in 1869.

The rates of postage given in the 1869 directory seems to be the last reference to postal matters made officially until the entry of the province into the Dominion in 1871, when the special stamps were discontinued.

In 1865 Vancouver Island issued 5c and 10c stamps which remained in use only a year, but neither Mr. King or any of his correspondents were able to trace any official documents or records of any sort relating to the stamps. It is therefore presumed that the rates of postage and postal regulations corresponded with those in force in British Columbia.

ZISEMANN, GREISHEIM & CO.

(Aetna Match Manufactory.)

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The firm of Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. was composed of John F. Zisemann and August Greisheim and appears only in the St. Louis directory for 1868 where it is listed as the proprietor of the Aetna Match Factory, 1304 Park Avenue. Mr. Zisemann was also a partner in the wholesale hardware and cutlery firm of Raschoe, Zisemann & Maus at No. 4 So. Main St. Their stamp is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size bearing a circular disk containing an eagle perched upon a rock, facing to the right, with outspread wings and grasping arrows and an olive branch in its talons. Within the disk and above the eagle is a small circle containing the numeral "1", with "One" at its left and "Cent" at its right, in small letters. In tiny capitals below the numerals is found "Missouri". A ribbon at the top of the stamp is inscribed "Aetna Match" and another at the bottom reads "U. S. Inter. Rev." The circular band surrounding the central disk reads "Manufactory" at the top, and "Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. St. Louis" below. The eagle is from the same drawing found on the Bentz, Jas. L. Clark and Park City 1c stamps, all of which were also engraved in Philadelphia.

The Boston Book gives the following data respecting the stamps printed in green:—

Die approved, Oct. 4, 1867.
First issued, March, 1868.
Last issued, August, 1868.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
739,040 issued on old paper.

And of those in blue it states:—

First issued, August, 1868.
Last issued, August, 1875.
17,383,756 issued on old paper.
29,363,710 issued on silk paper.

"This die was used by F. Mansfield & Co. after June, 1868, and from them it passed to the Alligator Match Co."

From this data it appears that many of the green stamps and all of those printed in blue were used by F. Mansfield & Co. The green stamp is a real rarity despite the comparatively large quantity issued. The writer has been able to trace less than a dozen copies and of these only three or four are in fine condition. Many of them are damaged and nearly all are poorly centered. Double the present quotation would be a moderate price for a really fine copy. The blue stamp is fairly common on silk paper but is not at all common on old paper. It does seem strange that a stamp of which over 17 million were issued should be hard to find and yet the writer has seen almost as many of the rare green stamp as of the blue one on old paper. The catalog quotation appears to be based on the quantity issued and not upon the number available for collectors. Here are the quotations for nearly 25 years:—

1c Green.	Old Paper.	1c Blue.
$12.00	1895	$1.00
15.00	1898	1.00
15.00	1900	.75
15.00	1919	.75

The green stamp is found only on the thin old paper and all copies seen were in a beautiful medium shade. The blue stamp on old paper is paler and duller than when on silk and all copies of the old paper seen were in the same shade except those printed in ultramarine. The latter are rarer than the green stamp. The shade is dull and contains only a trace of violet. Quite possibly the blue stamp exists in the peculiar bright tint of the 1870 printing on thick paper, and on the experimental silk paper of the same period but neither of the latter printings have been noted.

All the Zisemann, Greisheim stamps on old paper were certainly printed in Philadelphia and most of the silk paper were also printed there, but the data given in the Boston Book cannot be correct in stating that the stamps were last issued in August, 1875. Of course that is when they were last issued by Mr. Carpenter but is not when they were issued for the last time. Between August, 1875, and November of that year when the Mansfield stamp appeared, Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. stamps were printed by the National Bank Note Co. and undoubtedly issued to F. Mansfield & Co. Proof of this is a block of the Zisemann, Greisheim stamps on silk paper with the National imprint. This block is conclusive proof of the printing of the Zisemann, Greisheim stamp by the National Bank Note Co. and of its issue after August, 1875.

OUR APRIL OFFER.

To any subscriber who is paid up three months in advance and sends us a new six months' subscriber whose name has never been upon our list, we will give a nice unused copy of the British East Africa provisional 4c on 6c, issued last year. The same stamp will also be sent to the new subscriber. This premium offer stands by itself. It is not retroactive, nor will it be in force after April 30.
